REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

Borough of Manhattan.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

THE SUPREME COURT

has permitted real estate appraisers to qualify as experts and testify in court proceedings from their knowledge of real estate values obtained from the records as published in the Record and Guide. Why? Because, they are absolutely authentic, for these records are carefully abstracted from the original instruments, verified and edited by experts with years of experience, thus making them accurate, dependable and reliable, having no equal, and their value never decreasing.

With additional information not given in the Record and Guide weekly, these records are also published in the Quarterly, the final one, making in one compact volume, a complete transcription, in digest form, of all Conveyances, Miscellaneous Conveyances such as Release of Mortgages and Dowers, Contracts, Agreements, Consents, Assignments of Rents, Power of Attorneys Designation, Resignation and Appointment of New Trustees and Executors, etc., Mortgages, Extension of Mortgages, Participation and Subordination Agreements of Mortgages, Assignments of Mortgages, Satisfied Mortgages, Leases, including consents, assignments, cancellations and surrender of leases; Real Estate Appraisals, Auction Sales, Wills, New Buildings and Alterations with cross references for the entire year, Borough of Manhattan. These records are arranged geographically, chronologically and alphabetically so that the subscriber may, at a moment's notice, find the desired information. In order to make these records more complete the attorney's name is inserted in all Mortgages and a geographical cross reference to the Real Estate Appraisals is given. This permits the user in searching for the appraised value of a given parcel, and not having the name of the deceased, to obtain the information instantly. Years of experience have demonstrated that by using the Record and Guide Quarterly time and annoyance are saved. It is equally valuable to the broker who maintains an elaborate system of keeping records, or the man who must condense his plant.

REAL ESTATE APPRAISALS.

Borough of Manhattan.

The following values were placed on real estate properties this week by the State appraisers in transfer tax proceedings, affecting Manhattan holdings. The amount specified does not in every case indicate the equity or interest of the decedent. In some cases he is not even the owner of record. It merely quotes the estimated market value of the realty regardless of mortgages or other liens. The information comprises the name of decedent, date of death, location of property, block and lot on city map, description of building, size of lot and estimated value on the date given. Where decedent owned property in other boroughs, details of Manhattan holdings only are given.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed where all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made by them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482-10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1918.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

THE CONDITIONS OF THE COURT HOUSE PROBLEM

Situation Review and Suggestions Made Which Might Prove of Value to the New Administration

By ALANSON T. BRIGGS, Former Executive Secretary Court House Board

SINCE my retirement from the Court House Board, I have refrained from interfering in any way with the efforts of the Board to solve the Court House problem, which, however, have not been productive of any other result than continued wastefulness in carrying charges and useless expenses.

The new administration faces a solution of this difficult problem, convinced at the outset that the law should be repealed and the Board abolished; and it is inclined to drop the project altogether. I have taken the liberty to point out to them that the effect of repealing the Court House Acts will be to take away the broad powers conferred by the law, which are required by the city to solve the problem.

I have suggested that, in place of a paid Board, certain city and county officials concerned should be appointed Commissioners, by reason of their office, thus effecting a considerable saving, and assuring the carrying out of a policy which undoubtedly the administration will be led to adopt.

The problem is far too important to be solved by the easy method of abandonment. Real property interests in the section of the city affected, and consequently the city's financial interests, which have been very seriously damaged, must be protected, its values restored and enhanced.

A court house must ultimately be erected at one or another location, and it behooves real estate interests that this undertaking once initiated, be carried on properly and economically.

There has been a general misunderstanding and misconception of the conditions of the problem, which should not be permitted to mislead the incoming administration.

I have, therefore, outlined for its guidance the conditions of the Court House problem, which should be of the very greatest concern to all interested in real estate.

In 1910, the then Court House Board accepted my advice against selecting any of the new sites suggested, on the ground that the city could not afford to acquire any of them, the cost being estimated at between $15,000,000 and $25,000,000.

The Board, acting upon my recommendation, selected the present site of the old court house at City Hall park. Against the protest of Mayor Gaynor, the Board of Estimate refused to approve that selection. It caused a law to be enacted giving to it alone, for a six months' period, the power to select a site. When that period had about elapsed, and almost over night, the Collect Pond site was selected.

It was considered to be highly undesirable to permit the Court House to be surrounded by Chinatown, second-hand metal and machine shops, an old clothes market and rag warehouses. These conditions of the neighborhood constituted an important element in the error of original selection of the Collect Pond site, which remains to be corrected.

A comprehensive plan was prepared by me, after consultation with the most experienced professional authorities, which made adequate provision for the ultimate improvement of the area bounded by the Municipal Building on the south, Canal street on the north, lying between Broadway and the East River.

This plan was necessary to encourage the erection of large office buildings and commercial structures in proximity to the public buildings proposed ultimately to be erected, and to thereby change the character of the entire section.

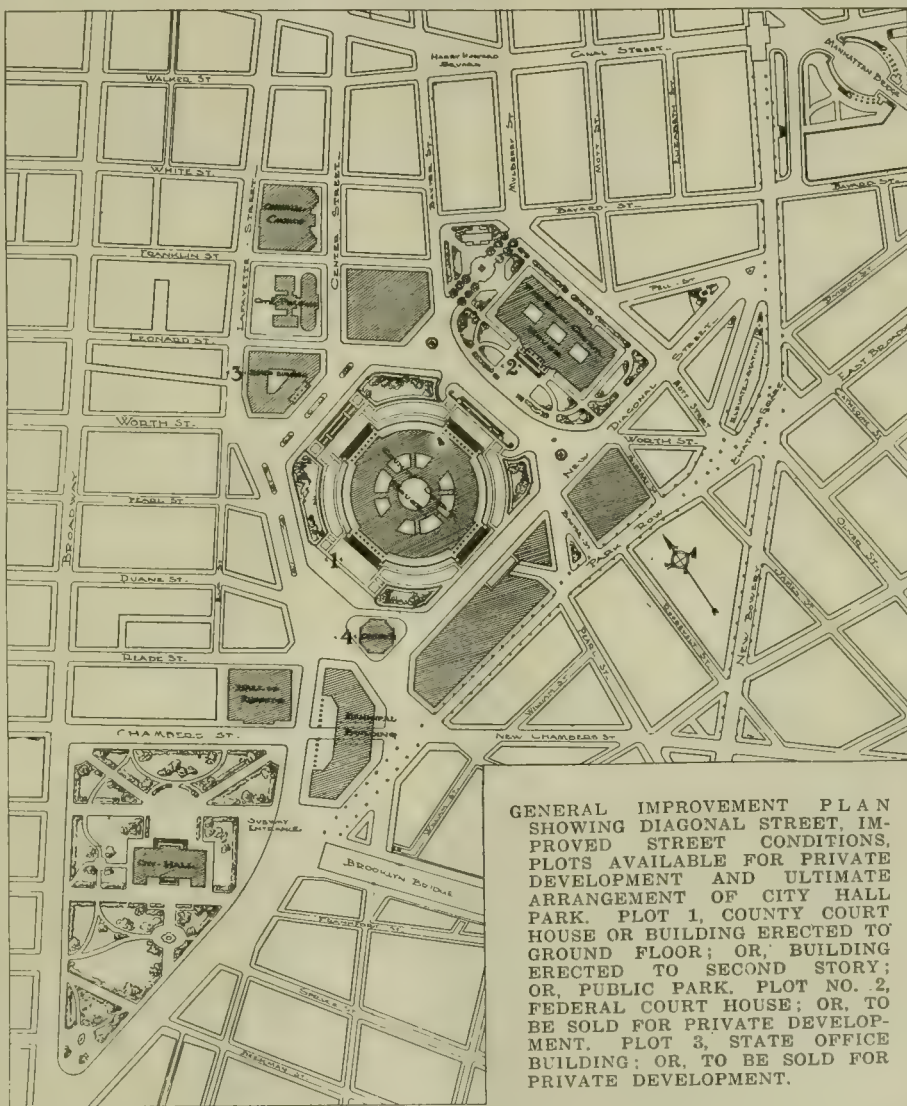

It was intended to create such public improvements as would materially increase the value of land in this section, and stimulate private capital to erect large buildings thereon, thus establishing a great new business centre in the city. A vast return would thereby accrue to the city, by increased assessments and taxes thereon, produced by the enhanced value of the land, and the added increment of value of costly new buildings thereon. It was conceived that only in this way could the error of original selection of the Collect Pond site be remedied, and the city saved from great financial loss.

The public improvements, proposed to be ultimately carried out by this plan, were as follows:

- (1) The County Court House.
- (2) A Federal Court House, for which land on Columbus Park and east thereof may be acquired by the Federal Government, the necessity of which has been urged in Congress for years.
- (3) A State Office Building, for which a remaining parcel of the Court House site is available and appropriate, which may be acquired from the city by the State government.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT PLAN
SHOWING DIAGONAL STREET, IMPROVED STREET CONDITIONS, PLOTS AVAILABLE FOR PRIVATE DEVELOPMENT AND ULTIMATE ARRANGEMENT OF CITY HALL PARK. PLOT 1, COUNTY COURT HOUSE OR BUILDING ERECTED TO GROUND FLOOR; OR, BUILDING ERECTED TO SECOND STORY; OR, PUBLIC PARK. PLOT NO. 2, FEDERAL COURT HOUSE; OR, TO BE SOLD FOR PRIVATE DEVELOPMENT. PLOT 3, STATE OFFICE BUILDING; OR, TO BE SOLD FOR PRIVATE DEVELOPMENT.

After a careful study of the topographical conditions of the site, and after consultation with the most competent engineering advisers, I showed that the location was not practicable as a building site for the proposed Court House. Consequently, additional land to the east was acquired at considerable cost. As it was necessary to make compensation for street and park area taken for the improvement, it was found that the greater part of the entire site would be required for approaches, parking and streets. Certain minor parcels of land would remain to be utilized for other public buildings, or could be sold, with restrictions, for private development.

It was considered to be highly unde-

BUILDING STATISTICS.

Interesting Figures Compiled Which Give the 1917 Totals Throughout the Country as Compared with 1916.

INTERESTING building and engineering figures have been compiled covering the territory roughly bounded by the Atlantic Seaboard, north of the Ohio River, east of the Missouri River and the Great Lakes.

The following tables comprise figures for 1917 divided into months and reclassified into residences, manufacturing and miscellaneous. These figures in turn are compared with the corresponding periods in 1916. In some instances mobilization work is given.

Under the heading "residences" are included all buildings where people live, such as dwellings, apartment houses, rectories, homes, asylums, hotels, dormitories, jails, etc.

The "manufacturing" heading comprises power plants, factories, mills, etc., and under the "miscellaneous" column is included churches, schools, stores, business blocks, garages, road work, sewers, post offices, etc.

The year 1917 from January 1 to December 1, produced more new work than any year since 1910, when the records were first compiled. The total aggregate amount of contracts awarded for new work for the current eleven months was $1,527,370,000, as compared with $1,243,998,397, for the corresponding period in 1916. The figures for the current year are more than twice the total operations in 1910, in which year $756,284,931 was expended in this territory.

Statistics for New York State and Northern New Jersey, which include New York City, for the first eleven months of 1917, total $316,014,000, as against $255,381,500 for the same period in 1916.

So far as Nassau and Suffolk Counties were concerned, July was the banner month, the total amount of operations aggregating $1,239,000, of which $816,000 went into residences. The February total was $1,190,000, of which $772,000 was for new residences.

In New York State, September reached the high mark, the miscellaneous buildings aggregating $16,014,000, the total being $18,938,000. Northern New Jersey made a splendid showing this year, especially when the high prices of materials and labor are taken into consideration.

Careful analysis of the tables, printed herewith, will show in a comprehensive way conditions as they exist throughout the country, as compared with last year. It must be borne in mind, however, that the figures do not include only building construction, but also engineering operations, such as highways, etc. The totals in the aggregate far exceed those of 1916. It is difficult to forecast the structural activity for the coming year. It is known that a vast amount of money will be spent by the Government and that private capital is willing to invest in gigantic operations providing they can learn what the Governmental program will be. Labor is an important factor, and before most of these operations can go ahead, those back of the projects must be satisfied that labor will not be requisitioned to such an extent as to interfere with their projects, otherwise they will be held in abeyance, as is the present policy. The matter of deliveries is one which is interesting all those connected with building.

The mobilization work in New York State and Northern New Jersey for June, July, August, September, October and November totalled $43,219,000, of which more than $17,000,000 was spent during October. The tables follow:

Subway Openings.

Announcement has been made by the Public Service Commission that it is hoped to have the Lexington avenue subway and the Seventh avenue subway in full operation, in connection with the First Subway, as soon after April 1, as is possible. In the meantime, according to Frank Hedley, Vice-President and General Manager of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which will operate these lines, the earliest date at which partial operation may be expected, is on or about March 1, with the hope, however, that partial operation on Lexington avenue may be had a week or so before that date. Delays in material, Mr. Hedley stated, were responsible for the inability of the operating officials to have the lines ready with operating equipment before that time. General construction work under the auspices of the Public Service Commission is practically completed and only the equipment details are lacking. Some of these materials come from points far distant from New York and in the present congestion of railroad traffic, shipments have been difficult to obtain. In some cases it has been necessary to ship carloads of materials by express in passenger trains, while other materials have been loaded in motor trucks and brought to New York all the way from Pittsburgh. Mr. Hedley stated that the program of temporary operation as outlined could be carried out in the event that other and more serious delays did not occur.

COURT HOUSE PROBLEM.

ment, the demand for which has been under consideration by the Legislature for several years.

(4) A diagonal street, cutting through and opening up the old Chinatown section, which is badly needed to connect Brooklyn by the way of the Manhattan Bridge with lower Manhattan; a requirement for traffic made urgent by the crowding and darkening of Park Row and the Bowery with the double-decked elevated structure.

(5) Several minor street widenings, changes in line and grade, designs to facilitate traffic to the East River, by making more accessible communicating streets, which is required to develop shipping and dock facilities on the East river.

None of these improvements are essential, as far as the Court House is concerned, which is an isolated improvement by itself.

But all of these public improvements are essential to bring back to the city the fullest return upon the large investment in land already made. Without them, this important but isolated section of the city is doomed to remain "dead" to development, as it has been in the past.

The resources of the city, from which it obtains both capital and income, consists of the value of privately owned land, and the value added to that land by buildings or other improvements which private capital may be induced to erect upon the land.

Assessed valuation on the land, as thus improved, is the basis of the city's borrowing capacity, at 10 per cent. thereof, which constitutes the credit of the city. The annual taxes, computed at a percentage thereon, provides the city with the greater part of its revenue, with which it is enabled to amortize its loans, and obtain funds to meet the ordinary expenses of government.

The maximum value of real property will be obtained when all of the land in the city is built up with modern improvements, at which point the maximum credit of the city will have been attained, the annual tax revenues will become the largest and inversely the annual tax rate will become the lowest. To obtain the maximum value of privately owned property, both on land and improvements, is, therefore, the great business undertaking of the city. The value of real property is primarily created by public improvements. When these public improvements are competent and sufficiently comprehensive, private capital is invariably induced to erect substantial buildings and improvements on the land. Both these public and private improvements produce a value which the city is enabled to assess, and which provides the city with the borrowing capacity to pay for the public improvements, and the annual tax revenue to amortize its loans.

It is, therefore, of the most vital importance to the city to utilize its credit to the uttermost to project competent and comprehensive public improvements; because thereby alone can its credit be extended and its revenues be increased.

It is bad business policy, obviously therefore, for the city to permit sections of the city to remain "dead" by the lack of public improvements; because private capital, which works by an infallible law, naturally shuns such "dead" sections and refuses to develop them with building improvements. As a consequence, the basis of the city's credit and of its tax revenues is reduced to a constantly diminishing value of land.

In the Court House site section, as in other "dead" sections of Manhattan, the increasingly dilapidated condition of the old buildings, most of which were erected when New York was a small town, and the natural character of their occupancy, has resulted in a very small tax return and assessed valuation.

But the central location of the section, its accessibility to every part of the city, and the proximity of it to the seat of government should give the land an extraordinary value, and induce a tremendously valuable development, once it is opened up.

If the city, by contriving well considered public improvements in this section, can induce private capital to erect large and important buildings on the land, now encumbered with buildings inadequate for the value of the land—it will obtain, by increase in assessed valuation, a sufficient borrowing capacity to pay for the improvements. The increased revenue from annual taxes will be sufficient to amortize the loan within its normal period of life.

After the loan has been amortized, the continuing increase in taxes, thus secured, will constitute a clear profit upon the undertaking, available as surplus revenue to be applied to other municipal purposes.

The more the city improves such "dead" sections, and thereby encourages building improvements by private capital, the greater will be its revenue and the less its financial embarrassment.

Complaint Widespread.

A fair example of a profitable public improvement by the city is the Library Building at Bryant Park, of which operation I was in charge for the trustees. In that case also, complaint was widespread as to the extravagance of the plan of improvement. The influence caused by the removal of the old reservoir, which had blocked the development of that section for many years, and the erection of the monumental library building in its stead, has been such as to produce an increase in the assessed valuation of land and buildings on blocks immediately contiguous to the library in the enormous aggregate of $39,300,500, or nearly five times the cost of the building, in a period of only twenty years.

In the area affected by the Court House site, out of a total of 535 buildings, only six are modern structures constituting an adequate improvement on the land. These six buildings produce nearly as much return in taxes as all of the other 529 buildings put together.

6 modern buildings are assessed at an aggregate of	$7,185,000
529 old buildings are assessed at an aggregate of.....	9,294,100

As many as 27 per cent. of them are assessed at under $5,000, and 54, per cent. of them are assessed at between $100 and $10,000.

The tax income to the city from these six modern buildings is calculated as follows:

From the land.....	30 per cent.
From the buildings.....	70 per cent.

The tax income to the city from the other 529 buildings is calculated as follows:

From the land.....	72 per cent.
From the buildings.....	28 per cent.

Normal Development Induced.

A normal development of new building operations in this section will be naturally induced as soon as comprehensive public improvements are started in connection with the Court House operation. The increase, thereby, to the assessed valuations in this section cannot fail to exceed $50,000,000. Before the Court House and other public improvements proposed can be completed, the city will derive, an additional assessed valuation of the new improvements on privately owned land, an amount which will enable the city to borrow the cost of the public improvements, without encumbering the normal debt margin. Before the bonds have matured, as in the case of the library operation, the increased tax return will provide funds to amortize the loan, and accumulate a surplus to be applied to other public purposes.

The error made in the original selection of the Collect Pond site may thus be converted into a very profitable undertaking; but only if it goes forward as planned as a comprehensive improvement looking to the improvement of the entire section.

The problem before the Administration, therefore, is plain. The improvement of the district north of the Municipal building to Canal street, and east of Broadway, so as to induce the erection by private capital of suitable improvements on the land.

To accomplish this, the section must be made alive with traffic, by opening up the section with suitable streets. Public buildings must be erected in such a manner as to advertise the advantages of the area for improvement. Attractive plazas and parking must be laid out to guarantee convenience of light, air and access.

The section must be made the most important and attractive section of the city for high class business and office buildings, for which, even during the war there is already a demand, and certainly after the war there will develop a great necessity.

The need for a new Court House has been a public scandal since before 1908. The old buildings now occupied by the Supreme Court and the City Court are unhealthy, unsanitary, unsafe from fire and in a dangerous condition. The congestion of business is very great. The litigants, witnesses, lawyers and jurors have no conveniences whatever, and are herded like sheep in a stockade. The judges have had to seek chambers elsewhere to their great inconvenience. The court records are scattered in several buildings. It is not possible to preserve any centralized system of administration, and the business as a result is carried on with vexatious inconvenience and delays. It is not possible to remodel the building, because it was planned for an entirely different era. Patching has been tried and the money wasted.

It has been the unanimous opinion of all who have studied this problem intelligently in the past, that a new building must, sooner or later, be erected for the courts and the administrative branches thereof.

The plans prepared by the architect were made, after a thorough and comprehensive study of court conditions and court house accommodations had been completed by me in this country and in Europe.

The plans were not conceived to meet any architectural phantasy, as has been intimated.

The exterior expresses fully the purpose of the interior—the grouping of court rooms in units of two each with appurtenant rooms, about a central corridor. Such an arrangement naturally produced a building polygonal in shape. The architect cut off the angles of the polygon, in order to save space, and the structure was evolved in circular form. Because of the size of the circle, the wedge like spaces between the rectangular court rooms were large enough to use as closets, duct spaces and the like. The percentage of usable area in the building, therefore, compares very favorably with large office buildings in this city.

As a noted architect expressed it: "The arrangements of the various departments and the rooms, and above all the separation of the court room units, so that each group was isolated from the general crowd, is a feature which was considered to be extremely advantageous in itself—probably the greatest advance which has ever been made in court house design."

The design of the exterior is dignified and monumental, but in no sense ornate. Every effort has been made by the architect to reduce the cost to a minimum, consistent with the character of the building, and with proper avoidance of inferior materials.

The accommodations provided are ample for the needs of the Supreme Court, the City Court, and if need be, the Surrogate's Court; the County Clerk and the Commissioner of Records, and if desired the Register, the Commissioner of Jurors and the Sheriff. Facilities are provided for the lawyers, jurymen, litigants and witnesses, so that the functions of the court may be conducted with convenience, dispatch and decorum.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

NEW YORK MANAGERS TO HOLD ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY--SUGGESTIONS MADE TO SAVE COAL

THE Fire Department has been active lately in sending out orders for new fire escapes, etc., according to the report of the New York Building Managers' Association, which seems that many of these orders should be modified where no great menace to life is at stake. At present all appliances requiring metal is high in price, for metal is much needed by the Government.

The next meeting of the association will be held on January 8. This will be the annual meeting, with election of officers for the ensuing year.

The association draws attention to the fact that it is desirable to have the engineer in large office, store and loft buildings examine the radiators to see whether they are large enough to heat the space required. It is pointed out that sometimes a small radiator acts as a condenser. In other instances it is found that a smaller radiator than is already installed would be of sufficient size to properly heat the space. Air valves should also be examined.

The coal situation is giving building managers much anxiety, though members of the association are hoping that the Government control of the railroads will result in increased tonnage at tide water. Notices are being posted in many buildings notifying tenants to close the radiators in their offices when heat is not needed.

Governor Whitman has issued the following suggestions for conserving the coal supply which are well worth a second reading:

1. Don't burn coal in an open grate, for in such a practice 75 per cent. or more of the heat goes up the chimney.

2. It is not necessary to have every room heated. Most people would be healthier if they slept in cold bedrooms. Close off spare rooms.

3. Examine furnace and see that there are no cracks at the floor line to permit air leakage into the ashpit, and clean-out doors are air-tight when closed.

4. Endeavor to keep the entire fuel space of your range or furnace filled, heaping the coal slightly in the centre. Steam or hot-water boilers should be filled so that the coal is level with the bottom of the feed-door opening. Do not let the fuel burn down too low. Thin fires mean waste. Break lumps about egg size.

5. Feed the fire and shake the grate at regular intervals. Two or three times daily is generally sufficient, unless the plant is inadequate for the service required. Frequent feeding and shaking are uneconomical. Shake down the ashes before adding fresh fuel and stop shaking the moment the first bright spot appears under the grate. In mild weather let some ashes accumulate on top of the grate; in severe weather have only a very thin layer of ashes on it.

6. If, however, the fire has burned very low and more heat is desired, open the damper in the ashpit and add a small quantity of coal. In this particular case, do not shake the grate until this fresh coal is well ignited, then shake down the ashes and again add fuel.

7. Do not leave the feed-door draughts open and admit cold air over a glowing fuel bed at any time. The feed-door damper should be opened only to admit air over a fresh fire. Air for combustion should be drawn through the burning bed of coal and, as a general rule, all checking of draught should be accomplished by closing the ashpit damper and opening the check damper in the smoke pipe. The check damper should never be opened until the ashpit damper is closed. The shut-off damper in the smoke pipe may be partially closed in the case of an unusually strong draught or to check the fire in mild weather; but, as a rule, this damper should be touched very seldom. Never check by leaving the firing door open.

8. Before feeding a furnace see that the shut-off damper in the pipe is open, and close the check damper. This prevents the escape of dust through the feed-door into the cellar.

9. Keep the ashpit empty. Ashes banked up under the grate prevent necessary air circulation, hinder combustion and tend to warp the grate bars. Remove ashes at least once daily, and be sure to sift all ashes to recover the good coal that had dropped through the grate.

10. Serious coal wastes result from allowing soot and ashes to be deposited on the interior heating surfaces. This prevents utilization of the heat in the smoke and gases. Clean flues frequently with soft coal, every other day is none too often to give the furnace a brushing down. One-eighth inch of ashes and soot on boiler surfaces retards heat transfer 25 per cent.

Suggestions have been made that oil-burning furnaces be given a trial, but Mr. Cushman, of Cushman & Wakefield, stated that he had made a personal investigation, and finds that fuel oil is as hard to obtain as coal. It is predicted that the various grades of oil will become as expensive as gasoline.

The New York Edison Company will continue for the time being the present seven-cent rate.

REVIEW OF BUILDING TREND FOR MONTH OF DECEMBER

A LONG range view of the building situation in the city proper and the surrounding districts leads inevitably to the belief that the stagnation is at low ebb. A study of the chart published herewith reveals many interesting facts, and points to certain fundamentals in the situation that are likely to be overlooked ordinarily. This chart is made up on the basis of quarterly totals of chart below. Demand for all classes of building materials rose immediately to tremendous volume.

With the entry of the United States into the war conditions were radically changed. Improvement in domestic conditions which had begun in 1916 was temporarily checked by various hindering factors incident to war-time readjustment. Costs of certain materials rose to almost prohibitive heights, but price-all buildings started in Greater New York.

In the first place, it will be observed that for a period of three years before the short boom of latter 1916, construction of all types has been in more or less depressed condition. Considering the enormous increase of the city's population during this period and the rapid expansion of its manufacturing and commercial activities, it is not surprising that serious overcrowding has resulted from the relatively small amount of new building. The rise of the building line during 1916, while due in part to inflated costs, probably represents a movement to make up for vast arrears in new construction resulting from the depressed condition of the previous slack years.

The revival of general industrial prosperity in 1916 led to renewed activity in building. Stimulation of industry resulting from war business exercised a beneficial influence upon factory and mill construction, which was the first type to feel the better times as revealed in the fixing has again steadied the material market to a large extent. No sooner was the beneficial effect of price-fixing beginning to be reflected in better building conditions, than other factors, such as the adverse priority rulings and the more serious transportation congestion intervened to check the movement for renewed building activity. All these conditions were bound to occur in the course of an industrial readjustment as radical as that which the nation is now passing through. Until the Government has its "war plant" well established, other activities must, very properly, wait.

As the New Year opens, however, there are indications that the building industry will come into its own in the not far distant future, and the needs of more building is so pressing throughout the Metropolitan and outlying districts that much of the work can no longer be postponed. Particularly is this true of the urgent call for additional dwellings for the working people. High-class resi-

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

The "Own-Your-Own-Home" movement is gaining headway in the suburbs. The movement is based on sound principles, and, especially at this time, should do much to help the congested housing conditions.

Dr. Jonathan P. Day, the new Commissioner of Public Markets, favors terminal markets. He has, up to the present time, followed instructions laid down by Mayor Hylan, and remained silent as to what his department is going to do and will not make any statement until he is prepared to produce results. This policy has advantages, but is apt to shut off sources of advice, which might prove beneficial in the conduct of the department.

In the Bronx an active campaign is to be inaugurated to have amendments passed which will, it is claimed, simplify the Torrens Law and make it more workable. New York City wants a real Torrens Law. The trouble in the past has been that the various interests could not agree, and therefore have been working at cross purposes. It is time that those who are interested in the common cause get together and agree on a measure meeting all requirements. Discord must be eliminated if results are to be accomplished.

The Legislative Session of 1918.

At Albany this week the 142d Annual Session of the State Legislature was opened. War-time spirit prevailed, and the keynote was struck in the message of the Governor. It reviewed the activities and accomplishments since the commencement of the war and warned the lawmakers to make every effort and leave nothing undone which would help bring the war to a successful conclusion.

New York City was brought into the limelight before the adjournment to January 9, when the real serious work will be started. An act was introduced, by Senator Wagner, empowering New York City to own and operate public utilities. This bill is far-reaching in effect. The question of municipal ownership comes up for consideration of the Legislature almost every session, but the present trend, due to the action of the Federal authorities at Washington, seems to be along these lines. There is now a better chance of its passing than ever before, though this will be accomplished only after a bitter fight.

Another important measure, affecting New York City, provides for the repeal of the "pay-as-you-go law. Senator Wagner also introduced this measure. Limitations are suggested, which are designed to curb the expenditures of the city authorities. There is but little doubt that the city must use every effort to conserve its resources and not spend moneys, except where they will do the most good to the greatest number, but, nevertheless, care must be taken that the wonderfully valuable plant owned by the city be maintained, so that in future years the cost of replacement will not be so excessive that economy at the present time would prove disastrous.

Real estate organizations and civic bodies are going to watch the happenings at Albany with great interest. Co-operation will be given to the Legislature and the municipal authorities, providing good common sense is exercised. The impossible is not looked for or expected, but business judgment must be exercised, and if the taxpayers realize that it is the intention of the authorities and lawmakers to really help the community, every aid and assistance will be forthcoming in order to accomplish this result.

Converting Dwellings in Jersey.

The Real Estate Board of Hudson County is sponsor of a bill which is patterned upon the Lawson Three-Family House Law, passed last year in the New York State Legislature, which will permit the conversion of three-story dwellings, in Hudson County, into three-family apartment houses.

Such a law has been favored for some time by Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, and when Commissioner Gannon was elected, he turned the matter over to him. Commissioner Gannon has the co-operation of the Board, and efforts are being made to eliminate some of the adverse features which exist in the Law as passed in New York State.

The Lawson Bill has not worked out satisfactorily in New York City, for several reasons, two of which are that certain limitations were imposed prohibiting the conversion of many dwellings, and the other is the expense of making the alteration, due to present high prices.

It has been estimated that to convert a dwelling, in Brooklyn, would cost upwards of $2,400, and it is doubtful whether the increased rentals obtained would offset this extra expense. In normal times, when labor is easily obtainable, the changing over of these buildings would be practical, but at the present time it would certainly be a venturesome investor who would consider the project.

New Jersey interests would do well to consult those who have made a study of the practical workings of the Three-Family Law, as in force in New York State. It is more than likely that they could profit by mistakes made, and when they do pass their law "over the river" it could be so shaped as to make it of practical benefit to realty owners.

At the present time it costs about twenty-five per cent. more to build an ordinary "walk-up" tenement, as against last August. Figures obtained in Manhattan and Queens bear out this statement; therefore, any means devised so as to procure additional housing for the workingman, at reasonable cost, is welcome.

Real estate men and builders will watch with interest the efforts of their New Jersey neighbors, and they sincerely hope that a solution may be found which will be applicable to Greater New York.

Starting the New Year.

Another year has started and to the allied building interests of this city and the adjacent territory the coming months are fraught with possibilities, great or small, largely according to the mental attitude of the individuals that make up the industry. Naturally there are numerous other factors, beside a mental viewpoint to be considered, but a proper approach to the problems that have maintained, and that in a large measure continue to confront the building fraternity, will do much to relieve the depression that has so adversely affected structural conditions.

The start of a new year is no time to bewail the disappointments of the past. Rather it is a time to coordinate individual efforts to make the coming twelve months a better period from every viewpoint insofar as it is humanly possible to do. During the past year the conditions were admittedly bad and there was a just cause for much of the depression, yet the building industry as a unit also made its mistakes and it is from this angle that considerable improvement can be looked for. Mistakes are oftentimes of immeasurable benefit, particularly when they bring home in a definite manner exactly what might have been possible had the other course been chosen. The mistakes of the building interests during the last twelve months were obvious ones, and unquestionably during the current year the experience so dearly bought will be profitable to the builders and their allied interests.

It is sincerely to be hoped that with the unfolding of the new year the general conditions affecting the building situation will be materially improved and that the relief afforded will change the building situation into something nearer to the normal of other years, but no matter what the conditions, let the building industry maintain its interest and hope, and continue in a firm endeavor to speedily solve the problems.

The Coal Famine.

The decision of the Government to utilize the Pennsylvania tubes for the transportation of coal is wise. While Manhattan will not be affected as much as Long Island and New England, still it will be benefited, because more barges will be released to supply the wants of the central borough.

It has been estimated that coal will be accelerated from a week to ten days on account of hold-ups being eliminated on the New Jersey shore. Every effort is being made to supply the immediate demands of the city. Conditions are acute, and owners must save coal as much as possible, without endangering the health of the occupants of the buildings.

There is practically no reserve supply in the city. Shipments are arriving daily, but hardly sufficient to meet the immediate demands. There is little likelihood that the situation will be relieved until a warm spell arrives, and according to the Weather Bureau, this will be several days. One of the welcome events of the present year will be the "January thaw." There does not seem to be any difference of opinion on the question.

Throughout the city several business buildings were closed from lack of coal,

The following rules for city employes have been laid down by Mayor Hylan:

Office hours: 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Officials and subordinates: 1. Must not loll in city automobiles with big cigars in their mouths. 2. Must not be conspicuous at baseball games when they should be in their offices. 3. Must not spend two hours at luncheon. 4. Must use city automobiles for city business only. 5. Must reduce excessive salaries. 6. Must not increase salaries that exceed $1,800. 7. Must abolish useless positions. 8. Must not have too spacious offices or other than simple furniture and accommodations. 9. Must show no discourtesy or arrogance to callers. 10. Must dispense with so-called efficiency experts. 11. Must send to the Mayor the names and addresses of all employees living outside the city. It must be the aim of the new appointees to "make the world yearn for Democracy."

or because water mains were frozen solid. Not for years, if ever, has such a condition existed, and it behooves everyone to make the best of a bad situation, and do their utmost to help, rather than complain about the inconveniences and sufferings which have to be borne.

Flat Dwellers.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:
In a recent issue of the Record and Guide a correspondent, E. P. S., stated that flat dwellers moving into smaller apartments or taking roomers or boarders are not caused by war-time economies. I agree with your correspondent. For my own part I cannot understand how a large class of New York's flat dwellers could move into smaller apartments than already occupied, not because of the size of the apartments, but rather because of the size of the families. Therefore, it is doubtful if they could take any more boarders than heretofore.
The point touches, however, on one of the problems confronting landlords in various sections of the city where tenants rent an apartment entirely too small for the family to be accommodated, and then live, largely, on the front stoop and on the sidewalk. This is to the detriment of the house in particular and the neighborhood in general.

The situation resolves itself into what can be done before and after the tenant takes possession. The landlord can ask prospective tenants as to the size of the family and can refuse to accept a family larger than he thinks suitable for the flat, but what he cannot do is to make prospective tenants make a truthful statement as to the size of the family. So much for before.
Now, as to after: The landlord who finds he has been deceived can require the tenant to move, but landlords naturally hesitate at such drastic measures, entailing rerenting and usually more or less renovation and decoration, the cost of same and the loss of revenue while all this is being done. The tenant, therefore, who has rented under false pretenses is usually suffered to remain, except in apartment houses of pronounced high class.
What is there left to do? The landlord or agent or the janitor can call the offending tenant's attention to rules and regulations against go-carts, lunch baskets, chairs, etc., in vestibules, sitting on the stoop, so as to make entrance and egress difficult if not impossible, and in general try to keep the front of the house neat and tidy. It seldom does much good and, moreover, the janitor who in the majority of cases is the one in constant touch with the situation, does not take the bother

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:
E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 294.—A & B as general partners, sharing generally (but without written partnership agreement), conduct a general real estate business that has averaged $20,000 per year net profit for the past three years. A dies, and by will leaves his interest in the business to C, an employee. A had drawn his share of profits to date of death. B declines to receive C as partner. To what is C entitled? Is there good will, and, if so, to what would it amount to in the case cited.

Answer No. 294.—C cannot compel B to enter into partnership relations with him. He is entitled, however, to all of A's interest in the assets of the partnership which has been dissolved by A's death and must be liquidated by B promptly. There would probably be value in the good will of the partnership, but the amount of such value depends on the nature of the business, details of which are not given in the question.

Question No. 295.—I would like to know what the law requires a property owner to do relative to the building of a retaining wall at the rear of his premises where the property abutting is about 30 feet lower. The owner of the land is about to build. Who should stand the expense of the retaining wall, which would be for the protection of both interests?

Answer No. 295.—You are referred to the Code of Ordinances, Chapter 5, Article 11, Sections 210 to 215 inclusive. As applied to your case you are called upon to stand half the original cost and half the cost of maintenance if the wall is placed half on your land and half on the adjoining property or, if the wall is placed entirely on your property which is at the higher elevation, the adjoining owner has to pay for constructing the wall and the maintenance is divided equally between you and him. If you cannot agree on the procedure the Superintendent of Buildings determines where the wall shall be placed and the apportioning of the cost of erection and upkeep.

Question No. 296.—Is there any law or regulation, State or municipal, requiring elevators in business buildings or apartment houses over any certain height, and if so, is it based on area or on the number of people, tenants or employees in a structure?

Answer No. 296.—There is no law, State or municipal, requiring the installation of an elevator in any building.

to do so—unless there be a personal antagonism to the tenant in question.
So it seems that very little that is effective can be done before the tenant moves in and that but little can or is done afterwards. The result is that many neighborhoods that could otherwise be classed and maintained as fair are rendered unsightly and undesirable. Women with chairs, camp-stools, go-carts and babies clutter up the stoop and sidewalk. It seems as though some people hire a letter box, a telephone and a dumbwaiter and then live out of doors. The condition I speak of is, of course, not so bad at this time of year as in the summer time, but the condition is there, ready to burst forth at any moment the weather permits.
Perhaps some landlords and agents who have successfully combatted this condition can tell how to do so. They would have attentive and interested listeners.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Inclement Weather, Holiday and Other Factors Create Inactive Market

EVERYTHING seemed to conspire against real estate this week. But all things considered the market made a fair showing. The holiday, the protracted cold spell, the advent of the new administration, the convening of the Legislature—all were factors which tended to hold investors back.

It was a most unpropitious time for any one to look at property with the idea of purchasing, for no sooner would an agent or broker show himself before complaints about the lack of coal, the freezing of gas, etc., would be hurled on his head. There was one specific instance on the East Side, where a broker took a prospective client to look at a property, and when he stepped inside the door he found several of the tenants lodging complaints with the superintendent. The prospective investor ceased to be interested and the deal fell through.

The coal situation is bothering managing agents a great deal. In fact, the shortage is acute, and there does not seem to be any prospect of anything but a day-to-day existence for some time to come. Coal is moving somewhat freer, but the reserve has disappeared, and a storm would bring about suffering such as has not been witnessed in the city for many years.

As a rule tenants appreciate the situation and realize that the owners and agents are doing their utmost, but still the discomfort is present.

The future of the real estate market depends largely upon the action to be taken by the new administration and also the attitude of Albany towards realty. Confidence is being expressed that Mayor Hyland will do his utmost and surround himself with capable lieutenants. He has gone on record as being a friend of real estate, and some of the changes in department heads seem to bear out this position.

It is to be hoped that the Legislature will appreciate New York City's position and will do what is in their power to help owners to pass through the present crisis. Owners have a heavy burden to carry and are trying to "do their bit" as well as possible, but the time has come when it is necessary for them to obtain help. If they had assurance that no legislation would be enacted which would work harm much of the tension would be relieved. The tax burden must be made as light as possible so that they can do more to help bring the war to a successful and speedy termination.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Construction of Building Contract.

A CLAUSE in a contract provided that a corporation was "to receive for its entire compensation for services in so doing [i.e. building] a sum equal to 10 per cent. of the entire cost of the building." The New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals holds, Shaw v. G. B. Beaumont Co., 102 Atl. 151, that under this clause the corporation was not entitled to receive for its services, in addition to the 10 per cent. called for by the contract, the proportion of the salaries of its officers and office employees while supervising the construction of the building, nor 10 per cent. of the cost of financing the building when the disbursements in connection therewith had been allowed, nor for telephone calls, carfare, postage, stationery, as these were office charges of the corporation, nor tools used in the construction of the building, as these were part of the equipment of a contractor.

It was also held that after the building was completed, the corporation, having become a mortgagee in possession, was not entitled to compensation for services rendered for renting the premises, an apartment house.

Fire Measures in Tenements.

The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court holds, Stevens v. Casey, 117 N.E. 588, that the initial decision of an inspector made under St. 1913, c. 655, §20, relating to tenement houses as regards fire exits, as to whether a building is a tenement house, is not binding on the owner under all circumstances. The act requires that tenement houses shall be provided with proper egresses or other means of escape from fire. It is held that a requirement of a building inspector that a tenement house should have electric lights and no other kind of a light on its landings is not an arbitrary enforcement of the statute, in the absence of circumstances showing it to be such.

Subrogation.

Subrogation is the substitution of one person in the place of another as to his rights, remedies, or securities. The law recognizes two kinds of subrogation, legal and conventional. By the former is meant the right of substitution which springs as a matter of course from the mere fact of the payment of a debt without an agreement so to do between the parties. Conventional subrogation arises by virtue of an agreement, express or implied, that a third person or one having no previous interest in the matter involved shall upon discharging an obligation or paying a debt be substituted in the place of the creditor in respect to such rights, remedies, or securities as he may have against the debtor. Subrogation is born of equity and results from the natural justice of placing the burden where it ought to rest.—Kent v. Bailey, Iowa Supreme Court, 164 N. W. 852.

Board Issues Manual.

Containing more information than ever before, the Diary and Manual of the Real Estate Board for 1918 is now ready for circulation. A special feature of the book this year is the law relating to the Building Zone, together with a map of Manhattan, showing the Height, Area and Use districts. The diary also contains reports from city departments, information for taxpayers, Tenement House Law, with the new three-family converted dwelling law; Workmen's Compensation Law, Labor Law, rules for valuing real estate, rates of commission and list of leading real estate firms.

Bronx County Records.

Register Edward Polak of Bronx County issued the following report as to the business of the Register's office for his four-year term, beginning January 1, 1914:

Mortgages recorded, 33,213; conveyances and miscellaneous papers recorded, 31,204; satisfaction of mortgages recorded, 8,833; chattel mortgages filed, 95,671; notary and Commissioner of Deeds certificates filed, 8,824; certified copies issued, 1,570; miscellaneous, which includes issuance of certificates, etc., 10,324. Total number of folios recorded was more than 1,010,000.

The total fees received in the Mortgage Tax Department was $645,749.93, and in the General Administration Department, $185,834.69, a total of $831,584.62. The expenses totaled $423,271.50, leaving a surplus of $408,313.12.

COURT HOUSE PROBLEM.

Provision is made for every requirement of the Justices. Future need for expansion and for variations in conditions have been taken into account in the plans.

In 1915 charges of extravagance in the plans and in the specifications were contained in a report, made public, which originated in the Bureau of Contract Supervision of the Board of Estimate and which was submitted to the Mayor by the director. Such wide publicity was given to these charges that an impression was created in the public mind that there might be some truth in them. In September, 1915, a detailed reply was made to the Board by the architectural and engineering advisers and myself, which effectually disposed of the many mis-statements and false conclusions of the directors. There were not, as a matter of fact, any extravagant features in the plans and specifications, and consequently, but after a long and expensive delay, they were finally approved by the Justices and the Board of Estimate.

Since 1903, it has invariably been estimated that, no matter where built, the Court House will cost $10,000,000. This is at the rate of 41 cents per cubic foot, which compares very favorably with the cost of other large court houses in this country. This estimate was made after a calculation of the cost of detailed items, at the hands of skilled estimators of buildings. Notwithstanding all the mis-statements to the contrary, the plans never did, nor do they now require an expenditure of over $10,000,000, under a proper contract, honestly and economically administered. On the other hand, it will not be possible to build it for much less. It may also be stated that no plan has been presented which would not have cost more.

If the building is erected in a market such as at present, of course an economical and business-like administrator would study the peculiar conditions which prevail and adapt the specifications accordingly, substituting alternate materials for those now impossible to procure or unduly expensive. There is no reason, in fact, against building the basement and ground floor at the present time, although the conditions indicate the necessity of redesigning the structural part of these stories in concrete instead of steel. That portion of the building can be put to use for the occupancy of the County Clerk, Commissioner of Records, the Register, the Commissioner of Jurors and the Sheriff. It will also provide eight court rooms.

Minor rearrangements of the Municipal building will enable the Hall of Records building, which was never suitable for its purpose, to house the Board of Education, for which it is best suited.

The sale of the Board of Education building, which is easily marketable, will provide more than sufficient funds for the construction of the Court House to the second story. It will, consequently, be unnecessary to encroach upon the debt margin.

The old court house will thereupon be in part also available for other municipal purposes, and the city will be relieved of large rent charges.

It is to be said, in favor of this suggestion, that thus without increasing the debt of the city a dollar, a very large increment of value will accrue to the real estate in the vicinity of the Court House site by determining the improvement, which, before the building can be completed, will provide fully for the cost.

The Court House site, ill-advised as was its selection, has, in fact, been acquired, and most of the buildings removed. The present condition of the site has depressed real estate values in that vicinity. The general conditions of the neighborhood, of long standing, urgently required public improvements. It is the plain business of the city, irrespective of the question of building the new Court House, to lay out this section so as to induce improvements on the privately owned property.

The plan of general improvement, as proposed, is not dependent upon the building of the Court House or of the other public buildings suggested. No matter what use it may be found advisable to be made of the Court House site, the lay-out proposed cannot be improved. The new street arrangements are well planned for the convenience of traffic. The plot designed for the Court House is equally well designed, for a public park, or for any other temporary or permanent public purpose. If the site, or any part of it, is ever to be sold, it will sell for much higher prices as so laid out, than as at present.

The problem is one of no small difficulty; but a solution will best be found in going ahead as fast as possible to effect an improvement on comprehensive lines, which should pay for itself as the work progresses, and probably produce an increase in assessed valuation and in annual taxes which will enable the city ultimately to build the Court House, either here or elsewhere, without charging unduly the normal debt margin.

On the other hand, to continue to delay this improvement of the section incurs the inevitable penalty of continuously mounting carrying charges, and a disastrous depression of real estate values in that vicinity. A sale of the site in its present condition, even if it could be effected, will entail a tremendous loss, and will tend to decrease real estate values. Sooner or later, a new Court House must be built, and the opportunity must not be lost to build the most complete and imposing Court House in the world. To fail in this will be a greater crime than was committed by the father of the old Court House. To remodel the old building, or to add to it, has proven most wasteful in the past, and can only prove an expensive make-shift.

The city is, however, not able to build a Court House, at this time, either upon the new site, or upon the old premises. The city must wait for increased assessed valuations to accrue in the neighborhood of the new site before funds are available to build a Court House on any site. When, by reason of the general improvements of that district, private improvements are projected which actually warrant the carrying out of the original plan, the increased assessed valuations, caused thereby, will enable the city to finance a notable undertaking.

If, on the other hand, private capital does not avail of the opportunity afforded to develop a new business section for large office and mercantile buildings in this vicinity, and the increase in assessed valuations is not in fact realized, then the original plan should be abandoned, and the Court House built on the present premises, as I originally advised.

The building plot of the Court House can then be retained as a public park, and the remaining property on the site sold for private improvement.

To work out a comprehensive plan of public improvement of the Court House site and its surroundings, so as to induce large private improvements, and consequent increase in the assessed value of property in that section is the immediate problem before the administration.

The problem of the Court House building will take care of itself when the city has accumulated increased and ample resources to pay for it.

Safety Signs.

The use of safety signs is proving its worth in the prevention of industrial accidents. These reminders placed in convenient locations throughout a plant unquestionably are helping in calling attention to hazards and reminding industrial workers of the importance of caution and carefulness.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 23, as against 20 last week and 37 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7, as compared with 7 last week and 16 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 16, as compared with 13 last week and 21 a year ago.

From the Bronx 7 sales at private contract were reported, as against 6 last week and 12 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 17 of this issue.

Eighteen Parcels in Deal.

On December 31, there was recorded a number of properties in the name of the newly-formed West Mercer Corporation, headed by John R. MacMurray. The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, subsidiary of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, was the seller. The parcels transferred included 209 Bowery, a five-story building, on lot 26.11x100x irregular, located 45.8 feet south of Rivington street; also 132 West 78th street, a four-story and basement dwelling, 16x95.6, between Columbus and Amsterdam avenues; also 146 and 148 West 22d street, two three-story and basement houses, 41.8x98.9, flanked by twelve-story loft buildings; also 259 West 25th street, a four-story house, 13.6x98.9, 193 feet east of Eighth avenue. Other properties in the deal are 3 Rivington street, a four-story building; also 61 West 82d street; also 318 to 320 Houston street, 113 and 115 Mercer street, 265 Stanton street, 25 West Houston street, 1687 Third avenue, 4009 to 4019 Third avenue, 1128 Southern boulevard, 2627 Third avenue, 2497 Third avenue, 2503 Third avenue, a vacant lot, and 910 and 912 Whitlock avenue. The properties are valued at about $450,000. Mr. MacMurray will have an office at 30 East 42d street. The West Mercer Corporation was formed at Albany on December 21, with a capital of $158,000. Its incorporators are Mr. MacMurray, S. C. T. Dodd and J. McDonald. Efforts to reach Mr. MacMurray during the past few days concerning reports of the purchase have been unavailable, as he was reported to be out of town.

Barnard to Obtain Property.

General Horace W. Carpentier, who donated a chair of Chinese language and literature at Columbia University about sixteen years ago, plans to give his fine dwelling at 108 East 37th street to Barnard College when he dies. In a document drawn last April and recorded this week, Barnard gets the title to the property, but the General will have possession of it during the remainder of his life. It is also stipulated that for six years after his death, it will continue in possession of one he will name at some future time. The house is a four-story brownstone dwelling, four doors east of Park avenue. It has been General Carpentier's home since he came from California about twenty years ago. It has been estimated that his fortune is more than $20,000,000. He was once Mayor of Oakland, and has been identified with the building up of California since the "gold days" when he laid the foundation for his fortune. Shortly after his coming to New York City, he gave $100,000 to Columbia University trustees for the endowment of a Chinese chair. It was called the "Dean Lung Department" in honor of his Chinese valet, who had served him for many years. The establishment of the Chinese chair was due to his close commercial relationship with China. Shortly after the endowment the Chinese Government presented to Columbia a compilation of Chinese literature, history, language, maps and illustrations, which has been added to since by contributions from General Carpentier and others.

Twenty-Acre Tract Sold.

Colgate & Company, of Jersey City, manufacturers of soaps and perfumes, bought from the Land Filling & Improvement Company, a tract of about twenty acres at Newark, N. J., fronting on Newark Bay, through Joseph P. Day and Frank J. Bock, of Newark. The property just acquired is in the meadow section of Newark, not far from the Port Newark Terminal, and accessible to the industrial section of the city. The buyers will improve the property with an immense plant. The Land Filling & Improvement Company, a corporation owned by Dailey & Ivans, New York contractors, acquired the property many years ago and filled the land with materials obtained from New York City. The land is well above the general elevation of filled ground. The property is along the same shore line as the new plant of the American Synthetic Dye Works and Butterworth, Judson Chemical Company plant, and many other large industries. It is not far distant from the new locations on the Passaic and Hackensack Rivers, recently acquired by the Ford Motor Company, the United States Steel Corporation, and the Niles-Bement-Pond Company. There has been a great deal of activity in water front sites on the Passaic and Hackensack Rivers and Newark Bay. The fact that Colgate & Company have located on this particular property will no doubt be the means of attracting other industries to that locality. The railroad facilities are unusually good, as the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey run through the property. The possibility of shipping by steamboat is excellent, as the Federal Government's twenty-one-foot channel through Newark Bay and the Passaic River is almost at the exterior line of the property recently acquired by Colgate & Company. This channel will soon be dredged to much greater depth; in fact, in the very near future there will be sufficient water to allow the safe navigation of very large vessels.

Marhattan-Bronx Exchange.

The Hudson Realty Company, Maximilian Morgenthau, president, purchased from the Benenson Realty Company, Benjamin Benenson, president, the block front on the south side of Westchester avenue, between Tiffany and Fox streets, improved with taxpayers. The property fronts 246 feet on Westchester avenue, 145 feet in Tiffany street, 95 feet in Fox street, and was held at $250,000. In part payment the Hudson Realty Company gave to Mr. Benenson the following properties: The six-story apartment house at 512 West 135th street, between Amsterdam avenue and Broadway, held at $75,000, measuring 45x100 feet; also 61½ and 63 East 125th street, a five-story tenement with stores, on plot 33x100, located near the Harlem station of the New York Central railroad and valued at $60,000; also 846 and 848 East 167th street, a five-story apartment on a plot 50x117x150, held at $75,000; also 1169 and 1171 Fox street, two two-story dwellings on plot 50x100, held at $15,000; also twelve lots, measuring 300x100, on the south side of Sedgwick avenue, located 275 feet north of 167th street, free and clear, held at $60,000; and ten lots, 250x100, on the south side of Muliner avenue, in the old Morris Park tract, held free and clear, at $20,000. The transactions involved about $550,000. Simon J. Bloom was the broker.

Building Site Enlarged.

The Bible Teachers' Training School at the northeast corner of Lexington avenue and 49th street, has bought the two three-story dwellings at 137 to 141 East 49th street, from Donald MacColl, and Robert M. Kurtz, respectively. It is reported that negotiations are pending for the intervening house at 139, owned by the Estate of James Nugent. The acquisition of the latter parcel would square out the school's holdings in 49th street, through to 50th street, where a large addition will eventually be erected.

Judge Gary Buys.

The residence of the late Mrs. Simon Borg at 855 Fifth avenue, adjoining the south corner of 67th street, has been sold through Pease & Elliman, to Judge Elbert H. Gary. The property is improved with a four-story structure, having a frontage of 40 feet on the avenue, and a depth of 120 feet. It is valued by the city for taxation purposes at $375,000, and was held at $600,000. Nicholas Partos, president of the Partola Manufacturing Company, leased the building last September, furnished, for a reported rental of something less than $25,000, the asking price. Previous tenants of the Borg house were Mrs. John Dryden, widow of the late president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, and Mrs. John E. Baldwin. Adjoining on the north is the home of Judge Gary, at the 67th street corner, and to the south is the residence of George E. Mason. The Havemeyer residence, which has a frontage of 75.5 feet on the avenue, occupies the lower end of the block.

Yorkville Landmark Sold.

Louis Gold, Brooklyn builder, bought from the Eighty-fifth Street Garage, Inc., the former Metropolitan M. E. Church property at 228 and 230 East 85th street, 50x100 feet. The buyer will improve the site with a two-story brick and stone garage at an estimated cost of $35,000, plans for which are being prepared by Shampian & Shampian, architects. The projected building has been leased from the plans to Joseph Levy, for twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of about $170,000. Ames & Co. negotiated both the sale and lease.

Touraine Hotel, Brooklyn, Sold.

The Touraine Hotel, at 23 Clinton street, extending to Fulton street, Brooklyn, was sold to Frank A. K. Boland, of Campbell & Boland, who represented New York interests, for a reported price of about $300,000. The Brooklyn Touraine Hotel Company, E. H. Crandall, president, is the seller. Included in the sale was 271 West 121st street, between St. Nicholas and Seventh avenues, valued at $11,500, which will pass to Arthur H. Myers, who has been lessee of the Touraine for the past two years; also Bronx lots valued at $35,000. The lease of the hotel expires on April 1, 1920, but has a five-year renewal privilege.

Chemical Concern Buys Plant.

Joseph P. Day sold the large plant of the Canadian Car & Foundry Company at Kingsland, N. J., to a chemical concern which expects to establish a new factory for the manufacture of commercial chemicals. The plant was partially destroyed by a spectacular fire last February, at a time when the Canadian Company was completing a large contract for shells for the Russian Government. More than 2,000,000 loaded shells were stored in the building at the time, a large part of which were exploded during the fire. The property consists of eighty-five acres of land along the Hackensack meadows, on the main line of the Delaware & Lackawanna Western Railroad.

RECENT LEASES.

Y. M. C. A. Makes Large Lease.

The increased activities of the Y. M. C. A. has necessitated the obtaining of larger and more central executive quarters in this city for its organization. It has rented from Todd & Robertson, Inc., builders, seven floors in the new Equitable Trust Company Building, now nearing completion at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 45th street. The space comprises from the fourth to the tenth floors, inclusive, and will house the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. for the work of both its home and foreign departments, as well as the War Work Council of the association. At present these branches are located in East 28th street and other parts of the city, and it is proposed to centralize them under one roof. Francis Guerrlich, of Horace S. Ely & Company, was the broker. Other tenants in the Equitable Building include the Equitable Trust Company, Warner Brothers Company, and the Drassell Chemical Company. The building has direct entrance to the subway, and an arcade extending from Madison to Vanderbilt avenues.

Manhattan.

ROWANTREE-SCHLEY CO. leased for People's Co-Operative Property Co. the 11th loft in 144 to 152 West 27th st to Goldstein & Falk for a term of years.

ROWANTREE-SCHLEY CO. leased for E. S. Willard & Co. as agents for the Adams Land & Holding Co. the 8th loft at 596 Broadway, containing 10,000 sq. ft., to Siegel, Youngwitz & Co., manufacturers of ladies' hats; also subleased for the Faultless Waist Co. and secured a renewal from Daniel Birdsall & Co. as agents for the Singer Sewing Machine Co. the 7th loft at 561 to 563 Broadway to 88 Prince st to Bregstein, Simon & Co.

LOTON H. SLAWSON CO. leased approximately 3,000 sq. ft. of space in Cuyler Building, 116 to 120 West 32d st to Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers, for their New York offices. This completes the renting of Cuyler Building.

MALCOLM E. SMITH and Rudolph C. Culver leased an apartment at 137 East 66th st to Mrs. Elise M. Selden, of Memphis, Tenn.

MALCOLM E. SMITH & RUDOLPH C. CULVER, INC., leased an apartment at 137 East 66th st to Thomas J. Walsh.

WALTON AUTO BODY CO. leased for 5 years the 4-story building at the southwest corner of Av D and 11th st, 100x100, equipped with machinery, in which it will manufacture aeroplane frames.

CHARLES E. WILLIAMS and James M. Couper leased for the 9 and 11 East 41st Street Co. the building 11 East 41st st to John Reilly, who will make extensive alterations.

CHARLES E. WILLIAMS leased the 3-story building 104 East 17th st, between 4th av and Irving pl, to John Giannelli for a term of years.

WOLLNER & WRONKER, manufacturers of silk waists, leased from 74 Madison Holding Co. the 10th floor at 72 and 74 Madison av for a term of years through the M. Rosenthal Co.

Queens.

CROSS & BROWN CO. leased in the Degnon Contractor Co.'s subway building, Hunterspoint av, Long Island City, the store floor to Stentor Leather Manufacturing Co.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

PEASE & ELLIMAN negotiated the lease of 19 West 48th st.

LOUIS SCHLESINGER, INC., and E. E. Bond & Co. negotiated the sale of 276 and 290 Jelliff st, Newark.

ELIZABETH S. HARVIE is the buyer of 16 East 105th st, sold recently by William H. Morgan.

BUTLER & BALDWIN have been appointed agents for the 6-story and store loft building 11 East 30th st; also the 6-story and store loft building 147 West 24th st.

WILLIAM A. FERGUSON, former secretary to Marcus M. Marks, President of the Borough of Manhattan, has entered the office of the law firm of White & Case, 14 Wall st.

ARTHUR TRUSLOW, formerly with Ruland & Whiting Co., is now associated with Cross & Brown Co. at their downtown office, 438 Broadway, and will give special attention to leasing business properties.

LEOPOLD ROTHSTEIN is the buyer of the dwelling 519 Manhattan av, and Max Langfain of the dwelling at the southeast corner of Manhattan av and 106th st. Both houses were recently sold by the Lawyers' Mortgage Co.

ANNING S. PRALL, one of the new members of the Board of Education appointed on Tuesday by Mayor Hylan, has long been identified with real estate interests in Richmond County, and is the real estate expert of the Staten Island Savings Bank.

HUGHES & HAMMOND placed for 2 John Alden Construction Co. a loan of $190,000 for three years, at 5½ per cent., on the recently completed 9-story apartment house 42 to 46 West 10th st, covering a plot 63x100. The house is completely rented and returns a gross income of $51,000 per annum. The same brokers placed for the owner a second mortgage of $20,000 for two years, on the property.

WM. A. WHITE & SONS announce that the year 1917 was one of the best periods their mortgage department ever had, during which time $10,635,250 was placed. This is especially gratifying in view of the fact that mortgage conditions for the last twelve months have never been as bad since the panic of 1873, when no mortgage money could be had under any conditions. Prominent among the properties mortgaged by them was the southwest corner of Park av and 66th st, on which they placed a loan of $585,000 at 4½ per cent. for 10 years. This was the last loan placed by them at 4½ per cent. They recently placed a loan of $600,000 at 5½ per cent. on the property surrounding the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co.'s building, at the southeast corner of 5th av and 41st st. Also a mortgage of $50,000 at 5½ per cent. on the northwest corner of 3d av and 148th st; also a loan of $90,000 at 5½ per cent. on the northeast corner of Park av and 59th st, and a loan of $225,000 at 5 per cent. for 3 years on the 9-story apartment house, just completed and fully tenanted, at 112 East 74th st. In Brooklyn two loans were placed recently, one for $100,000 for Boorum & Pease Co. on their new 7-story fireproof loft building in Front st, and $150,000 on the Adriance Machine Works new building, 100x200, directly in back of the Atlantic Basin. Of the amount placed during the year $2,015,000 was placed in the month of December.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

THE present state of the building industry in the Metropolitan district is best evidenced by the fact that not a single barge load of brick was sold during the week in the local market. Furthermore, no brick has arrived from up-river points. The sustained spell of zero weather has effectually crippled the building industry in all of its branches, and it is feared that it will be some time before the situation can again return even to the status of a month ago.

There are a number of large and important projects on the boards in the offices of prominent architects, and recently there have been a goodly number of new operations out for estimates, but it cannot be expected that these structures will be commenced while this weather lasts. The manufacturers of building materials and supplies have suffered severe setbacks also, as the scarcity of fuel has hampered production greatly, and some of the producers have found it necessary to shut down their plants and factories while waiting for fuel and raw materials. The railroad situation is slowly being untangled, and it is confidently expected that before long the traffic conditions will be materially improved through Federal operation of the lines. While it is true that all Governmental business will receive preference over the lines, the general operation of the railroads will be coordinated and systematized and that the transportation of freight will be an easier matter than it has been for some time past.

Although building construction in Greater New York and the adjacent territory is at present practically at a standstill there is considerable promise for the future. From all parts of the local territory reports are current that lead to the opinion that with the advent of spring a strong building movement will be started. The suburban districts will unquestionably lead in this movement, as there has been an intense demand during the past year for small houses. Plans are under way for the construction of dwellings of moderate cost on a large scale, and some of the towns within easy commuting distance of New York are actively preparing for a busy building season. In Greater New York there is every likelihood that the major portion of the building work during the coming year will take the form of apartment and tenement house construction and the erection of factory and industrial buildings. Quite a number of structures of the latter type have already been planned, and if no unforeseen circumstances arise to act as deterrents to progress, construction will probably be started early next spring.

The City of New York, through its various administrative departments, also is preparing a schedule of new construction work that includes a number of large and costly buildings. The Board of Education, the Department of Public Charities and the Department of Correction have had plans prepared for buildings that will increase the efficiency and scope of work in their respective departments, and other branches of the city administration will be responsible for additional improvements.

For all branches of the building industry the new year seems to give much promise. While it cannot be expected that material improvement in the situation will be possible for the next two months or as long as the inclement weather lasts, reports from practically all parts of the country are unanimous in admitting the demand for hundreds of additional buildings to house the industrial and commercial activities of the nation, and thousands of small houses, apartments, stores, schools and other community projects to provide accommodations for the rapidly growing population of the country. The expected building movement must shortly be started, and when it comes it will bring with it capacity business for all of the various branches of the building industry.

Common Brick.—The market for Hudson River common brick is absolutely dead and will undoubtedly continue in this state until the weather moderates to a considerable degree. During the past week there have been no sales, and the prices are purely nominal at $7.75 to $8.25 a thousand. Owing to the sustained zero weather the Hudson River is frozen solid as far south as Yonkers, and it has been impossible for any tows to come through. According to the present outlook it will be some weeks before the brick market will be able to regain its stride, even should a decided thaw set in. By virtue of the fact that there have been no arrivals of brick from up-river points for more than a week and that it seems indefinite when boats will be able to navigate again, there is some talk in the brick market of an important advance in the prices of brick. The figure of $9 a thousand has been mentioned, and it is not at all unlikely that the reserve stocks in the local market will bring this figure before long. The Raritan situation is nominally unchanged. The frozen condition of the river makes transportation impossible, and there is no present prospect of relief.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River Brick market for the week ending Friday, January 4, 1918. Condition of market: Demand none; prices nominal. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $7.75 to $8.25 to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 0; sales, 0.

Structural Steel.—The market for this commodity is in relatively the same position as those for other structural materials and supplies. The excessively cold weather that has now maintained for more than a week has effectually stopped what little construction work was under way, and the demand for fabricated material has decreased in proportion. The steel mills have been hampered severely during the cold snap by the shortage of coal and coke, and a number of the prominent fabricators have had to temporarily suspend manufacturing operations. The Government is by long odds the dominant factor in the steel situation, and the demands from this source, besides being exceptionally heavy, are taking preference over all other business, so there is not much prospect that private consumers will be accommodated for some time, even if they should suddenly increase their orders. Private construction is practically at a standstill, and while the general conditions remain as at present there is no great prospect of improvement along this line. The current quotations for mill shipments of fabricated materials are unchanged from those of one week ago, the Federal control figure being accepted generally.

Copper.—The situation as applied to this metal is fairly satisfactory, and there is no anticipation that consumers will be greatly restricted in obtaining a sufficient amount of the metal to meet all requirements. The market is comparatively easy and deliveries reasonable. The prevailing price is 23.5c. a pound, and there is a feeling of confidence that this figure will rule for the next three months. This fixed price has operated largely in permitting the consumers to fix definite prices for their products, thus somewhat stabilizing the market conditions for finished products.

Lumber.—The market for lumber products has remained firm, although there has been practically no demand from building sources. The manufacturing consumers are responsible for a large volume of business, and the Government is a strong factor in the lumber situation. The Federal requirements are immense, and for the current year a large percentage of the available supply will be used for military purposes or for some usage allied to war activities. According to a report by the Southern Pine Association, portable knock-down wood houses, to be erected of standard panels fabricated in the United States and shipped abroad to be used for hospitals and barracks by the American forces in France, will require approximately 300,000,000 feet of pine lumber. This type of house was decided upon for use in Europe owing to the scarcity of labor. Panels of a standardized size, made in this country, can be put together quickly with bolts by the troops on the other side. The lumber mills will furnish the material only, and the panels will be built under separate contracts. Other phases of Governmental requirements are looming up large, and the lumber industry will feel itself severely taxed in keeping abreast of the military demands. Lumber prices are generally firm, with the tendency toward advances that has now been noticeable for a period of months. The outlook for the coming spring is good, and if the transportation problems are settled and the expected building movement arrives the lumber producers and dealers should have no cause for complaint.

Wire Products.—The demand for both wire and wire nails continues strong, and the producers report that their plants are working day and night to reduce the congestion in orders. Some of the leading manufacturers are sold for some months ahead. The Federal Government is still the most prominent factor in the market for wire nails and wire, and there is a considerable volume of export business available. Governmental orders are taking precedence in the mills, and it is said that the producers are shipping promptly on all Government business. Prices are firm and likely to continue for the next three months without change. Quotations are according to the Federal control figure of $3.50, base, per keg for wire nails and $3.35 per hundred pounds for bright basic wire.

Window Glass.—The market for both plate and window glass is generally dull, with but a small percentage of the producers manufacturing glass and those curtailing their output on account of the obvious shortage in fuel, raw materials and the difficulties entailed in obtaining transportation for their finished product. Window glass prices are firm, and there is a strong feeling prevalent in the trade that increases are imminent. The stocks in the hands of the dealers are low and badly broken as to sizes and great difficulty is being experienced in filling orders of any magnitude. During the past week there was no change in the schedule of discounts, but a revision might be made at any time without further notice.

Rosendale Cement.—The market for this commodity is to all intents and purposes inactive, the total volume of business being registered with the prominent dealers being exceptionally light. Inquiries for future requirements are scarce, and there is no evidence of an immediate improvement. Better conditions in this line are not anticipated until the building situation generally demonstrates considerably more life than it has for some time past. The price for natural cement is unchanged.

MODERN CLUB HOUSE FOR NURSES
IN WEST FORTY-FIFTH STREET

Cost of Building Placed at $160,000

OCCUPYING a prominent position among the building operations that are now under construction in this city is the handsome new clubhouse for nurses that is at present rapidly nearing completion. This structure is located at 317 to 321 West 45th street, on a plot 54 x 100 feet. The building is being erected by Vincent Astor, owner, 23 West two rooms with private baths. Each of the upper floors contains a room that may be used as a tearoom or a community room for those occupying that floor. The roof will be utilized as a roof garden. According to the present estimates this building will provide accommodations for between one hundred and fifty and one hundred and sixty nurses, and although the prime 26th street, and will be occupied by the Alumnae Association of the New York Hospital Training School. This organization has acquired a twenty-year lease on the property, having outgrown its present quarters further uptown, and the project will be conducted strictly along modern club lines.

This clubhouse is being constructed according to plans and specifications prepared by Tracy & Swartwout, architects, 18 West 34th street. James McWalters & Son, 1492 Broadway, have charge of the construction under a general contract. The cost of the building is approximately placed at $160,000, and a considerable sum in addition will be expended by the lessees for furnishings, decoration and equipment. The new structure is eight stories in height and is fireproof throughout. Every possible comfort and convenience will be installed in this building in an effort to make the club a real home for the nurses.

This handsome structure will add materially to the appearance of the neighborhood in which it is being erected. The facade has been designed in the style of the Italian Renaissance and has been constructed of face brick, with base and trimmings of Indiana limestone. The basement provides space for the boiler plant and other mechanical apparatus, storage rooms and a portion of the service equipment. On the first floor is located the main entrance corridor, registrar's office, general office, reception rooms, clubrooms, library, dining room and pantry. The seven upper floors are devoted to sleeping rooms, arranged singly and in suites of purpose of the project is to provide for the members of the New York Hospital Training School Alumnae, nurses from other schools will be accommodated.

Architects for New Clubhouse.

McKim, Mead & White, architects, 101 Park avenue, have been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the five-story brick and stone clubhouse to be erected at 113 to 123 West 43d street. This structure will become the home of the League for Political Education, Civic Forum and Economic Club. The ground dimensions of the proposed building will be 100 x 120 feet. Further details will be announced later.

Large Factory in the Bronx.

The Port Morris Industrial Terminal Co., H. D. Jackson, president, 140th street and Locust avenue, contemplates the erection of an eight and ten story factory building, 260 x 100 feet, at the East River, 139th to 140th streets. The name of the architect for this project and details of construction will be available later. According to the present plans active construction will not be started until late next spring.

Figuring Large Jersey Residence.

F. H. Bhar and B. Smith, associated architects, 27 Madison avenue, Manhattan, are taking estimates on general contract for the construction of a two-and-one-half-story brick residence at Normandie Park, Morristown, N. J., for Leland H. Ross, owner. The bids will close January 9th. This operation will cost in the neighborhood of $125,000.

BUILDING REVIEW.

dential building is likely to continue somewhat dull as a result of war conditions. Indeed, as will be observed from the chart below such construction is already very much curtailed. On the other hand, work upon additional storage facilities, plant extension and other construction serving to promote greater war-time efficiency, will doubtless in the nature of things, proceed with energy.

December was not as good a building month as it probably would have been if the cold were less severe and storms not so frequent. Starting off with a rather dull spirit in building circles, there came evidences of renewed activity in the trade about midway in the month and for a time conditions promised to bring forth a goodly volume of work. Then came repeated cold snaps, making operations difficult, particularly in the hauling of materials over the slippery, ice-covered streets. Even in the face of unfavorable weather conditions and other generally distressing factors, such as railroad congestion and labor scarcity, the month has totalled up fairly well, all things considered.

Furthermore, there is a more optimistic spirit abroad regarding the future of the trade under war conditions. One evidence of this is the active wholesale buying of brick to be stacked for the winter. The past few weeks have witnessed a greater tendency to accumulate supplies of brick and various other materials in anticipation of renewed activity of building in the near future.

During December the steadily increasing Government business has reached a point where it completely overshadows other operations, and with the enlarging scope of the nation's war plans, has arisen a call for miscellaneous Federal building and construction work that promises to outstrip anything the trade has hitherto imagined. Recently announcement was made by the Secretary of the Treasury that upwards of one billion dollars will be spent in building operations of every conceivable description contributing to first-class military efficiency. Included in these construction plans are the erection of storehouses, gunshops, hospitals, training camps, improvement of present military and naval bases, and land fortifications. Undoubtedly the new year will witness the most gigantic efforts toward thorough military and industrial preparedness ever conceived.

As a corollary to the Government's industrial war program arises the imminent necessity of added housing facilities for the tremendously increased number of workers in munition and supply factories. Realization of the urgent need for such building is spreading over the country and rapidly this work assumes the nature of a vital and patriotic duty. Plans are under way for wholesale construction of workmen's houses in several large shipbuilding centers, besides other cities and towns manufacturing war supplies. As the new year progresses this movement promises a remarkable volume of work.

The material markets have been generally quiet for the past few weeks and prices have held steady at the levels established. Producers have been vexed with many troubles, such as labor shortage, strikes and shutdowns because of coal scarcity. Manufacturing costs continue to rise to higher points than in many years. Supplies of the basic materials in dealers hands have been none too large, with stocks badly broken in many cases. Only an absence of active building demand has prevented a serious scarcity of supplies in and about the city. Transportation continues in a chaotic state, and many dealers have rushed to replenish their supplies of brick and lumber before the situation as regards shipping became further complicated by frozen water routes. Noticeable activity has recently occurred in wholesale buying and stacking of brick for the winter. Anticipations are that building is likely to revive considerably during the coming months, and that the spring will usher in a considerable volume of work which has been delayed by various adverse circumstances.

Architects for New Hospital.

The Board of Supervisors of Nassau County, N. Y., have retained Tooker & Marsh, architects, 101 Park avenue Manhattan, to prepare the plans and specifications for the tuberculosis hospital to be erected at Massapequa, L. I. The proposed building will be one story in height, but the dimensions are as yet undecided. The cost will be approximately $60,000. Further details of the operation will be available at a later date.

State Office Building Proposed.

Preliminary plans have been prepared in the office of State Architect Lewis J. Pilcher, Capitol, Albany, N. Y., for a State Office Building to be erected on Washington avenue. This structure will occupy the entire block front from Swan to State street, and will be eight stories in height. Definite details of this operation are not available at this time, and it is not expected that active construction will be started for some months.

Projected Long Island City Factory

The American Packing House Engineering Co., 126 Liberty street, Manhattan, has recently taken bids upon a general contract for the construction of a six-story reinforced concrete factory, 90 x 120 feet, to be occupied by the Van Iderstein Company, soap manufacturer. This structure will be located on Newtown Creek, Long Island City, and will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000. A general contract will soon be let.

Bronx Warehouse Planned.

Beverly S. King and Shiras Campbell, associated architects, 103 Park avenue, are preparing the preliminary plans for a one-story brick warehouse, 50 x 100 feet, in the north side of 238th street between Mathilda and Richards streets. This building is to be erected for Edward Caterson, owner, 17 Battery place, and will cost approximately $50,000. It is expected that the plans will be completed and the project ready for estimates on a general contract by January 25.

Million Dollar Yonkers Orphanage.

The Surdna Co., Inc., care of John Emory Andrus, president, 4 Hudson street, Yonkers, N. Y., contemplates the erection of an orphanage, probably to be constructed of reinforced concrete on Broadway, near the Hastings line. While no architect has been definitely decided upon, the tentative plans call for a large group of separate buildings. The cost of the project is expected to exceed one million dollars. Further details of construction will be available for a later issue.

Plan Addition to Newark School.

Louis Sonntag, School Architect, City Hall, Newark, N. J., is preparing plans for an extensive addition to the public school in Hawkins street, for the Board of Education, Frank H. Sommer, president. The projected addition will be three stories in height, built of brick with trimmings of stone and having ground dimensions of approximately 200 x 50 feet. The structure will provide sixteen additional class rooms, assembly room, kindergarten and two gymnasiums. The cost is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $225,000. Bids will probably be advertised about March 1, 1918.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. to Build

Plans are being prepared privately for a large factory building to be erected in Long Island City for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Richard T. Conley, New York manager, 322 Hudson street, Manhattan, owner. The structure will be located on Hunters Point avenue and will be built of brick, mill construction, one and two stories in height. According to the tentative plans the total building will have ground dimensions of 280 x 264 feet, and the two-story portion 200 x 200 feet. The cost the project is estimated to be approximately $400,000. Bids upon general contract will soon be called for.

New Hospital at Orange, N. J.

Plans are nearing completion in the offices of York & Sawyer, architects, 50 East 41st street, for the hospital to be erected at Lincoln avenue and Frankfort street, Orange, N. J. This structure will be for the use of the Orthopaedic Hospital and Dispensary of New Jersey, 148 Scotland road, Orange, N. J., owner. The proposed building will be constructed of hollow tile, stone and stucco, fireproof, and will be three stories in height, with basement. The structure will have ground dimensions of 66 x 132 feet, with extension 44 x 72 feet. Included in the project will be a gymnasium and other special rooms, in addition to the regular hospital features. Bids will soon be called for upon a general contract.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

French Purchasing Commission has moved its offices from 10 Bridge street to the American Express Building, 65 Broadway.

Pulsometer Steam Pump Company has recently established new executive offices in the Candler Building, 220 West 42d street.

P. H. Chase, who was assistant engineer with the Public Service Electric Company, of Newark, N. J., has become the electrical engineer for the American Railways Company, with headquarters at Philadelphia, Pa.

William A. Del Mar, recently assistant electrical engineer for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of New York, has become chief engineer for the Electric Cable Company and the Fairbank Electric Cable Company, Inc.

Waldo S. Coulter, until recently of the firm of Hansen & Coulter, consulting engineers, which has now dissolved, has opened offices in the Engineering Building, 29 West 39th street, as a consulting, designing and supervising engineer.

The Contractors' and Builders' Show, successor of the annual cement show, planned to be held in Chicago, February 6 to 13, has been postponed on account of the generally unsettled building situation throughout the entire country.

Cantor & Dorfman, architects, 373 Fulton street, Brooklyn, announce that they have dissolved partnership. Mr. Cantor will continue the practice of his profession at the present address and Mr. Dorfman will establish his offices at 5 Court street.

C. H. Vom Baur, after seven years' experience in the electric steel industry in various capacities, has opened an office at 30 Church street, New York, where he will practice his profession as consulting engineer and also handle the sale of an electric furnace of his own design.

The American Institute of Architects has decided not to hold its usual convention this year on account of the war. Many members have joined the colors, while others report business so uncertain that they do not feel in a position to attend the convention with its accompanying expenses.

Frank W. Hall has been appointed commercial manager of the Sprague Electric Works of the General Electric Co., New York. With the exception of a short period, Mr. Hall has been connected with the Sprague works continuously for twenty-two years in various engineering and sales capacities, and for the three years prior to his present appointment occupied the position of sales manager. D. C. Durland, former executive head of the Sprague Electric Works, has resigned to accept the presidency of the Mitchell Motors, Inc.

A Test That Talks

Mr Frederick Drewes of the well-known La Rochelle Apartments finds Edison Service a welcome economy

"During the year and a half that you have been serving us, our electric bills have been considerably less than formerly," states Mr Drewes. "Our plant cost us more to operate, and the service we were getting from it hardly compared with the steady and dependable service we are getting to-day"

The results of this eighteen months test should convince any property management still in doubt about Central Station supply. If you are still running a plant, let us furnish you with estimates on your service

The FULL PAGE Unit As An Advertising Factor

EVERY advertiser has to face and answer this complex problem: "Shall I use FULL PAGES in my campaign, or shall I spread out over more insertions and more mediums?"

The latter policy has back of it many sound arguments, and has caused many definite advertising successes. "Keeping constantly at it brings success," is sound doctrine. As John Wanamaker puts it: "Advertising is no game for a quitter."

So important is the continuity of advertising that it would seem safe to decide that full pages should not be used if they interfere with the continuous advertising campaign.

But the decision AGAINST full pages should never be made until two points are considered.

First, the POWERFUL INFLUENCE of the Full Page—and second, the possibility of finding the way to use Full Pages by arranging the regular schedule to permit it.

The INFLUENCE of the Full Page on the mind of the newspaper reader is unquestioned.

It is the biggest structure on the skyline. It is the loudest noise. It opens the readers' eyes. It is commanding in its importance. It marks the commodity as being a success because it takes the full unit of space. It does not hedge or pare off a few dollars, and thus compels full measure of respect and consideration.

It compels any reader of future smaller copy to think back to the FULL PAGE that was seen before. It gives strength and force to the whole successive campaign.

No matter what the copy or illustration, no smaller unit can have the psychological effect of the FULL PAGE.

That is why great National advertisers use FULL PAGES regularly and why many small advertisers wisely and profitably punctuate their annual campaigns with one or more FULL PAGES.

There is scarcely a small advertiser who cannot afford to use at least one FULL PAGE a season. In the light of results that others have secured any advertiser loses much by not finding the way to exploit his product, name and trademark in a FULL PAGE.

QUEENS COUNTY BRANCH OF THE ASSOCIATION OF MASTER PLUMBERS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, the Master Plumbers, Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association of Suffolk County, and the Association of Master Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters and Sheet Metal Workers of Nassau County have arranged that delegates of the different associations will attend one another's meetings and discuss the trade happenings of the three counties. Meetings such as these, where ideas and views are freely exchanged, should prove beneficial to the trade.

THE RETAIL LUMBER DEALERS' ASSOCIATION OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, Paul S. Collier, secretary, Chamber of Commerce Building, Rochester, has announced that the dates for the annual convention of that association have been fixed. The convention headquarters will be the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, N. Y., January 30, 31 and February 1, a three-day session, for which will be arranged a very interesting program of business proceedings as well as addresses on current topics of interest along with a social program which will be appropriate to the occasion and the times.

ARCHITECTURAL LEAGUE OF NEW YORK will hold its annual exhibition of architecture, sculpture, decorative and landscape design in the Fine Arts Building, 215 West 57th st, from February 3 to February 23, inclusive. This is practically the most important showing of architectural and allied arts made in this country, and it invariably attracts wide attention and calls out a large attendance of architects, draughtsmen, builders and persons having building projects in mind. The league always has various competitions in hand which serve to stimulate interest. Owing to the fact that the past year has been a dull one in the building line an effort will be made to give to the coming exhibition an unusual merit with the idea of creating a renewed interest in building work.

CLASSIFIED BUYERS' GUIDE

This department is consulted by buyers anxious to secure information, etc., concerning products they wish to purchase. These buyers represent the Owners, Managers of Estates, Building Managers, Architects, Contractors, Sub-contractors, etc., who own, manage or erect New York City Buildings.

New York City is the market place of the world. If you want to reach the buyers in this market you can do so by being listed in this department. We will print your name, address and telephone number in space of two lines under proper classification for $25.00 per year, each additional line $10.00, 10% reduction on second heading, 15% reduction on all headings amounting to three or more lines. Probably an investment of $25.00 will prove very profitable.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

(Copyright, 1917, by The Record and Guide Co.)

NEW YORK, JANUARY 12, 1918

THROUGH THE OPENING OF NEW SUBWAY BROADWAY IS BROUGHT UP-TO-DATE

It has frequently been charged against property owners that while protesting loudly against large city budgets they were not averse to clamoring for local improvements in their own particular sections. This is less true than it was formerly. It cannot, however, be said that there are many instances on record where property owners deliberately threw aside a great opportunity for obtaining a benefit for their district; one, moreover, which it is almost uniformly considered most fortunate to secure.

The middle Broadway district enjoys the unique distinction of having refused to tolerate a subway under its main artery, Broadway. It was not only willing to see this great achievement of modern times—the underground rapid transit railroad—diverted to another thoroughfare, but actually prevented its location under Broadway by protesting so loudly that the public authorities changed the plans and utilized Fourth avenue, turning west in 42d street instead of reaching Times Square by the shorter diagonal route under Broadway, past Union Square to 42d street.

Improvement Welcome.

To this extent the Broadway Subway, opened some weeks ago as far north as Union Square and extended last week to Times Square, may be said to be fifteen years behind the times, and correspondingly welcome.

A little more than twenty years ago the area south of 14th street, with Broadway as its main artery, was in an extremely flourishing condition. The hotel center was south of 23d street, and many of the hotels along Broadway, south of 14th street, were still able to retain some of their former prestige. Except in isolated cases business had not gone far beyond 25th street. If anything 14th street was a more prosperous retail thoroughfare than 23d street. Business construction, both in office and mercantile structures, had not yet passed through that evolution that has produced the modern building as we understand it today. That is to say, business housing in the area under consideration was adequate to the demands made upon it. The textile trades, silk, woolen, cotton, hosiery, underwear, knitted goods and commission houses were all centered on the area approximately between 14th and Chambers streets, mainly west of Broadway. The jobbing houses, retail specialty houses and offices were on Broadway. In the next few years some local shifting of trade took place, but this was not more than a normal movement, reflecting heavy expansion and without adverse effect on fee or rental values.

Succession of Events.

Several external events were taking place about this time, which had a more or less important local bearing. One was the repaving of Broadway. This apparently unimportant event was a serious one for middle Broadway, for the upheaval incidental to so large an undertaking directed attention to the adjacent parallel streets, including Greene and Mercer. These experienced arise in values, representing approximately what was being lost on Broadway.

Then followed the laying of cables for the cable car service. And not so very long after this came the necessary interruption, due to the change from the cable system to electric traction. Broadway each time suffered to some extent from the resultant interference with business. The limit of human endurance seems to have been reached when a new tearing up process was threatened in the late nineties.

These points are worth noting in tracing the decline in rental and fee values on so prominent a thoroughfare as Broadway and in a contiguous territory which a few years before housed a number of wholesale concerns, whose annual trade represented many millions of dollars. And taken in connection with the fact that a large majority of these wholesale concerns occupied leased quarters; that, broadly speaking, this housing was antiquated, and that owners were singularly indifferent to the need of modernizing these structures, they help to explain a condition which later became exceedingly grave.

Both the normal shifting of trade and the uptown movement of retail business began to be emphasized practically from the time that the subway was completed, in 1904. The influence of the Pennsylvania Railroad's activities were reflected between 1901 and 1905 in the creation of a new department store center, extending from Herald Square through 34th street to Fifth avenue.

When, in 1909, the notable building campaign began on Fourth avenue, from Union Square practically to 23d street, it found the old wholesale section south of 14th street unprepared to meet the competition coming from that quarter. This building campaign entirely transformed Fourth avenue, not only in its physical appearance, but also in the character of its tenantry, and it made serious inroads into the fee and rental values on middle Broadway nearly as far south as Canal street and for some blocks west.

Large vacancies were created in the territory about West 4th street, Wooster and Greene streets. The emigration of the lace, silk, ribbon, woolen and embroidery trades and of numbers of notion houses, mainly into the new Fourth avenue section left whole buildings empty. Incomes fell from 25 to 50 per cent. Lofts in Wooster and Greene streets, which brought an annual rental of $3,000, had fallen in 1913 to a $900 rental. In the vicinity of Broadway and 4th street office space in a typical building that brought $1,200 in 1912 was a little later let for $600. In some parts of this section small tradesmen and contractors secured quarters in 1913 at as low as 20 cents a square foot. In the side streets loft space for various trades was as low as 30 cents, and on Broadway 45 cents a square foot. Along Greene and Wooster streets mercantile buildings, on 25-foot lots, that in 1900 brought $50,000 went at $30,000 a dozen years later.

In the interval between the refusal of the late nineties and the subway opening last month the northerly section of this territory, between 33d and 42d streets, to and within the immediate influence of the Grand Central terminal and the Pennsylvania station, has missed the penalty through the force of circumstances—the northward trend of business and the great constructional expansion that has taken place since the first subway was started.

The lower section, from Chambers street north to beyond 23d street, has undoubtedly suffered largely from this refusal to be temporarily disturbed through the derangement of business incidental to subway construction, and later Sixth avenue lost its old-time prestige as a great retail center.

All this, however, is about to be changed; is already being changed. Having finally submitted to the inevitable and gone through, several years later than was originally planned, the throes of subway building, this interesting section of New York City is already responding to the improved transit conditions. Not only does it now enjoy, between Brooklyn or the Wall street district and Times Square, a shorter route than the older Fourth avenue subway, but it has come doubly into its own through the recent opening of the Seventh avenue subway tapping the Broadway line at Times Square, where the latter branch will continue under Seventh avenue to 59th street and across the Queensboro Bridge, with extensions into Queens.

Realty Values Improving.

It is a coincidence merely, but a satisfactory one, that even before the opening of these two subway lines—the Broadway and the Seventh avenue—property values in the middle Broadway and lower middle west side sections had been improving mainly on account of the fact that for more than a year building has been held in check and practically all forms of housing in New York City, and notably in Manhattan, are as a consequence very much in demand.

The northerly section, south of 33d street, reflects a like condition. Sixth avenue in the twenties—the old retail district—is a notable example, while the side streets are reaping large benefit from the exclusion of manufacturing from the Fifth avenue section. Much is also expected from a solution, now hoped to be within sight, of the New York Central's West Side problem.

John P. Kirwan, of John P. Kirwan & Sons, who have been closely identified with real estate in the Times Square section for many years, in speaking of the opening of the new subway said: "The new line will do much to improve realty values along Broadway. South of 42d street property has suffered because of inadequate transit facilities, though the blame for this condition rests upon the property owners themselves. They had an opportunity several years ago to obtain subway transportation, but they were bitterly opposed to the scheme. In fact, they went so far as to get out an injunction. As a result the subway was built in Elm street, and Fourth avenue, the latter thoroughfare receiving the direct benefits. The building movement of a few years ago is ample testimony of this fact.

Owners Grant Permission.

"It was not until the realization of the harm done to Broadway through this short-sighted decision was thoroughly apparent, that owners saw the errors of their ways, and then they were only too glad to grant their permission for the present line.

"I firmly believe, that as soon as the building conditions improve and financial accommodations are obtainable, there will be a reconstruction movement started in Broadway which will change the entire skyline. By this I do not mean that exceedingly tall buildings will be erected, for the Zoning Law will come into play, but I do mean that modern structures will supplant the present antiquated buildings. I have faith in Broadway and I look for an improvement in values. In fact, I am radical enough to firmly believe that as soon as the war is over that real estate will witness an activity such as has not been seen for many years.

Monroe Davis, of Folsom Brothers, said: "There is no doubt in my mind that the new subway will prove a great boon to property along Broadway and in the sections adjacent to Broadway. It is bound to bring about increased realty values and rentals. How could it do otherwise? Any improvement that will bring people nearer their homes or places of business is bound to benefit the property as well as the people. If the conditions in Brooklyn are as I expect them to be here, people from that Borough, who had to take roundabout ways to get to and from their places of business here, will benefit. I wish we had a dozen more such improvements ready or even under way. Whether the new subway will come up to expectations or not, I cannot say. I believe it will come up to my expectations, but I cannot speak for anyone but myself. Conditions of traffic have been more or less unsatisfactory for people who are engaged in business any distance from where the old subway touched, but I look for a decided improvement from now on, and with new stations to be built at streets heretofore without a subway route—these streets are bound to improve, and real estate values and rentals increase."

COMMITTEE GOES TO WASHINGTON

Representatives of the Association of Building and Allied Industries to Confer With Officials

LAST Thursday a Committee composed of members of the Association of Building and Allied Industries of New York went to Washington for the purpose of getting in closer touch with the attitude of the Government toward the building industry. Among those who went were Elliott Smith, President of the Building Material Exchange; H. H. Murdock, of Jardine, Hill & Murdock, architects; G. Osgood Andrews, representing the National Plate Glass Manufacturers' Association; Frank N. Quinby, of the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; Allan E. Beals and E. A. MacDougall, President of the Queensboro Corporation.

The Committee, which also includes other members, has had several meetings within the past two weeks, and the subject of present-day conditions, so far as the housing needs are concerned and possible remedies, has been gone over extensively. It was to get additional data that the Committee made the trip to the Capitol.

The meeting was set for yesterday and appointments were made with Senator William G. Calder, Walter E. Gifford, Director of the Council of National Defense, and Otto M. Eidlitz, Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Council of National Defense.

The recent meeting held at the rooms of the Building Trades Employers' Association, 30 West 33rd street, brought out clearly the aims and purposes of the association, and at that time many of those present stated their approval and willingness to join in the movement. A large number of delegates representing prominent organizations allied with the building industry were present, and, in answer to a roll call, stated that they were in sympathy with the work being done by the association, and would bring the matter to the attention of their respective organizations at the earliest opportunity, so that they could give their cooperation as a body. Among those who were present and favored the movement were the following:

C. A. Jackson, of the New York Chapter, American Institute of Architects; E. A. MacDougall and A. F. Mathews, of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens; Louis Gold, of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers; J. M. Wakeman and Theodore Dwight, of the Society for Electrical Development; Richard O. Chittick and H. H. Murdock, of the Real Estate Board of New York; Frank H. Quinby, of the Brooklyn Chapter, American Institute of Architects; L. W. Harrington and E. I. Johnson, of the Credit Association of New York; Professor Ira H. Woolson, of the National Board of Fire Underwriters; S. Harby Plough and W. C. Bergen, of the Builders' Protective Association; Elliott H. Smith, C. J. Curtin and George A. Molitor, of the Building Material Exchange; Hugh Getty, Frank Conover and C. G. Norman, of the Building Trades Employers' Association; Francis N. Howland, of the Material Dealers' Association; Frederick C. Zobel and A. E. Fischer, of the New York Society of Architects; Wesley C. Bush, W. C. Williams and John McKewen, of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange; Charles Burns, of the Long Island Building Trades, and Benjamin Leavin, of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman made the opening address, after having been introduced by Elliott Smith, who presided and struck the keynote of the meeting. He spoke about the necessity for the co-ordination of the different lines of the building industry, so that all those whose vocation was that of construction could join forces in an orderly manner, thereby presenting a united front, ready for such service as the Government might call upon them to perform.

"In the metropolitan zone," said Senator Ackerman in the course of his address, "building permits aggregating in excess of $200,000,000 were filed during 1916, which represent 25 per cent., or roughly so, of the building activities in the principal cities of the country. Undoubtedly the same proportion holds true for 1917, but the aggregate volume will probably be less. Such a large percentage of activity proceeding from the principal city of the Empire State must necessarily have the most impressive effect upon other cities throughout the country, and serve as a barometer of their constructive activities. Whatever we do, therefore, will be judged as expressive of the best thought of the nation, and be a standard by which the other communities of the Union may follow with profit to themselves and with patriotic uplift to the country."

In another part of his speech Senator Ackerman said: "The economic waste of the present world war is almost immeasurable, which of necessity must cause a higher level of prices than would normally exist. Therefore if those interested in any particular industry wink at profiteering or undue profits in any vocation those engaged in all other lines will necessarily have to pay in proportionate taxes for the excess profits obtained by the few associated in the particular line involved, thus unjustly and unpatriotically adding to the already great burden to the people."

"Primarily our actions are liable to influence the architects of the country, those great creators of visions which so quickly assume tangible form. Then the thousands of builders and building contractors who are anxious to prove their usefulness; then the thousands of material people, and, finally, the large army of laborers and other artisans in many lines too numerous to mention."

"If we can impress this vast army of industrial workers that we are striving to aid the Government along the lines prescribed we will be performing a service almost beyond comprehension, for we will have inculcated in the body politic cooperation founded upon the rock of truth and justice, and an endeavor built upon that foundation stands forever. When the war comes to an end let us be able to look back to our endeavors and be in a position to say: 'There has been no profiteering by the building industry in the United States.'"

Edward M. Bassett was the next speaker, and said in part: "In the zoning work that I have been connected with during the last four years I have made a rather intensive study of all of Greater New York and many districts beyond Greater New York, and, coupled with this, have an experience of twenty-five years in making mortgages, not through appraisers, but through making the examination myself, seeing whether it was good, seeing whether the timbers were right and whether the iron work was bona fide. In that way I have got possibly a somewhat practical view of these subjects of building and building materials."

"What is the problem confronting us just now? Here is the greatest need for building to house makers of all kinds of war goods, railroad equipment and supplies, and at the same time the smallest ability to take care of the workmen by building homes where they are most needed."

"The trades represented here in Greater New York are able to construct $200,000,000 worth of buildings in a year."

"Houses are needed, and are needed not an hour and a half away, but, indeed, a quarter of an hour away, because distance in a great city is measured by the time required in coming and going, and not by miles. The rapid transit system of this city is not laid out to carry people from one outlying district to another without taking them through the heart of the city and a long ride. The new industries that are going to be established in Greater New York to take care of war production will be located in the outlying parts of the city, and large industries need a great deal of land. Moreover, they must be located where they can get water and coal. They cannot be located where coal has to be hauled to them."

"Following are some spots available for this purpose: South Brooklyn, along the water front and between South Brooklyn and Coney Island; also north of Jamaica Bay, reached by the Livonia avenue rapid transit line; Astoria and along Flushing Bay, and in the Bronx, along the Southern Boulevard section, between that thoroughfare and the water. These are only a few of the available spots."

"I have a suggestion to make, but I will not go into details. The city cannot help in building homes, nor is the state going to give any effectual help. The Federal Government, however, under the constitution, is given the power of conducting war, and it is the only government in our country that is given that power. It can take a needed land, take possession of it, build upon it and make payment after the fact on some proper method of appraisal or with the help of the courts. It can actually do building if it is needed as a war measure. It could loan money to produce building. It can also take land for additions to the industrial site at a price at the beginning of the war so that the increment, which comes because houses had been erected, is not reflected."

"I think the next logical step for the quick producing of homes is for the Federal Government to take a hand in the location of these great industries, and then in building with United States money of homes for the workmen."

Annual Election Held.

The corporation of Douglas L. Elliman & Company held their annual meeting Tuesday, January 8, at the conclusion of a very successful year. In spite of the war conditions their brokerage department has shown a steady increase over previous years, and the number of buildings handled by their management department has increased over 50 per cent. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Douglas L. Elliman, president and treasurer; Roland F. Elliman, vice-president and assistant treasurer; Argyl R. Parsons, vice-president; D. Chester Noyes, secretary. Herbert A. Wildman was added to the Board of Directors.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET FOR 1917

Prices, Compared with 1916, Show
Fluctuations Month by Month

AS in other lines of industry so in building, the year 1917 has been fraught with unusual and abnormal conditions. All circumstances surrounding the building and construction industry underwent momentous changes as the year progressed and this country became deeper and deeper involved in the business of war. Early in the summer, prices of materials were accelerated in the steady upward movement, in progress for a year or more, and all kinds of materials and supplies took a sensational spurt. This movement is clearly illustrated in the accompanying table of comparative quotations. Soon came other conditions even more trying than the unstable material markets. Labor, already none too plentiful, was further diminished by the inroads of the draft, and the growing call for workers in munition plants and other Government work. Transportation facilities, none too good in the early months of the year, have grown steadily more congested as the additional demands of war traffic descended upon them.

Other factors deterrent to the normal prosecution of building operations, such as priority difficulties in obtaining materials, railroad embargoes, lack of trucking, labor and other annoying circumstances have prevailed.

Despite all these obstacles to building, which have arisen either directly or indirectly from the new war conditions, the total value of work started in 1917 shows a good volume. Much of this good showing is due to the numerous projects launched in the first part of the year, before it was definitely known that the country would be plunged into war. But even under war conditions the strength of the industry has been proven. Naturally, building and construction has undergone readjustments just as all other business, in adapting itself to war.

As compared with 1916, the residential construction started in 1917, in Greater New York, showed a decrease of 42 per cent., manufacturing buildings started an increase of 6 per cent., and miscellaneous building an increase of 22 per cent. The figures in detail were published in the Record and Guide on January 5.

As the year drew to a close the money situation became more and more of a factor tending to make building difficult. Growing scarcity of mortgage money and loans for domestic building presents one of the main obstacles to the prosecution of that full measure of construction which the demand warrants.

At a recent meeting of members of the Building and Allied Industries of New York, the question of scarcity of building and real estate money was brought up as one of the most important problems confronting the industry in its endeavor to cooperate with the Government in meeting the war demands for building. Hopes are expressed that some means of Governmental relief will be found and that the building interests in cooperation with the Government may arrive at some solution of financing much needed buiding work, which is vital to employers and employees alike. Particularly pressing is the need for a large amount of industrial housing, and because of its vital nature in this time of national stress, such work, it is agreed, should have every possible advantage.

The coming months, without question, will bring forth a large volume of such construction. The same is true of additional warehouse capacity and plant extensions which are needed in connection with increased war activity of the city's industries.

Government construction has assumed a dominating position in the local building situation, as has been the case all over the country. Aside from strictly military building work, there is a growing interest on the part of the authorities in the matter of proper housing for workmen. That there is a direct relation between proper housing of labor and efficiency in production of war supplies. This matter has already assumed national significance, and calls for quick and aggressive action on the part of all concerned.

Conditions in the market for building materials and supplies during 1917 have been characterized by sudden and unusual changes. In the first place, production of many of the basic commodities has suffered considerable loss from the untoward circumstances of fuel scarcity, inability to secure raw materials, labor shortage and lack of adequate transportation. Production of certain fundamentals, such as brick and cement, although of fairly good volume during the first half of the year, have been substantially reduced as the year progressed. Only a slackening in the number of new building operations has prevented actual shortage of supplies, and in the case of certain commodities, such as window glass, stocks have become so far depleted that difficulty in filling orders has been experienced.

Accompanying the unusual conditions, prices of materials were most unstable up to within a short time ago. Of course, the most spectacular advance was that of structural steel, which sold for $40.00 per ton on January 1, 1917, but rose to $100.80 per ton by July 1. Naturally such levels could not be maintained for long, and the market broke to $89.60 by September 1. Then came price-fixing, which definitely located the level of $67.20, at which new orders have since been placed. Because of the tremendous war demand for steel the market when allowed free play became more of an auction than anything else. Undoubtedly the steadying effect of price-regulation has exercised a beneficial influence upon all steel consuming industries. However, all kinds of steel are not subject to the heavy Government demand that has been felt for structural shapes and plates.

The brick market during 1917 underwent two distinct movements. Starting in with quotations at the $8 level, the price rose rapidly, finding a temporary resting place at the $10 mark, a point not reached since the summer of 1906. During April, May and June, quotations on common brick remained at or near this level, then started on a downward trend. At the $8 point, however, the declining tendency was checked, and prices have hovered about this mark up to last week, with occasional variations of 25 cents or 50 cents in either direction. Brick was taken out of the market at the $9 level.

The lumber market was characterized by advancing prices during the past year. Although an apparent resting place has been found at current levels, there is uncertainty in the local trade as to how long this condition will exist. Undoubtedly transportation is the all-important factor in the lumber market, as has been the case throughout 1917. A temporary relief from the congested situation would enable sellers to replenish stocks, only to be followed by a tightening up in the car shortage with the result that supplies would again become depleted and stocks badly broken. Naturally such uncertain conditions were reflected in lumber prices, which were often very erratic. A further cause of instability is found in the spasmodic nature of the demand, resulting from various requirements. Feeling is that nothing but firmness is in sight. Transportation conditions are so uncertain, and even with a bettered car supply the demand from miscellaneous sources is felt to be enough to prevent any surplus accumulation of lumber.

Window glass production for the 1917-1918 season will probably be only 50 per cent. of normal, owing to the difficulties which have been encountered. In the first place, the producing season has been curtailed by unfavorable circumstances, so that operation of the plants will continue only 16 weeks instead of 26 as normally. Labor shortage, inability to secure coal and raw materials have reduced the normal production. Taking into account the fact, also, that Belgian and German glass no longer comes to this country because of the war, it is easy to see why there is danger of real shortage. Only an absence of active building demand has prevented even greater price advances.

EXISTING NON-CONFORMING OCCUPANCIES

Uses Should Be Protected Only So Far As Is Necessary To Maintain Vested Rights of Owners

By FRANCIS P. SCHIAVONE

IF we could zone a city before it is built, and that will be possible in the future, we would have no existing non-conforming occupancies. But zoning is of a later origin than our cities and in most cases some non-conforming use will be included within a restricted district. If we were to aim at the avoidance of the non-conforming occupancy, we would have to satisfy ourselves in a city like New York with zoning only a small part of its built-up areas. The existence of the non-conforming occupancy is one of the strongest reasons for a districting plan.

In New York City there are thousands of such occupancies. In the residence districts, there are stores, industries, garages, stables. In the business zones there are nuisance industries, large garages and large stables. To escape non-conforming occupancies, it would have been necessary to create districts so small as to afford little or no protection to their neighbors. They were included, and thereupon constituted non-conforming, with the idea of gradually eliminating them.

Non-conforming uses should be protected only so far as is necessary to protect the vested rights of the owners. If the occupancies are truly non-conforming, they should be allowed only such growth as is vital to their existence, without extending their natural lease of life, or increasing their nuisance features.

Restrictions upon the use or occupancy of buildings or premises are generally drawn with reference to new uses or occupancies. They are applied chiefly to new buildings, and, somehow or other, it is thought that existing non-conforming occupancies will take care of themselves. This attitude is unfortunate. If zoning for new occupancies requires study and care, the question of existing occupancies requires study and care. They do not require, perhaps, the same degree of foresight as must be exercised in laying out zones for new uses, but unless they are wisely handled, they are going to break down the restrictions by becoming greater nuisances, or they are going to break down the restrictions through the public clamor of "confiscation." It will not do to neglect them or they will grow and spread. Neither will it do to choke them too savagely.

Experience has shown that there are many more applications for alteration permits than for new building permits. But questions about existing non-conforming occupancies, arise not only when the building is to be altered, but more often when one tenant leaves and another comes in, and the building is to remain unaltered.

Where a new building is proposed, there is usually only one question: "Is this occupancy permitted in the district?" When an existing non-conforming occupancy is to be changed, we have many questions. "Into what classification does the existing occupancy fall? May it be extended throughout its building? May it be extended by enlarging the building? May a new building be erected for it? May structural alterations be made if it is continued? May it be changed to this? Or to that? And, if changed, are extensions or structural alterations to be permitted?"

I must assume that any zoning plan will have several classes of uses or occupancies, and if it does, then practically no question as to the classification of new uses will arise, which will not spring up, in even greater variety, as to existing uses. A districting law may conceivably exclude all business from a residence district, thus treating all business alike, and it may exclude all industry from a business district, thus treating all industry alike. But if we have, in a high-class residence section, a retail drug store, a business, and if the zone plan is drawn on lines that permit of some flexibility in the interchange of non-conforming uses—we would not be doing justice to the conforming residences if we permitted the existing business, the retail drug store, to be changed into any other business, a wholesale grocery store, for instance. We would be doing equal injustice to a high-class business section if we permitted a wholesale bakery, an industry, to be changed into any other industry, a glue factory, for example. The broad classification that will serve admirably to exclude new uses will not do to govern existing non-conforming occupancies. If the full benefits of a good zone plan are to be reaped, existing uses must be graded.

Good Plan Not Drastic.

I shall assume that a good zone plan will not be so drastic as to call for the eviction of an existing non-conforming occupancy and that it will permit such occupancy to be continued under certain conditions and to be changed within certain limits. If wisely drawn such a plan will weed out, little by little, the offending occupancies. It will accomplish its object quietly and economically without violent readjustments and losses.

Under such a plan the grading of existing uses or occupancies would be done with especial reference to the degree of freedom or restriction desired. It should consider, first, the continuance of the non-conforming use; second, its extension; third, its change to another use, and fourth, the question of structural alterations.

When I speak of grading, I have in mind a series of steps, at the top of which would be the most offensive use or class of use, and at the bottom the least offensive. With such a series it would require but few words to draft a provision to permit an interchange among the uses on any step, or permit a change of a use on one step with a use on a step below. Such a provision, prohibiting an occupancy to go up a step in the scale of nuisance values, and encouraging improvement whenever a change is made, will be in full accord with the spirit of effective zoning.

Such is the ideal, to be worked out by each community for itself and for each of its zones. But as is true of all ideals, it is beset by certain cold, hard facts that cannot be ignored and certain problems that cannot go unsolved.

Trade Problems.

Our first concern is with the characteristics of the medium in which we are working. I may state it in one word as change, change with time, change with place, change with management. A process of manufacture may be obnoxious today, but may be freed tomorrow of its disagreeable and dangerous features by some improvement in the art.

A trade that is a nuisance in one place may be appropriate in another. Under one method of management, it may be offensive to all the organs of sense; under another, quite harmless.

Considering it in the absolute, there is no nuisance feature that may not be made inoffensive. Smoke, dust, odor, gas, and even noise may all be brought within control. They become nuisances, through waste and inefficiency.

Smoke is the result of incomplete combustion. If we were able to gather in all the products of combustion and to utilize them, we need never be bothered with smoke. It may not be profitable now to utilize all the ingredients of smoke, but considered absolutely, smoke is waste.

Dust is the result of the incomplete utilization of materials. The dust that rises from a stone crusher is stone, just as the dust of gold is gold. In many industries, dust is gathered by fans and blowers and utilized economically. In such cases it does not constitute a nuisance.

Odor may be either a gas, a liquid or a solid finely divided. Gas is the result of the incomplete utilization of materials. It is the result often of waste. Millions of dollars worth of usable material annually escapes through the doors and windows and chimneys of factories. Of late, we are learning to use, as by-products, the gas that is produced by major manufacturing processes. Fumes that used to blight a whole district in the neighborhood of a copper smelter are now utilized to produce hundreds of tons of sulphuric acid a day. The fumes are a nuisance no more.

Noise is not always, but often, the result of the inefficient utilization of energy. Machines that once were noisy to distraction are now practically unheard, witness a good motor car. The noisier a set of gears are, the more wasteful usually. Well-designed gears, bearings and shafts are not noisy. Even the noise of a compressed air hammer can be muffled, though the production of noise would seem to be inseparable from its operation.

Having to deal with a subject so dressed in accidental characteristics, we must see to it that we classify or grade, according to essentials only, and that our grading is susceptible of change, to keep pace with a change of fact.

We must grade by principal uses and not by secondary. When I make this distinction, I have in mind many borderline cases that have come within our experience in connection with New York's Zone Law.

For instance, in a residence district the New York Zone Law permits the erection of hotels having thirty or more sleeping rooms. Is such a hotel permitted to operate a restaurant, a cloak room, a barber shop, a billiard room, etc.?

Philanthropic and eleemosynary institutions are also permitted in a residence district. But should we permit a home for the blind to operate a printing and embossing plant to manufacture books for the blind?

A garage, for five cars or less, is also permitted in a residence district, provided it is the accessory of a residence on the same lot. Does this permit the erection of a building to house four cars on the ground floor and providing a smaller floor area in the second story for dwelling purposes?

Public museums are permitted in residence districts. Does this provision include a picture gallery open to the public? Occasionally a picture may be sold after it has been on view, but is it not rather a public museum than a business?

Is it true that a large clothing factory should be classified, with regard to noise, as in the same class as a saw mill just because it may operate a saw in its basement for the occasional cutting of wood for boxing its shipments?

The grading should draw a distinction between chief and accessory uses, between those that are important and those that are not. There is practically no establishment that does not, upon an analysis of all its operations, seem to fall within several classes at once. The jeweler may appear to operate a foundry and a machine-shop because he melts and casts metal, he grinds, turns, bores, tempers and plates; but he should not therefore be put in the same class as those establishments that emit smoke, dust and gas and rend the air with screech and clang and rattle.

Each community must do its grading in accordance with its special needs. It must determine how long it will permit its non-conforming occupancies to exist. If their life is to be short it will permit no structural alterations of the buildings housing them. It must

NEW YORK MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION—SCARCITY OF COAL CAUSES CONFUSION

LAST Tuesday the New York Building Managers' Association held its annual meeting, and the following officers were elected: William T. Ropes, of Horace S. Ely & Company, president; Charles B. Best, with the Van Beuren & Spingler Estates, vice-president; Lee T. Smith, of Pease & Elliman, treasurer, and Raymond P. Roberts, of Harris & Vaughan, secretary.

The following members of the Executive Committee were elected: Bernard E. Martin, representing the Havemeyer Estate; Jerome G. Young, of Albert B. Ashforth, Inc.; J. Clydesdale Cushman, of Cushman & Wakefield, Inc.; M. Sloman, of Bing & Bing, and R. W. Murray, of Douglas L. Elliman & Company.

Just after the first of the year an order was received from Albert H. Wiggin, New York State Fuel Administrator, relative to the reduction of light and heat for buildings. The order is as follows:

Office Buildings.

1. No live steam to be used for heating between 7 p. m. and 7 a. m.
2. No live steam to be used for heating on Sundays and holidays except that which is necessary to keep pipes from freezing.
3. To cut down all electric lighting in the offices, hallways, etc., 25 per cent.

Apartments.

1. To discontinue all use of live steam for laundries, refrigerating plants, drying rooms, tubs and vacuum cleaners.
2. All outside lighting to be discontinued excepting necessary lights for areaways and courtyards.
3. To cut off all live steam used for heating between the hours of 11 p. m. and 6 a. m.
4. To cut down all electric lighting in apartments, hallways, etc., 25 per cent.

Hotels, Clubs and Restaurants.

1. To cut off all outside lighting except necessary lights in areaways and courts.
2. Shut off all live steam for heating from 11 p. m. to 6 a. m.
3. To cut down all electric lighting in all rooms, halls, etc., 25 per cent.

Stores, Lofts and Mercantile Buildings.

1. In stores, lofts and mercantile buildings no live steam for heating shall be used between the hours of 6:30 p. m. and 6:30 a. m.
2. No live steam to be used for heating on Sundays or holidays.
3. To cut down all electric lighting 25 per cent.
4. Interior show window lighting shall be prohibited after 7 p. m. excepting such lighting as is necessary for protection of property.

The above recommendations concerning heating to apply to all classes of buildings when the thermometer is 10° above zero outside. When the temperature is lower sufficient heat may be provided for the protection of pipes.

There was some question in the minds of some members of the association whether the order was to be construed as a recommendation or to be considered absolute. In order to clear up this question a letter was sent to State Fuel Administrator Wiggin, and the following is his reply:

"I have your letter of today with reference to the order dated January 2 affecting the reduction of light and heat in buildings. This order is not to be construed as a recommendation, which may or may not be accepted by those to whom it is directed, but it is to be considered as an absolute order of the United States Fuel Administration, obedience to which is required. Of course this does not mean, however, that there may not be exceptional circumstances or conditions under which the order may be deviated from. When such exceptional conditions or circumstances arise, and it is desired not to comply with the order, appeal should be made for such authority, or the person disobeying the order must only do so with the assurance that he will be able to defend such action. In other words, if the party disobeying can make a case of such disobedience of course no harm will result to him. You appreciate that the only way to cover this sort of a situation is by a general rule, and you also appreciate that there are also circumstances to which no general rule can apply."

In its report the association makes the following statement: "Deliveries of coal during the past week have been spasmodic. Many buildings have been shut down for various periods, and the exceptionally cold weather has played havoc with sprinklered buildings, and it has been necessary to drain the systems. Coal companies offer no encouragement for relief. The New York Steam Company has been unable to keep up their pressure.

"The Fuel Administration advises the association that New York City cannot expect much better than 60 per cent. of its usual requirement for the balance of the winter. This necessitates drastic action being taken in fuel conservation.

NON-CONFORMING USES.

determine whether they may be extended throughout the building or into another building. It must define how far a non-conforming occupancy may be changed into another.

So, too, it must grade its industries and uses, to which property may be devoted, in accordance with its own special requirements. The order of nuisance values, appropriate in a manufacturing or mining city, might not be appropriate for a town in a farming center.

At the head of the list for a city like New York would appear generally those industries which are most obnoxious on account of the emission of noise, dust, odor or gas. Next in order might be placed the storage or handling of materials that are offensive for like reasons.

A third class of industry might include manufacturing which, as a process, might be unobjectionable, but which, because of its size, carting, etc., might not be permitted in a restricted district. It would usually have no relation as a producer to its immediate neighborhood.

There is a fourth class of industry, etc., which would fall into one of the above classes if we considered only its nuisance features. It may be, however, of local necessity. It may be a garage or stable, for instance, offensive by reason of noise and odor and as objectionable as a slaughter house of equal size. But the garage or stable may be needed as a convenience in the neighborhood, while the slaughter house might as well be a mile away. In this class of local conveniences might also be included the small shops conducted by mechanics for the repair of buildings, furniture, etc.

"It is the opinion of the Attorney-General that the Board of Standards and Appeals has jurisdiction and power conferred upon it with reference to Sub-Divisions one, two, three, eight, nine and ten, Section 79-E, of the Labor Law, all of which relates to the number of persons who may be employed, permitted or suffered to work on any one floor. This section of the Labor Law allows for additional occupants in factory buildings under certain conditions over and above those for which exit facilities are provided.

"The Legislative Committee is still in conference with the Real Estate Board in relation to suggested amendments to the Labor Law, particularly affecting the definition of a factory, locked doors, hot water and soap, exit lights, responsibility of agents, and the removing of responsibility of owners and placing it with tenants under certain sections of the law.

"At a meeting of the Board of Hazardous Trades, Fire Department, held on December 29, the following resolution relating to the modification of stand pipe requirements as to hose was adopted and approved by the commissioner:

"Matter of request of the New York Building Managers' Association, 31 Nassau street, for waiver of requirements for hose in certain buildings. This matter had been considered by the Board at a previous meeting, after which it was agreed that the applicants could present a list of the buildings in which this waiver was requested. At the meeting today Chief Hammitt presented a letter from Mr. Arthur C. Bang, Chairman of the Department Orders Committee of this association, submitting premises 681 Fifth avenue, 404 Fourth avenue, 154 West 14th street, 209 West 38th street and 594-596 Broadway for consideration. Chief Kenlon stated that before acting upon the request it would be desirable to have a complete inspection made of each building, whereupon the matter was referred to the chief of department for further investigation and report."

Under the heading of business we might exclude from a residence zone all kinds of new trade occupancies indiscriminately, but when we have to deal with existing uses we must seek finer distinctions.

In a first group of the more objectionable classes might be put the wholesalers, the storage warehouses, those stores that have some manufacturing accessory to them and stores selling products offensive by reason of dust or odor.

In a second group might be placed other business occupancies, especially those that serve their immediate localities.

In all this grading of nuisance values, or inappropriateness, we must keep in view this question of local necessity. We can be more lenient towards those occupancies which are a convenience to their neighborhood than towards those that serve a distant population.

The method of classification I have outlined may appear to lack simplicity. No doubt simplicity is much to be desired and should be a characteristic of every zone law, but simplicity in wording may involve complexity in thought; may lead to endless doubt. In the real estate field nothing is so deadly as doubt. It enervates the whole life of a community. It depreciates values; it hampers sales; it makes mortgage loans unobtainable.

Simplicity of restrictive classifications may be required by the necessity for having some restriction adopted and having it sustained by the courts, and perhaps you will have to bow to it for a time. But once a zone law has been enacted, and once a city or town has become educated to the advantages of such a law, nothing should stand in the way of a clear, logical and appropriate classification of existing occupancies.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

"Laying the Ghost to Rest."

The present depression in the construction industry is due, in no small way, to the continued preachments of various individuals, some of them connected with the national Government, that industries not directly employed in war work were "non-essential" at this time, might be dispensed with; and one or two men have not hesitated to state that it was "a good thing there is a depression in the building industry"; that "there are plenty of buildings" and that "all construction not directly useful in the conduct of the war should be stopped."

This policy, which at one time went so far as to suggest the issuing of Government permits to build, had the further effect of frightening the makers of building materials with the fear they might be prevented from carrying on their businesses; that they might be classed as "non-essential industries," with the result of a general disposition on their part to sit tight and await the fall of the axe. In the meantime they have prepared to curtail their efforts to get business, and have been naturally in a pessimistic mood. One man said, in connection with a proposed publicity program involving the expenditure of $100,000 or more, that "we are going to wait to see whether we shall be classed as a 'non-essential' before we go ahead, and are not going to make any contracts that might not be cancelled at a moment's notice."

Several times there has come from somewhere in Washington the statement that a list of "non-essential" industries had been made, and there were threats that the list would be published and action taken by the Government to stop their activities. At one time it was stated that this list comprised "over 500 industries" and that it had been prepared and submitted to the Government by the railroads. The list never was published and no action was taken except the issuing of several temporary priority orders affecting the transportation of materials, in favor of food, fuel and munitions, and these orders are now vacated, since the Government has taken control of the transportation lines. The policy is now to move all freight in regular order, giving preference at the present time, of course, to fuel.

On January 9, the Fuel Administration at Washington issued a statement which must have a good effect on "non-war" industries, and especially on the many units of the construction industry. In fact, it marks a turn in the affairs of the country because it "lays the ghost" of the fear of action that would have resulted in stagnation for a large part of the construction industry, and now people can make plans for continuing in business, although not to the extent that might be possible in normal times.

This upset has been psychological in character and fortunately has occurred during the winter, when the building industry is largely dormant. With the coming of spring the demand for coal will be less and with the betterment of transportation conditions we can look forward to probably better times for the construction industry than it has enjoyed for months past. People's minds will again be on building, the Government financial program is better understood, and we are accustomed to its effects on normal business. The Government is apparently getting down to a sound basis in handling industrial matters, and realizes that even "non-war" industries must continue during the war. A proper understanding of the true economic needs of this country is gradually developing; people are thinking more clearly, and the results are manifest to all.

One of the features of the Governmental program is cooperation, and in this respect the authorities at Washington are not making any mistake. A conference will be called at the Capital at which representatives from more than one hundred industries, not engaged in war work, will be in attendance. The coal situation will be gone over in its entirety; the amount of coal available, the amount required by the Government for the prosecution of the war and also by private consumers, and the total curtailment of coal which will be necessary in order that these demands can be satisfied.

At the conference the representatives of these industries will be appealed to upon patriotic grounds to curtail their requirements as much as is consistent, and it will be shown to them that this course will redound to their own benefit. It is anticipated that about 50,000,000 tons of coal will thus be saved during the current year. The army and navy and those engaged in war work will be the only ones to receive their full requirements.

The statement issued by the Fuel Administrator says in part: "Industries, sometimes mis-called non-essential industries, are the backbone of the country's economic system. These industries have never objected to any curtailment of coal or material or men which could be shown to be necessary to win the war. It was the indefinite threat of annihilation by restrictive orders which during the last two or three years has alarmed the leaders of business and finance.

"It is believed the operation of this plan to voluntary conservation on the part of non-war industries will forever lay the 'ghost' of the 'cut-off the non-essential industries' agitation, which has been going on since the United States entered the war, and automatically will balance the relation between the production and consumption of coal and prevent any repetition of the present coal shortage.

"Other industries whose representatives have been to Washington already are paint and varnish, wall paper, confectionery, artificial ice, boxboard and glassware. The voluntary reduction of one day's running per week on the part of boxboard manufacturers amount to 1,000,000 tons a year and will take 30,000 carloads of merchandise freight off the congested railroads.

"An order of the Fuel Administration, backed by the authority and penalties of the Lever Law, will compel an equal compliance by every member of each industry, and would assure those who would gladly make their share of the sacrifice that no advantage will be taken of their patriotism by unscrupulous competitors. All are placed on the same basis."

New Subway Link in Operation.

Last Saturday morning, just before noon, an additional link of the Metropolitan system of rapid transit was officially placed in operation. At the first stroke of the clock, the facilities of the Broadway Subway, from Times Square to Whitehall street, were placed at the disposal of waiting passengers. The operation of trains on this extension ended a long period of waiting, with many promises of relief, followed by disappointments, with a confusion above ground during the years of construction that proved costly to the business interests located on Broadway and that seriously affected property values. The owners of real estate and the business concerns located in close proximity to this route are particularly gratified by the commencement of operation, as the line will draw thousands of people to the district and in general will change the business outlook for them.

For many months vehicular and pedestrian traffic along Broadway has been sadly interrupted by the congestion caused by the construction of this new traffic artery. Broadway business men and the owners of real estate have suffered patiently, but soothed with the knowledge that after the confusion of building would follow an era of comparative peace and improved business, and that there would ultimately return to them the benefits of greater business opportunities and an increase in the value of their realty holdings. The commencement of operation of the Broadway extension will unquestionably be instrumental in bringing about this added prosperity for the district tapped by the line, and thus it was with gratification and hope that the Public Service Commission, officials of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the Broadway Association and the Brooklyn Civic Club combined in celebrating the opening of the line last Saturday.

The Broadway Subway, to Times Square, is a traffic medium of paramount importance to the residents of Brooklyn who will now be rendered a quicker and more convenient service from their home Borough, to the business, club, theatre, hotel and shopping centers of Manhattan. The time of transit from Brooklyn to Times Square has been materially lessened and the comfort of the new cars with their adequate seating arrangements and the large open spaces for standees are a great improvement over the crowded conditions that have maintained for a long time on the existing lines.

In addition, the operation of this extension brings the entire Dual System of rapid transit nearer to its ultimate goal of completion. By this additional facility Wall street and the financial section is but fifteen minutes distant from Herald Square. The current of uptown traffic will be changed, and the change will prove of material value and benefit to the business and real estate interests along Broadway and its tribuary streets. By virtue of this extension it is only reasonable to presuppose that property values, that have so long been dormant, where not actually declining, will enhance and return to their former solidarity. The prediction has been made that they should substantially increase.

Transportation problems of Greater New York are increasing at a more rapid rate than the municipality is able to dispose of them by providing additional facilities for the traveling public. The population of the city is rapidly increasing and a new transit artery is no sooner opened to the public than its facilities are taxed to the limit and seemingly without relieving the lines that formerly carried the burden. This proves conclusively that the city officials and the Public Service Commission still have a monumental task ahead of them in solving the difficult problems presented by the transportation situation and that every facility must be utilized and no effort spared to hasten the construction and completion of the projected extensions that are called for by the city's comprehensive rapid transit plan.

Favors City Record.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

As I have not seen any answer to Mr. Ramsay's letter, appearing in your issue of December 29, I take the liberty of drawing attention to the distinct advantages of the annual publication in the City Record of the final assessed real estate valuations, even though necessarily published after the opportunity to protest or effectively to point out inequalities for correction has passed. The greatest value for such a publication might be attained if upon the opening of the books on October 1, the tentative valuations then first made public could be at once printed in ample time for circulation prior to the expiration of the time for filing objections, but as this date is now fixed for November 15, the intervening time is insufficient for that purpose.

On the other hand the publication of the final assessed valuations (fixed on the February 1 following) which evidently goes to press at once and is available for distribution early in May (not August as Mr. Ramsay mistakenly states) just at the time that the rank and file of taxpayers are getting ready to pay their May tax bills, and become interested in a comparison of the amount of their assessed valuations as compared with neighbors and contiguous or related sections, enables them to protest to the assessors then engaged in fixing the following year's valuations, and thus prevent the continuance of any assessments which may be unfair.

I fully agree with Mr. Ramsay that it would be better to leave out the names of the alleged owners entirely, and if this be done the printed copy might well find room for the much more important item of "dimensions of building" which is now omitted. B. D. E.

Conservation of Coal.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I note the Government Coal Administration is advising consumers how to save coal. This advice, if it could be readily applied, would to some extent conserve fuel used for domestic purposes if these instructions were practical or comprehensible to the average mind. I note, however, the public is advised to consult experts when in doubt of its own initiative to supply some measure of economy in the consumption of fuel.

For the past ten years more attention has been given to economic heating of buildings of every kind than for twenty years prior to that time when fuel was comparatively reasonable in cost to the gradually but continually increasing price up to date. But habits of waste have become so fixed that opinions of experts have only received attention from those who have been looking forward to a still higher cost and those about to install new heating apparatus and not all of the latter.

Heating is a science that has received much attention and thought by those engaged in the profession or business of installing heating apparatus designed to be healthful as well as a utility of comfort. Much progress has been made that has resulted in both directions.

There are many systems in use, but the most primitive as well as the most economical is a stove set in the room or rooms to be warmed. The temperature of the stove may be raised to almost any degree from 90 to 500 degrees Fahrenheit, a scope far beyond any other efficient heating medium. The stove heats the air of the room or rooms to any comfortable degree to suit the occupants. It also consumes the air of these rooms to create combustion in the fire chamber to such an extent that a higher degree of temperature is necessary to comfort than any other medium of heating except the gas or oil stove or radiators that consume a very large proportion of the 27 per cent. of oxygen contained in the air, as without oxygen no combustion can take place and no heat can be generated. Life cannot long survive in a tightly closed room warmed by a coal, gas or oil heater, the fuel of which will only burn while enough oxygen remains to continue combustion. The person or persons remaining in the room who also consume oxygen would unconsciously drop to sleep and die of asphyxiation, so that much caution should be used in the use of stoves, gas or oil heaters.

Probably the most wasteful heating apparatus is the hot air furnace that takes its air supply or heating medium direct from outside the building to be warmed. This air at outdoor temperature is passed over the heating surface of the furnace into the rooms to be warmed to a comfortable temperature of about 65 to 70 degrees. A lower temperature is comfortable if the air is moistened by placing a vessel of water in contact with the heating surface which has the effect of restoring some degree of humidity to the air after it has passed over the hot surface of the furnace. This would also apply to heating apparatus located in the rooms using coal, gas or oil fuel.

A great saving could be made by circulating the air within the house by closing the cold or fresh air intake to the furnace and cutting an opening in the outer jacket of the furnace near the base. This opening should be equal in area to the cold air intake. Then cut a register opening in the floor above the furnace so that the air from the rooms may find its way to the opening at the base of the furnace by gravity; opening cellar door leading to the furnace in cellar from the upper portion of the house will do as well.

Indirect steam heat, which is also very extravagant in the consumption of fuel, may be treated in the same manner as the hot air furnace by closing the cold air supply from the encased indirect radiators in the cellar and drawing the air down from the rooms above.

The low pressure steam heating apparatus with radiators located in the rooms, when carefully installed and managed, is probably the most economical for large buildings such as office, loft, factory and apartment. Hot water heating with direct radiators located in the rooms is probably the most economical for house heating. This method must also receive careful attention in detail of construction and firing. Care should also be used in closing the valves on hot water radiators to avoid leaving the rooms without heat in zero weather. If the water in the radiator should freeze much damage might be done the house and furniture.

Under the law regulating the ventilation of school buildings, large quantities of fuel must be burned to raise the temperature of the air taken direct from outside to a comfortable degree. The cost for fuel to ventilate school buildings probably exceeds the cost of heating the buildings by direct radiation. In very cold weather, but few, if any, of the

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 297.—What clauses should be incorporated in leases of manufacturing loft buildings to protect owners in regard to locked doors and night and Sunday work, as covered by the Labor Law? A. V. T.

Answer No. 297.—Section 94 of the Labor Law provides * * * "Except as in this article otherwise provided, the person or persons, company or corporation conducting or operating a factory whether as owner or lessee of the whole or of a part of the building in which the same is situated or otherwise, shall be responsible for the observance and punishable for the non-observance of the provisions of this article, anything in any lease or agreement to the contrary notwithstanding." The concluding clause of the provision answers the foregoing question in my opinion. The relief desired may be accomplished only by appropriate legislation.

modern school buildings are equipped with sufficient direct heating surface to warm the class rooms adequately if the indirect heating used for ventilation were shut off.

The prime factor of combustion in any heat generator is oxygen to feed the fire. This is often overlooked entirely. A considerable volume of air is absolutely necessary, the volume of course depending on the area of the grate and the amount of fuel required to raise the temperature of the building to be warmed. An air supply direct from the outside to the underside of the grate with a proper damper for regulation is the surest way to get proper air supply for combustion. A good draft is also very essential to every type of heat generator. The large sizes of coal require less draft than the small sizes and burn more rapidly. By covering a fire of large coal with pea or chestnut at night and in moderate weather a considerable saving will be made in the total quantity burned. The small size of coal is more liable to contain a greater number of heat units per pound than the large size. This is especially true at this time when owing to the demand less care can be given to sorting at the mines.

I am of the opinion that it will be necessary, if present conditions continue, to establish an education of conservation in fuel before much progress is made in the direction of economy.

Brooklyn Board Increases Rates.

Following the recent action of the Real Estate Board of New York in increasing real estate brokerage rates in Manhattan the Brokerage Board of Real Estate Brokers this week announced the following rates for the Borough of Brooklyn:

Sales $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. instead of 1 per cent. The rate for country property will remain at 5 per cent., while the commission for rentals will take an upward stride. For the first year the rate will be 3 per cent. instead of $2\frac{1}{2}$, and for the second year $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. instead of 1 per cent., and $2\frac{1}{2}$ for the third year instead of 1 per cent., and 1 per cent. for each additional year.

For the management of property, such as collecting rent, care of repairs, etc., the rate will remain at 5 per cent.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Grossman Holdings Bring Small Prices— Few Properties Sold at Private Treaty

THE most important happening of the week, though its effect has not yet been felt, is the opening of the Broadway subway line, from Union Square to Times Square. The section of the line taps an important section of the thoroughfare, and should do much to maintain values for the present, and ultimately enhance them. The effect will also be felt in the adjacent side streets.

In the sales market the deal involving the Kenilworth apartment, at the north corner of Central Park West and 75th street, was of interest. Deals involving $1,000,000 have been scarce during the past few weeks, so judging it from this standpoint it could be regarded as an encouraging sign.

In the auction room a fair-sized attendance greeted M. Morgenthau when he opened the sale of the Grossman estate properties. These parcels were located for the most part on the lower East Side and in the Bronx. The prices obtained were low, the entire offering bringing only $323,000. The assessed valuations aggregated $370,500.

Announcement was made during the week of the bankruptcy of Clarence Payne, who was active in Manhattan realty during the past two years. Through a series of transactions Mr. Payne became the owner of a number of choice parcels, and the receivers, Henry Brady and Robert C. Knapp, will take immediate charge so that the assets may be conserved.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, as mortgagee in possession, took over a few weeks ago the Verona apartment house, a twelve-story structure at 32 East 64th street, southeast corner of Madison avenue, and the twelve-story apartment house at 140 West 79th street. This action was taken because Mr. Payne failed to pay the interest and taxes due last November.

Another of Mr. Payne's holdings was the Sonoma, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 55th street, which was bought last May and is now in process of foreclosure to satisfy a third mortgage. Mr. Payne still holds 383 Park avenue, another twelve-story apartment house, which was his first large purchase in the city; also land at Woodmere, L. I. Mr. Payne was the owner of the Postal Life Building, at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and 43d street, and it is reported that he cleared $100,000 on the transaction.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Lessor's Election to Buy.

A LESSOR had the right to buy a building erected on the premises at the termination of the lease or to renew the lease. The tenant held over, and the lessor, without having elected, sued the lessee in an action to recover the property, alleging a subletting without the owner's consent. The New York Appellate Division holds, Trustees, etc., Society v. Connell, 167 N. Y. Supp. 48, that it was error to grant possession to the lessor because of breach of a covenant of subletting. But a counterclaim by the lessee for the value of the building, without demanding the lessee to elect, was held properly dismissed.

Lessee's Liability.

A written lease provided that no alteration should be made on the premises without the written consent of the lessor. The lessor subsequently sued the lessee to recover money expended by the lessor in removing at the end of the lease a structure erected on the premises by the lessee, whereby the lessee agreed to remove the structure at the termination of the tenancy. It was held, Sans Louci Park v. Anderson, 202 Ill. App. 118, that the lessee could not defend on the ground that the oral agreement was not binding, as being in violation of the terms of the lease, since the provision that the written consent of the lessor should be obtained was for the protection of the lessor and could be waived by it; and the lessee was held liable for the cost of removing the structure.

Liquidated Damages.

A lessee covenanted in his lease in addition to his covenant to pay rent that he would expend at least $5,000 within a certain time in remodeling and improving the building on the leased premises, and executed a bond stated to be "in the penal sum" of that amount. In an action on the bond it was held, Giesecke v. Cullerton, 203 Ill. App. 287, that the words "penal sum" used therein had no determinative effect, and the amount named in the bond was liquidated damages and not a penalty; distinguishing the case from one where the damages were easily ascertainable. Here there appeared to the court no reason why the parties might not agree that the amount of damages in the event of a breach should be the full amount of $5,000.

Mortgage or Absolute Sale.

The Arkansas Supreme Court, in Crebs v. Fulbright, 198 S. W. 124, held that the following facts established a grantee's contention that the contract was an absolute one. A written contract was entered into between the parties to the effect that should the grantee at any time conclude to sell the property, the grantor was given the refusal to buy it. The person who possessed the property when the deed passed was persuaded by the grantor to vacate upon representation that the grantor had sold the property in good faith to the grantee. The title papers were turned over to the grantee by the grantor when he delivered the deed and possession of the real estate to the grantee. The grantee paid all the taxes on the property after the delivery of the deed.

Contract Obligation.

In an action for breach of a contract for the exchange of lands it appeared that the plaintiff fully executed his part of the contract, but the defendant failed to furnish an abstract showing his title to be good, as required by the contract. The plaintiff thereafter entered into a contract with a third person for the exchange of the same lands he was to receive from the defendant, which contained a like provision that the plaintiff should furnish an abstract showing the title to said lands to be good. It is held, Miller v. Mayberry, 203 Ill. App. 58, that the second contract did not abrogate the first, and the defendant was not relieved from his obligation under the first contract to furnish an abstract showing good title merely by reason of the second contract.

Action for Rent.

It is held, Driscoll v. Myers (Cal.) 168 Pac. 145, that an agreement to indemnify a lessee for losses on account of buildings put up on a long lease, due to unsettled business conditions, cannot be set up in defense of an action of detainer for rent, because the loss could not be determined until the end of the lease.

NO BOARD BANQUET.

Benefit on March 3, at Hippodrome, for War Camp Community Service, Instead.

ON account of the unusual conditions now prevailing over the entire world, the Banquet Committee of the Real Estate Board of New York deems it advisable to forego the Twenty-second Annual Banquet, which was to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria, on Saturday, February 2, 1918. The committee felt that the money spent at this banquet could be put to better use in these times of stress; and with that thought in mind, after most careful consideration, decided, with the approval of the Board of Governors, to have a benefit performance at the New York Hippodrome, under the auspices of the Real Estate Board, Sunday evening, March 3, 1918, at which there will be many special features, announcement of which will be made later. The net proceeds of this performance will be donated to the War Camp Community Service of the City of New York, with National Headquarters at Washington, D. C., and to the New York Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society, with National Headquarters at Washington, D. C.

The War Camp Community Service of the City of New York is composed of prominent men and women of this city, whose object is to provide at a minimum cost comfortable lodging, good meals, and the proper kind of entertainment to the many thousands of young men who come from all parts of the United States, and have to stop here while going to or from the different training encampments; and in many cases, subject to immediate call for service abroad. It is estimated that at least 150,000 of these men spent part of their off duty time in this great city.

The Navy Relief Society, which is the Official Relief Organization of the United States Navy, and its New York Auxiliary, are composed of many prominent men and women, whose object is to provide relief for the dependents of enlisted men, seamen and marines, who have given their lives for their country. At the present time 260,000 of these men are in active service. The task of both organizations is a large and important one, but it is being handled in a splendid way by these patriotic men and women, and the Board feels it an honor to subscribe to such worthy objects.

To Aid Red Cross.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens have decided to appropriate the sum of money now being raised, through subscriptions of its members toward the Red Cross in lieu of holding its Seventh Annual Dinner, to the "Home Service Section" of the American Red Cross in Queens Borough for the administration to the needs of the families of soldiers. The fund has already reached nearly $1,000.

H. P. Williams, vice-president of the Chamber, who is chairman of the Legal Aid Committee of the Queens County Bar Association, urges not only those members of the Chamber of Commerce who have not as yet sent in their subscriptions, but every man and woman in Queens to subscribe generously toward this splendid work, which is keeping together the families of soldiers who are away fighting to protect the United States.

Sells Interest in Firm.

Charles L. Gilbert has resigned as president of Noah Clark, Inc., and has sold his interest to Robert E. Patterson, who will conduct the business of the corporation from its sole office at 837 Manhattan avenue, as the Morgan avenue and Nostrand avenue offices will be discontinued. Mr. Gilbert will give his entire attention to his clientele at his new office at 753 Nostrand avenue, where he will engage in a general real estate, mortgage and insurance business on his own account.

New Corporation.

Douglas L. Elliman & Company and Herbert A. Wildman, who was for twelve years associated with Pease & Elliman, Inc., as vice-president, and with Pease & Elliman Agency as president, have formed a new corporation for the sole purpose of carrying on a general insurance business at 414 Madison avenue. This new corporation will give its entire attention to the insurance field and will offer its clients every facility equal to that offered by a downtown office. Mr. Wildman, who will head the new corporation, has had more than twenty years' experience in the insurance business and is known as one of the most competent men in the uptown insurance field.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 18, as against 23 last week and 36 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 5, as compared with 7 last week and 8 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 13, as compared with 16 last week and 28 a year ago.

From the Bronx 7 sales at private contract were reported, as against 7 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 49 of this issue.

Kenilworth Apartment Sold.

The Kenilworth apartment house, at the north corner of Central Park West and 75th street, has been sold. Title to the property is held by the Kenilworth Holding Company, in which Jacob A. Zimmerman is interested. The structure is twelve stories high, fireproof and fronts 102.2 feet on Central Park West and has a street frontage of 123.9 feet. Adjoining, at the 76th street corner, is the Church of the Divine Paternity, Universalists. On the west side are dwellings, which serve to give uninterrupted light and air. There are three apartments on a floor containing nine and ten rooms each, with three baths. The aggregate annual rental is about $115,000. The building was erected by Saxe & Coon under the title of the Lenox Realty Company. The company transferred the property in 1911 to J. Frederick Williams, who conveyed it the same year to the selling company. At the present time the Kenilworth carries mortgages aggregating $1,000,000. The new owner is the Nason Realty Company, headed by Max N. Natanson, who acquires the property in an exchange deal at a valuation of $1,250,000. In trade the buyer gave, in addition to cash, 2300 to 2303 Broadway and 229 West 83d street, comprising the northeast corner of those thoroughfares, and consisting of three five-story apartment houses and a two-story building on plot fronting 102.7 feet on Broadway and 114 feet in the street, valued at $450,000. Byrne & Baumann, as brokers, arranged the transaction. The Kenilworth occupies a plot 102.2 x 123.9, and is arranged with three apartments to a floor, and returns an annual return of about $115,000. Mr. Natanson's company bought the Broadway corner last September from the Peter Doelger Brewing Company.

Sale Near Fort Washington Park.

David Stewart sold the Kingsley homestead, on Riverside drive, facing Fort Washington Park, to an unnamed purchaser. The seller was Mrs. Susan B. Kingsley, wife of William M. Kingsley, vice-president of the United States Trust Company. The property consists of a large detached residence on a plot fronting 129.11 feet on Riverside drive, extending through Northern avenue, where it has a frontage of 169.1 feet. The north and south lines of the property measure 238.8 and 292.8 feet, respectively. The dwelling is of stone and brick and is situated between the residences of Dr. Charles V. Paterno and Mrs. James Harden. While no definite information as to the identity of the purchaser can be obtained, there was a current rumor that interests identified with the Paterno activities in that section are the buyers. The property is not far from the one-time Billings-Shaefer and Hays properties acquired some time since by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. It was announced at the time of the sale that Mr. Rockefeller would make a gift of the property to the city for park purposes.

Broadway Corner in Deal.

Peter Doelger Brewing Company sold to the Improved New York Properties Corporation, Henry E. Coe, president, the three-story building at the northeast corner of Broadway and 77th street, on a lot 25x69 feet. The buying company owns the surrounding property, occupied by the Seventy-Seventh Street Theatre, and now controls a frontage of 102.9 feet on Broadway, and 115.8 feet in Service— Ability

To those having sales problems pertaining to the closely affiliated real estate and building interests which are expending $200,000,000 a year upon construction equipment and maintenance—

We offer the services of an experienced staff of advertising counselors—men thoroughly conversant with the requisites necessary to bring buyer and seller together.

The RECORD AND GUIDE knows that in many instances that at one-fifth the cost of a page in publications having two-thirds waste circulation, insofar as the particular product is concerned, it can produce ten times the results obtained from that page.

You, Mr. Advertiser, must realize this truth. Our advice is free, friendly, and frank, honest and confidential. We never advise the use of this publication unless in our opinion it will help you.

The Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the RECORD AND GUIDE will be published March 23, 1918.

77th street, with northerly and easterly lines of 130.5 and 102.2 feet, respectively. The corner has been held by the selling interests for many years, and has been sold for all cash. Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the transaction.

Investor Buys the Brookfield.

Frederick Brown sold to Otto R. Hartman the ten-story apartment house, known as the Brookfield, at 450 Riverside drive, on a plot 84x100 feet, located 225 feet north of 116th street. It is reported that the annual rental roll aggregates about $39,000. The property has been held at $375,000. Mr. Hartman gave in part payment his residence at 865 Riverside drive, a three-story building, on lot 24.9x70x irregular, held at $29,000; also his country home, Cliffdene, and three and one-half acres of land on Warburton avenue, at a line between Yonkers and Hastings, held at $75,000; also a second mortgage of $19,000 on the Evelyn, apartment house, a seven-story structure, at the northwest corner of Columbus avenue and 78th street. L. F. Hall was the broker.

De Voe House to Be Razed.

J. Frederick Kernochan sold the DeVoe mansion, at the corner of Sedgwick avenue and 177th street, to John H. Tripler, who will shortly demolish the building. The house was erected about a hundred years ago, and contains thirty-one rooms. It is one of the last landmarks still remaining in this section of the city. Arthur C. Sheridan, who is the broker in the deal, will offer the property, which consists of about thirty-five lots, at private sale.

Operator Buys on Heights.

Frederick Brown purchased from former Food Commissioner John J. Dillon the five-story apartment house at 570 West 172d street, on a plot 65x95 feet, between St. Nicholas and Audubon avenues. The property has been held at $90,000. The Knap & Wasson Company was the broker.

Garage Company Buys.

There was recorded during the week the sale of the five-story apartment house, 502 West 176th street, on a plot 44 x 100, by the Eighty-fifth Street Garage, Inc. The seller is L. D. Thompson, and Ames & Company were the brokers. The seller took in part payment the two vacant lots at 228 and 230 East 85th street, which have since been resold to Louis Gold, as recently reported. Ames & Company were the brokers in the resale, and obtained for the buyer a building and permanent loan for the erection of a three-story garage, which has been leased from the plans to Joseph Levy for twenty-one years. These transactions, including the obtaining of extensions of previous mortgages, all closed simultaneously, involved about $300,000.

First Sale in Sixty Years.

James H. Cruikshank purchased from Cornelia F. Pinkham the four-story private dwelling, 41 East 29th street, between Madison and Fourth avenues, on lot 21 x 98.9. The property is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $47,500. This is the first sale of the property in more than sixty years. Plans are being prepared for the alteration of the dwelling into bachelor apartments, with a store on the ground floor.

Deal in Hunts Point Section.

The Hunts Point Construction Company, affiliated with the Henry Morgenthau Company, sold the eleven four-story apartment houses at 819 to 851 Hunts Point avenue, between Garrison and Lafayette avenues. Each house occupies a plot 39 x 100, making a combined site of 429 x 100. They were held at $330,000. Louis Siegel was the broker. The deal completes the sale of a row of fifteen houses, known as the Colonial apartments, built by the company.

Lenox Avenue Corner in Deal.

William S. Baker sold for the Depositors' Assets Corporation, 572 and 574 Lenox avenue, southeast corner of 139th street, a six-story new law house, with stores, on a plot 50 x 85, together with the adjoining six-story structure, 66 West 139th street, on plot 40 x 100. The new owner is the Jules Realty Company. The property has been held at $125,000.

Activity at Bath Beach.

For some time past there has been a quiet movement in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn, where a large property has been acquired from several interests for, according to rumor, a shipyard. The identity of the buying interests has been withheld, and the various transactions have been handled through several brokers. The tract is between Bensonhurst Park and 21st avenue, stretching to Bay 20th street. It runs back from 1500 to 1600 feet, and includes parcels formerly owned by the Bensonhurst Hotel, the Ferguson Estate, the late Judge Nostrand, the Brooklyn Yacht Club, Super's Hotel, the Fields Estate and the Otto Huber Brewing Company.

Makes Annual Report.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of New York Title and Mortgage Company, held January 8, 1918, the President, Harry A. Kahler, presented a summary of the company's business for the year 1917, which showed that the net earnings were $207,449.65, and after the payment of dividends amounting to $145,362, at the rate of 7 per cent., and a liberal reserve for taxes and contingencies, a substantial amount was added to the undivided profits, which are now $283,258.08.

RECENT LEASES.

Lease in John Street.

Rice & Hill, Inc., leased, for John V. Cockroft, Inc., to Corlies, Macy & Company, the store, basement and sub-basement at 20 John street, formerly occupied by Dieges & Clust. The lease is for a long term of years and involves a rental of over $100,000. The tenants propose making extensive alterations to the premises, removing to their new location in the early spring from their present quarters in John street. This lease reflects the belief of many downtown merchants in the possibilities of the block in John street, between Broadway and Nassau street, for high-class retail purposes.

Two Midtown Leases.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., leased for the West Nineteenth Street Garage Corporation, 238 to 256 West 19th street, 154x92, to the Oak Garage Co. The owners will immediately erect a two-story garage, which should be ready for occupancy about April 1, at a cost of about $100,000. Stoddard & Mark acted as attorney for the lessee and Rubin Stone for the lessor. The same brokers also leased for the estate of Isaac Stern, Benjamin Stern and Louis Stern, the three-story stable formerly used by Stern Bros., at 146 to 154 West 30th street, to the Kingston Avenue Holding Corporation. The building will be altered for garage purposes at a cost of $50,000. Both of the foregoing leases are for a long term of years, at a rental aggregating $700,000.

Delmonico's Negotiating.

Negotiations are nearing completion for the leasing of space at 23 William street and in the adjoining Lord's Court Building, at the southwest corner of Exchange place, by interests in control of Delmonico's. The old Delmonico Building at Beaver and South William streets was recently acquired by the American Merchants' Marine Insurance Company.

BROOKLYN CIVIC CLUB will hold a forum lunch Wednesday, January 16, at 12:30 P. M., at 127 Remsen st, Brooklyn. The speakers will be Hon. Henry P. Keith, Internal Revenue Collector of this district, and William Berker, Chief of the Income Tax Department. Subject, "The Federal Income Tax Explained."

AT THE REQUEST of Fifth Avenue Association the hearing on the limitation of the height of buildings on 5th av, between 60th and 90th sts, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed to allow further study on the subject. The Board of Estimate has referred the matter to the Committee on City Plan.

RODMAN WANAMAKER is the buyer of 37 West 56th st, sold last November by Mrs. Sydney Turner Dyer, of Baltimore. The property consists of a 5-sty dwelling, on lot 25x100, located between 5th and 6th avs. It is assessed for taxation purposes at $125,000. Extensive alterations will be made to the structure.

HARRY ADLER has become associated with Louis Schlesinger, Inc., of Newark, N. J., as advertising manager. Mr. Adler was formerly associated with the Record and Guide, the Evening Mail, the New York World and the old Newark Daily Advertiser. He will specialize in leasing and selling of property in the central district.

534-536 WEST 179TH STREET REALTY Corp. has been formed to take over the property at that location, consisting of a 5-sty apartment house, on plot 43.6x100, between St. Nicholas and Audubon avs. It is the middle house of three, acquired by Abraham Ruth last March. The new company is capitalized at $25,000, with Charles L. Hubbell, H. Cochrane and R. Rubenstein as directors.

HARLEM PROPERTY OWNERS' ASSOCIATION held its regular meeting on Thursday evening, Jan. 10. The Delinquent Rent Committee was properly organized and an attorney selected to take care of all cases. This means a saving of lawyers fees to members of the association that have subscribed to the fund for making "Dead Beats" honest. Other important matters were brought up and discussed.

AMES & CO. negotiated the sale recorded recently for L. D. Thompson of the 5-sty apartment 502 West 176th st, 40x100, to the Eighty-fifth Street Garage, which gave in part payment the site at 223 and 230 East 85th st, which was resold to Louis Gold, as recently reported. They secured for Mr. Gold a building and permanent loan for the erection of a 3-ty garage, which they leased for 21 years from the plans.

S. OSGOOD PELL & CO. represented Interstate Park Commission in the purchase of a large tract of land along the Palisades, including property formerly owned by Mrs. L. S. Danforth. Hon. M. E. Driscoll and the estate of Admiral Mahan, and other country estates. The Interstate Park Commission has now acquired for a great public park all the properties along the west bank of the Hudson River, extending over twelve miles.

LEADING SUBURBAN developers, owners and brokers met Thursday at the Waldorf-Astoria and formulated plans for a permanent "Own Your Home" campaign. An extensive advertising and publicity program is planned, which a number pledged themselves to support. Additional support was promised. J. W. Doolittle and Meade C. Dobson acted as chairman and secretary, respectively, of the meeting. Brief addresses were made by James Frank, Anning S. Prall, Hugh A. O'Donnell, Frederick H. Cone, T. B. Ackerson, Samuel Elchen and Horace Anderson of Title Guarantee and Trust Co.

PEASE & ELLIMAN during the extreme cold and the disorganized conditions of the past week, have not had a cold building, nor have they had to curtail the service in any one of the large number of apartment houses and office buildings which they manage. They succeeded in getting coal into New York by the carload, and their entire staff aided in the distribution, hiring motor trucks, and then loading and unloading the trucks which they hired. During the coldest days the members of the office staff rose to their responsibilities, and became temporarily manual laborers, and were to be seen riding on the trucks breaking out coal from the cars and devoting their energies unreservedly to the amelioration of an almost impossible situation, making comfortable many thousands of tenants in the city, who had no knowledge of the means by which they were spared the extreme discomfort that so many others experienced. They are operating six motor trucks to take care of emergency cases, and this loyalty and service by the office men has made possible this remarkable record of no failure of heat in the many buildings of which Pease & Elliman have charge.

HARRY A. KAHLER, president of the New York Title & Mortgage Co., at the annual meeting of the stockholders, held January 8, in presenting his report for 1917, said: "Market values of real estate continue low, as evidenced by various important auction sales within the past year. The normal value of real estate rests fundamentally upon its net income-producing power. Since the war began in Europe, the construction of new buildings in New York has not been keeping pace with the increased demand for space. In the period during which the supply of rentable space exceeded demand, net rents did not produce a satisfactory return on real estate investments. Tenants' requirements were excessive and costly, but had to be met to avoid vacancies. Now that the demand for space has overtaken supply, conditions are rapidly changing. Owners do not now need to make concessions to secure tenants. The current inflation of labor and material costs will continue to retard building construction, resulting in further increasing the demand for space. Many real estate equities that were showing deficits a short time ago are now yielding a fair to good net return on the investment."

Increasing Expenses Demand Strict Economy

Economy lies not so much in saving as in wise expenditure. Employing the services of a long-experienced and well-organized real estate firm, such as ours, to manage your property is strict economy. The big operators have realized this—if they profit by it surely you will.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

DURING the last three weeks practically every business and industry in this city has been seriously effected by the unprecedented cold weather, but none to a greater extent than the building trades and those lines dependent upon them. Construction work has practically ceased, and will probably not be resumed until the weather moderates. There is a considerable volume of new construction in sight, and certain lines are indicating a definite trend toward improvement; but with the combination of cold, delayed freight, lack of fuel and other factors that enter into the situation the majority of the proposed operations will be held in abeyance till spring.

According to the most recent reports the early spring will develop a gratifying volume of speculative building work. Already the plans have been prepared and arrangements made for starting a number of new multi-family dwellings in various parts of Greater New York, and these structures will undoubtedly be commenced in the face of the existing conditions that have so radically effected speculative and investment interests, and assisted in keeping the demand for accommodations greater than the supply. Sections of the Bronx and some parts of Brooklyn and Queens are well represented in the projected construction of new apartment houses, and one and two family dwellings. As the year progresses it is freely predicted that a marked improvement in the building field as applied to speculative work will be noticed.

The large number of disastrous fires in industrial and commercial buildings that occurred during the last two or three weeks will no doubt create a field of activity for a number of the building contractors of this city. The majority of these structures will be rebuilt immediately or as soon as the insurance matters can be adjusted. As a matter of fact the plans for the reconstruction of some of these projects are already well advanced, and work will undoubtedly be started at an early date. Another phase of the building situation that is oftentimes overlooked is the alteration and remodeling of old structures to suit a change of occupancy or to increase the efficiency of their use. There is a large amount of this type of work now under way and infinitely more in prospect, and during the coming months it is expected that work of this character will be a prolific source of profit to the building interests of this city.

Owing to the generally quiet building situation the material markets are comparatively inactive. Prices are holding firmly at their established levels, however, and in some lines advances have been announced. The market for common brick was very slow, but the price for this commodity was advanced to $9 on account of the impossibility of getting barges from up-river points. Portland cement advanced three cents a barrel and some of the lumber lines have been slightly advanced.

Plans for housing the rapidly growing number of workers at the munition plants and shipbuilding yards are rapidly maturing. The General Chemical Company had plans prepared recently for fifty-two workmen's houses, to be erected on its property at Claymount, Del., and has awarded a contract for their construction. The Housing Committee of the Board of Trade of Newark, N. J., is working out the details of a comprehensive scheme of housing development for that city, and it will not be long before some definite details will be decided upon. Other communities have also started plans for alleviating the intolerable conditions that exist in their vicinities, and it is expected that the movement will become general, as the need is imperative.

Common Brick.—The continued cold weather that has prevented building construction has been responsible for the quiet week experienced by the Hudson River common brick interests. The sales of the week were confined to one barge taken out of the market, and there were no inquiries of any consequence. Last week it was predicted that the price of Hudson River common brick would undoubtedly advance to $9 a thousand, and that is the figure now being quoted on what inquiries are being made. There is every reason to expect that this price will be further advanced, and if there should be any improvement in the building situation to an extent that would suddenly increase the demand for brick, the jump in price is likely to be considerable. There is no great reserve on barges at the wholesale docks, although the leading yards have well-filled stacks. There is sufficient brick available in the city and nearby points to take care of anything but an unprecedented demand. The Hudson River remains unnavigable, and there is no possibility of brick coming through from the up-river plants for some time. Until the ice is broken so that tows are able to navigate without danger the demands for common brick will have to be filled from the reserves in the Metropolitan district. The Raritan situation is practically the same, and no relief is possible until the ice breaks up and releases the barges for the city.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, January 11, 1918: Condition of market: Demand, light; prices advanced. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $9.00 a thousand, to dealers in cargo lots, alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, 1. Distribution: Manhattan, 1.

Lumber.—There has been practically no recent change in the lumber situation. The most potent factor in this industry are the requirements emanating from Federal sources. These demands are almost without exception for work incidental to military operations. There is a fair demand from manufacturing consumers, but the requirements for building purposes are quite light and not at all likely to be increased materially during the next few months. There is a growing feeling that there will be a large increase in the volume of new construction work coincident with the arrival of the spring months, and many of the material lines are making active preparations for handling this business. The lumber interests should share largely in this, as an important part of the work will be in the construction of frame dwellings in the suburban districts and the erection of thousands of dwellings for workmen to alleviate the housing shortage that exists in many communities where the manufacture of munitions and supplies for Government departments is numbered among the leading industries. The lumber interests are experiencing considerable difficulty with shipments, and in a number of instances important orders have been lost owing to the inability of the producer to arrange for the transportation of lumber products. Lumber prices continue firm, with a strong upward tendency where shipments can possibly be made. There is a prediction current in the industry that the total production of this year will be considerably below the normal average of previous years on account of the shortage of labor, both for cutting and in the mills.

Structural Steel.—The business of the structural steel industry is practically at a standstill on account of the difficulties being experienced in obtaining adequate supplies of fuel. The transportation situation is also complicating affairs for the steel interests, and some of the plants have been forced to shut down for the time being. The demand for fabricated material to be used in the construction of buildings is extremely light and scattered, and the immediate prospects of improved conditions are not of the best. The Federal Government is to all intents and purposes the only factor in the consuming market, and this demand is almost exclusively for the requirements of war construction. The military work for the current year is rapidly being placed under contract, and the demands from this source will be materially increased as new awards are made. At the present time there is not sufficient private construction contemplated for immediate start to effect the market condition, although there have been a number of new structures recently planned, but owing to the weather and other deterrents it is likely that these projects will be held in abeyance for some time. The prices for fabricated materials are unchanged, and while the present Government figure is subject to revision after April 1, there is a feeling throughout the industry that the current prices will hold for the second quarter. Mill shipments of steel shapes are now quoted 3.195c., New York.

Window Glass.—The glass industry is almost at a standstill, and the outlook for the next few months is not of the brightest. Manufacturers of both plate and window glass are severely hampered by the difficulties being experienced in obtaining raw materials, labor, fuel and obtaining transportation for their finished product. Fortunately the demand is light on account of the dearth of building throughout the country, and up to the present writing there has been no change in the schedule of discounts. The statement has been made that only a very small percentage of the glass producing plants are in operation, owing to the adverse conditions, and the output of these has been seriously curtailed on account of the severe weather that has maintained for the last two weeks.

Linseed Oil.—There is but little activity in the market for this commodity owing to the weather conditions and the scarcity of structural operations, but the prices are firm and somewhat higher than last reported. The crushers are slowing down considerably on account of the fact that arrivals of flaxseed from Argentine have been disappointing, and from this source of worry but slight relief is anticipated for some time. As a consequence of these conditions the jobbers generally have but a limited stock of oil on hand, and are able to command a premium for immediate delivery.

Portland Cement.—The cold weather has seriously curtailed the business for the cement interests, and during the past week the volume of orders has been light and the inquiries few and far between. The wholesale price of this commodity has been advanced three cents a barrel as a consequence of the increased lighterage rate. The price now ruling for domestic Portland cement in large lots, New York, is $2.15 a barrel, with the usual rebate for bags.

Cast Iron Pipe.—The market for this commodity has picked up somewhat, and there is evidence of greater activity from both municipal and private interests. Quotations remain at the fixed price of $55.35, New York, for 6 in., 8 in. and heavier, and $58.35 for 4 in.

Several Large Contracts.

The Empire Brick & Supply Company are at work on two of the largest contracts for building materials given out in recent years. They are furnishing all the masons' building materials for the Hotel Pennsylvania, Seventh avenue, 32d to 33d streets, Geo. A. Fuller Company, contractors, McKim, Mead & White, architects; and for the Hotel Commodore, 42d street and Lexington avenue, Geo. A. Fuller Company, contractors, and Warren & Wetmore, architects. The deliveries are being made as fast as progress of the work will permit. Whatever delay has taken place is due to lack of steel deliveries, brought about by war conditions. They have also supplied all the brick and other masons' building materials for the Winfield Building, which is to house the Woolworth store, at the corner of 40th street and Fifth avenue, Jardine, Hill & Murdock, architects, and Watt & Sinclair, contractors. This operation is notable for the rapid progress made, as it has proceeded without any hitch. All the common brick for the F. W. Woolworth residence, at Glen Cove, Long Island, of which C. P. H. Gilbert is the architect, and Watt & Sinclair, contractors, was furnished by this firm.

Large Bronx Apartment Project.

Niewenhouse Brothers, Inc., general contractors, 163d street and Park avenue, have had plans prepared and are taking estimates on sub-contracts and materials for the construction of two five-story and basement apartment houses at 300 to 320 East 163d street. These buildings will occupy a combined frontage of 213 feet and are 115 feet in depth. The houses will accommodate a total of sixty-one families, in units containing four, five, six and seven rooms each, with private bath. The seven-room suites include an extra lavatory and toilet for the use of a maid. These buildings have been carefully planned with regard to the privacy of the tenants, convenience of the various rooms and the proportions of the same. Spacious side courts have been planned, and there will be a rear yard twenty-two feet in depth and a court of extra size in the front, through which entrance to the apartments will be had. This court has approximate dimensions of 57 x 42 feet, and will be landscaped and planted in an artistic manner. The facade has been designed in a dignified Colonial style and will be constructed of red-face brick, with trimmings of granite and Indiana limestone. The cost of this project is placed at $200,000.

New State Hospital Planned.

Lewis F. Pilcher, State Architect, Capitol, Albany, N. Y., has recently completed the preliminary plans and specifications for the new state hospital to be erected at Marcy, N. Y., near the city of Utica. This project will be under the jurisdiction of the New York State Hospital Commission, E. S. Elwood, secretary, Albany, N. Y., and will cost in the neighborhood of $1,250,000 to build and equip. The complete details of construction are not yet decided upon and will be announced in a later issue of the Record and Guide. According to the present schedule it is not expected that this project will be advertised for estimates for some months.

Synagogue in Brooklyn.

Emery Roth, architect, 119 West 40th street, Manhattan, is preparing the plans and specifications for a one-story and basement synagogue, 80 x 80 feet, to be erected at the corner of Benson avenue and 21st avenue, Brooklyn, for the congregation of the Sons of Israel, Lewis Wintner, Chairman of the Building Committee. Alex. Brociner, 104 West 42d street, Manhattan, is the consulting engineer. This edifice will be built of stone, with brick foundation walls, and will be of semi-fireproof construction. The basement will be finished and used as a Sabbath school. The architect estimates the cost of this structure to be approximately $70,000. The plans will be completed and ready for estimates on general contract late in January.

New Theatre at Hempstead, L. I.

Thomas W. Lamb, architect, 644 Eighth avenue, Manhattan, is preparing the plans and specifications for a handsome brick and terra cotta moving picture and vaudeville theatre to be erected in Front street, Hempstead, L. I. This building is to be owned and operated by the Pat Casey Agency, Inc., 1499 Broadway, Manhattan, and will have a seating capacity of approximately 1,800. The cost of construction is estimated at $50,000. It is expected that the plans will shortly be completed and bids called for.

Contract for Lake Mahopac School.

B. C. Brown, 39 East 42d street, Manhattan, has obtained a general contract for the construction of the two-story frame and stucco school building at Lake Mahopac, N. Y., for the Mahopac High School Unit, No. 2, of the town of Carmel, N. Y. The plans and specifications for this project were prepared by Hutton & Buys, architects, 103 Park avenue, Manhattan, who estimate the cost of construction to be in the neighborhood of $35,000. This schoolhouse will include about twenty classrooms, auditorium and assembly room. The building will be completely equipped with modern appliances and conveniences for the pupils and teaching staff.

Plans for Large Garage.

J. C. Cocker, architect, 2017 Fifth avenue, has practically completed the plans for the six-story brick garage that will be erected at 430 to 436 West 55th street for Daniel Meenan, owner, 1966 Broadway. This project will have ground dimensions of approximately 87 x 100 feet, and will include many new garage features and appliances. The cost of construction is placed at $130,000. The owner will soon take estimates on general contract.

"Quality Service"

"We have been on your mains for five months, and since the start we have found the service of the Edison Company of the highest quality. It fulfills our needs perfectly"

This is the statement of Mr George Pohlman, Treasurer of William Meyer & Company of 880 Broadway. The building was served formerly by a private plant which was closed down after an investigation of Central Station claims

The "quality service" cited here is also the verdict of sixty big building converts within the year just past. Let us prove the superiority of our supply for your purpose

"A Human Document"

ON SATURDAY morning, March 23, 1918, in commemoration of the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY of the RECORD AND GUIDE, the story of the growth of this paper and the influence and part it has played in its chosen field, will be portrayed by pen and picture in the form of a FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER with three-color cover from a sketch drawn by our own Art department.

Our ANNIVERSARY NUMBER has been aptly termed "A HUMAN DOCUMENT." It can pull a strong oar for you if you will utilize its power and influence. It has, all ALONE, for fifty years been doing big things for the Real Estate and Building Interests of Greater New York.

This HUMAN DOCUMENT will reach 10,000 interested readers, telling the story of the part this representative weekly newspaper has taken in its chosen field since its inception in 1868.

It will be not only a history of a paper that has occupied an unique field without a competitor—without missing a single publication date, and numbering among its present subscribers and advertisers many of those represented in its initial issue—but will also be a history of real estate and building conditions in New York City from 1868 to 1918.

We ask, then—and that is, frankly, the main point of this advertisement—that in the planning of your publicity campaign to reach those who represent the tremendous buying power in the real estate and building industries covering the greatest market in the world, you look upon the RECORD AND GUIDE not as a MERE business paper, but rather a medium through which you may exert a tremendous driving power by realizing the importance of its relation to the purchasing capacity of its readers.

We ask that you do not confuse this issue with a "SPECIAL" or an "ANNUAL," but rather that you look upon it as an opportunity of driving home the opening wedge for a continuous publicity campaign.

By the expenditure of a reasonable amount, you may hold for fifty-two weeks the attention and thought of those who BUY or SPECIFY that which enters into the erection of, and maintenance of, buildings erected in Greater New York.

What is equally important to you is the indorsement which scores of advertisers give to the advertising power of the RECORD AND GUIDE through their continued patronage year in and year out; and the bigger they use it the more sure are they to stick.

The class of readers reached by the RECORD AND GUIDE pay more than TWICE as much per annual subscription for this paper as for any other trade paper published in this section. They read it not for RELAXATION, but for BUSINESS INFORMATION and BUSINESS BETTERMENT.

The prospectus, which will be sent to you upon request, tells the story of a vast undertaking at a glance. It clearly demonstrates a work fully in keeping with the high standard maintained by the RECORD AND GUIDE for half a century—a standard which has made it an acknowledged authority and undoubtedly the greatest reference medium of its kind in the United States.

THE ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will prove invaluable to the real estate fraternity, public officials, architects, builders, property owners, manufacturers and others interested in real estate and building conditions in Greater New York.

Those desiring to secure additional copies of this issue, out Saturday, March 23, 1918, should order at once. Advertising rates upon application. Forms close March 1st.

THE RETAIL LUMBER DEALERS' ASSOCIATION OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, Paul S. Collier, secretary, Chamber of Commerce Building, Rochester, has announced that the dates for the annual convention of that association have been fixed. The convention headquarters will be the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, N. Y., January 30, 31 and February 1, a three-day session, for which will be arranged a very interesting program of business proceedings as well as addresses on current topics of interest along with a social program which will be appropriate to the occasion and the times.

ARCHITECTURAL LEAGUE OF NEW YORK will hold its annual exhibition of architecture, sculpture, decorative and landscape design in the Fine Arts Building, 215 West 57th st, from February 3 to February 23, inclusive. This is practically the most important showing of architectural and allied arts made in this country, and it invariably attracts wide attention and calls out a large attendance of architects, draughtsmen, builders and persons having building projects in mind. The league always has various competitions in hand which serve to stimulate interest. Owing to the fact that the past year has been a dull one in the building line an effort will be made to give to the coming exhibition an unusual merit with the idea of creating a renewed interest in building work.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SHORTAGE OF LABOR

Investigation by American Federation of Labor Indicates Plenty of Labor, but Poor Housing Accommodations

By JOHN TOBIN

THE labor policy of the United States during the war depends upon the supply of wage-workers. If there is a sufficient number of men to answer the demands of any branch of industry usually employing men, there is plainly no need to call upon women to replace men. If by efficiently distributing the unemployed to the points where labor is actually needed, the supply can be made to equal the demand, no extraordinary measures need be taken anywhere to obtain needed human power.

It is of fundamental importance to this country to start right in this matter of national policy. Every step to be taken now and in the future in the course of the war depends on getting at the undeniable facts relative to the supply of labor. So long as there is an unemployed, or partially unemployed, reserve to be drawn upon, there will evidently be no need to depart from the present standards of wages, hours, conditions and undilutions, as recognized by organized labor.

Reports Show Sufficient Labor.

To come at once to the facts: The October number of the American Federationist contains a review of the labor situation of the country, made up of the substance of reports from Federal Departments, State Labor Bureaus, State employment agencies, and competent public observers, which warranted the conclusion that the cry of a scarcity of labor was false, lacking in particulars that could be substantiated, and untruthfully promoted for selfish purposes. Further, to ascertain the facts in the matter, President Gompers sent out a letter on October 12, to a certain number of Central Labor Unions, especially in the industrial cities, and to international unions, particularly those making war supplies.

Replies have been received to date from twenty-eight international unions, with a paid-up membership of 922,400 in the American Federation of Labor. Members of your Committee of Inquiry have also consulted during the sessions of this convention, with the delegates of unions probably representing 500,000 other members. The written replies, without exceptions, state that there is no shortage of labor among their membership. The great unions whose members are to supply the skilled labor in construction, in making uniforms and in transportation, all declare that they have unemployed members who may be turned to the service of the Government at any point at any time. There are mining districts on partial time, many boot and shoe and other factories either closed or on part time, cantonments and other building operations just finished or nearly finished, garment factories with tens of thousands of unemployed manufacturers avoiding the employment of skilled machinists, while each of the trades concerned stands ready to supply labor from the ranks of its unemployed.

From sixty-six cities the Central Labor bodies report no shortage of labor supply. These cities represent all parts of the country, from coast to coast, and on estimate of the wage workers in the area of each city the total number reaches nearly one million. Not represented in this list are the largest cities: New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, St. Louis, in each of which laborers by the thousands can be gathered at any time for any work.

Letters from State labor bureaus and employment agencies and other authoritative sources fully confirm the statements of the labor organizations. From Ohio comes: "The Ohio employment bureaus raised 20,000 men for building the Chillicothe cantonment; practically all of these men were secured from the State of Ohio and without exception the industries of the State were not at all disturbed. If Ohio can take 20,000 men and center them in one place in the course of a few weeks without dislocating the industries of the State, there is no reason why the Federal Government should not be able to raise 100,000 men in the same time." During the month of September the twenty-two State employment offices in Ohio received 45,796 applications for work from the unemployed, of whom 26,576 were placed, leaving nearly 20,000 on the registry. A Federation organizer reports at one of the munition plants in New Jersey between 200 and 300 men can be seen any day waiting at the gates to apply for work; one morning 318 were counted.

Many Applicants for Jobs.

At the office of a Newark evening newspaper, at the time of the issue of the noon edition, 108 men were counted, waiting to be first to answer the "help wanted" advertisements. Several of the reports from organizations declare that companies are by settled policy hiring foreign labor and refuse to take on Americans. From our Building Trades Department in Washington the statement comes that a local contractor and builder who advertised for 600 carpenters, when waited upon by a labor representative said: "We have 100 now and we do not want any more."

The Commissioner of Labor of California and the President of the California State Commission on Housing and Immigration both reported in the summer no lack of labor in California for permanent employment.

The Director of the New York State Bureau of Employment says: "There is plenty of labor in this country to do the work there is to be done, and there will be plenty of labor as long as the war lasts, even if it lasts five years." The Public Employment Bureau, of Newark, N. J., was recently asked to furnish 1,000 men for skilled and unskilled work at a cantonment. Within forty-eight hours the needed men were gathered and on their way to the work.

Nothing more significant in the abundance of unemployed labor in this country can be had than what is shown in the "labor turn-over" of many of the large firms which strive to obtain and overwork cheap labor. (Labor turn-over is a soft phrase meaning the merciless hiring and firing of workmen). The following testimony has come from the managers of works, from employment agencies, from trade union officials, from published reports of labor inspectors and similar authoritative sources:

Curtiss Aeroplane Company, of Hammondsport and Buffalo, N. Y.: Labor turn-over of 30 per cent. a month during several months preceding November 19, 1917. Pierce-Arrow Automobile Company, of Buffalo, N. Y.: labor turn-over from 15 to 22 per cent. a month for nine months, previous to this date. The Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester, N. H., employing from 22,000 to 25,000 help, labor turn-over averaging for five years from 54 to 79 per cent. The G. E. Keith Company, of South Boston, Mass.: One plant has a labor turn-over of 20 per cent. a month. The Dennison Manufacturing Company, of Framingham, Mass., labor turn-over of 46 per cent. a year. The Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, of Quincy, Mass.: Hired 5,200 men between May 14, 1917, and August 14, 1917, to increase its labor force from 3,600 to approximately 7,000. The Austin Company Building Corporation employed 80 skilled mechanics in a single day to increase its working force 9 men.

Shortage of Other Essentials.

This practice was kept up over a period of several months. So common in Buffalo was the practice of advertising for the semi-skilled, or unskilled, to come to fill places, presumably available, that skilled mechanics, of which there were an abundance in that city, were forced to find employment two thousand miles away on Government jobs. The Detroit United Railways in nine and one-half months engaged 2,612 men, a labor turn-over of 300 a month, the men usually leaving because of unsatisfactory working conditions. In the same city, at the Ford plant, employing 38,000 men, the labor turn-over is only seven a month.

That which employers and their public spokesmen represent as "shortage of labor" is, when sifted to the truth, almost invariably a shortage of other essentials in industry. For example, a shortage of materials in the navy yards during the past year has been translated into a shortage of labor. In the new munitions works in the course of construction, or nearly finished, there is frequently a shortage of the machinery necessary to put labor at work. Great new manufacturing establishments have been erected at points to which the transportation of the employees is most difficult or impossible. Uniforms are not finished at the time expected, simply because of a lack of dyes or looms to produce the duck for tentage and leggings.

The lack of housing and not the lack of unemployed labor, keeps men and women away from the manufactories and farms, which have joined in the shout of the shortage of labor. The following are extracts from testimony taken before the Housing Committee, Committee on Labor, Advisory Commission, Council of National Defense, October 3, 1917:

Owing to the lack of housing, the Remington Arms Company, Bridgeport, Conn., lost two to three hundred men every week and had to send agents out to replace them. A man would come in with his kit, work for two days and leave. Some men would not even open their kit; would sleep in the station over night and leave. To keep a force of 10,000 men the plant had to go through the employment bureaus for 20,000 to 25,000 men.

A superintendent of the Sparrow Point plant, Maryland, Bethlehem Steel Company, said that to keep 3,200 men they had to get 12,500 through employment agencies. The Pennsylvania Railroad built temporary shacks in good sanitary condition and brought 16,000 negroes from the South at a cost of $200 each. Two thousand left because they would not live that way.

President Gompers told this committee that nearly sixty per cent. of the men in the building trades were out of work. A witness said: "Brick can be gotten. I had a survey east of the Mississippi made and we can get 90,000,000 bricks for from $9 to $14 a thousand. The bricklayers are here." The head of the Industrial Service Department, Emergency Fleet Corporation, testified:

"I have just returned from a two days' conference of shipbuilders in Boston. Every time the question of shortage of labor and labor turn-over came up, the argument went around in a circle and always landed on housing conditions. This large turn-over is due to inability of men not only to get decent accommodations, but any accommodations." A representative of the Navy Department employees at Newport, R. I.:

"We have been handicapped greatly in production from lack of machinists. We could get plenty to come if we had the proper housing facilities." The Chairman of the Advisory Commission stated: "On January 1 we are told that 5,000 more men will be needed at Bridgeport with absolutely no place for them to live." The chairman of the Subcommittee on Emergency Construction and Contracts, General Munitions Board, said:

"The labor turn-over at Hampton Roads is enormous. Steady men stay and they get the housing. The floating element get hired and fired, and there is that exchange all the time. There is a general complaint in all kinds of business about the large turn-over of labor at present."

The president of the Sparrow Point Plant, Bethlehem Steel Company, testified: "Our facilities, our mechanical equipment, are adequate for the employment of double the number of men we have been able to gather and maintain. At present we have a working force of 3,200 to 3,500, but could keep employed to advantage 7,500. The chief handicap to securing and maintaining more men is our location. It is eleven miles by steam car from Baltimore to the plant, twelve by trolley, but because of the frequent stops it takes from thirty-five to forty-five minutes to make the trip, and to this must be added the time for the men to go from their homes to the station or street cars. In this shipyard, with a present working force of about 3,500 men, we had on January 1 about 2,900. Since that time we have actually engaged and set at work 11,000 men, with only an increase in the permanent force of 300 to 400. We engaged more men than that, actually engaged 18,000, but some never turned up."

The exaggeration of the numbers wanted or the indefiniteness as to the time when wanted, as well as repetitions in advertising, especially in Government work, add confusion in the problem of labor supply. Examples:

The New York State Industrial Commission, Bureau of Employment, November 1, 1917, says: "The New York City newspapers published (apparently under the authority of the United States Shipping Board), the fact that Port Newark Terminal shipyards were ready to employ 12,000 workers. A specific offer of the State Employment Bureau to furnish a number of men resulted in the discovery that the Port Newark Terminal yards did not need men; that they were daily turning away many, and had on their registration lists the names of several thousand available workers.

The United States Civil Service Commission authorized a statement in the "Official Bulletin," October 31, that 10,000 typewriters and stenographers and typewriters, both men and women, were needed in the departments at Washington, salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200 a year. This announcement was followed in a few days by an appeal from the Chairman of the Women's Committee, Council of National Defense, to young women of the country to qualify themselves as rapidly as possible for stenographic and typewriting work. No time was given in these announcements as to when the 10,000 young persons were needed. As a fact, they are not needed at once, and when any particular number is to be engaged has not been made public. Moreover, the housing situation in Washington is such that no young woman should go to the city unless a shelter is secured for her beforehand, and the Government thus far has not completed any means for the accommodation of persons joining its clerical staffs.

The general situation relative to farm labor is not of sufficient departure from the normal to cause any loud complaint. On this point, the President of the Commission of Immigration and Housing of California writes: "For months now we have had to listen to all kinds of general statements alleging farm labor shortage in this State. Not one of these statements has been supported by fact." From the City Employment Bureau, of Portland, Ore.: "At no time this year have we been unable to fill any position where working conditions were reasonable. There is no labor shortage." The Commissioner of Labor of New Jersey made the public declaration on November 4: "The Department is prepared to furnish workers for the farmers in any county in the State. We are receiving applications for work at the rate of 300 to 400 a day. The farmers must be prepared to pay for transportation, for adequate housing and the wages which the men are demanding."

The Assistant Secretary of Labor states: "Seasonal agricultural work can be met to a large extent from efforts being put forth by the Boys' Working Reserve, which is being used by the Department to secure the services of boys sixteen years of age up.

Every year nearly 2,000,000 young Americans arrive at the age of 15; between the ages of 15 and 20 there are 8,000,000 young Americans capable of going to work. By estimates of the Department of Labor at least 2,000,000 men were at times out of work in the United States. The Director of the New York State Bureau of Employment says that, even if the country drafts 3,000,000 men, it will not exhaust the labor supply; that the absurdity that the draft has made deep inroads on the labor of the country is seen in the fact that whereas New York has 3,000,000 laboring men the war has not taken more than 100,000 of them; the draft has taken only about 60,000 from all walks of life in the Empire State.

These are some of the outstanding facts of the case as collected and viewed from the standpoint of American organized labor. Where else has any person or any institution, public or private, gone to the trouble to get at the facts broadly? Who else has attempted to sum them up; to consider the question as a whole, in a word, to get at the truth? The problem of labor supply and the conditions of American employment is the very first question of the day in importance after, if indeed it does not precede, that of our military organization. It is one of the urgent patriotic duties of every citizen of the country to understand this problem, to work it out patiently in his mind, and reach in regard to it a clear, just and honest conclusion.

The American Federation of Labor may therefore justifiably sound a note of warning to the employers of this country, calling upon them not to arouse too deeply the resentment of the laboring classes by the promotion of an untruth which may affect the nation detrimentally for years to come. Here is a call to duty. The truth in this case constitutes in itself a call on every man in the influential position to examine his conscience and to act accordingly.

BUILDING COMMITTEE HOLDS CONFERENCE AT WASHINGTON

Government Welcomes Cooperation

WHILE in Washington last week, the committee representing the Association of Building and Allied Industries of New York, was assured that the Government is welcoming cooperation from every line of endeavor, and that it will give its heartiest support to an organization which would represent the building industry.

Walter S. Gifford, Director of the Council of National Defense and George M. Peek, of the War Industries Board, met the committee and in the course of the conference stated that the Government can deal best with each industry, through a War Service Committee. It is the desire of the Government that each industry be held together as closely as possible, so that not only can the war programme be pushed, but also that upon the ending of the war it will be able to cope with the industrial reconstruction that is sure to follow. The committee was assured that recommendations along these lines would receive every consideration.

The need for additional housing and for other buildings was discussed with Otto M. Eidlitz and Phillip Hiss, of the Housing Committee of the Council of National Defense. How the building industry can best be made use of to erect houses for workmen was also discussed. These buildings are most urgently needed at centers where munition and shipbuilding plants are established, specially so far as New York City and the Metropolitan zone is concerned.

Senator William M. Calder met the committee and stated that he was heartily in accord with the activities of the association, and made several valuable suggestions. The committee included Elliott Smith, Edward A. MacDougall, H. H. Murdock, Frank H. Quinby and E. Osgood Andrews.

The Association of Building and Allied Industries is to be thoroughly representative of the building industries of New York, and to that end organizations connected and allied with the building industry are being asked to join the association to carry out the purposes for which it was formed. Among the organizations to be represented will be included the building trades, employers, manufacturers and dealers of building materials, architects, those identified with the real estate market and chamber of commerce and like bodies, many of which have already agreed to affiliate themselves with the movement.

New Hospital Superintendent.

William H. Abbott, who has been identified with the Tenement House Department for the past sixteen years, has become connected with the Lebanon Hospital, Bronx, as superintendent. Mr. Abbott helped to organize the work of the Tenement House Department, and during the decade and a half of its existence, has been closely associated with all its workings, having held various positions from Inspector to First Deputy Commissioner. His intimate knowledge of tenement houses in the city made him especially valuable and his honesty and unfailing courtesy created for him a host of friends.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM OF BOARD OF BROKERS

Bills Affecting Real Estate Will Be Closely Watched and Property Owners' Interests Guarded

THE Real Estate Board of New York has arranged a definite legislative program for this session of the Legislature. It embodies bills that will bring about changes in taxation and the administration of local laws in the interests of economy, and is in line with a policy laid down about four years ago and consistently followed since that time.

The program contemplates amendments clarifying the Labor Law so as to plainly and justly apportion the relative responsibility of agents, owners and lessees, and in relation to Section 83a for modifying fire alarm and fire drill requirements.

An amendment to the Lawson Three-Family House Law, passed last year, is to be introduced to make the bill apply to four-story houses having a depth of 55 feet. An amendment is to be introduced to change the definition of a tenement house to a house containing four instead of three families—one giving the right of appeal to the Board of Standards and Appeals from decisions of the Tenement House Commissioner, and one to relieve the Tenement House Department from jurisdiction over structural changes, transferring such jurisdiction to the Building Superintendent.

One of the most important measures is that fixing the tax rate at $1.75, so that the Budget, outside of the debt service charge, would have to be obtained from sources other than real estate.

Other features of the program will include bills as follows:

To abolish the Court House Board.
To abolish the office of City Chamberlain.

To merge the Water Supply and merge its duties with those of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

To abolish the Department of Weights and Measures and place its functions in the Comptroller's Office.

To abolish the Board of Inebriety.
To create a Department of Purchase.
To create one Audit Department to replace the numerous audit bureaus.

To provide for collection of water taxes by the Comptroller.

To require notice in writing before tax liens are foreclosed.

To require written instruments for leases of more than one month.

For some of this legislation the Real Estate Board has already had the approval of the Mayor, and it will try wherever possible to secure the approval of the local administration. The board has not, as was recently stated, considered any legislation for a tax on bank balances, for a habitation tax, for a fixed low tax rate on personality, nor for a tax on rentals.

Detailed action by the Joint Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws, was taken as follows:

Senate Int. 15, Slater, an Act amending Section 321, Real Property Law by providing that mortgaged real property taken by the alien property custodian, must be discharged upon the record upon a certificate signed by such custodian with same effect as if the certificate had been signed by mortgagee, his personal representative or assignee.

This bill is approved.

Senate Int. 16, Slater, an Act amending Section 300, Real Property Law, providing that conveyances executed by parties enlisted or commissioned in military or naval forces of United States may be acknowledged or approved before a Judge or Clerk of a Court of Record, a Mayor or other Chief Officer of a city, a Commissioner appointed for the purpose by the Governor or any other officer of the United States Army of the rank of captain or higher or a naval officer of rank of lieutenant or higher and making certain changes relative to acknowledgments and proofs.

This bill is approved.

Senate Int. 42, Towner, (Same as Assembly Int. 42, Gardner.) An Act amending Section 143, Insurance Law, so as to permit the renewal of licenses of brokers who are in the army or navy without their filing personal applications.

This bill is approved.

Senate Int. 11, Cromwell, (Same as Assembly Int. 43, Seesselberg.) Adding new Section 1019-b, Greater New York Charter, providing when, in opinion of Board of Estimate, combined assessments for public improvements confirmed after January 1, 1908, against any parcel of real estate shall in any two consecutive years exceed 60 per cent. of the assessed valuation, the Board may, upon certificate of Comptroller, direct modification of the assessment.

This bill is opposed as dangerous and unfair to property owners other than those directly affected by its provisions. Its effect would be that any property owner who demanded extensive improvement, and which were made in response to his request or the joint request of himself and his neighbors since 1908 (ten years past), may go before the Board of Estimate and ask that the money so paid or due shall be returned to him and the amount placed in the Tax Levy.

Senate Int. 21, Hill, (Same as Assembly Int. 29, McNab.) Concurrent resolution ratifying the proposed amendment to the United States Constitution proposed by the First Session of the Sixty-fifth Congress, relating to prohibition or the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

By direction of the Board of Governors this bill is opposed by resolution following, reaffirming the board's policy in relation to National Prohibition:

RESOLVED, that the Real Estate Board of New York, while deeming it not within its province to consider the merits of the question of prohibition, believes that the control should remain in the jurisdiction of the respective States, and for that reason is opposed to the principle of control by the Federal Government.

Senate Int. 31, Farrenkopf, an Act amending Section 247, Greater New York Charter, providing that the cost of public improvements may, in the discretion of the Board of Estimate, be distributed in the general tax levy over a period not exceeding five years.

This bill is opposed. It would permit piecemeal disarrangement, or invasion of the "pay-as-you-go" policy by giving the Board of Estimate the right to extend payment over five years instead of over one year as at present for any property which is acquired for public purposes. Such a change should be part of a general plan and should not be confined to a single item. It should be noted in this connection that the private citizen is cared for under the present provisions of the "pay-as-you-go" policy by giving the board, in its discretion, the right to make five yearly payments instead of a single payment.

Senate Int. 32, Farrenkopf, authorizing the Board of Estimate to lay out a public boulevard across Jamaica Bay from certain streets in the Borough of Queens, to be known as Jamaica Bay Boulevard. City is authorized to acquire title as provided in Charter. Plans for boulevard and bridges must be approved by Secretary of War. Cost, exclusive of bridges, may be assessed in whole or in part upon benefited property. Bridges are to be constructed by Department of Plants and Structures.

This bill is opposed. It provides that the expense shall not exceed two million dollars, but practical experience has proved that the limit will not be observed. The bill further provides that the amount shall be paid by assessment on property benefited, but that if they cannot find property benefited in the immediate vicinity they may tax the cost on one or more boroughs in the City of New York. At the present time citizens and taxpayers are having heavy demands to meet necessary expenditures and they should not be burdened with any item that can possibly be postponed until after the close of the war and the readjustment incident thereto.

Assembly Int. 16, J. M. Mead, adding new Sections 210a, 210b, Military Law, providing that the State shall pay ten dollars a month to non-commissioned officers, soldiers and sailors mustered into the military service of the United States as part of the quota from this State. This applies to those enlisted after February 3, 1917.

This bill is opposed for the reason that the burden of the care of the United States soldiers and their families should be borne by the United States and no portion of it should be borne by a single State.

Linking Up the Two West Sides.

Now that the Ninth avenue and Sixth avenue "L" systems have been linked to The Bronx by a train service over the Harlem river, and work has proceeded to such an extent on the so-called 162nd street connection that March or April of this year should see the operation of "L" trains from the Battery to Woodlawn road, via Sixth avenue and Ninth avenue, the 162nd street connection, and Jerome avenue branch of the Lexington avenue route, there comes to mind the idea that this through service will make for the linking-up of the two West Sides, the old West Side of Manhattan, and the newer West Side of The Bronx.

The new route from Manhattan to The Bronx passes through one of the most beautiful sections of The Bronx, paralleling in practically the sum total of its length the University avenue section on the west, and the Grand Boulevard and Concourse on the east.

Just what the opening of the Jerome avenue subway route and the "L" service will mean to the West Bronx is expressed by a member of The Bronx Board of Trade, as follows:

"I believe that with the opening of the Lexington avenue subway and the Sixth and Ninth avenue 'L,' we are entering into one of the greatest developments and building booms since the opening of the West Side subway into the Washington Heights district. For the past eleven years the building business has not been normal, while the natural growth of the city has been going on. With easier money for building operations, the builder will see the advantage of the new West Side section about to be fully opened up.

"At the present time, the transit facilities afforded the West Bronx are practically everything to be desired from the viewpoint of one who has ten cents carfare to spend, but with the complete opening up of the Jerome avenue link, which is a part of the chain of the dual subway system, one can go to the heart of the city, or, in fact, any part of two Boroughs, for one fare, and we can well hail this event as one of great moment.

"It will also be possible for one to travel down town without using the tube at all, and this will be possible when the connection from 155th street, through Anderson avenue to Jerome avenue is made.

"It is an established fact that if it were not for conditions ascribed to the war, that many builders, speculative and otherwise, would be on the job, for those houses which have been built have found ready and desirable tenants, and the houses have been sold to discerning investors who are looking for permanent investments on a substantial basis."

Custodians Appointed.

A. Mitchell Palmer, recently appointed by President Wilson alien property custodian, has enlisted the services of Laurence McGuire, president of Real Estate Board of New York, and James R. Murphy, formerly general manager for Joseph P. Day, and for the last three years president of Florida Farms and Homes, Inc. The duties of the real estate bureau of the alien property custodian include the handling of numerous parcels of real estate throughout the country owned by the enemy or its allies now residing within the enemy lines. Real estate problems of every known variety are involved, aggregating millions of dollars.

LOWER FOURTH AVENUE IN TRANSITION STATE

Modern Buildings Well Rented, Though Older Ones Contain Vacancies—Opinions of Brokers Differ As To Outlook

DURING the past two years realty conditions along Fourth avenue have changed, and where formerly there were many vacancies, today there is scarcely any space to rent. This is a remarkable condition, specially in view of the fact that so many large structures were erected on the thoroughfare, south of 32d street, in a short time. That this space has been absorbed, shows what a healthy condition the real estate market is in from a renting standpoint, and also that the owners used good judgment in developing the avenue along the present lines.

The development of Fourth avenue, however, is not complete, for there are many old buildings, erected many years ago, and if there are any vacancies today, they are in this type of structure. These properties are being held, in most part, by owners who propose to improve the sites, when building is more propitious, or hope to sell to speculative builders for improvement. Prices are being strongly maintained, and it is for this reason, as well as the difficulty in obtaining funds for financing, that more structural activity has not taken place along the thoroughfare. The demand for space exists. There is no doubt of that fact, and it would not be surprising if some new projects were started, so soon as the present chaotic condition becomes straightened out.

Talking to a representative of the Record and Guide yesterday on conditions of real estate along Fourth avenue, a representative of Carstein & Linnekin said: "The demand for offices and lofts on Fourth avenue is good, but people will not pay the price, hence the vacancies. Of course there are many old buildings along the avenue vacant, but people today want modern buildings, and they refuse to locate in the old-fashioned ones."

"Even some of our modern buildings have space vacant because people will not pay the rent, and we cannot accept less than we are instructed to charge by our clients."

At the office of M. & L. Hess a representative said: "The vacancies in buildings along Fourth avenue exist because there is no demand for the space. I cannot give you offhand the per cent. of vacancies in buildings."

Mr. Goodman, of White & Goodman, said: "I believe that eventually Seventh avenue will take the place of Fourth avenue, and today there is less demand for office space on Fourth avenue than ever before in my experience. The desire is to locate on Broadway or Fifth avenue, and failing in this they will eventually locate on Seventh avenue for the reason that it is nearer the shipping centre."

"If Fourth avenue property could be rented for manufacturing purposes there would not be one inch of space vacant, but there is so little of it to be had for that purpose that it is not attractive to such people."

"The many old buildings will not sell or lease in their present conditions, and when the property now occupied by these old buildings was needed the owners asked such high prices that prospective buyers were frightened away, and today the property is not wanted at any price. The silk people will eventually leave Fourth avenue and locate on Madison avenue, as several concerns have already done. Space on Fourth avenue is not plentiful. I believe there is less than an average of 150 square feet in each building to lease. Fourth avenue is not as bad, however, as it looks. The to let and for sale signs don't mean anything. I know several buildings on which there are signs and yet not an inch of space is to let in them."

At the office of Gaines, Van Nostrand & Morrison a representative of the firm who is familiar with conditions in this section of the city, said: "The building at 437 Fourth avenue on which one of our signs has been placed is an old building, out of date, and antiquated, and people don't want old buildings. There is a good demand for property on Fourth avenue, and this is the only building we have there."

Mr. Fleischman, of the Land Brokerage Co., said: "The building at 325 Fourth avenue was remodeled about eight years ago, but at present there is no demand for old buildings, and that is the reason there is one floor to let in that building."

Mr. Corey, of Daniel Birdsall & Co., said: "My experience has been that manufacturing concerns would locate on Fourth avenue if they could get the space. The demand for large space in modern, fireproof buildings is very heavy. On account of the Zoning Law they are going east of Fifth avenue and this, of course, would send them over to Fourth avenue, but there is no space to be had."

ANNUAL MEETING HELD.

Washington Square Association Elects Officers for Ensuing Year.

WASHINGTON Square Association held its annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the parish house of the Old First Presbyterian Church, 7 West 11th street, and the attendance evidenced the interest taken in their neighborhood by the residents of that section.

About sixty persons were present. Albert R. Shattuck, President of the Association, was in the chair, and submitted his annual report, which showed the Association to be in a flourishing condition, both as to membership and finances.

Charles R. Crane, who was scheduled to deliver an address, was unable to be present, having been called to Chicago, and his place on the speakers' list was taken by Julien T. Davies.

Mr. Davies said in part: "In 1861 my family was obliged to move away from the old Fifteenth Ward because of the invasion of this section by the horse cars. My father took one year to decide where to go before he made a move, being undecided as to a new home on Fifth avenue, at 59th street, or to 12 West 10th street. This latter location was decided on. Later we took a house at 56 West 9th street, where we lived for five years and then moved to 56th street. This was the greatest mistake of my life. I moved back to West 9th street, so that I can truthfully say that my home and life for fifty years have been in the Fifteenth Ward."

Mr. Davies then paid a tribute to the members of the Washington Square Association for their loyalty to the Association, the constant effort to improve and aid their home section, and concluded his remarks with a prediction of greater things to come to the Fifteenth Ward.

David B. Ogden was the second speaker introduced. Mr. Ogden, after a brief introduction, in which he characterized the Washington Square section of the city as the one district where community pride, neighborhood unity and, above all, life-long loyalty to their homes and friends stand out most prominently, said: "I claim to be the only man in New York who has persistently moved south. I was born in 29th street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, and continued to live there until 1855, when I moved south to Lexington avenue and then to 22d street and then to 11th street, then to 10th street, and, lastly, to 9th street, where I have continued to live ever since."

Mr. Ogden then referred to the tendency in other parts of the city to become modernized, but glorified in the fact that in the Washington Square section the people, while progressive and enterprising, retained their old-fashioned ideas of homes and habits, so that many of the residents of Washington Square and the Fifteenth Ward generally reside in the very houses in which they were born.

The last speaker was Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery, rector of Grace Church, whose discourse was a tribute to the men of the Fifteenth Ward who are now serving with the colors, and ended his talk as follows: "As the Washington Arch is distinctly associated with Washington Square and represents a distinguishing symbol of this community, so will the bravery and patriotism of the boys of Washington Square, who promptly answered their country's call to sustain the principles for which we are fighting in this terrible war, stand out as prominently as does the arch, to add to the glory and fame of Washington Square."

Members of the Executive Committee were elected, to serve two years, as follows: Harley L. Stowell, Joseph S. Auerbach, Edward R. Biddle, Robert W. DeForest, Eugene Delano, Rev. Howard Duffield, John G. Milburn, William Mitchell and Eugene H. Outerbridge.

Among those present at the meeting were Dr. Edward L. Partridge, Alderman Hatch, William Keene, Major Stephen Hart, Judge and Mrs. Wauhope Lynn, Mrs. Albert R. Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collyer, Harley L. Stowell, Pierre Mali, Dr. Edward H. Peasley, Henry E. Coe, Clarkson Cowl, Joseph L. Delafield, Frank R. Ford, David B. Ogden and others.

Election of Officers Held.

At a recent meeting of the corporation of Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., the following officers were elected: Albert B. Ashforth, president; George D. Arthur, vice-president; Frank B. McGay, secretary, and the following were made additional members of the board of directors: Waldron P. Belknap, Newton B. Phelps, Beekman Hunt, William A. Miller, Alexander C. Mitchell.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

INJUSTICES IN FIRE INSURANCE RATES—COAL SITUATION ACUTE WITH NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

LARGE savings were made by members of the New York Building Managers' Association, who took advantage of the suggestion made by the Insurance Committee which was contained in the November report of the association, as published in the Record and Guide. The suggestion had special reference to cancelling soon-expiring policies at short rates, and rewriting the insurance for long terms at the old rates, for, as anticipated, fire insurance rates on all classes of risks in New York City have been increased. This took effect at noon on January 8, by order of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, except that insurance expiring between January 8 and February 28, if renewed in the same company, might be written at the old rates. As then stated, the increase is not warranted by the experience record of many classes of risks, some of which, on the contrary, were entitled to reductions in rate.

In spite of advanced efforts by the Building Managers' Association and many others, including the Real Estate Board of New York, to prevent the increase, the State Insurance Department appears to have set supinely by, while open federations were being made to put the increase into effect. Insurance companies, which believe the increase unwarranted, and who would prefer to have made the increase in such a way as to make the classes or risks which have been having increased losses, pay the increased cost of insurance, are unable to remedy the situation. Their hands are tied because they are forbidden to write insurance at rates different from those promulgated by the majority members of the Exchange. Brokers are also forbidden to write insurance with so-called non-admitted insurance companies.

This situation, which was designed to protect the assured against irresponsible companies, and to prevent price cutting between companies from weakening the security of the assured, is now working to make good risks to apply the cost and loss of poor risks. It would be interesting to know the mental processes of the underwriters and the State Insurance Department who make the statement that the small home owner, and the owners of office and apartment buildings, should make up the losses suffered by the companies through policies carried at insufficient rates on structures unusually hazardous, because of their use directly or indirectly in connection with the prosecution of the war, or on contents items which never have been self-supporting from an underwriting standpoint.

To expedite action on petition for variations of the Labor Law, the Board of Standards and Appeals, at a recent meeting, approved the plan submitted by the chairman, whereby petitions may be acted on without discussion when report and recommendation is made by the Bureau of Fire Prevention, and such recommendation is acceptable to the petitioner.

Under this plan, the Bureau of Fire Prevention will be asked to make an inspection of the premises affected and submit a report with recommendations as to what is desirable or necessary to obtain a reasonable compliance with the intent of the Law. When such report is received by the Board of Standards and Appeals, a copy of it will be sent to the petitioner, who will thus have an opportunity to determine whether the report, as to conditions, is accurate.

If the report and recommendation of the Bureau of Fire Prevention are acceptable to the petitioner, the report will be submitted to the board for approval and granting of the petition in accordance with the recommendation, without going into a detailed hearing on the matter. If either the report or the recommendation does not meet with the approval of the petitioner, he must submit to an assistant engineer of the board a report of the essential facts with regard to the building, together with such variation of the law as he desires. The petition will then be heard in detail, and acted upon as heretofore, by the Board.

Labor is still scarce, and there seems to be, even at the increased wages, difficulty in obtaining men who are interested in their work, and who are willing to do it without being driven. The Employees' Committee is working on a revised schedule of wages paid in office buildings and apartment houses, also a comparative list of union wages paid in Chicago.

It takes about a pound of coal to keep about 25 of the small ten-watt lamps that are used in electric-sign work running an hour. It would run only ten of the ordinary twenty-five-watt tungstens, or seven of the forty-watt lights often used in residences. Of the best of the sixteen-candle carbon lamps, it would supply about five. The 200 to 750-watt incandescent street lamps take from eight-tenths to three pounds of coal per hour each. The committee suggests that it would be interesting to count up the lamps burning needlessly in lighting streets before sunset, in decorating store windows or left burning needlessly, and see if a substantial saving could not be made by suppression and repression which would cause no suffering, and little, if any, inconvenience.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

THE New York Appellate Division holds, Ray Building Co. v. Essensfeld, 167 N. Y. Supp., 315, that if lessees contracted with their lessor to pay it for gas consumed, the lessees are liable to the lessor, regardless of the latter's liability to the gas company. The fear, suggested at the trial, that by this means the lessees might be rendered doubly liable, once to the lessor and again to the gas company, was held quite groundless, for there was no proof that the lessees agreed to pay the gas company, or that the gas company contracted with any other than the lessor.

Apartment House Janitors.

The New York Workmen's Compensation Law, § 2, group 22, specifies window cleaning as a hazardous employment, subject to the act, Section 7, subd. 4, as amended by Laws 1916, c. 622, § 2, defines an "employee" as a person engaged in one of the occupations enumerated in section 2, or who is in the service of an employer whose principal business is that of carrying on or conducting a hazardous employment. The New York Appellate Division holds, Zuhradt v. Shepard's Estate, 167 N. Y. Supp. 306, that an employee engaged in operating apartment houses and injured by falling while cleaning a window, was entitled to compensation though the business of conducting apartment houses is a nonhazardous occupation.

Workmen's Compensation.

The New York Court of Appeals holds, Kammer v. Hawk, 117 N. E. 576, that section 2, group 42, of the Workmen's Compensation Act, authorizing recovery for injuries in "heating, engineering; installation and covering of pipes or boilers," prior to amendment, did not include the superintendent and general repairman of an apartment house who was injured while lifting a radiator in the storeroom with the purpose of connecting it with the heating apparatus. The words "maintenance and care of buildings" were not added to group 42 until 1917. Laws 1917, c. 705.

Exclusive Broker's Contract.

The term "sale," as used in an exclusive real estate broker's contract, authorizing him to "sell" property and giving him a commission upon a "sale" of the same by him or by the owner during the life of the contract, includes any transfer of the property for a valuable consideration, either of money or property, and therefore it is held that it makes the owner liable for commissions where he transfers the property before the expiration of the contract for a price to be paid by assuming a mortgage on the property, giving a second mortgage, and taking a conveyance of certain lots. Garfield Real Estate Co. v. Dennis, 167 N. Y. Supp. 43.

Changing Grade of Streets.

Though Laws 1916, c. 516, amending Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, c. 466) § 951, provides that all cases where a change of grade of any street has been made prior to the taking effect of the act shall, as to compensation for damages, be governed by the laws in force at the time such change of grade was completed and accepted by the city authorities, under Highway Law, § 59a, as added by Laws 1910, c. 701, providing that an award for damages by changing the grade of any street shall bear interest at 6 per cent. per annum from the time of the change of grade to the time of payment, where work in connection with a change of grade was commenced in 1904, and completed in 1906, the property owner was held entitled to interest on its award for damages; the statute being retroactive. It was also held that the board of assessors must compute interest on the award from the time of completion and acceptance of the grading of the street. In re One Hundred and Forty-Ninth Street Realty Co., New York Appellate Division, 167 N. Y. Supp. 367.

Transfer Tax.

The Surrogate's Court, New York County, holds, in re Richard's Estate, 167 N. Y. Supp. 672, that under New York Tax Law (Consol. Laws, c. 60) § 243, defining "intangible property" to include bonds, and section 220, as amended by Law 1915, c. 664, § 1, imposing a tax on the transfer of any intangible property, if evidenced by or consisting of bonds, notes, or other evidences of interest in any corporation, whether incorporated or organized, except a moneyed corporation, a railroad or transportation corporation, or a manufacturing corporation, and the property represented by such shares of stock, bonds, notes, or other evidences of interest consists of real property which is located wholly or partly within the State of New York, in such proportion as the value of such property of the corporation located in such state bears to the value of the entire property of such corporation, and the decedent was a nonresident of the state at the time of his death, bonds and mortgages of realty companies within the City of New York, given for money loaned to them by a resident of California, were not subject to a transfer tax in New York.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

It is necessary that the small items of expense to the city government, and these are legion, should be eliminated. Most of the large expenditures are necessary, but if the pennies are taken care of, the balance of the budget will be easily adjusted.

Once more Americans are called upon to exhibit patriotism. The action of Fuel Administrator Garfield directing industries to practically shut their doors on certain days was so drastic that it has raised a storm of protest throughout half the country. But loyalty has superceded public opinion, though there are thousands of loyal Americans who do not approve of Governmental supervision over holidays. Business throughout the country is sensitive and nervous. Labor is uneasy. It would not take much to create a situation from which deplorable conditions might result. The way to obtain more coal is to provide more coal. There is a large supply at tidewater ready to be delivered. Offers have been made to move 100,000 tons, in 100 barges, by eight tugs, in twenty-four hours. This offer was ignored. It has been renewed, this time to Mayor Hylan. Coal is needed. Coal is at our doors. There are enough vehicles, both public and private, to move this coal. The only thing necessary is a little prompt action along the right lines.

The Coal Shortage.

Mayor Hylan's recent discovery that the Consolidated Gas Company had a reserve stock of 50,000 tons of coal in one pile which had not been touched for fifteen years, and many thousands of tons in other surplus dumps, did not afford any measure of relief to suffering New Yorkers because gas coal is not satisfactory for steam or heating purposes.

This does not alter the suggestive fact that a private corporation had been more provident than the city and had insured itself against loss or damage which would have resulted if supplies of coal had been interrupted by bad weather, strikes of miners, railroad, barge or truck men.

What New York has suffered in the past few weeks, and still is suffering, is only an aggravated condition that the city has narrowly escaped many times in the past. The present extraordinary situation may never recur, probably will not after peace comes. But even before the war the city was repeatedly threatened with milk, coal and food shortages, through causes over which it had no control. Only good luck and a change in the weather, or the settling of a strike, has averted famine on more than one occasion.

Manhattan will always be isolated. Running coal cars through the Pennsylvania tunnel has not proved altogether successful. The much talked of bridge to New Jersey is a myth of the future, as is the proposed tunnel under the Hudson River.

Every winter this city is at the mercy of the ice-floes or the equally unsympathetic labor unions. There is ever present when supplies of coal run short the danger of a conflagration that would be more terrible than the Chicago and San Francisco fires combined. In the first days of the recent cold spell when the mercury ranged around zero and below and coal was to be had only in dribbles, the number of fires directly traceable to the combination of intense cold and an unprecedented fuel shortage, rose from an average of forty-five a day to three or four times that number. On December 30 there were 209 alarms and on the following day 205, which is far and away a greater number than the average.

Food and fuel are the prime necessities of the millions of people living and doing business in New York. Unfortunately this city cannot turn its parks into market gardens of sufficient extent to provide sustenance for its teeming population, if famine came, nor even can it graze large enough herds of cows within its borders to furnish enough milk to keep all the babies alive, but it can do what the Consolidated Gas Company did. It can lay in a stock of coal that will tide the city over any reasonable period of shortage that may be brought about by labor troubles or stress of weather.

A ton of coal measures forty cubic feet. A thousand tons on an ordinary city lot will make a pile 20 feet high. On five acres 50,000 tons can be piled. The city owns numerous vacant plots of ground along the Harlem, on East River and on the Brooklyn side of the lower Bay, all near tidewater and within trucking distance of the heart of the city, where coal could be stowed for an emergency such as exists today. The city authorities can pick out the most available locations for dumps at strategic points in the five Boroughs and provide the necessary plant to handle the coal expeditiously. The work can be started in the early spring and continued during the summer until there is accumulated a reserve sufficient to supply the city for two or three weeks.

If a private corporation can afford to carry 50,000 tons of coal untouched for fifteen years as an insurance policy, it seems as if the municipal authorities will be lax in their duty to this community if they do not make similar provision for the safety and health of the millions of citizens who put them in office and for the insurance of the hundreds of millions of property involved.

The initial cost and the carrying charges will be small compared to the losses incurred by the failure to have on hand at all times sufficient fuel to tide the city over while the railroads are catching up on their regular jobs or the labor unions are settling their differences with the employers. The existing coal famine has already cost the city scores of millions of dollars.

To have had a half-million tons of coal in reserve when the blizzard paralyzed the already strained transportation routes in the last days of December would have been worth a hundred times the ten-Monday holiday coal saving scheme.

It might be that from these municipal coal pockets there could be sold to the patrons of the "bucket" stores sufficient coal on the basis of actual cost plus ten per cent. to cover at least part of the carrying charges, at the same time doing away with the conscienceless profiting of the coal-celler shylocks.

Labor and Housing.

A large proportion of the difficulties of the unsatisfactory building situation that has existed throughout the country for many months has been attributed to the shortage of labor, both skilled and unskilled types. The scarcity of new supplies from European sources to take the place of the men called to active military duty or other branches of Federal service has lately been decried in the columns of the daily papers as well as in trade publications. Practically every industry in the nation, including the trades interested in the construction and repair of buildings, have claimed that their businesses have been seriously effected and output curtailed by the scarcity of labor supplies, and that a large measure of their production difficulties could be eliminated if labor was procurable in sufficient volume to operate factories to capacity.

In most of the recent discussion about the labor shortage it would seem as though one thing has been entirely overlooked. This omitted factor is an important one and is responsible in a large way for a considerable portion of the claimed shortage. Labor, both skilled and unskilled, must be provided for outside of the hours devoted to actual work in the factories or other occupations, and to this end adequate housing facilities are a fundamental requirement. In the industrial districts that are making themselves heard on account of the so-called labor scarcity and the difficulties experienced in holding that at present at work, the lack of decent living accommodations for the workmen and their families, boarding houses or dormitories for single operatives, and community buildings, where all may spend their leisure hours in comfort or self-improvement, is one of the prime reasons for the troubles that have been experienced in the past. Shortage of labor is only another way of describing insufficient or improper housing development. The one thing explains the other.

Many of the foremost manufacturing communities have recognized the condition and are rapidly coming to a full appreciation of the fact that if they are to command full forces of workmen for their various industries, adequate housing, equipped with some of the modern conveniences of life, must be supplied. The Federal Government is vitally interested in this new national problem, so much so that it has appointed a committee of experts with power to investigate, report on and perfect a plan for alleviating the conditions that exist at so many manufacturing centers. Municipalities, through their boards of trade, chambers of commerce or other civic and commercial bodies, are working in harmony with the broad plan and cooperating wherever possible to eliminate this source of labor trouble. The obvious solution of the problem will be to provide for the housing of workmen and their families in structures that will be especially designed and constructed for their comfort and that will provide them with the modicum of modern conveniences that every workman now demands as his right.

In this way the bugbear of labor shortage can be dispelled. There is no real labor shortage, only a lack of provision for housing the workers in accommodations where the surroundings are clean and comfortable and compatible with the self-respect of the average American mechanic. When this provision is made it will immediately be found that there is a sufficiency of labor available for all demands, that skilled and unskilled workmen will be available for every manufacturing and commercial requirement, and furthermore, the labor will remain at work, satisfied and free from that spirit of unrest that for many months has kept it constantly on the move from city to city and factory to factory.

Sufficient housing, designed with care, and constructed of substantial materials, equipped with conveniences and improvements so essential to health and happiness, are an absolute requirement to the stabilization of the labor situation in the United States. With this accomplished most of the unrest that has been the besetting sin of the average mechanic will be dispelled and the manufacturers of both war materials and the commodities necessary to every-day living will find that their output is greater in volume and produced with a fuller measure of individual efficiency, by satisfied and healthy workmen, who will, moreover, stick to their jobs.

Suggestion Offered.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I understand there is some talk about the Public Service Commission moving to the 42nd street district. This should not be done, as the 42nd street and Fifth avenue districts are almost as expensive as the Wall street section and there is absolutely no reason why our public officials and offices should be located in the most expensive sections of the city. People having business with a public department will go wherever it is located and the only consideration that should be given is to have the location convenient for use by the public.

I send you a letter written by me to Hon. Oscar S. Straus, which explains itself. I believe the suggestions made are practical.

SAMUEL STRASSBOURGER.

"I note from the public press that your Commission is to remove its offices from the present location. I also note the suggestion that the city provide you with quarters in one of the buildings owned by it which may not be in use.

"This is a most excellent idea and in the proper direction if it can be done. If not, however, I thought I would take the liberty of making a suggestion which may not have occurred to you. It does not seem necessary for the business of such a public office as that of the Public Service Commission for it to be located in the most expensive section of the city where the rents are the highest obtained for quarters of the kind required. In addition to the economy which would be a direct result of my suggestion if you find it feasible, it would be a practical benefit to the City of New York and real estate values.

"As you well know, there are numerous buildings in what is known as the old dry goods district, taking Broadway from Worth street north to 14th street and Union Square west and Broadway to 23d street both on the main thoroughfares mentioned and on the cross streets. The practical location which I have in mind and where I believe you could acquire some building modern enough for the purposes of the Commission would be, for instance, in Bleeker street west of Broadway, there being several quite modern buildings between Broadway and

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 298.—What are the restrictions upon the use on mill construction in the Borough of Manhattan? L. R.

Answer No. 298.—The New York Building Code treats mill construction the same as wood joisted construction or non-fireproof construction, which is defined by Section 71, sub-division 3 of the Building Code as follows:

Non-fireproof. Non-fireproof buildings or structures are those which do not conform to the requirements for fireproof buildings or structures, but which are enclosed with walls of approved masonry or reinforced concrete.

Non-fireproof construction is limited by Section 72, Building Code, which specifies when buildings are required to be fireproof as follows:

When buildings are required to be fireproof. 1. New buildings. Every building hereafter erected shall be a fireproof building, as follows:

a. Every public building over 20 feet high, in which persons are harbored to receive medical, charitable or other care or treatment, or in which persons are held or detained under legal restraint;

b. Every other public building over 40 feet in height, or exceeding 5,000 square feet in area;

c. Every residence building, except tenements, over 40 feet in height and having more than 15 sleeping rooms;

d. Every tenement house exceeding 6 stories or parts of stories as provided in the Tenement House Law;

e. Every residence building having more than 15 sleeping rooms and exceeding 2,500 square feet in area, unless divided by interior partition walls of approved masonry or reinforced concrete into sections of less than 2,500 square feet area;

f. Every other residence building over 75 feet in height;

g. Every business building exceeding fifty feet in height, used as a garage, motor vehicle repair shop or oil selling station within the fire limits or the suburban limits;

West Broadway and a number of them on the intersecting streets such as Greene and Wooster streets. This, it strikes me, would be convenient for the officials, employees and the public doing business with the office as it is located within walking distance of the old subway and right at the new subway as well as the Sixth avenue railroad and the surface car facilities, beside a number of crosstown lines.

"Any of these buildings could probably be obtained on a lease for a number of years at a reasonable rental which would be practically only nominal compared to the rental which must be paid for quarters of the size required by you in the neighborhood of Wall street, a fact which would justify an expenditure of several thousand dollars for the purpose of making any such building completely available for your use.

"Even though a large sum were required for such purposes, that sum together with the rental which would be required for quarters in Wall street for the first year would probably be less than such first year's rentals in the Wall street section. As I stated before, the economy and saving would not be the only result for the establishment of the Commission in the district mentioned would re-establish and open up the use for real estate and probably bring them tenants resulting in a

h. Every business building used for a hazardous trade as indicated in 171 and 212 of chapter 10 of this ordinance:

i. Every building over 4 stories in height used as a factory as defined in the Labor Law;

j. Every building or structure within the fire limits or the suburban limits used as a grain elevator or a coal pocket;

k. Every business building over 75 feet in height;

l. Every business building within the fire limits or the suburban limits which exceeds an area of 7,500 square feet when located on an interior lot or when facing on only one street, or 12,000 square feet when facing on 2 streets, or 15,000 square feet when facing on 3 or more streets, provided that when any such building is equipped throughout with an approved system of automatic sprinklers, fireproof construction shall be required only when the areas exceeded double those herein specified for the respective conditions, and provided also that when any such building is divided by approved interior fire walls, fireproof construction shall be required only when any undivided area exceeds 7,500 square feet. Buildings of greater areas than herein specified for the respective conditions may, considering location and purpose, be constructed non-fireproof by special permission of the superintendent of buildings, provided they do not exceed two stories in heights.

2. Alterations. a. By extending. When any building now existing is to be enlarged by extending it on any side so that the enlarged building would exceed the limits of height or area specified in subdivision 1 of this section for a new building, the extension or enlargement shall be constructed fireproof, provided that, in case the existing building is not of fireproof construction, the existing and new portions of the building shall be separated by fire walls.

b. By raising in height. No building now existing shall be raised in height so as to exceed the limits of height specified in subdivision 1 of this section unless it is fireproof.

3. Special fire protection. In all non-fireproof buildings hereafter erected or hereafter altered or converted to be used as garages, motor vehicle repair shops or oil selling stations the columns and girders, unless of fireproof construction, and all wood floor and roof construction shall be covered and protected on all sides with such fire retarding materials and in such manner as may be prescribed by the rules of the Board of Standards and Appeals, except that when such buildings are not more than one story high, without basement or cellar, such protection shall not be required for the roof construction.

Existing non-fireproof buildings heretofore occupied as garages, motor vehicle repair shops or oil selling stations shall not be required to comply with the provisions of this sub-division, except as may be specifically provided in rules hereafter adopted by the Board of Standards and Appeals.

The Board of Appeals has power to vary the provisions of the Building Code if there are practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships, and, in meritorious cases, the board might modify restrictions upon mill construction, so as to permit its use to a greater extent than the foregoing provisions of the Code.

direct benefit for the city by increasing the taxable values of the buildings which have been so terribly depressed by reason of the removal of many businesses to other sections of the city."

The City Record Again.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In the Record and Guide of January 12 you print a letter by B. D. E. in reference to the City Record.

I agree with B. D. E. as to the first part of his letter, and would say further that for all students of New York City taxation it is absolutely necessary to have these printed records, as it is easier to check up a large number of properties with the new tentative values in a short time, and also saves the use of the record books on the tables of the Tax Department, as those who have to check up many parcels when the new records are made public, interfere with the general public getting access to the books and obtain their assessments quickly.

I do not agree with Mr. Ramsey or B. D. E. as to the names. The names reveal the fact that there is an unfair assessment in many cases where properties are assessed as separate parcels when they should be assessed as plotage. On the other hand, I believe that the Tax Department should obtain the correct names and place them on the assessment roll.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Coal Situation Tense—Monday Closing Considered Unnecessary and Will Work Hardships to Many

CONSIDERING the fact that practically the entire working force in every brokerage office was busy with the coal situation, there was a fair amount of contracts closed during the week. The order shutting off heat and light from buildings for the next ten Mondays caused a great deal of unfavorable comment, for it was considered unnecessary and too drastic, and surely would work more harm than good.

Almost to a man those interested in the building and real estate business were opposed to the ruling, for it was contended that the hampering of business at this time would work injury from which it would require a long time to recover.

There seems to be plenty of coal near at hand, at tidewater, if current reports are to be believed. The question of getting deliveries is the one which is causing the trouble. Certain concerns have found ways and means to obtain coal, through the converting of their trucks into coal vehicles and going to the supply stations and taking the coal away with them. The trouble is that the average man simply relies upon what the coal dealer states over the 'phone, and does not make a personal investigation. The dealers, as a rule, are not in a position to make deliveries, though they can supply a certain limited amount of coal, were it called for by the consumer.

Realty Company Formed.

Clarence W. Eckhardt, vice-president and treasurer of Horace S. Ely & Company, who has been connected with the concern for more than twenty years, has resigned to head the newly organized Markham Realty Corporation, which will have offices at 31 Nassau street. The company is formed for the purpose of operating in New York City real estate. The new company will have as directors, in addition to Mr. Eckhardt, Frederick M. Hilton, president of Wm. A. White & Sons; Hubert E. Rogers, director of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Steamship Line; Edward L. Ballard, president of the Merchants' Assurance Corporation; George T. Mortimer, president of the Equitable Office Building Corporation; F. H. Hirschland, vice-president Goldschmidt Detinning Company, and Seth Sprague Terry. The initial operation of the new company consists of the purchase of the five-story dwelling, at 162 Fifth avenue, from the Estate of Martha H. Andrews. The present building, which is four stories high will be razed and a two-story building erected on the site 25x100 feet. Negotiations are now pending for the leasing of the entire structure. The sale of this property is the first since 1851. Adjoining is the eleven-story Union Exchange Bank Building.

Architects Meet.

The monthly meeting of the New York Society of Architects was held on January 15, at the United Engineering Societies Building, 29 West 39th street, Manhattan. President James Riely Gordon drew attention to the fact that the Association of Building and Allied Industries of New York are actively engaged in coordinating the building interests, and suggested that the New York Society of Architects would do well to identify itself with the movement. Frederick C. Zobel was appointed as a delegate to represent the society with a view to joining forces for the attainment of this vitally important object.

Several other matters of general interest were discussed and acted upon. Among these were the proposed amendment to the Tenement House Law, eliminating the three-family house from the tenement class. The amendment to the act passed at the last session of the Legislature, with the avowed object of Real estate brokers in Brooklyn feel that values have reached their lowest ebb and that an opportunity exists for the small investor to acquire properties at prices which will probably not be duplicated for many years to come. Some members of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers are calling attention to the three-story dwelling in Brooklyn, which is now in little demand for one-family use. Under the Lawson Law, these houses are available for alteration to house three families, or could be converted into duplex houses.

The latter alteration, or even were three families to be provided for, if one were a non-housekeeping suite, would not bring the structure under the jurisdiction of the Tenement House Law, and it is contended that the change could be made at reasonable cost.

The general opinion among real estate men is that the present abnormal conditions will terminate with the war, and real estate values will be then influenced by the improved transportation systems and also by the demand created by the practical ceasing of building operations for the past two years. This has already been evidenced by the extraordinary demand for apartments during the past six months. The Fourth avenue subway is now in operation to 42nd street, Manhattan, and it is anticipated that during 1918 practically all of the Dual Subway system affecting Brooklyn will be in service.

facilitating the conversion of single-family dwellings into three-family tenements was so defectively drawn as to prove nugatory for the attainment of that object. Emery Roth, chairman of the Committee on Tenements, was instructed to confer with John P. Leo in regard to this matter.

A resolution was also passed that a draft bill be prepared to be presented to the Board of Aldermen, whereby only licensed architects will be allowed to obtain permits from the Building Department.

Brooklyn Board's Activities.

The Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, through its many committees, will take an active interest in the matters of city government which affect realty. The committee which did such effective work in the campaign for the amendment of the Three-Family House Bill, which was passed last year, will continue its efforts toward bringing about a more workable law, so that alterations on private dwellings may be made more economically than under the present measure. While the success met with by the board in its fight for the Three-Family House Bill was regarded as a notable victory, yet there are additional requirements and concessions which the brokers believe they need to finally produce a more practical law bearing on the three-family house.

Trustees Re-Elected.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE Lawyers Mortgage Company

RICHARD M. HURD, President

JANUARY 1, 1918

One event of surpassing importance stands out in 1917—the entry of the United States into the European War. So great is the war task before the American people that widespread effects are inevitable throughout the economic and financial structure.

Despite the resulting dullness in the mortgage field, the Lawyers Mortgage Company has sold during the past year $40,027,251 of guaranteed mortgages, including extensions and has now a total of Guaranteed Mortgages outstanding of $146,669,302.

There never has been a safer time to invest in New York City Mortgages than the present. The period of depression in New York City Real Estate, covering the past four years, has scaled down values so that Mortgage Loans now being made are on an especially conservative basis.

The Company continues to make strength, and not profit, its first consideration, by maintaining large amounts of cash in various banks and trust companies, by lending most conservatively and by requiring reduction of maturing mortgages. The Company has collected during the past six years reductions of $8,337,372 and has required borrowers to obligate themselves to pay $2,056,228 during the life of their present loans. Despite the shrinkage in New York City real estate, only 1 1/3 per cent. of our outstanding mortgages are now included in the foreclosures and real estate. The total of real estate and mortgages in foreclosure on January 1, 1918, as compared with two years ago is smaller by $1,797,000.

The Company now has under foreclosure 45 mortgages amounting to $869,450, some of which will probably be settled prior to sale. The foreclosed real estate owned by the Company on Jan. 1, 1917, amounted to $1,828,716 and since then real estate amounting to $1,437,397 has been added, making a total of $3,266,113. From this, during the past year, the Company has made sales amounting to $2,149,321, so that the amount now stands at $1,116,792. In addition the Elemco Realty Co. owns real estate on which the mortgages held by assignees amount to $194,746. The amount of interest delinquent for more than one month is $26,932.

Since December 12, 1894, when the Company began business, 17,713 mortgage loans have been made, aggregating, including extensions, $508,000,000, without loss of a dollar to any of our investors.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 30 as against 18 last week and 41 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 15, as compared with 5 last week and 14 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 15, as compared with 13 last week and 27 a year ago.

From the Bronx 7 sales at private contract were reported, as against 7 last week and 6 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 84 of this issue.

Glass Company Buys.

The Degnon Realty & Terminal Improvement Company sold the block fronting 420 feet on Hunterspoint avenue, extending 455 feet in Davis street, in the Degnon Terminal, to a Philadelphia investor who will erect on the site a building which will be leased to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for a long term of years. Geo. R. Read & Company were the brokers. The property abuts on the west the land of the Long Island Railroad. The new building, which will cover the block, will be erected in the near future. The Degnon Terminal Railroad will serve the plant. The fact that the glass company chose the Degnon Terminal for its building site speaks well for the advantages of that development. Its easy access to Manhattan via the Queensborough Subway to the Grand Central Terminal, and the Queensborough Bridge to 59th street, Manhattan; also the waterfront and railroad facilities were features which influenced the company to locate in the industrial colony in Long Island City. Among the concerns already located in that section are the Loose, Wiles Biscuit Company, the American Ever Ready Works, the Rome Metallic Bedstead Company, the Brett Lithographing Company, the Studebaker Corporation of America, the Defender Manufacturing Company, the Kindel Bed Company, the Marcus Ward, Inc.; the Paul Wissmach Glass Company, Frank G. Burke, the Hunter's Point Lumber and Supply Company and the Fahnestock Electric Company.

Resale in 72d Street.

The United States Trust Company sold to a client of William B. May & Company, 14 East 72d street, a four-story American basement dwelling, on a plot 27x100. Otto Heinze formerly owned and occupied the house. Last December the same brokers sold the adjoining house at 16 East 72d street, for the Estate of Robert W. Tailer, to Edmund L. Baylies, who has modernized many houses in that vicinity. The Heinze house was sold in foreclosure proceedings about a month ago, and it was at this time that the United States Trust Company acquired the property as plaintiff in the action. Morris W. Kellogg is the purchaser of 14 East 72d street, and it is understood he paid $105,000.

Sale in West 3d Street.

William P. Rae Company and N. A. Berwin & Company sold for Kenneth A. Wylie to May Mitchell Cowenhoven, 121 to 128 West 3d street, through to 12 and 14 Minetta lane, a four-story building occupied by a livery stable, and measuring 100x100 feet in the street, and 50x50 feet in the lane. Mr. Wylie takes in exchange the Cowenhoven homestead in 67th street, east of New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn, 86x116 feet, and ten adjoining vacant lots, and a two-family house, 35x100 feet. The properties have been held by the principals' families, for more than fifty years.

Resale on Fourth Avenue.

The eight-story loft building at 59 Fourth avenue, which was recently sold by the Hamilton Fish Estate, at auction, to M. D. Littlefield for $1,000 above the mortgage of $110,000, was resold to Samuel H. Stone, the operator. The property has a frontage of 25 feet on Fourth avenue, and an irregular depth of about 175 feet, including an "L" to Lafayette court, where the frontage is improved with two small stables. Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company were the brokers.

Sale on Lower Washington Heights.

The five-story apartment house at 612 West 135th street, 387x99.11, has been sold by T. J. McLoughlin Sons, builders, to the Martinique Realty Company. Ira K. Bockar, president, and J. J. Bockar, vice-president. In part payment the buyers gave the vacant plot 100x100 feet, at the southwest corner of 204th street and Vermilyea avenue. The 135th street property was assessed in 1917 at $47,000.

Midtown Conveyance.

There was recorded during the week a deed involving an undivided one-half interest in the property at 683 Broadway, northwest corner of Third street, by Miss Laura Hoe to Samuel Wacht. The property is improved with a twelve-story fireproof loft building, on a lot 50x95 feet, assessed at $295,000. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company were the brokers. The undivided one-half interest in the property at 62 and 64 Duane street, a five-story structure, on plot 49.4x79.6 feet, was also included in the deal. The latter property is assessed at $120,000. Both parcels are entirely rented. Stoddard & Mark represented the buyer as attorney, and Edward G. Pringle, the seller.

Operator Buys in Bronx.

Frederick Brown acquired title from the Dulcet Holding Company to the five-story apartment houses at 1220 to 1244 Grand Boulevard and Concourse, 75 feet north of 167th street. Mr. Brown contracted for the purchase of the houses before their completion last March. The buildings have a combined frontage of 310 feet, and accommodate 120 families. They are fully occupied with a reported annual rent roll of $51,648. The holding price was $420,000.

Studios in Washington Square.

John Fogliasso purchased 2 East 12th street, and 9 East 11th street, between Fifth avenue and University place, from the Estate of Thomas Suffern. The new owner will convert the property into studio apartments. The house, which is a four-story building with stable on lot 25x100, has been in the Suffern family for several generations. The stable will be remodeled into a sculptor's studio. Mr. Fogliasso has been identified with several similar operations in the section. Title passed last Thursday.

Operator Buys.

Leonard Weill, the operator, added to his holdings by purchasing from the Savings Bank of Utica, the five-story loft building at 368 Canal street, on a lot 25x91x irregular, between Church and West streets. The property was taken over at foreclosure recently by the bank. It is assessed at $29,000. The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company was the broker in the sale.

Sale of Broad Street Leasehold.

The United Wells Corporation sold its leasehold interest in the five-story building at 101 and 103 Broad street, on a plot 34.11x69.8x irregular. The lease was purchased for the remainder of the term by Theodore Crowell, Inc., tea importer, through Joseph P. Day. The property is owned by the Sons of the Revolution.

Deal on the West Side.

M. K. L. Realty Corporation sold 39 West 76th street, a four-story residence, on lot 22.11x102.2, between Central Park West and Columbus avenue. L. J. Phillips & Company and Brooks and Momand, were the brokers. The selling company acquired the property last month from Mrs. Louise M. P. Harris, who owned it for upwards of twenty-five years.

Bronx Corner in Trade.

The Conwall Construction Company, Samuel Williams, sold the five-story apartment house recently completed, at the northwest corner of Grand Boulevard and Concourse and 165th street, to Mrs. Gertrude Boecher. The property is arranged for six families on a floor, and measures 76x106 feet. In part payment was given the northeast corner of Brook avenue and 169th street, a four-story flat, fronting 34 feet on the avenue, and 100.5 feet, extending to the tracks of the New York & Harlem Railroad. Alexander Selkin was the broker. The selling company started the Concourse operation last April, from plans by Gronenberg & Leuchtag, who estimated the cost at $65,000. It is the only building put up on a plot of thirteen lots at this point, extending to Walton avenue, acquired by the company last February, from the William E. Diller Realty Company. Mr. Williams recently had plans filed for another apartment on the Concourse, 103 feet north of 165th street. The building will have accommodations for fifty-five families, and will cost $135,000.

Sand Dealers Buy.

The Goodwin-Gallagher Sand and Gravel Company bought the plant of the Phoenix Sand and Gravel Company on the west shore of Hempstead Harbor, Port Washington, L. I. The buying company, which operates at Port Washington, and the selling company were the largest sand and gravel concerns in the East. Cornelius Gallagher will be the president of the new concern.

Sale and Resale in 73d Street.

Mrs. M. Moran sold to James A. Farley, the four-story dwelling on lot 19x102.2, at 102 West 73d street, through C. R. Hubert. Mr. Farley subsequently resold the property to Harry R. Roeder, interior decorator, who will alter the premises at a cost of about $15,000. A store will be installed for Mr. Roeder's business, and the upper portion will be converted into bachelor apartments containing suites of two rooms and bath.

Exchange in the Bronx.

Louise Masser sold to the Kane Construction Company, the two four-story new-law apartment houses at the southeast corner of Bathgate avenue and 187th street, 77x90 feet, held at $60,000. The buildings house thirty-three families. In part payment the buyer gave the two-story residence at 1031 Trinity avenue, on a plot 50x123 feet, held at $15,000. Joseph A. Blackner, Charles Kuntze and Frank Greunich were the brokers.

RECENT LEASES.

Electric Company Leases.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturers of many of the electric appliances used in every-day commercial and household life, are about to establish its New York distributing office in the 16-story modern fireproof building which the Bradish Johnson Estate has just completed in the north side of 21st street from Broadway to Fifth avenue. This establishment will occupy the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th floors, comprising an area of about 45,000 square feet. M. & L. Hess, Inc., was the brokers. The Western Electric Company's lease is one of the most important closed in that part of the city in months. Although this lease is for a term of years, the rental aggregating $200,000, a more important fact is that it brings to this district a new kind of industry. Leasing of space by the Western Electric Company in the Broadway-Fifth Avenue Building does not mean that the company will surrender the space it now occupies in various parts of the city. M. & L. Hess said yesterday that the Western Electric Company is only one of a number of large concerns seeking space in the mid-town section. As a result of the big demand for offices and salesrooms they expected to rent up the Broadway-Fifth Avenue Building even more rapidly than they did the Albermarle Building, at Broadway and 24th street, which they rented last year in record time.

Leases Large Apartment.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased for William Ziegler, Jr., his apartment comprising a floor at 525 Park avenue, corner of 61st street. The apartment contains 22 rooms and 7 baths. It was specially designed for Mr. Ziegler's occupancy when he bought the building from the builder, Edgar A. Levy. Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler have taken an apartment in Washington. The new tenant of the Ziegler apartment will be Edmond S. Guggenheim, who takes the apartment, which has been held at $20,000 a year, furnished for a term of years.

Realty Organization Moves.

Robert E. Farley Organization, which has had its headquarters for several years at the Country Life Exposition in the Grand Central Terminal, rented for its various suburban realty interests the seventh and eighth floors in the new Ashtorth Building, 12 East 44th street, and has already taken possession of its new quarters. The Country Life Exposition was organized in 1913 by Mr. Farley, and has been occupying about 20,000 square feet in the front of the Grand Central Terminal. The idea of the exposition was to demonstrate the advantages of life in New York suburbs, and the space has been utilized for exhibits of real estate developments and everything connected with country life. The space vacated by the exposition will be used after extensive alterations by the New York Central Railroad for its Valuation Department.

Hatters Lease on Fifth Avenue.

Dobbs & Company, retail hatters, for many years located on lower Fifth avenue, leased the one-time Hoffman residence (Columbia leasehold) at 620 Fifth avenue. The old Hoffman dwelling is a five-story reconstructed building, 25 feet wide, located two doors from the southwest corner of 50th street. It is understood that the Dobbs Company has taken the lease from Brazier & Company, the original tenants, and will pay an aggregate rental of approximately $500,000. The new lessees will occupy the grade floor, and will sublet the upper floors. McKim, Mead & White designed the alterations for the building.

Times Square Lease Recorded.

As the result of a lease recorded yesterday, it was shown that Thomas E. Fitzgerald will pay to the estate of Michael Dowling, $375,000 for the lease of the four-story building at the southwest corner of Broadway and 43d street. The lease which was reported several months ago, is for fifteen years from October 1, at an annual rental of $25,000.

Petit Trianon Leased.

Petit Trianon, the club house and restaurant, on the west shore of Lake Ronkonkoma, at the East end of the Long Island motor parkway, has been leased by the Long Island Motor Parkway Association, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., president, to Arthur Hayes Myers, proprietor of the Standish Arms, Brooklyn. The building was erected several years ago under the supervision of Mr. Vanderbilt, from plans by John Russell Pope. The property covers about nineteen and one-half acres, and contains an inn, a club house, a garage and servants' quarters. The lease is for five years at $7,000 a year, and contains a five-year purchase option at maturity. The club will be reopened in June.

A Human

*full of the "blood and sweat"
the fair weather and the foam into the history of the man*

On the morning of March 21, 1868, in a small office on Park Row, there was born THE REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS' GUIDE.

On Saturday morning, March 23, 1918, commemorating the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY, the paper played in its chosen field will be portrayed by pen and picture in the form of a FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER.

The history of a paper that for half a century has represented the closely knit community, its publication date, and numbering among its present subscribers and advertisers many of the leading names of the city.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be issued one year after the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY. It is said that trade is slackening, that the pessimist is grumbling.

In the face of the grumble of the pessimist the RECORD AND GUIDE will go on together as one man with their representative paper.

Business WILL go on. There are enough strong, optimistic men in the business fabric of the city who years men fought side by side to save a situation in business and in war because they believe in the future.

A glance at the brief resume of the prospectus will outline the vast scope of the RECORD AND GUIDE for half a century—a record which has made it a part of the history of the city.

(1) THE RECORD AND GUIDE—Its inception in 1868—its growth in fifty years—illustrated.

(2) OLD NEW YORK—How it looked and lived and did business a half century ago.

(a) Brief historical sketch outlining conditions as to boundaries, population, residential and business centers, transportation facilities, shipping, public buildings, amusements and amusement places, hotels—brief reference to conditions twenty-five years ago that led up to consolidation into Greater New York in 1898. (b) Brief historical reference to methods of doing real estate business, facilities for doing it, values in "gilt edge" sections of Manhattan.

(3) A MESSAGE from Mayor Hylan to the Tax Payers of New York City.

(4) NEW YORK OF TODAY.

(a) This great City of New York—area, population, greatness of its governmental problem and municipal machinery for doing its work, annual cost of running it, value of its real estate, what real estate contributes in taxes, its great manufactures and industries, its waterfront and port and shipping, its transportation facilities—surface, elevated and subway—its street traffic, the railroads entering it bringing passengers and freight, the center of a great suburban population, its buildings and its building industry, its financial importance, bank clearings, contribution to Federal tax, to first and second Liberty Loans. (b) A message from Borough President Dowling to the taxpayers of Manhattan. (c) Manhattan—growth and present conditions in real estate of the following: Wall Street and the financial districts, insurance district, and area east of William Street and South of Brooklyn Bridge—about the City Hall—Middle Broadway—West Side—Union Square—Madison Square—Square—Fifth Avenue—Madison Avenue—Park Avenue—Middle West Side—Columbus Circle—the Upper Side—East Side—Lexington Avenue—Harlem—Kings Heights, and the Dyckman section.

(5) THE WATERFRONT OF NEW YORK CITY.

Its extent; various shipping, manufacturing and industrial uses; relation to the Port of New York, Brooklyn and Queens, the summer resort and Jersey Bay features; in Staten Island, its relation to Jersey.

(6) THE SUBWAYS.

(a) Effect of first lines. (b) Lines recently completed and territory served. (c) Lines nearing completion and territory they will serve.

(7) IMPORTANT MUNICIPAL AGENCIES.

Subjects will be treated separately as they represent municipal activities with which real estate brokers come frequently into contact.

(8) ORGANIZED FOR PROTECTION.

Functions and work of the Real Estate Board.

Confidence in ourselves, plus "American ingenuity" have given this nation an ability to produce. THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will radiate this confidence to manufacturers and others interested in real estate and building conditions in Greater New York.

Advertisers will be given an opportunity of having their announcements read by those who read the RECORD AND GUIDE in New York.

This edition will comprise 10,000 copies with a probable reading circulation of 50,000.

J. ARTHUR FISCHER has been appointed agent for the 5-sty apartment buildings at 210 West 109th st and 215 and 217 West 108th st; also for the 5-sty apartment building with stores at 254 West 30th st.

McDOWELL & McMAHON have been appointed agents of the taxpayer building recently appointed agents of the taxpayer building recently completed by Ennis & Sinnott at the northeast corner of 182d st and St. Nicholas av.

THOMAS J. O'REILLY has been appointed agent for the following buildings: at 470 Convent av, a 6-sty apartment house on the southwest corner of 151st st; 3475 3d av, a 3-sty building; and the 3-sty dwelling at 432 West 18th st.

STATE TAXES on real estate corporations were due on January 15. On March 1 unpaid real estate taxes and 1916 water rents are payable to the Collector of Assessments and Arrears. On April 1 a 5 per cent. penalty is added to unpaid water taxes for 1918.

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING of directors of M. & L. Hess the following were re-elected for the ensuing year: N. J. Hess, president and treasurer; E. H. Hess, 1st vice-president; J. W. Hahner, 2d vice-president, and L. W. Flaun-lacher, secretary. Harry C. Thoens was elected a director.

PEASE & ELLIMAN CLUB, composed of the members and employees of the firm of Pease & Elliman, held their annual election Wednesday, January 16, at which Lee T. Smith was elected president; Edward C. Ohl, vice-president; J. Saxton Smith, secretary; and W. R. Nash, treasurer.

ANNUAL MEETING of Bronx Board of Trade will be held next Wednesday evening, January 23, in the board rooms, 137th st and 3d av, for the purpose of electing officers for the year 1918. Hon. Travis H. Whitney, member of the Public Service Commission, is scheduled to make an address on Bronx transit conditions.

JOHN J. HEARN obtained a permanent loan of $550,000 at 5 per cent. for ten years on the 14-sty apartment house just completed, on a plot 71x100 ft., at the southwest corner of 6th av and 50th st. The building faces Central Park and is opposite the New York Athletic Club building, and is rented for $150,000 a year, gross. The apartment rentals range from $1,000 to $4,500 a year each. The loan was placed through Hughes & Hammond.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

THROUGHOUT the building interests of this city one of the most general topics of discussion during the past week was the Federal plan for the housing of workmen. The Emergency Housing Committee, formed sometime ago under the direction of the Council of National Defense, and of which Otto M. Eidlitz is the chairman, has announced tentative plans for the expenditure of millions of dollars of Government funds in order to provide adequate housing facilities for mechanics and laborers in some of the principal industrial centers of the country. The housing situation was rapidly becoming a serious menace to the health and morals of the laboring communities in a number of the large centers and many difficult problems were involved. The Government has recognized the conditions, and in a broad manner is taking steps to remedy the situation as rapidly as possible so that the fighting strength of the country will not be jeopardized through lack of ships and war munitions, brought about by labor difficulties.

The definite plans already under way provide for the erection of about two thousand dwellings in the vicinity of Newark, N. J., for which John Nolen, Cambridge, Mass., is preparing the plans. McKenzie, Voorhees & Gmelin, architects, 1123 Broadway, Manhattan, have been retained to prepare the plans for another large group of houses, the location for which has not been announced. City planning engineers and architects who have made national reputations for group housing will be retained for the balance of this work, and during the next few days it is likely that the program for alleviating the intolerable housing situation will be well advanced.

In addition to the work of the national committee, various industrial communities are undertaking the work of providing suitable dwelling places for the workmen engaged at the local plants and factories. Much of this work is being undertaken by the local chambers of commerce or the boards of trade, and will be in the nature of investments. In Bayonne, N. J., there is an important project in process of development, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., another, and other cities have undertaken similar projects.

This work is most important and its progress will be watched with not unselfish interest by the building trades of the country. The construction of literally thousands of one and two-family dwellings, and in some cases apartment houses and dormitories for workmen, will require millions of dollars' worth of materials and keep thousands of mechanics engaged at their chosen trades for the next six months or more. The development of the housing plan comes at a time when the best interests of all will be served, as the Government is assured of a sufficiency of mechanics and materials to build these structures, and the workmen provided with occupations at a time when general construction has been reduced almost to a minimum.

In the Metropolitan district, the building situation has shown definite signs of improvement during the past week. This has been particularly noticeable in the number and value of operations placed under contract within that period. The average is considerably better than it has been during recent weeks and the industry as a unit is much heartened. There is only a small percentage of private work, however, the major portion of the recently contracted work being Government, State or municipal building. There is also signs of considerable activity in the construction of public or semi-public structures of an educational, philanthropic and religious character and the coming months should witness a marked improvement in construction work of this nature. The purely private that is now active is largely confined to alterations to old buildings and additions to industrial and commercial structures, with a sprinkling of residential construction.

Building material prices are generally firm and in a number of instances important advances have been announced. There had been a decided impression in the structural trades that the top level of material prices had been reached and that the future would at least witness a hold at the present levels or a slight recession along some lines. The increases in the price of common brick, sand, cement and other building essentials has, to some extent, upset the calculations of the industry and there is likely to be somewhat of a rush to take advantage of existing prices rather than postpone operations further and take the chance of additional increases all along the line.

Common Brick.—In spite of the lack of building the price for Hudson River common brick has been advanced $1 over the figure that maintained one week ago. For the two barges that were taken out of the market during this week the dealers obtained $10 a thousand, and that is the quotation that is now being made upon all inquiries. The fact that no arrivals are possible while the river is icebound, coupled with only a slight reserve at the wholesale docks will have a tendency to hold brick prices at their present levels and might possibly be responsible for further advances. There is no danger of a brick famine, however, as the material dealers generally have large quantities of brick stacked in their yards, sufficient for all demands in sight and allowing a fair margin for a sudden increase in building activity. The market is dull, however, and in the face of the upset conditions induced by the cold and stormy weather, lack of building, freight difficulties and, finally, the drastic fuel conservation measure, the outlook is not bright.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, January 19, 1918: Condition of market: Demand slight; prices higher. Quotations: Hudson River, $10.00 a thousand to dealers in carload lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none. Sales, 2. Distribution: Manhattan, 2.

Lumber.—Conditions in the local lumber market have undergone but slight change during the past week. Business has been comparatively dull, but this is largely attributed to the bad weather that has all but stopped building operations and created difficult hauling for trucks. The stocks in the hands of the dealers are generally at a low ebb, and with the wretched transportation situation there is no great promise of relief from this quarter. The demand is holding about up to the average of former weeks with the manufacturing consumers and Government interests the most important factors in the market. The demands from the latter source are taking out of the yards in the Metropolitan district large quantities of timber of all dimensions, and unless there is a decided improvement in the transportation situation, both by rail and water, there will likely be a serious shortage of material available for purely local consumption. The announcement that the Federal authorities are rapidly perfecting their program for the housing of workmen was good news to the lumber interests, as the major portion of the projected dwellings will be of frame construction. Millions of feet of lumber will be used for this purpose. Lumber prices are generally unchanged, although premiums are willingly paid for early deliveries of selected stocks. At the present writing there is practically no possibility that lumber prices will be reduced for the next two or three months, as the receipts of new stocks are not expected to equal the demands, much less exceed them.

Structural Steel.—The steel situation at the present time strongly reflects the general conditions that surround the building industry, and there has been no development during the week that would have a tendency to improve matters. Fuel shortage continues to an extent that will keep many plants idle or on part time for some time to come. Embargoes and freight congestion in all Eastern lines complicate the situation. There is practically no demand for structural material for local private building work, and there will undoubtedly be none while the existing conditions maintain. The production of supplies for Government use is also suffering from the effects of the freight tie-up and lack of fuel. There has been no change in quotations for fabricated material.

Sand and Gravel.—The markets for these materials are exceptionally quiet on account of the slack building situation and the cold weather that has now maintained for some weeks. Prices for sand have been sharply advanced and the current quotations for this commodity range from $1.25 a cubic yard upward. The demand is light, and fortunately so, as the ice-congested conditions of local waters make navigation impossible, and one of the leading dealers has stated that it will possibly be March 15 before sand scows are able to come through to the local docks. Gravel is scarce by virtue of the same conditions, although prices have been unaffected.

Window Glass.—The market for plate and window glass is extremely dull and as long as the existing conditions maintain there is no probability of improvement. Manufacturers are operating only at partial capacity and the total volume of output for the current year is not likely to exceed fifteen per cent. of the normal of other years. The freight congestion is hampering the glass producers to a great extent, and it is almost impossible for them to arrange for transportation of either raw materials or for their finished product.

Hydrated Lime.—The situation as regards this material is very quiet, with practically no demand and inquiries infrequent. Current quotations for this commodity remain practically unchanged at $15.00 a ton for hydrated common, in cotton bags, with the usual rebate of $4.00 for returned bags, and $11.00 in paper bags, plus the war tax on freight. Hydrated finishing is still quoted at $15.43 a ton, alongside, with returned bags and war tax conditions similar.

Roofing.—Manufacturers of asphalt and tarred prepared roofing have advanced their prices for these materials, and it is not unlikely that further increases will come with the advent of spring. The demand for roofing materials from general building sources is comparatively light owing to the lack of new construction, but the Federal Government is a potent factor in the market for prepared roofings for the great volume of military construction now under way.

Reinforcing Bars.—The demand for reinforcing material for reinforced concrete work is dull on account of the lack of active construction that has been aggravated by the recent bad weather conditions. Bars are now being quoted at the Government price of 2.90c for steel bars in carloads and larger lots, f. o. b., mill, with refined iron bars at 3.50c at mill, in carload or larger lots.

SYNAGOGUE PLANNED FOR BROOKLYN

Edifice Designed for Bensonhurst

Will Involve Approximately $100,000

BUILDINGS of a public or semi-public character, including a large number of religious edifices, constitute a large proportion of the projected construction work. The plans and specifications for some interesting and costly operations of the latter type are at present in course of preparation and if the existing schedule is adhered to the major portion of these structures will be started during the coming spring or early summer.

The Borough of Brooklyn occupies a prominent position in the building situation at this time for the number of churches and other buildings of a religious or educational nature that are oped the plan for this edifice in a most interesting manner. The main axis of the building runs diagonally across the plot and thus provides an auditorium, with an excellent seating arrangement, that, with the gallery, will accommodate more than one thousand worshippers. The main entrance is located diagonally across the corner of the plot. The entrance corridor is spacious and is flanked on each side by a marble stairway leading to the gallery. On either side of the entrance lobby are located retiring rooms and lavatories.

The basement will be but slightly below the grade level and will be finished to be used as a Sunday school and for social gatherings of the various organi-planned for an early start. Among the most important of these operations is the new synagogue, to cost nearly $100,000, that will be erected in Bensonhurst for the Congregation of the Sons of Israel. Lewis Winter is the chairman of the Building Committee in charge of this project. The plans and specifications for this structure are now being prepared by Emery Roth, architect, 119 West 40th street, Manhattan, and it is expected that estimates for construction under a general contract will soon be called for.

The projected synagogue will be a handsome structure, located at the southeast corner of Benson and Twenty-first avenues, where it will occupy a plot 100x100 feet. The ground dimensions of the building proper will be approximately 80x80 feet. The architect has developments connected with the synagogue. The sub-basement will be used as a boiler room and storage for coal.

The facades have been designed in a dignified manner and will be constructed of Indiana limestone, richly ornamented by carving in relief. The details of the ornamentation are strictly Classical. The base of this building is rectangular, with the gallery level in the form of an octagon. This will be surmounted by a dome of red Spanish tile. The interior of the structure follows the general outlines of the exterior and, as no columns are to be used, a free view of the altar will be possible from any part of the auditorium. Seven sides of the dome are to be pierced by large arched windows of leaded glass, that will afford excellent light for the interior of the edifice.

Revised Plans for Hospital.

Cohn Brothers, architects, 363 Stone avenue, Brooklyn, are revising the plans and specifications for the hospital to be erected at the southwest corner of Howard and Dumont avenues, Brooklyn. This building is for the Maternity Hospital Society, Jacob Koell, president, 1540 Union street. The plans call for a structure three stories in height, with basement, and with ground dimensions of approximately 40x60 feet. The project will include a roof garden. This operation will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Plans for Tuberculosis Hospital.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders of Monmouth County, N. J., has recently approved the preliminary plans for the tuberculosis hospital to be erected along the southside of the Manasquan River, near Allenwood, N. J. The plans and specifications for this project are being prepared under the direction of Warren H. Conover, architect, 114 Liberty street, Manhattan, and Freehold, N. J. The buildings that are included in this operation will be constructed of brick and will be two stories in height, varying in size. The working plans will shortly be started and it is expected that the owners will advertise during the summer for bids on general contract. Further details of construction will be available later.

Bayonne Model Tenements.

The Bayonne Housing Company, a corporation now in process of formation, under the direction of the Bayonne Chamber of Commerce, contemplates the erection of two model tenements to cost more than $100,000 each. Neither the site nor the architect for this project have been selected as yet, and it is expected that no definite details will be available for some time. The tentative plans call for buildings of brick and stone, semi-fireproof, and equipped with all modern conveniences and improvements. Included in this operation will be a park and playground for children.

Broadway Alteration.

Severence & Van Alen, architects, 4 West 37th street, will take bids in the latter part of next week for alterations to 18 Broadway, to cost about $50,000. The improvements include the filling of the light shaft with a new floor, four electric elevators, with overhead machinery, pent houses on roof, new stairway from Broadway to the cellar, the redecoration of public spaces and new electric fixtures. The property is owned by E. E. Smathers.

Bids for Y. W. C. A. Building.

Louis E. Jallade, architect, 37 Liberty street, is taking estimates on general contract to close January 24, for the erection of an eight-story brick and stucco building for the Young Women's Christian Association at the southeast corner of 124th street and Lenox avenue. This structure will occupy a plot approximately 75 x 150 feet and will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. Details of this operation have been published in former issues of the Record and Guide.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Eugene Schoen, architect and engineer, 112 East 19th street, was recently appointed as one of the Milk Commissioners of the U. S. Food Commission of New York City.

Thomas J. Foster was recently elected chairman of the board of directors of the National Bridge Works, Long Island City, N. Y. He is succeeded as president by H. B. Roger, general manager of the company.

E. N. Hurley, chairman of the Shipping Board, was elected head of the Port War Board of New York, succeeding Secretary McAdoo, who was forced to give up this place on account of the pressure of work entailed by his new office of Director General of Railroads.

Arthur R. Wilcox has been appointed president of Abendroth Brothers, pipe manufacturers, Port Chester, N. Y., to succeed R. Jay Walsh, who died recently. John M. Ellis has been elected treasurer and Charles I. Smith, secretary. Other officers are C. B. Elmer, vice-president, and John W. Diehl, assistant treasurer.

Guy E. Tripp, New York, chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., has been placed in charge of the Production Division of the Ordnance Department at Washington. The function of this division is to follow up, supervise and stimulate the production of all articles purchased by the Ordnance Department.

The Credit Association of the Building Trades of New York City recently published a pamphlet entitled "The Present Trouble with the Building Trades." This booklet relates the causes of the present unsatisfactory conditions in the building industry. The remedy suggested by this organization is a strong cooperation between all of the interests concerned.

Mounting Costs Accentuate Edison Economy

In these days of mounting costs even the most efficient of private generating plants cannot compete with the service of the Central Station

A case in point is the American Brass and Copper Company which has just abandoned the generating equipment in its eleven story manufacturing plant on Lafayette Street

The generators were modern in design and in first class order. The problem of deterioration had not yet presented itself. It was purely a matter of cost, and the rising expense of this plant led to an engineering investigation which showed conclusively that Central Station Service would mean a saving of money

Edison Service is now supplying cheaply and efficiently the 1100 lamps and 475 horsepower in motors used in this big building

Let us show you how to stop the waste in your establishment. A postal will bring our engineers to you

Our Fiftieth Anniversary

On March 23rd we celebrate the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY of the RECORD AND GUIDE by a special FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER, with cover in three colors from a sketch drawn in our own Art Department.

Our ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be a history of a paper that has occupied its chosen field as an acknowledged leader for fifty years. It will also be a history of real estate and building conditions in New York City from 1868 to 1918, illustrated by comparative photographs.

This ANNIVERSARY NUMBER can pull a strong oar for you if you will utilize its power and influence. The class of readers reached are those who pay more than TWICE as much for subscription to this paper as they do for any other trade paper published in this section. It will be read not for RELAXATION, but for BUSINESS INFORMATION and BUSINESS BETTERMENT.

"A HUMAN DOCUMENT" is the term applied to the prospectus of this issue, which will be sent upon request. It will tell the story of this vast undertaking at a glance.

Consider it not only a privilege but a direct business advantage to be represented in this issue.

Circulation 10,000 copies. Write for rates and full particulars.

CLASSIFIED BUYERS' GUIDE

This department is consulted by buyers anxious to secure information, etc., concerning products they wish to purchase. These buyers represent the Owners, Managers of Estates, Building Managers, Architects, Contractors, Sub-contractors, etc., who own, manage or erect New York City Buildings.

New York City is the market place of the world. If you want to reach the buyers in this market you can do so by being listed in this department. We will print your name, address and telephone number in space of two lines under proper classification for $25.00 per year, each additional line $10.00, 10% reduction on second heading, 15% reduction on all headings amounting to three or more lines. Probably an investment of $25.00 will prove very profitable.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

(Copyright, 1917, by The Record and Guide Co.)

NEW YORK, JANUARY 26, 1918

SOME EFFECTS OF "SINGLE TAX" ON REAL ESTATE

Psychological Composition of Our People Partly Responsible for the Widespread Influence of the Doctrine

By FREDERICK C. ZOBEL

THE "Single Taxers" and their first cousins, the "Half Taxers," are responsible for much of the antagonism to landlords. The spread of the single tax doctrine is one of the most astonishing phenomena of our times, and when we examine this doctrine we are still more amazed that a theory built upon such impractical ideas and illogical confusions should gather to its standard so many devout believers.

The reason for this, however, is to be found in the psychological composition of our people. We must remember that from the beginning and up to recent times this country was settled by people eager for the millennium. Here gathered the nations in search of the promised land. These settlers, under the hypnotic spell of orators, preachers and demagogues, came to this country to find relief from the ills they had suffered in their own lands.

Considering that these men left their native land to face the terrors of the unknown American wilderness, took their families with them, and that even entire communities emigrated, all following the call of their supposedly prophetic leaders, then we are struck by the fact that the leaders were men of great personal magnetism, and their followers impressionable. From these two types of leaders and followers the succeeding generations inherited their mental capacities. But, alas, the sheep were many and the bell-weather few! Most of us have the inherited hunger for perfection, a hysterical longing for the ideal. We lack poise, calm judgment, and we are impatient for the millennium.

The susceptibility of our people to suggestion was well illustrated by the "Sixteen to One" fizzle, which had hypnotized almost one-third of our population. The dancing craze is another instance of a "psychic infection," and the "Single Tax" outburst belongs to the same class with these.

Let a prophet but claim to know the way out of darkness or suggest a panacea and in a short time he will be surrounded by an army of followers. As a fact, if a thing is said loud enough and often enough a lot of people will believe it, no matter what it may be. This accounts for the great variety of political faiths, and the infinite multitude of industrial reform groups.

So we see that it is easy to win the applauds of the mob, but thoughtful people will not be misled by the amount of clamor for the "Single Tax" without investigating its merits.

I would like to ask the "Single and Half Taxers" if they consider it ethical for the State to establish and encourage for centuries the "private ownership" of lands and then suddenly confiscate the land. The "Single Tax" proposition must, first of all, be judged as an ethical question. Let us consider the equities of the case. The State or the "People" cannot seize directly or indirectly that which belongs to the individual. The "People" as a community may not rob or steal with more impunity than the individual, and taxation to the point of confiscation is plain "robbery." The proper way then for the "People" to regain the land they have knowingly turned over to individuals is to "buy it back" from these individuals at a fair market value. Are the people prepared to act righteously and acquire the land by purchase and are they able to meet the expense involved?

"Single Taxers" claim they are not going to confiscate the land, only tax the land so that it will be unprofitable to hold without improvement. Now it does not matter whether you shut out a man from his land or rob him of his property by unjust taxation. In either case you are violating his rights, and any defense of such action is based on ignorance or malice.

State Right to Condemn.

The right of the State to condemn land for public purposes is established; and, in fact, since the State always retained that right its ownership never ceased, and what is commonly called "ownership" really is not more than ordinary "occupancy," the obligations on the part of the occupant being the payment of taxes, and on the part of the State to protect the individual in the quiet possession of the land. This is the essence of the implied contract now existing between the State and private owners, and this contract cannot be broken by either side without proper compensation. If the owner fails to pay taxes his land is sold to satisfy the State's claims against him. What redress should be given the owner when the State abrogates the contract by confiscating his property?

And now let me point out some of the fallacies of the "Single Taxers." Their first error is that "all land is God-made and that all other things are man-made" and that the "supply of land is limited." This is only a half truth, but the whole truth is that "some" land is God-made and "some" is man-made.

Reclamation by Irrigation.

Our Federal Government is reclaiming millions of acres in the Western States by irrigation, making fruitful land which God had left unfit for the habitation of men. Recently the Government built thirty-two acres of land, extending Governors Island in New York Harbor, and New York City itself has built hundreds of acres of land along its waterfronts, which formerly were completely submerged and unavailable. And what about the land manufactured by men in the construction of houses? Every time a ten-story building is erected on a city lot approximately nine additional lots are manufactured by the builder. So we see that all land is not God-made, and that furthermore land can be produced in absolutely unlimited quantity.

Now it may be argued that while the manufacture of lots may apply to space that is habitable by men it does not apply to the cultivable soil.

I venture a prophecy: Just as soon as men discover how to grow plants under artificial light (and experiments with electricity have been fairly successful) we shall see five and ten story farms within cities just as there now are one-story green-houses, where crops will be raised all the year round. Land in its natural state is not fit for man's use. His labor must go into it just as labor goes into the production of clothes or food.

If I have no right to own land, then you, friend "Single Taxer," have no right to the coat on your back, for the title to the coat is as obscure as that of my land. You bought the coat from a man who robbed a sheep of its wool; the sheep was stolen from its dam, and the dam was restrained against its will, as was its original ancestor by some cave man.

If it is not moral to own an inanimate clod of earth, how much more immoral is it to deprive living creatures of its protection, its liberty and even its life?

The right to real property lies in its use, but as to what and when that use shall be is too delicate a matter for any one to decide, and if some one could be found with omniscience to designate the proper use of each thing we would all violently resent such dictation as an invasion of our personal rights.

One of the pet themes of "Single Taxers" is the "unearned increment." Now there is not the slightest difference between the man who buys real estate, hoping for a rise in value, and the man who buys bales of wool and stores them in his warehouse in hopes of a better market.

The "unearned increment" comes to everything that is in demand, whether it be real estate, potatoes, sugar or ships. It is the result of supply and demand.

If I buy railroad stocks or ships or dyestuffs and sell them at big profits I'm a good business man, but if I buy land and sell it at a profit I'm a "grafter" because I'm getting "unearned increment."

Curious reasoning these "Single Taxers" have! They never mention "unearned depreciation" of real estate. Think of lower Fifth avenue!

"Single Taxers" claim that increased values of land are produced by population, and this again is only a half truth, for up to a certain point population does enhance the value, but as soon as congestion goes beyond this point values begin to recede again. Think of lower Fifth avenue again!

Rather is it true that the character of the improvement upon the land attracts people to that particular locality, and the improvement is determined by the geographical advantage of the land. Population and high land values do go hand in hand, but they are coincident symptoms, not cause and effect. New York City would not have become the home of millions if it had not the advantage of a magnificent harbor, giving it unrivalled shipping facilities and making it practically the largest market or distributing center of our country. The nearer you get to the market or distributing center the better and cheaper you can buy, and if millions congregate in the City of New York it is solely for reasons of economy, the market advantage.

It is amusing to contemplate the strenuous efforts of "Uplifters" trying to drive the people from the large cities into the open country. They would actually have us believe that there are seven million fools living in the Metropolitan district! If so many people live here it is because they get more and better for their money than anywhere else. Any one who has lived in the country knows that.

Furthermore, the "Single Taxers" talk about the high price of land. There are millions of acres in this country and a good deal of it within two or three hours of large cities, land which can be bought at $10 an acre; but the very people who advocate the "Single Tax" to reduce the price of land are just the ones who fail to take advantage of the low prices now prevailing, and the reason that they do not buy the land at such prevailing low prices and low taxes is that they do not care to face the hardships of life in the country. The very poor as well as the very rich have grown indolent, and thus extremes meet. It takes physical strength and courage to engage in the occupation of farming, and these people have neither the strength, the courage, nor the desire to work. They would rather be "Pampered Paupers" than "Plowing Princes." They want to get "something for nothing." The fact that they are trying to rob the land owners (they make no secret of that) proves this.

The "Half Taxers" have made up their minds to get cheap rent. They don't care by what means. They have not the slightest intention of building homes. Not in the least! Their idea is to compel other men, by high taxation, to build houses so that they (the "Half Taxers") may get cheap rent. The trouble with the "Half Taxers" is that they are still laboring under the medieval idea that the "landlord" is the traditional enemy of the common people. Just at present in New York City the average landlord is merely a bookkeeper for the mortgagee, an office boy for the municipal departments and a tax collector (without remuneration) for the city. The "Half Taxers" know this and that is why they don't want to own property or build homes; they just want "cheap rent" and let the landlord go hang.

The next half truth on which "Single Taxers" base their theory is that all improvements placed upon land are a benefit to the community and therefore should not be taxed. This again is true only to a degree, for when improvement assumes such proportions, or is of such a character that it shuts out light and air from surrounding property, creates congestion or becomes a fire hazard, or a menace to health, then it cannot be claimed that it is a benefit to the people. Quite on the contrary it becomes a hardship and an expense to the community. That this questionable kind of improvement has been increasing with alarming rapidity in recent years in this city and that the kind of improvement (the small private residence) which really benefits the community is almost entirely extinct must be admitted.

It was to curb these improvements which become a menace to the public welfare that the Tenement House Department, the Industrial Board and the Bureau of Fire Prevention were created, and that attempts are now being made to limit the heights of buildings. The maintenance of these departments has been the direct cause of the enormous increase in taxation, and the attempts of the "Single Taxers" to exempt these questionable improvements from all taxation can only be characterized as folly.

The purpose of a tax is to defray the expenses of the Government, and the only reason why this tax is now levied upon real estate principally is that real estate is the only property which cannot be removed or secreted, and the Government realizes that the easiest way to collect taxes is from those things which cannot be denied. It is purely a matter of expediency, not of equity.

Finally, and this is really of the utmost importance, I wish to point out that the "Single Tax" would be undemocratic, demoralizing and corrupting.

A tax bill is the only practical point of contact between the citizen and his government. It makes him realize his duty and responsibility. Instead of concentrating taxation upon real estate it should be the endeavor of our statesmen to enlarge the tax-paying class as much as possible by taxing all manufacturers, tradesmen, middlemen, every line of business, profession, craft or trade so that each and every man shall receive a reminder of the duty of good citizenship to take a thoughtful and active interest in his government. We would have less of the waste of public funds which has made American governments so notorious.

When each citizen realizes (through a tax bill) that he pays a part of the public expenditures he will demand greater economy and probity from public officials.

Ask the average man whether he pays taxes, and he will say: No! He is like the merchant who remonstrated with his traveling salesman about items in his expense account, such as cigars, theatres and new clothes. "I do not allow my salesmen for such expenses," he said. The next time the drummer presented his expense account the employer smiled and said: "That's the way I like to see it—no cigars, no theatres, no new clothes; only railroad fare and hotel bills." The drummer winked at the bookkeeper and whispered: "They're in there all right, but the old man can't see 'em."

When you pay your bills for groceries, clothes, furniture or rent the taxes are in there all right, only you don't see 'em.

Any man or measure that blinds the citizen to the fact that he pays taxes should be suppressed as a menace to the nation. Only by putting his personal responsibility for the government squarely upon the shoulders of each and every man can we hope to eradicate present abuses in office and attain to the highest efficiency in government. The tax bill does that.

As matters now stand on Election Day the landlord considers well what taxes he has paid under the old regime and what he may have to pay under the new. He casts a single solitary vote. He may have fifty to a hundred voting tenants in his house, and they can get together and vote him out of house and home; vote high taxes on real estate; vote themselves all kinds of improvements and luxuries, ridding themselves entirely of all tax or responsibility, and elect grafting officials, who will feed them fat jobs.

If we were to have "Single Tax" these conditions would be infinitely worse than now. It would be a national calamity.

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IN BROOKLYN

Many Large Plots Acquired and Improved With Substantial Structures To Meet Demand

By WM. R. BURLING, of Burling Realty Co.

DESPITE of so-called depression of real estate in the past twelve months, that section of Brooklyn lying between the East River on the north and Fulton street on the west and south, and particularly that within reasonable proximity of the Manhattan Bridge Plaza, has shown activity. In this section a number of new factory buildings, mostly of modern concrete construction, have been erected in this time.

In Front street, just west of Bridge street, Boerum & Pease have erected another seven-story concrete building as an addition to their large plant covering the block front in Bridge street. At the southeast corner of Jay and Front streets the National Lead Company is also erecting a modern concrete building on a plot 112x135. Kirkman & Sons, soap manufacturers, purchased for later improvement, a large plot west of Bridge street, running through the block from Water to Front streets, and at the foot of Washington street a large plot abutting the bridge property has been sold.

South of the Manhattan Bridge Plaza the Sperry Gyroscope Company is now building an eleven-story concrete addition to their present plant. The original building, which was built about two years ago, is one of the best located industrial buildings in Brooklyn, and has a long frontage on the Plaza and another block on Flatbush avenue extension. Because of its central location the roof of this building has been selected for the flashing of election returns and results in the Red Cross campaign.

On the east side of Flatbush avenue extension, between Tillary and Johnson streets, a large plot having upwards of 28,000 square feet and running through to both Gold and Tillary streets, has been recently sold to a large manufacturing concern for industrial improvement. At the northeast corner of Flatbush avenue extension and Willoughby street, directly across from the city's Health Department Building, a modern brick factory building has been built and will shortly be occupied by the owners. The section to the east of Flatbush avenue extension has also shown industrial expansion, the Thompson & Norris Company having increased their holdings in this section; and in fact, during the last year have built an additional building. Large modern buildings have also been built by Robert Gair Company and Jones Brothers Company. In addition to these, there have been many small sales, but those enumerated above have been particularly noticeable, either because of the size of the building operation itself, or because of the standing of the concern in the business world.

There are several modern commercial garages which have been built during the last twelve months, notable among which is the one covering the half of the entire block at the corner of Park avenue and St. Edwards street. In Pearl street, south of Concord street, one of the large retail shoe companies is building a garage for the handling of their service. At the southeast corner of Sands street and Pearl street the United States of America has purchased a plot 100x100 for Governmental improvement. All of these sales mark a good, healthy growth for this section, because in each case the improvements either have or will be made by concerns who will occupy and do their business within the section.

When one stops to analyze the reasons which have brought these improvements it is not surprising that these concerns have located in this section. All sections of Brooklyn are reached by transportation lines, which spread from the Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges in fan-like form, with this section as a handle. Consequently, labor of all types is easily obtained. This section is also fed from a labor standpoint by the Manhattan Bridge car, which transfers to all north and south bound lines of Manhattan, as well as to Brooklyn lines.

Within a radius of ten blocks of Manhattan Bridge Plaza there are freight terminals having a capacity of more than five hundred freight cars and at which rates are as low as at any point in the city. There are ample steamship facilities, which are readily accessible along our water front to supply receipts and shipments to all points of the world. The fact that the Brooklyn entrances to both the Manhattan and the Brooklyn Bridges are only some four short blocks apart has an added advantage to manufacturers doing trucking to Manhattan and even to New Jersey.

In spite of the large number of industrial buildings which have been built in this section there is a far larger demand for space than that which exists.

CITY PLANNING OF SMALL CITIES WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO AN INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

By A. PEARSON HOOVER, Consulting Engineer

THE economic conditions that control the development of industry are partly natural or geographic and partly artificial, or of man's creation. Through mechanical power numerous forces of nature minister to the wants of man and enable him to free himself from many of the restraints of the world in which he lives. From the development of mechanical power came the realization of efficiency in industrial production. The study of efficiency first became one of individual study, and from this individual operation developed the analysis of the operations of the industrial plant as a unit. From the study and analysis of the industrial plant came the realization of the importance of the efficiency of the industrial section. The importance of the efficiency of the industrial section was clearly realized during the first stages of the present war.

Efficiency in Operation.

If there is one word which the present conflict has brought out clearly in every one's mind that word is "efficiency"—efficiency in operation, efficiency in production, efficiency in management, efficiency in all the forces of the community, and efficiency in all the resources of the country. But how can such efficiency be obtained in the small cities? It can be attained by a comprehensive plan, developed for present and future requirements. Healthy development can be obtained only by a careful analysis of present requirements, with a plan evolved for future growth. Development along scientific and efficiency lines is city planning.

The planning of small cities is as important to the efficiency of the nation as is the planning of large cities. It has been thought that comprehensive planning relates more to the larger cities than to the smaller ones. (By smaller cities are meant those of one hundred thousand population and under.) This has been more or less due to the assumption that planning is not necessary until a city has reached a certain population. It has been the view of many that only large cities have complex problems needing solution. This conception of the problems that must occur in large municipalities was true in practically all cases, but the reason why such a condition should always exist did not seem to receive any consideration.

The reason why problems regarding the general layout and development of the large cities have always existed is because the community, when still a small municipality, did not realize the importance of comprehensive planning. A large proportion of such municipal problems could never have existed had a comprehensive plan been made when the city was a small but growing community.

No Comprehensive Plan.

In the larger cities, sections have been permitted to develop without any comprehensive plan, and to the resultant detriment of the community as a whole. When such planning has been found vital to the interest of the community it has often been discovered that the change of relations as they now exist would require an enormous expenditure of money and a radical readjustment of certain operations. It is unwise to develop local sections according to present existing conditions. Rather should they be developed from the standpoint of what is best for the community as a whole, never losing sight of the future with its contingencies and opportunities.

Small cities have a distinct advantage over larger cities in city planning, for they can take the experience and mistakes of the large municipalities as their example for future development. In order to comprehend fully the vital need of comprehensive planning for small municipalities one has but to examine the enormous expenditures made by large cities to rectify existing conditions.

The small firm, which has carefully considered and laid out plans for future development, observes a steady and healthy growth with the smallest possible outlay of capital. On the other hand, the small concern which makes additions indiscriminately and without any thought of future development soon realizes the enormous expenditures necessary to increase its production on efficient lines, and is brought face to face with the fact that it cannot compete with its neighbor except by making an enormous additional outlay of money. One who realizes the future possibilities of his enterprise and plans for the time to come, soon becomes an element of force in the community.

In arrangement of streets the small city can be guided by the lessons learned by larger cities. Here again should the importance of comprehensive planning be felt by the small cities. The street system of every municipality is directly related to topographical conditions, as well as to the intensified use of certain sections. Certain streets should always perform and serve a distinct function in respect to traffic if the development and improvements upon the land are followed out upon a comprehensive plan for the future.

The value of a street system depends in a certain measure upon the extent of its diagonal highways and major thoroughfares, and the value of any diagonal highway or main thoroughfare depends upon the connections served to different sections. The small city should feel the importance of providing means for the widening of certain streets to meet future requirements. This can be accomplished at the time when improvements have not yet become intensified by making provision for the ultimate widening of such streets to provide for the traffic which they shall be called upon to handle when the city has increased to a certain population and covers a contemplated area.

Question to Be Studied.

In the planning of small cities one important question to be studied in the light of present needs and future growth and possibilities is the transit problem. Mistakes made in the larger cities by permitting transit facilities to develop indiscriminately so as to feed and tap certain localities have been a source of great annoyance to the community. To rectify such mistakes the expenditure of huge sums of money has been necessary.

If one would look at any of the problems now being presented to some of the larger cities and compare the amount of money necessary to facilitate the movement of traffic from one section to another he would realize to the fullest extent what proper planning, undertaken in the past, would have accomplished in that municipality. To utilize the best facilities for transportation in the small city is to plan and lay out for the future growth.

The small city, in regard to city planning, may be compared with a small industrial plant. When a small industrial plant begins to develop and the realization comes that its development in the future will be steady and constant those concerned in its operation employ a man qualified to lay out a comprehensive plan for such a future. This plan may take into consideration buildings and transit facilities for years to come.

It will embrace the planning of the different departments to provide for a long period of future expansion, but it also takes into consideration the possibility of developing this comprehensive plan by building small additions year by year. It would be suicidal for the future development of this concern if it were to lay out its plan for expansion to suit its immediate needs and without any thought of the distant future. The plant would soon be in a position of inability to compete with those concerns whose industries had been laid out on efficiency lines for future development.

In the same way the small city should lay out on a comprehensive plan, all the transit facilities that will be required to meet demands far in the future, based upon past record of growth. To be able to transport workmen or mechanics quickly to and from work is of vital importance in the development of any community. In all cities thought should be given to the possibility of future need for elevated systems or subways, and in connection with such rapid transit facilities consideration should be given not only to the location of stations, but to the intersection of streets where it is likely that subways will be required so that curves may be located from cross street to the main avenue without the demolishing of buildings or the heavy expenses of underpinning large superstructures.

Eliminating Grade Crossings.

In the planning of small cities the question of the elimination of grade crossings arises. It is well known that in several communities the cost of eliminating grade crossings under present conditions amounts to considerably more money than if this problem had been studied in the past with an eye to future growth. In this problem alone the small city is in a more advantageous position relative to city planning than is the larger one whose development has been allowed to continue without any comprehensive plan.

One of the most important subjects in the development of small cities is the vital question of districting. To be able to district means the ability to set aside certain sections for certain usages. The districting of certain sections of the small city for future growth and development means that the small town will automatically assume the shape of an economic and efficient municipality.

In the large cities where indiscriminate use of certain sections has been made and certain improvements have been permitted to scatter over large areas this problem becomes a difficult one. There are certain sections so located that they should be developed for special lines of industries. There are certain other sections that should be set aside for residential districts. These sections in the small town are almost uniformly spotted with industries, and it is when the city takes on the shape of a growing municipality that the vital need of districting becomes apparent.

Healthy Development Results.

Districting means the healthy development of the whole community on broad lines and on an economic basis. It means the stabilizing of real estate values. It means the production of the best the community affords relative to its natural resources and geographical location. The most efficient method of correcting evils is to anticipate and prevent them. The time to district a large city was while it was yet small.

The vital importance of city planning for small cities is no better exemplified than in the need of playgrounds and recreation centers for future development. When it is realized that in large cities all over the country this need for breathing spaces has become increasingly large, and when consideration is given to the cost entailed to

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Agreement to Lease Apartment.

AN agreement to lease an apartment provided that the landlord should make alterations, additions and decorations specified therein, but fixed no definite time within which they should be completed. In an action for rent the New York Appellate Division holds, Schneider vs. Ogden, 167 N. Y. Supp. 352, that evidence that the lessee told the lessor's agent before signing the agreement that he would not lease the apartment unless the work was performed before the commencement of the term was inadmissible as varying the terms of the written agreement, under which the landlord had a reasonable time within which to make the alterations, etc. The agreement fixed the amount and times of payment of the rent, and provided that the lessee thereby agreed to take the apartment and to execute further leases as per blank form of lease thereby attached and made part of the agreement, and also that the landlord was given an option to return a deposit made by the lessee and cancel the agreement of lease within ten days if the lessee's references were not found satisfactory. It was held that on the expiration of the ten days without cancellation the agreement was a binding agreement, and the formal lease therein provided for was not necessary to constitute the tenancy, though the tenant's refusal to execute it would constitute a breach of the agreement. The defendant's remedy for any default as to the alterations would be to set off the damages suffered thereby against the rent, or bring an action for damages for the breach. It would give him no right to avoid the lease.

Change of Street Grade.

The New York Appellate Division holds, People vs. Ormond, 167 N. Y. Supp. 63, that there being no right to damages for change of street grade except that it is given by Greater New York Charter, §951, as amended by Laws 1916, c. 510, the further provision thereof that claim must be filed in ninety days after completion and acceptance of work is binding without regard to reasonableness.

Liability for Damage.

A clause in a lease of a flat provided that in consideration of the lessor's furnishing heat and cold and hot water without extra charge, he should not be liable "for any failure to supply the same not due to gross negligence on his part, nor for any damage to property, caused by fire, water, or steam," and by another clause the lessor agreed "to keep public halls, heating apparatus and electrical appliances, gas and drainage pipes up to said apartment and all portions of said building in the general use of the tenants in good and thorough order and repair." The Pennsylvania Superior Court holds, Shay v. Sherwood, 66 Pa. Superior Ct. 463, that the first quoted clause expressly exempts the lessor from damages to a lessee's property caused by a leaky radiator within the flat occupied by him, and the lessor could not recover such damages.

Action for Rent.

In an action for rent it appeared that the defendant sublet premises leased from the plaintiff to B., who remained in possession after the expiration of the lease as plaintiff's tenant. B. was indebted to the defendant for back rent, and she paid him $70. It was claimed that, after the payment was made, defendant, at B.'s request, promised to pay the money to plaintiff, to apply on rent due plaintiff from B., and to wait for her own money. It was held that this promise, if made, having been made after the money was paid, was merely a voluntary offer of defendant, and gave no cause of action to plaintiff.

Block v. Smith, New York Appellate Division, 167 N. Y. Supp. 231.

Brokers' Commissions.

An owner listed her property for sale with a firm of real estate brokers who advertised it and later one of the firm showed it to a purchaser who had been referred to them by another real estate broker to whom the purchaser had applied for information as to places for rent. The partner suggested that the purchaser buy the place and told him the price and notified the owner that obtain such areas, there should be no doubt in any one's mind that a comprehensive survey in the past, setting aside such spaces as are required for recreation centers, would be the means for saving thousands of dollars to the community.

CITY PLANNING.

A small city depends for its development greatly upon its industrial progress. Without industrial progress and industrial development a municipality will cease to expand. To be able to operate industries efficiently and to be able to produce commodities cheaply depends upon the efficiency of the collective whole and not upon the individual firm. It is through the industrial section that the community receives benefit, and this benefit is reflected in the homes, the government and the management of the municipality. It is true that individual firms are more or less independent of one another, but the success and healthy development of the community as a whole depends upon the efficiency of its industrial section.

Without industrial efficiency municipal expansion cannot obtain. The question resolves itself into the vital need, together with city planning, of an industrial survey. An industrial survey means that a comprehensive plan and study is made of the resources of the industrial community. These resources are tabulated and analyzed, and upon the results recommendations are made for the rectifying of present mistakes and suggestions for economic future growth.

An industrial survey means an inventory of the industrial section. It means the study of the different elements entering into the industrial community, to be able to plan a healthy growth for the future. It denotes the same for an industrial community as does the taking of stock and the laying out on efficiency lines of the different departments in a large industrial plant. It means to so regulate and so locate the different industries in the section that each shall receive the services required with the services that can be offered.

The industrial survey places economy and efficiency in operation above all else. It emphasizes the need of coordinating the different transit facilities, industrial locations and development of the natural resources near or adjacent to the municipality, to bring about efficiency in production and efficiency in management. Lack of appreciation of the advantages of the natural resources of any municipality can only hamper the normal and healthy development of industrialism. Industrialism can reach its highest development only when equal opportunity is secured to all and when reward is equitably proportioned to services rendered. It can reach its highest development only when appreciation is thoroughly sensed of the vital importance for an industrial survey as a means of bringing out clearly the production on economic lines of raw materials near at hand.

One has but to look at the record of large cities in the past to find the enormous decrease in the number of establishments within the city and the corresponding increase in the number the property had been submitted to the purchaser. The latter returned to the office of the other agent, where a sale was negotiated. In a action by the firm for commissions, it was held, Engels v. Manning, 202 Ill. App. 209, that the plaintiffs were the procuring cause of the sale and entitled to the commission.

Rent—When Payable.

The New York Appellate Division holds McCahill vs. Megs Palace Amusement Company, 167 N. Y. Supp. 373, that under a lease providing that rents should be paid "in equal monthly payments of $833.33 a month, payable on the first of each and every month," payment was due on the first day of each month for the rent that had accrued for the preceding month, and the rent for each month was not payable in advance.

of establishments outside of the city. It is due to the lack of appreciation of the vital necessities of an industrial survey that such a condition exists. It was the appreciation of the need of an industrial survey and the co-ordination of all industrial forces to one known need—namely, efficiency and economy of operation—that has been the dominant factor in the ability of the German nation to stand firm so long as it has. It has not been for any other reason but that economical and efficient operation of industries and a thorough realization of the absolute necessity for industrial preparedness was behind the German war machine.

Briefly, the industrial survey would in general cover the following subjects:

An analysis of the present transportation facilities, showing their advantages, needs and future expansion.

An analysis of the transportation charges and plan for readjustment so as to increase more effectively the interchange of commodities.

Study of the position of the municipality, with respect to other commercial centers of the country.

Study of the position of the municipality as a center for certain types of industries with analyses showing why and how certain industries should be developed.

Study of the relation of the municipality in regard to the development of any distinct line of transportation.

An analysis of the industrial section with plans for present improvements together with suggestions for future development.

An analysis of the present industries, with suggestions for development in the future.

An analysis of the labor condition in regard to present industries, together with suggestions as to the kind of labor necessary for certain industries which should be developed.

An analysis of the housing problem in conjunction with the labor question.

One can fully realize that after such a survey has been carried through and an analysis made the municipality is then in a position for future development precisely as is a large industrial plant following its inventory and a study of the location of the different departments, with a view to present improvement and future betterment. It is certainly true that municipalities in this country, the smaller ones in particular, will be called upon after the war to do their share towards the commerce of the world and especially in regard to the industrial activity of this country. Until a thorough realization is felt in this country of the need for industrial preparedness, based upon efficient and economic operation, our position will be one of embarrassment in regard to after-war competition.

Industrial preparedness means the establishment of such relations between individual and community, between individual and government, as to create the hearty co-operation of all citizens to meet the need of the municipality and the whole country. Such is the object of an Industrial Survey

RENTING PROBLEMS FROM LANDLORD'S VIEWPOINT

By GEORGE T. MORTIMER, President, Equitable Building Corporation

REAL estate men, in my opinion, do not give enough attention to leasing; the brokerage profits on sales are spectacular and beside them the modest renting commission seems puny. Leasing generally is only a side line, and the leasing of office buildings especially is little developed. The average office building either rents itself or does not rent itself, in my experience. The agent commonly does nothing beyond interviewing applicants, making out leases and listening to complaints.

This was well enough when office buildings were a novelty and the demand was greater than the supply. Then the applicants for offices duly paraded by the agent and he selected those whom he liked. But things are different now; most large cities are overbuilt with offices and the new building must largely depend upon drawing tenants from older and less desirable structures. Therefore the agent's job, if he has a new building, is to go out after the customers and, if he has an old one, to keep his tenants. The job has many angles and is man-sized. The building owner who does not realize the importance of his agent is bound to join that class which says, "omce buildings do not pay."

Of course all office buildings do not pay; there are a great number of them so poorly designed and badly located that no agent can make them pay. Likewise it has been my experience that most buildings over 20 years old cannot be made to pay. The first class of buildings should never have been put up and the second class has outlived its usefulness; both should be scrapped and something else erected in their stead. A salesman cannot show profits if he has nothing to sell; this applies to offices as well as to merchandise. But if forethought has been used in the design and location of the building, it should pay throughout its reasonable life, which is about a quarter of a century.

Not a few office buildings are erected solely as monuments to the individual or corporate owner and these buildings must be considered, from the investment standpoint, as tombstones. But if you are putting up a building to make money you must primarily consider its location, convenience, appointments and the economic demand for it.

An enterprising business man fits his goods to his market; a properly arranged office building will likewise enable the agent to fit the space to the wants of his tenants. Therefore the interior arrangement of a building ought to be flexible. I do not believe in erecting typical partitions or in fixing the geography of a single suite in advance of its leasing. You are concerned solely with space and not with rooms. In the Equitable Building we have an "efficiency department" with a corps of draftsmen to design offices according to the needs of applicants. Once a man tells us the nature and extent of his business, we put our efficiency department to calculating how little space he can comfortably get on with.

A renting campaign should be just as strong and as forceful as you can make it. In fact the selling of office space is no different from any other form of merchandising. The campaign may be divided into the two broad heads of "advertising" and "personal solicitation."

Paid advertising is not particularly effective except in an indirect way by creating an atmosphere. The best possible advertisement is the satisfied prominent tenant. A big bank, some prominent business men or other firms of exceptionally high standing in the community make splendid first tenants. You will not get these leading tenants by making price reductions and it will not pay you to make a price reduction to anyone. Sometimes the big tenants can be obtained by favor but more often, and this is the best way, by showing them that you can give them better quarters than they can get elsewhere. I shall later tell just how we have done this.

Desirable Standard Established.

Your big tenants will advertise you by their own extensive circulation of removal notices and, if you have been careful in the selection of these tenants, you will have established a desirable standard for the building; you will have something on which to appeal to other high class tenants. For you must keep in mind that the reputation and standing of your building is one of the things you are selling. Then you can put out a little paid advertising in the publications which reach the clientele that you desire.

Personal solicitation, based upon systematized information, I have found to be the most effective method of renting offices. Here is the way we proceeded with the renting of the Equitable Building, and of numerous others: More than a year before the building was opened, in fact before the foundations were commenced, the renting force started out collecting information. The personality of these renting force men is important. They must be high class, experienced men of pleasing personality, who can present their proposition well. The handling of downtown skyscrapers is a highly specialized work, and I find that men who have had experience in the particular district in which the building is located are more valuable than those whose experience is gained in other districts. Former employees of large financial houses, on account of their extensive acquaintances, sometimes accomplish valuable results.

Arrangement of Information.

These men we sent out all over the field to look up possible tenants. They were not, as yet, renting offices, but were merely gathering essential information. This information we tabulated on cards and arranged according to the date or the expiration of the leases. The cards bore the name of the tenant, his business, the location, area, annual rental and rental a square foot of his present premises, together with any additional incidental data that could be obtained.

For instance—in the regular work—the agent talks with employees to discover if they are comfortable. He notes whether the tenant seems to have too much, too little, or badly arranged space, and he also notes any facts which would reasonably preclude the possibility of the tenant moving.

All of this information we collected in advance, for it must be remembered that if you do not get to your prospective customer in time, he will probably have signed a new lease, and therefore be lost to you for a year or more. I do not favor the assumption of old leases simply to get a tenant to make a change. More often than not, under such a plan, you will find yourself under a heavy liability.

The cards containing the information collected were arranged under the dates of the termination of the leases, and were redistributed to the renting men from six to nine months before the leases were to expire. Attached to the card was a report sheet which, at the top, contained all the information on the filing card, and below had a blank space upon which to make a report. These reports were handed in daily to the renting manager.

The first drive was on the big space tenants and a great deal of preliminary work was done before any proposition was made to them. In such instances the agent took an efficiency engineer with him who studied out the tenant's present location and devised ways and means for bettering it in our building. Take the case of a bank. A bank needs ground floor location for a portion of its activities, but it is useless for it to spend the money for an area sufficient to install all the clerks on the ground floor.

We would offer a plan by which the tellers, the officers and the departments of the bank which must be easily accessible to the public were placed on the ground floor, with a private elevator running up from the banking house to some floor above for the bookkeepers and clerks. In this way the bank would secure the maximum advantage in location at the smallest possible cost. Or, take a banking firm which needs much space, does not care to pay for a ground floor location, and also wants the privacy which might be had in a building of its own. This apparently difficult problem is easily solved by installing the banking firm on an upper floor with a private connecting elevator.

Here are a few technical instances. We found one banking firm which had started in a small building on the ground floor; it had grown with the years and eventually had five floors in that little building. The departments which should have been together were apart and there was a lot of lost motion. We could not get them interested for some time—they said that they were getting along well enough as they were.

At last, something about the grouping of departments, which we had mapped out on our plan, caught the eye of one member of the firm. He investigated further and found what we could do for them in the way of reducing lost motion. Then they rented the space that we had planned for them. Another concern was on 13 floors. We put that organization on two floors and they have been able to cut down the number of employees and get better work. They had been paying men to ride in elevators.

Where we could not show actual rental saving we devised groupings so that a concern's work might be done by fewer clerks in more convenient offices or, so that by a better arrangement of offices, the clerks might be better able to perform their duties.

When an agent has such information at his disposal, he is able to talk new offices on a strictly business basis.

Daily conferences are held with the renting men, as well as with those in other departments. We all get together and discuss the difficult prospects. If we cannot reach a man one way, we try to reach him another; and if we are sure we have something better to offer to him than he now has, or than anyone else has, we use every possible influence, personal or otherwise, to get a hearing on our proposition. I do not commend renting on other than a strictly business basis. You do not want to give a man less space than he requires, but you must be equally careful not to give him more space. Giving a man more space than he needs is exactly equivalent to overselling a customer and is equally detrimental to continued good business.

Once the lease is agreed to, a memorandum is made on a form from which the formal lease can be drawn. This memorandum contains the following heads: Name, composed of (if a firm), corporation, under laws of what State; address, business, space, annual rental, payable, term, from (date of lease), possession (when it is to be ready), special

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

The Real Estate Board of New York has sent a protest to Dr. Garfield asking that the coal order be rescinded. The Board contends that the situation in Greater New York is such that the enforcement of so drastic an order is unnecessary.

Throughout the city tenants are experiencing trouble with the gas. The pressure is lower than normal, and this is due to the fact that thousands of families are using gas to help heat their homes. It is necessary to conserve gas as much as possible for the gas companies are doing their utmost to supply a normal service. This cannot be done without the cooperation of the consumer.

The time for the consideration of "temporary" housing for workmen has passed. Plants of a permanent character are being established in various sections of the country. A necessary adjunct is the proper housing of employees, so if business is to be conducted along proper and economical lines, provisions for workmen must be considered along lines which will permit the establishment of families within easy access of the place of employment. It is only in this way that the great turnover of labor can be avoided.

New York's Fire Menace.

Through no fault of an individual or group of citizens, but wholly as a consequence of a combination of circumstances, Greater New York is at present confronted by the menace of a disastrous conflagration. The situation today is a serious matter that requires the vigilance and combined effort of all residents to forestall. This grave condition calls for a close cooperation between property owners, building managers, tenants and their families or employees, in buildings of all types, to exert their combined efforts in order to prevent the start of a fire that might possibly result in a conflagration of immense magnitude. Such a fire at this time could easily devastate a wide area and cause a property damage totaling millions of dollars, to say nothing of entailing a deplorable loss of life.

The recent shortage of coal, coupled with the excessively cold weather that has maintained for more than a month, has materially reduced the efficiency of the ordinary means of preventing fires, and fighting and controlling them during the early stages and before they have had sufficient time to spread to the proportions of a conflagration. The congested and ice-covered streets have hindered the prompt arrival of the Fire Department apparatus, and the frozen water mains with their greatly reduced pressure retard rapid and efficient action by the firemen. The danger is acute, so much so that Mayor Hylan forcibly impressed upon all residents of this city in his recent proclamation, warning them of the danger that exists by this hazard and asking for the cooperation of every one in a determined effort to prevent the start of fires that might easily result in incalculable damage to property and great loss of life.

Today this city faces the hazard of a large conflagration that is more serious than at any time since the commencement of the coal famine that started about six or seven weeks ago. Water mains, supply pipes and meters in many buildings have burst on account of the extreme cold. The pressure in the street mains is materially reduced as a consequence of the conditions that maintain. The efficiency of the auxiliary means of protection and prevention is greatly impaired, and thus is the danger increased. It has recently been stated by a competent authority that in the neighborhood of one thousand sprinkler systems in buildings located in the heart of the manufacturing and commercial districts are partially incapacitated or entirely out of commission as a result of the excessively cold weather. Unfortunately there is but slight hope of relief until the weather moderates to a point where the frozen pipes can be thawed out and repairs made to the sprinkler installations. Furthermore, there is not a sufficient force of men available to make repairs to the damaged systems in a short space of time even should the weather permit.

Since the commencement of the cold snap the number of small fires, due largely to the use of auxiliary heating devices to offset the coal shortage, has increased about threefold. The number of large fires, some of which have almost reached the proportions of conflagrations, has also materially increased. The total of the fires, both great and small, has taxed the facilities and stamina of the city Fire Department to the utmost during the last few weeks, and a further demand would create a dangerous condition in the Department.

Many weeks of constant labor will be required to restore the damage that has been wrought by the recent conditions, and it will call for the assistance and cooperation of all citizens in this work of prime importance to the safety and welfare of the city. The problem is a grave one and must be approached in all seriousness by the residents of New York City as well as by the authorities. All must be willing to help to reduce the number of fires. Only constant vigilance will prevent their getting a fair start and quick and efficient action will keep those that do occur under control.

Battle-of-the-Hudson.

When Hindenburg's steam-roller army, crushing its way through France, threatened the city of Paris, an inspired genius of strategy and organization swept the boulevards of several thousand automobiles, loaded them with as many soldiers as each could carry, and rushed the poilus by a series of round trips into the Battle of the Marne to arrest the Hun hordes. Taxis, not railroads, saved France.

On Manhattan Island factories are shut down, schools are closed, office buildings have the temperature of cold storage warehouses, the rich are shivering, the poor are freezing, and pneumonia threatens the well clad as well as the tattered.

In New York an emergency exists which calls for drastic action like that which saved Paris. Resuscitating New York means giving the nation a chance to get on its feet again, because in New York the commerce of the country centers, and it is through New York that America's aid to the Allies must be forwarded.

This city must have coal at any cost or the consequences will be such as to imperil the success of the enterprise upon which the nation has entered and which it has pledged itself to carry through to a successful ending.

The ordinary methods of carrying coal across the water barrier having broken down the city must employ the most expeditious plan, even if it is revolutionary, of getting the fuel of which it is in dire need.

Across Hudson deliveries have heretofore depended on the tug-and-scow plan of transportation from tidewater to the isolated island of Manhattan. Many scows of the limited number in the harbor have been sunk, with their precious cargoes, by the inimical ice floes. Of the 182 tugs registered here, thirty-five per cent. have been put out of commission. The average hauling capacity of those still in working condition has been reduced from about 10,000 tons of coal a day to only 1,000 tons. This is the compelling reason why New York must look quickly for some other way to get coal from the New Jersey yards to the city consumers.

There are 1,260 registered five-ton auto-trucks in Greater New York, besides several thousand commercial motor vehicles capable of carrying from one to five tons. In New Jersey there are 300,000 tons of coal.

Out of the large number of five-ton trucks it may be possible for an energetic administration to get together a thousand. Between six o'clock on a Saturday evening and six in the evening on one of Mr. Garfield's Mondays is forty-eight hours.

There are enough powerful double deck ferryboats owned by the railroad to shuttle each one of these 1,000 trucks to and from across the river ten times in the forty-eight hours, and still give the motormen time to eat and sleep a little, and to make their runs from the New Jersey coal depots to the ferry houses and from the Manhattan slips to improvised dumps in the streets nearby.

In the two-day period of enforced business suspension these thousand trucks would pile up 50,000 tons of coal on this side of the river. In the Garfield holidays from February 4 to March 25 400,000 tons could be dumped into Manhattan, which added to the daily deliveries would relieve the situation and give the city a reserve supply with which to "carry on."

What is needed is a man—one of those Americans we are always bragging about—a big, bold, dominating, resourceful character who will do what is a simple thing to do compared to stopping the entire manufacturing machinery of the country; what is an easy thing to do compared to coercing millions of men and women into sitting idle for five days while the elements continue to drape a Hunnish shroud of ice and snow over the inefficient railroads and the unfeeling Hudson.

Under the lead of such an administration, who must be given authority to ct and who must have financial backing, it is most likely that the patriotic merchant owners of the five-ton trucks would offer them to the Government for his week-end service and would arrange to make their collections and deliveries with smaller motor vehicles, or suspend them until the last three days of the week.

The railroads, also, would probably place their ferryboats at the orders of a competent man in whom they had confidence, while the patient commuters could arrange to go home early, and stay home over Sundays and Mondays, or manfully take to Mr. McAdoo's tunnel.

Failing the voluntary offer of the necessary adjuncts to the successful carrying out of the plans the administrator might well commandeer both motors and boats to relieve the city in its distress.

The working out of the scheme would come hardest on the motormen and the army of coal heavers necessary to load and unload the trucks who would be on duty almost continuously for two days and nights.

But this is war and by some such strategy must the Battle of the Hudson be fought and won.

Building Situation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

Two articles in your issue of January 19 relative to labor conditions in America state that there is a lack of proper housing facilities for workmen and that this occurs even in the large cities.

In this opinion they are no doubt correct, and also when they state that the building trades are inactive all over the United States. Are they not inactive because they have marked the price so high for their labor that the public will not buy? If a merchant marks a certain line of goods above the price his customers will pay he usually cannot sell them, and the building trades are not different from any other line of business. Something is making the average workman's home cost so much that it does not pay to erect it. Either capital or labor is getting too large a share for the investor to obtain any profit on the transaction.

In New York the exactions of the Tenement House Department and the general high cost of building has made it practically impossible to add to the existing supply until either rents go up or the cost of building goes down.

Last year the Legislature endeavored to pass a law to give cheaper facilities by taking the old-style three-story one-family house out of the tenement house class, but by the time the bill got through our Legislature it was so altered it was of no use in relieving the conditions for which it was intended.

A labor inspector recently told me that there were a large number of unemployed men in the United States and that he thought the hours of labor should be reduced in order to give more work to the unemployed. I told him if he reduced it to six hours there would be still more people out of work. If he made it four, practically everybody would be out. I don't suppose he believed me, but if the manager of a dry goods store should make up his mind that price had nothing to do with the amount of his sales and when his sales fell off he marked up the price of his goods to make up the deficiency, where would he likely come out?

So long as labor unions imagine that they exist only to see how much money they can obtain for the members of the union in the form of salary and what advantage they can obtain in general factory improvement and supervision, without any regard to whether the business they work for lives or dies, these conditions will be bound to exist. It ought to be the part of the labor union to see that any business in which its members are working at least pays some margin of profit. The next thing would be to see that its members got a fair share of that profit.

It would be an ideal condition if in the building trades a certain number could get together on a cooperative plan a sort of piece work basis for labor and capital, worked out so that the thing they have to sell will at least show some margin of profit to an investor. If they get the price low enough there will be no difficulty in marketing the goods, and half a loaf is better than none at all.

They generally end by putting it up to the municipality or community at large, and when this is done it comes back in the shape of the constantly increasing cost of living, which at present is more largely due to the increasing cost of government than anything else.

INVESTOR BUILDER.

Selling Real Estate.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

My object in joining the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association is in furtherance of an effort to make real estate a more liquid asset than heretofore. I believe much can be accomplished along this line. I know that every piece of real estate, if it has any value at all, has a buyer at some price. If it has no value, then it should not be assessed or pay any taxes.

The real reason why realty is not a liquid asset, such as stocks or bonds, is that there is no open market for it; no place where one can sell, even at a sacrifice; no mart for a seller to go to where an actual buyer can be found; and if an owner is fortunate enough to find a possible buyer, there is no accurate way for such buyer to determine the real value of the property. Then, after the person has bought or sold, as the case may be, the expense, time, brokerage fees, title searches, legal requirements, risks, etc., accompanying the transaction, to say nothing of the care of the property itself, are such as to make the average investor hesitate about putting his money in real estate.

Why should all this be so? The answer is simple. Real estate, as a business, has stood still, while the rest of the world of business has moved ahead. Real estate, selling and buying, is conducted along exactly the same lines today as was the case one hundred years ago, with the possible exception that certain corporations are now searching the titles and selling guaranteed mortgages.

There is the same guessing as to values as there was one hundred years ago; the same trouble to find buyers; the same expense and loss of time in completing the transaction; the same trouble, only more, in caring for the property after it is purchased. What is the reason? If you have one thousand bushels of wheat you can sell it on five minutes' notice. If you have stocks or bonds of a railroad, or even if they be of a company, whose basic value is real estate, you can sell such bonds and stocks and get your cash, but you cannot sell the real estate of the company itself. You can sell securities, products, commodities, and almost all kinds of merchandise at short notice and for cash, but the very foundation on which all these depend—real estate—has no market.

What is necessary to make real estate a liquid asset is, in my judgment, the following:

First: A standard of value for lots based on actual and easily ascertainable facts. Now that the Zoning Law is in force, this should not be difficult, and could be changed every three or six months, as the economic and financial conditions change. To-day, the value of real estate depends upon the appraisalment of an individual whose judgment is perhaps based on a cursory knowledge of one or more transactions, either fortunate or unfortunate, and whose opinion is likely to be affected by what he had eaten the night before.

Second: Open publicity in every transaction. What a piece of property sold for should be as much a matter of public records as the price Government bonds are selling for on the Exchange.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 290.—Store tenants object to peddlers locating in front of their stores and ask the landlord to put a stop to it, asserting that it creates an unfair competition to their business. Should the landlord do this and can he do so? S.F.

Answer No. 299.—This is no obligation of the landlord. The tenant can have a stop put to it. Tenants similarly situated should combine to put a stop to this practice.

Question No. 300.—I had a lease on my apartment for two years ending April, 1917. At the expiration of the lease nothing was said by either the parties of the lease. Under the circumstances, does the lease renew itself automatically for one or for two years? GEORGE DRESS.

Answer No. 300.—One year.

Third: An entire simplification of the old-fashioned method of selling, buying and transferring real estate and the resultant expenses.

Fourth: A real market place for real estate—a place where a man can go who has a house or a lot—where he can ascertain at once the value of his property. If he finds it worth $50,000 and he can't sell it for $50,000, he can get $45,000 for it; if he can't get $45,000, he can get $40,000, or he should be able to sell it at some price—should be able to find a market for it. Let me illustrate.

A year ago, New York Central Railroad stock was selling around $100 a share and many people paid that and more for it for investment. Today you can't get $70 a share for it, but at least you know where you can sell it, if you want to,—it has a market,—but that is what you cannot do with a piece of real estate. You can't sell it at all. There is no market for it, even for the most staple. The benefit of a market of this kind will be shown in actual values and will therefore prevent the ridiculous assessed values of property for tax purposes, and we will be likely to get a real and scientific basis on which to tax real estate.

It is going to be my effort to bring about these four objects, which, to my mind, will make real estate a real asset and not a guess.

Personally, if my office conducts any sales on the Exchange, it will only be with the following distinct understandings:

First: That the property will be absolutely unprotected in any manner, shape or form, by the owner, his representative or anybody that has an interest in it. They must be willing to let it be sold for whatever it will bring, no matter what that price may be, otherwise I will not handle it.

Second: Every detail of the property, so far as ascertainable, must be made public, so that the buyer will know exactly what he is doing and what his risks are.

Third: In case of foreclosure, mortgagees must publicly advertise up to what amount they intend to bid for the property, if they intend bidding at all.

Fourth: I do not want sales, nor do I care to be associated with any sales at auction, where all the facts are not as fully made known to the public as is the case when a Government bond is bought on the Stock Exchange.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Auction Market Holds Center of Stage—Museum Receives Gift—Improvement On Murray Hill

REAL estate brokers were more busy trying to straighten out the coal situation than in selling and leasing, therefore the brokerage market simply marked time, without anything of special interest having developed.

The auction market, on the other hand, was enlivened through the offering of several important properties. The one-time Waldo house, known as 28 East 72d street, was disposed of to the plaintiff on a bid of $51,800. The property has an interesting history. The house and the adjoining one were built in 1895 at a cost said to have been nearly $1,000,000, including the interior furnishings. The houses were never occupied by the family, and for the past thirteen years have been untenanted. Negotiations have been on and off during the past ten years for the disposal of the properties, but they were never concluded. The corner house was sold in foreclosure in 1912 to the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn.

The Republic of Panama bought the well-known "Red House," at 350 West 85th street, as plaintiff, at auction for $165,000. The property measures 100 x 102.2 feet. This is about $5,000 less than the mortgage judgment obtained against the Eronel Realty Company and others. In 1903 and 1904 the Republic of Panama invested in Manhattan real estate about $5,000,000 of the $40,000,000 paid to it by this country for the Panama Canal. In 1914 the Republic foreclosed on the twelve-story Prosader apartments, at Central Park West and 65th street.

Last Thursday the auction room took on an old-time appearance when a number of interesting parcels were offered. The four-story dwelling at 8 East 54th street, 20 x 100.5, was purchased by Mrs. Edith Talcott Bates on a bid of $50,000. The property is assessed at $73,000. Mrs. Bates owns and occupies 12 East 64th street, twenty feet east of the house just mentioned. The offering included several parcels in Brooklyn and the Bronx.

As plaintiff George Abeel took over the Chesterfield, a ten-story apartment house, on a plot 160 x 96 feet, at 260 Riverside Drive, on a bid of $438,653. The plaintiff made the only bid, $7,500 over prior liens.

During the week litigation was concluded whereby the Metropolitan Museum of Art receives as a gift, under the will of the late John Hoge, of Zanesville, Ohio, the fee to the land at 479 to 485 Fifth avenue. The Oceanic Investing Company leased the property from Mr. Hoge, and subsequently bought the adjoining northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 41st street; also 14 and 16 East 42d street from I. S. & M. S. Korn, and erected the present eleven-story store and office building for the Rogers Peet Company. The gift was appraised at $900,000, but when the existing lease expires the Museum trustees will find it more valuable, for values have increased since the original lease was made.

Plans are in course of preparation for the improvement of the old South Church property, at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 38th street, by August Heckscher. Unless the present intention of the owner is changed a sixteen-story structure will be commenced on the property, which has been the cause of considerable litigation owing to the Murray Hill restriction. The court decided that the word "dwelling" in the original restriction was broad enough to permit the erection of a multi-family house on the plot. The proposed structure will cost, according to present estimates, $650,000. The building will be erected in accordance with the Zoning Resolution. The main structure will be ten stories high, then will come a setback to the height of four stories and a mansard roof two stories high. The architects have laid out the floors in suites containing three and four rooms each, though each room is of exceptional size. No date has been fixed for the commencement of the operation.

RENTING PROBLEMS.

clauses, negotiated by, references (three), alterations, remarks.

Whatever changes and work are to be done in the offices is entered in triplicate upon what we call a "change order." This gives the name of the tenant, the date when the work is to be completed, the amount which is to be charged to the building, and a full description of the work. This form is signed by the tenant and by the renting manager; the copies are in three colors, one of which goes to the treasurer of the building company, another to the construction department, which superintends the doing of the work; the third is retained for reference in the renting department.

The methods and the forms which I have described will vary with the kind and the size of the building that you are renting, but the general principles will, I am sure, apply to any sort of building. I have applied them myself to many different classes. If you happen to have more than one building on your hands it is a good trick to have distinctively colored leases and forms for each building. This saves a lot of trouble by preventing wrong filing.

In renting buildings, you must not only plan your outside campaign, but also your inside campaign. I have found. You should not sell your building to whomsoever applies or you will suddenly wake to the realization that you have so cut up your space that you have nothing but job lots left to offer. Five floors of the Equitable were kept entirely closed until the building was elsewhere well rented. We had a line on several big tenants and knew that we must have the space to offer them. But had we rented space here and there on these floors, we should have been unable to take the large contracts without moving and probably displeasing a number of present tenants, to say nothing of the attendant expense.

TENANTS TO BE TRAINED.

Kind but Firm Methods to Be Adopted Against Those Who Refuse to Pay Rent.

BRONX apartment house owners are going to launch a campaign designed for the enlightenment and education of tenants who cannot or will not realize the gravity of the coal situation. The landlords propose to be kind, but firm, and they hope that, through their efforts, the tenants will be able to see the "great light" without unkind and harsh measures having to be resorted to.

A preliminary meeting was held at the office of Harold M. Phillips, 261 Broadway, this week, the object being to form an association to meet the coal crisis. M. Morgenstern, of Morgenstern Brothers, was chosen temporary chairman, and arrangements were made for a general meeting at the Hunt's Point Palace, Southern Boulevard and 163d street, this evening.

It was asserted at the preliminary meeting that there are some lawyers in the Bronx who are encouraging tenants to resist payment of rents from such landlords that do not provide heat, irrespective of the inability of these landlords to procure coal, and the fact that they allow their heatless tenants reduction equivalent to the money the landlord is saving by not buying coal, which is impossible to obtain. Many tenants, it is said, are generally demanding excessive reductions, and the landlords say that the numbers appealing to the Civil Court for such redress are growing in alarming numbers.

REALTY BOARD'S COMMITTEE ACTS ON LEGISLATIVE BILLS

At its regular meeting held on Wednesday, January 23, 1918, the Real Estate Board's Committee on Legislation and Taxation took action on a number of bills as follows:

Senate Int. Dunnigan. providing for a Commissioner of Records in the County of the Bronx. The proposed Commissioner to hold office "until the completion of the duties to be performed by him." This bill is opposed. Twenty days after the passage of the bill the County Judge and Surrogate of the County is to appoint him. His salary is to be $5,000, and such salary and the salaries of his staff may be increased by the Board of Estimate in its discretion. The County Judge and Surrogate are to at pleasure appoint and remove such deputies, clerks and employees as may be necessary for "the proper and economical conduct of the duties of said Commissioner of Records, office, etc., and as may be provided for by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The duties which the Commissioner of Records is to perform can just as well be performed by the Register. This is an attempt to create a similar office to that which exists in some of the counties of the city of New York, the existence of which amounts to a scandal. A term of office, i. e., of a public office—which is "to expire upon the completion of the duties to be performed" means that it lasts forever. This office is unnecessary and, at this time especially, saddling this expense on the taxpayers would be an outrage.

Senate Int. 89, Boylan. This bill is approved. It amends the Greater New York Charter in relation to fixing the limitation and rate of taxation authorized to be levied on real and personal property assessed upon the assessment books of the city. It adds to the existing law this limitation. "The annual rate shall not exceed 17½ mills upon each dollar of assessed valuation of real and of personal property, if any, assessed on the assessment books of the city." This bill was introduced at the request of the Real Estate Board. It is designed to limit the budget to a size commensurate with the amount of taxation that may reasonably and equitably be collected from real estate, and, indirectly, to enforce economy in the administration of the city's affairs, and the securing of revenue from sources other than real estate, to make up the amount that may be needed above that collected from the 1.75 tax on real estate. It is believed by the Real Estate Board that this bill, if passed, will be a very powerful factor in correcting an evil of long standing, namely, the overburdening of real estate by taxation; and the attention of all real estate organizations and individual taxpayers is urgently called to it and their support enlisted.

Senate Int. 84, Dowling. This bill is opposed. It amends section 1503, chapter 516, Laws of 1911, by providing that one of the assistant district attorneys of New York County shall receive an annual salary of $10,000. The other thirteen are to receive $7,500 as at present. This is no time for the creation of new civil positions at large salaries. There are hundreds of highly competent lawyers in New York County whose practice does not net them anything like the $10,000 required in the bill.

Senate Int. 79, Nicol. This bill is opposed. It amends the Civil Service Law providing for a pension system for the Classified Civil Service Employees of the State. The pension fund is to consist of five per cent. deductions from salaries, together with an annual appropriation by the State equal to the aggregate of such deductions. It provides for voluntary retirement at 55, and after at least five years' service, and for compulsory retirement at 65. This bill is opposed entirely aside from the chaotic conditions of the existing pension systems. The present is no time for the consideration for the proposal to establish a pension system for civilian employees of the State. The State budget for the necessary expenses of the Commonwealth is mounting by leaps and bounds and it should not be augmented by the burden of a large number of civilian pensioners. At this time let us bend every energy to protect and promote the welfare of the men who are fighting our country's battles.

Senate Int. 27, Sage. (Same as Assembly Int. 79, F. A. Wells.) Providing that moneys appropriated in 1917 for the National Guard shall be available for the New York Guard, and Senate Int. 101, Sage. (Same as Assembly 78, F. A. Wells.) Appropriating money for the equipment of the New York Guard. Both these bills are approved as providing the necessary machinery for the protection of the State.

Senate Int. 73, Dowling. (Same as Assembly Int. 121, Amos.) This bill empowers the Board of Estimate to remove restrictions upon the Speedway and, if the Board of Estimate takes such action, vests discretionary power in the Park Commissioner. This bill is approved, as it is obvious that the Speedway for many years has been restricted to a use proper enough when it was originally laid out, but now too restrictive because of the fact that it is no longer used for trotting horses, and that its use would greatly relieve congestion of street traffic between Manhattan and the Bronx.

Senate Int. 85, Dowling. This bill is opposed. It amends the County Law to provide for the election of a public defender for a four-year term in counties of a million or over, at $15,000 a year. The present is no time for this, and, in addition, the bill is wrong in principal as proper provision is now made by law for the appointment of attorneys by the courts to protect the interests of those charged with crime who are financially unable to employ counsel.

Senate Int. 8, Wagner. This bill is opposed. This bill in effect amends the Charter so as to violate the "pay-as-you-go" policy, by permitting the Board of Estimate to issue corporate stock for school buildings and sites and other park improvements. It is opposed on the ground that the provisions of the "pay-as-you-go" policy should remain intact, notably at this time, and that no legislation should be passed which would relieve the city from the obligations to finance such improvements out of the annual budget.

Senate Int. 26, Sheridan. This bill is approved. It makes it lawful for the Comptroller to suspend or postpone the sale of tax liens for any time not to exceed three years, from the day specified in the advertisement. The present limitation is 15 months. This bill is believed to provide proper measure of relief, especially at a time when numerous unusual obligations make it difficult to pay taxes on real estate, and particularly that owned by householders, many of whom have been drafted or have enlisted in the Army or Navy.

Norris Miller, John C. McCall, Frederick Gimbel, Peter Cooper Bryce, Roland L. Redmond, Augustus Van Cortlandt, Julius Loeb and J. Robinson Beard. Pease & Elliman negotiated the transaction. The property was held at $850,000 and has been purchased by an investor for cash. The brokers announce that with possibly one exception, it is the only new apartment house on the east side, sold for some time, which had no element of trade involved.

Negro Project in Harlem.

Plans are being crystallized for the creation of a social center in Harlem for negroes. The Cruikshank Company sold for the Estate of Curtis B. Pierce, to the Van-Astor Company, Inc., William H. Butler, president, the plot of thirteen lots, at the southeast corner of Seventh avenue and 138th street, measuring 100 feet on the avenue, and 300 feet in the street. A syndicate composed of Kort Berle of the Gunvald Aus Company, structural engineers, Sigurd J. Arnesen, importer, and Frederick J. Waage, cashier of the Norwegian-American Steamship Line, has formed the Seventh Avenue and 138th Street Corporation, to finance, construct and equip a building for the exclusive use of negroes. The building project is said to involve $1,000,000. The building will be seven stories in height on Seventh avenue, and four stories in 138th street. It will contain a gymnasium, swimming pool, dining room, auditorium, concert room, sleeping apartments, employment agency, banking office and other features. The swimming pool will be 50 feet wide and 160 feet long, and from three to nine feet deep. The auditorium on the top floor of the Seventh avenue frontage will have a capacity of several hundred persons. Arne Dehli is the architect.

Optical Company Sells.

The six-story loft building at 540 and 542 First avenue, northeast corner of 31st street, erected about ten years ago by the Meyrowitz Manufacturing Company for its occupancy, has changed hands, the new owner being a client of Henry Aronson, Inc. The George Rosenfeld Company, Inc., represented the selling company. The holding price is $145,000. The building is a six-story "L" shaped structure, on a plot containing about 10,000 square feet, having a frontage of 50 feet on First avenue, and 150 feet in 31st street. The "L" is formed by an extension measuring 50x98.9 feet, at the rear of the plot. In connection with the transaction, the Rosenfeld Company announces a number of leases in the building, including Woolworth Building taken through Polished Wire Glass Window in the Western Union Building, New York City.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 15 as against 30 last week and 27 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7, as compared with 15 last week and 10 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 8, as compared with 15 last week and 17 a year ago.

From the Bronx 5 sales at private contract were reported, as against 7 last week and 11 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 115 of this issue.

Madison Avenue Sale.

Klein & Jackson sold the recently completed thirteen-story apartment house at 31 to 33 East 72d street, occupying a plot 56x102.2 feet, at the northeast corner of Madison avenue. The building occupies the site of the former residences of Miss Laura Rhineland and the Tyson Estate, which were acquired by Klein & Jacobson two years ago from former Police Commissioner Rhineland Waldo. The structure was erected by H. H. Oddie, Inc., builder, from plans by Rouse & Goldstone. It contains one apartment to a floor, consisting of fourteen rooms and five baths, all of which were rented before August 1 last, although the building was not ready for occupancy until November 1. Among the tenants are J.

When Affected by War Conditions Advertise All the More

Lessened trade in those lines affected by war conditions, and temporary complete cessation of trade in some lines, due to the difficulty of obtaining deliveries, lack of raw materials, etc., has caused many sales managers to reduce their forces. In a number of lines traveling salesmen have been recalled to the home office.

Under such circumstances some sales managers have questioned the advisability of advertising, when there was "no business." The advertising manager who finds this attitude prevailing, in spite of his well-grounded belief in correct advertising principles, oftentimes is allowed to continue his trade paper schedules under protest, with the possibility constantly present that cancellation of advertising contracts will be ordered at any moment, even though he should advise against it. In such a situation it may well be contended, and with good reason, that business conditions of this kind make the continuation of trade paper advertising even more necessary than usual.

Take, for example, the case of a large and well known company manufacturing heating boilers, which has been taken over by the Government. Under normal conditions architects and contractors would be constantly reminded of this line of boilers, at times when estimates were being figured and heating problems discussed.

The output of this concern is temporarily off the market, and heating contractors favoring this equipment are not pushing the line. Under the circumstances it no longer receives the valuable selling publicity it formerly was given through these channels. In fact, substitute lines are being discussed, and the advantages of any particular substitute may be rather forcefully presented, to its great and permanent advantage. Under these conditions it could hardly be too strongly urged that normal publicity in trade and architectural papers is more than ordinarily necessary.

Many manufacturers are considering the discontinuance of advertising at this time because they don't need business. Have they considered the possibility of using it as insurance of good-will, and applying the force of publicity in a new way, to iron out the kinks which are developing on account of the difficulty of taking care of business in an ideal manner?

Considering the great importance and value of trade connections, and of maintaining intact the "sales plant," meaning the distributing organization, during the trying days of war-time, it seems that trade paper copy could be used to no better purpose just now than along these lines.

(No. 10 of a continued series) to the Pyrene Manufacturing Company, part of the first floor, the basement, and fifth and sixth floors; to the Riverside Press, half of the first floor; to the Chesterfield Furniture Company, fourth floor, and to the Nuremberg Company, manufacturers of artificial Christmas trees, half of the third floor. The building is now completely rented with the exception of 6,000 feet on the third floor.

Kingsland Changes Hands.

The Podwil Realty Company, Joseph Silberson, president, sold to the Queen Mab Company, the six-story elevator apartment house at 836 to 842 Riverside drive, known as the Kingsland. The property measures 103x152 feet. The structure contains accommodations for forty-five families, and carries an annual rent roll of about $33,000. The property was held at $285,000. Nehring Brothers were the brokers. The purchasing company recently bought three similar properties in the immediate neighborhood, including the adjoining apartment house known as the Gustavus, all of which were recently resold.

Leasehold Resold.

Negotiations have been practically completed for the resale of the dwelling, 17 West 50th street, Columbia College leasehold, by Mendel Presberger. Mr. Presberger recently acquired the property from Cornelia V. R. Hoppin and William V. R. Ewing, executors of the Estate of John Ewing. To take over the property the 17 West 50th street corporation was formed at Albany this week, with a capital of $10,000. John J. McGrath, William E. Cuff and Charles R. Allison are the directors. The house is a four-story and basement structure on a lot 25x100.5 feet. It is understood that the property will be remodeled.

Sale in Old Silk District.

Central Trust Company sold 101 and 103 Crosby street, and 133 Mercer street, the former a seven-story building on plot 39.10x62xirregular, adjoining the southeast corner of 10th street, and the other a six-story building on lot 79.6x61.2. The trust company has held the properties since 1915 and 1904, respectively. Last month the same company with George F. Johnson, Jr., as trustee, sold the similar property at 97 Crosby street to Daniel H. Jackson.

Oil Company Buys Site.

The sale of the Whitestone Silica Fire Clay Company's property at Carteret, N. J., takes from the market one of the few remaining New Jersey shore parcels, between Elizabeth and Perth Amboy. The deal was negotiated through Ruland & Whiting Company and Harrison S. Colburn Company. The new owner will improve the property in the near future. It consists of ten acres, having a frontage of approximately 500 feet along the Arthur Kill, and extending back 1,000 feet to the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The property lies between the Williams and Clark and the American Agricultural Chemical Company's plants. It has riparian rights granted by the State. From it a dock, 100x200 feet, extends into deep water. In the immediate neighborhood are the Standard Oil Company, the Mexican Petroleum Company, the Warner Asphalt Company, the Grasselli Chemical Company, the International Nickel Company and the Barber Asphalt Company plants.

RECENT LEASES.

Lease on Madison Avenue.

J. R. Bremmer Company, Inc., leased the four-story structure at 685 Madison avenue, between 61st and 62d streets, on a plot having a frontage of 35 feet, for five years. The company will take possession about May 1 and occupy the first two floors. The upper floors are to be altered to apartments. Cruikshank Company was the broker.

Projected Midtown Hotel.

Julian Benedict, as president of the 32 West 37th Street Company, has leased the residence of the late Peter Moller, at 32 West 37th street, 25x98.9 feet, on which it is contemplated to erect a thirteen-story apartment hotel. The new structure, as projected, will contain fifty suites, each of two rooms and bath. The hotel will be within a stone's throw of the retail shopping district, and within easy access of both the Grand Central Terminal and the Pennsylvania Station.

Garage Leased.

The Harlem Auto Repair Company leased from the Aitchandarr Realty Company, Hershowitz & Raynes, the two-story garage, 100.11x75 feet, at the northeast corner of Sylvan place and 120th street. The lease is for fifteen years from May 1, the rental aggregating $67,500. The building will be modernized, and about $10,000 will be expended on the alterations. A. H. Levy and Jacob Kaplan were the brokers.

Another Garage Leased.

Geo. R. Read leased for twenty years and six months the four-story garage, on plot 50x100, at 13 and 15 East 58th street, for the Downtown Realty Company to Higman Willet. The rental for the term aggregates about $200,000.

Lease in Beaver Street.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased to the United Cigar Stores Company, for twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of $200,000, No. 15 Beaver street, northeast corner of New street, with frontages of 26.10 feet in the former, and 61.7 feet in the latter thoroughfare. The lease was made for the Nesbit Estate, represented by the Farmers Loan & Trust Company.

A Human

*full of the "blood and sweat"
the fair weather and the fo
into the history of the m*

On the morning of March 21, 1868, in a small office on Park Row, there was born THE REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS' GUIDE.

On Saturday morning, March 23, 1918, commemorating the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY, the paper played in its chosen field will be portrayed by pen and picture in the form of a large illustration.

The history of a paper that for half a century has represented the closely knit real estate community, its publication date, and numbering among its present subscribers and advertisers many of the names of the past.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be issued one year after the first issue. It is said that trade is slackening, that the business is dull, and that the future is uncertain.

In the face of the grumble of the pessimist the RECORD AND GUIDE will continue to go on together as one man with their representative paper.

Business WILL go on. There are enough strong, optimistic men in the business fabric to carry on. Years ago men fought side by side to save a situation in business and in war because they believed in the future.

A glance at the brief resume of the prospectus will outline the vast scope of the RECORD AND GUIDE for half a century—a record which has made it a valuable reference work.

(1) THE RECORD AND GUIDE—Its inception in 1868—its growth in fifty years illustrated.

(2) OLD NEW YORK—How it looked and lived and did business a half century ago.

(a) Brief historical sketch outlining conditions as to boundaries, population, residential and business centers, transportation facilities, shipping, public buildings, amusements and amusement places, hotels—brief reference to conditions twenty-five years ago that led up to consolidation into Greater New York in 1898. (b) Brief historical reference to methods of doing real estate business, facilities for doing it, values in "gilt edge" sections of Manhattan.

(3) A MESSAGE from Mayor Hylan to the Tax Payers of New York City.

(4) NEW YORK OF TODAY.

(a) This great City of New York—area, population, greatness of its governmental problem and municipal machinery for doing its work, annual cost of running it, value of its real estate, what real estate contributes in taxes, its great manufactures and industries, its waterfront and port and shipping, its transportation facilities—surface, elevated and subway—its street traffic, the railroads entering it bringing passengers and freight, the center of a great suburban population, its buildings and its building industry, its financial importance, bank clearings, contribution to Federal tax, to first and second Liberty Loans. (b) A message from Borough President Dowling to the taxpayers of Manhattan. (c) Manhattan—growth and present conditions in real estate of the following: Wall Street and the financial districts, insurance district, the area east of William Street and South of Broadway—about the City Hall—Middle Broadway—West Side—Union Square—Madison Square—Park Avenue—Fifth Avenue—Madison Avenue—Park Avenue—Middle West Side—Columbus Circle—the Upper East Side—East Side—Lexington Avenue—Harlem—Ingram Heights, and the Dyckman section.

(5) THE WATERFRONT OF NEW YORK CITY.

Its extent; various shipping, manufacturing and industrial uses; relation to the Port of New York; Brooklyn and Queens, the summer resort and Jersey Bay features; in Staten Island, its relation to New Jersey.

(6) THE SUBWAYS.

(a) Effect of first lines. (b) Lines recently opened and territory served. (c) Lines nearing completion and territory they will serve.

(7) IMPORTANT MUNICIPAL AGENCIES.

Subjects will be treated separately as they relate to municipal activities with which real estate brokers and owners come frequently into contact.

(8) ORGANIZED FOR PROTECTION.

Functions and work of the Real Estate Board of New York City.

Confidence in ourselves, plus "American ingenuity" have given this nation an ability to overcome all difficulties. The FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will radiate this confidence to all manufacturers and others interested in real estate and building conditions in Greater New York.

Advertisers will be given an opportunity of having their announcements read by those who read the RECORD AND GUIDE in New York.

This edition will comprise 10,000 copies with a probable reading circulation of 50,000.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that the intolerable fuel situation and the inclement weather conditions have generally demoralized business, particularly effecting the building interests, the announcement of two or three important structural operations during the week, plans for which are well advanced, has considerably heartened the building industry. The report that August Heckscher will shortly commence to improve the old South Church property, at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 38th street, by the construction of a sixteen-story apartment house, from designs by Warren & Wetmore, created lively interest in the building trades. Later in the week it was announced that a million-dollar social center, exclusively for the negroes of this city, would be erected at the southeast corner of Seventh avenue and 138th street, from plans and specifications prepared by Arne Dehli, architect.

Other interesting and important structural projects, both within the boundaries of Greater New York and in close proximity to the city, were included in the bright spots of the past week, and it would seem now as though a considerable proportion of this contemplated work might proceed just as soon as the weather conditions improve to an extent that will warrant a start of active construction work. The major portion of this work is projected for the early spring, and during the coming summer, thus in the next few months the building trades and their allied interests will probably witness a marked improvement over the conditions that have maintained for many weeks past.

The building situation, particularly as it applied to Greater New York and the adjacent territory, has been on the verge of a change for some time. The impression is now gaining popularity that the low ebb is past and from now on the outlook should improve. With the optimistic reports of the past few days, coupled with the fact that many of the leading architects in Manhattan and Brooklyn are more active on the plans and specifications for new projects than for months, the building situation is brightening perceptibly.

Primarily on account of the cold and stormy weather of the week but few new building projects were actually started. However, there have been a number of contracts awarded that will mean activity so soon as weather conditions permit and freight transportation facilities improve. The majority of these operations would have been started immediately, but have been held up pending the delivery of necessary materials and supplies. The number of projects, both large and small, that are out for estimates has increased, and a large percentage of this work will undoubtedly soon be placed under contract.

The building material markets in general have been quiet, and the reasons for their inaction are obvious. There has been but a scattering of representative sales in the leading commodity lines, although the inquiries for spring and summer deliveries are more frequent and denote a livelier interest in construction. Commodity prices are almost without exception firmly entrenched at the high levels that have now maintained for a period of months, and there seems to be no immediate prospect of a downward revision. Admittedly some commodities are indicating a strong upward trend, and further advances in price are well within the range of possibility.

Should a sudden revival of building construction occur while the railroad freight situation is in its present chaotic state it is difficult to predict to what heights prices of some materials might go, as there exists a shortage almost amounting to a famine in some lines, and a sudden increase in demand without facilities for filling all requirements would have a tendency to increase prices alarmingly.

Common Brick.—The market for Hudson River common brick was almost inactive again this week. The cold and stormy weather was the prime factor responsible for the condition, and as long as this lasts there is no prospect of improvement. Common brick prices are unchanged from the figure that was announced one week ago. The one barge that was taken out of the market brought $10 a thousand, and that figure is being quoted on all inquiries. The unsold barges in Metropolitan waters are few in number, and there is only a small supply of brick remaining on barges tied up at the dealers' docks at various points in the district, but there is no danger of being unable to supply any demand that might come with a sudden revival of structural activity. The ice-bound condition of the river will prevent arrivals from up-river points for some weeks. The Raritan situation is suffering owing to similar ice-bound conditions.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, January 25, 1918: Condition of market: Demand, very light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none. Sales, 1. Distribution: Manhattan, 1.

Face Brick.—The market for face brick is exceptionally quiet, and manufacturing is practically at a standstill. Although there are prospects of considerable new work for the future there has been no great volume of business during recent weeks. The plants are unable to operate because of the lack of fuel, and a number of producers have a large quantity of brick stacked up in kilns ready for firing, but are waiting for the delivery of coal. The transportation is another matter that is effecting the face brick manufacturers, as under the present congested conditions of the railroads it is almost impossible to obtain cars and arrangement for the shipment of brick over the lines. From this factor no relief is in sight, and it might be a long time before the freight situation is improved to a point where face brick shipments are permitted. Prices are generally firm and with an upward tendency.

Lumber.—Market conditions are fairly quiet, with a steady demand for lumber products from manufacturing consumers. At the present time the demand is considerably in excess of the supply. This is primarily due to the chaotic freight situation, and as this condition is likely to maintain for some time to come the outlook for lower prices through a flooded lumber market is remote. Stocks in the hands of the dealers are generally low, and there has been some difficulty in filling orders in some instances. The Government is still the most important factor in the lumber market, and although the requirements for cantonnement construction are entirely filled there is an immense volume of lumber still needed for the shipbuilding program, airplane construction, and other essential military work. Lumber prices are today higher than at any time in the history of the industry, and there is no prospect of a downward revision under the existing circumstances.

Structural Steel.—It will be some time before the steel industry fully recovers from the combination of cold weather, fuel shortage and enforced holidays. At this writing there is practically no business emanating from private sources and there will not be any in great volume while the present emergency lasts. There is still considerable Government business on the books, and the railroads are in the market for a large total tonnage for their immediate requirements. There is a suggestion of life in the future for requirements for industrial construction, as there are quite a number of large manufacturing plants now being planned; but with the weather conditions and the embargoes of materials there is but little likelihood that these projects can be started for some months. There is no change in the quotations for fabricated material, the figure decided upon by the Federal authorities maintaining in force until March 31. What revision will be made at that time is still problematical, but it is thought that this price will stand for the following three months.

Sand and Gravel.—Although the demand for these commodities is very slight the fact that there is practically no sand available in this city is responsible for the high price that now maintains. According to one of the prominent dealers, the prospect of obtaining new supplies from Cow Bay is not of the best, at least until the cold weather breaks and the ice-bound scows are able to come through. It will be some weeks before additional supplies are available, and as soon as they are it is confidently expected that sand prices will return to a figure that is nearer to the normal.

Linseed Oil.—The demand for this commodity is slight and the trade generally dull, yet the technical position is strong, with prices firm. Through the fact that the excessively cold weather has made outdoor painting impossible, coupled with the dearth of new structural operations, jobbers are not reporting business in any great volume. The prospects for the spring are excellent, however, and as soon as the weather moderates the demand should increase materially.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Business is increasing in this line, due to the fact that private interests have recently come into the market with their specifications for early spring requirements. The volume of new business reported is fair and the prospects are steadily brightening. Quotations are unchanged at $55.35 for 6 in. and heavier, and $58.35 for 4 in.

Wire Products.—The producers of wire and wire nails generally report that they are busy and that the demand has grown considerably. Some of the leading mills have orders booked for some months in advance. The prices established by the Government will hold until March 31, and it is not yet known whether these prices will be revised or not.

Copper.—Upon recommendation of the War Industries Board, President Wilson extended until June 1 the price of 23.50c. on copper. This price has now been in force since last September. The copper market is generally quiet with sufficient metal available to supply all requirements.

Pig Iron.—During the past week the sales of this commodity have increased. This is for the greater part for delivery throughout the last half of the year. Sales have been made at the Government price with the proviso that a revision might be made after April 1.

Reinforcing Bars.—The producing mills report that the demand is fairly active and that the outlook is excellent. The Government is one of the most important factors in this market, and is taking a considerable part of the output. The prices are firm at the control figures.

NEW NEGRO SOCIAL CENTER IN HARLEM

Project For Upper Seventh Avenue To Involve $1,000,000—Many Unique Features Provided

ONE of the interesting building developments of the week was the announcement that a structure to cost $1,000,000 to be operated as a social center for negro residents of Greater New York, was to be erected at the southeast corner of Seventh avenue and 138th street. This project will be owned and operated by the Van-Astor Company, Inc., William H. Butler, president, and Louis F. Baldwin, general manager, 280 Broadway, and will be erected under a general contract by the Seventh Avenue and 138th Street Co., Kort Berle, president, 244 Madison avenue.

The plans and specifications for this operation have been prepared by Arne Dehli, architect, 154 Nassau street. These plans call for a fireproof struc-

Among the other special features of this structure will be a restaurant, banquet hall, private dining rooms, with their usual equipment of kitchens, pantries, etc., an auditorium, with stage and pipe organ, lodge rooms, dormitories, gymnasium and swimming pool.

The natatorium will unquestionably prove one of the most interesting and important features of this structure. The pool will have dimensions of 160x50 feet, and will be from three to nine feet in depth. This swimming pool will be one of the largest indoor pools in the country. In connection with this feature will be operated Turkish baths, shower baths, barber shop, manicure and bootblack shops.

A large dance hall, bowling alleys and billiard room are other features th-ture that will occupy a frontage of 100 feet on Seventh avenue and nearly 300 feet in West 138th street. The building will cover almost the entire plot with the exception of necessary courts and light areas. The building will be seven stories in height and will have facades designed in a unique style, constructed of granite and face brick. Included in this project will be unlimited facilities for recreation, amusement and education. The plans provide space for a large banking room that will be occupied by one of the prominent banking institutions in the neighborhood.

will no doubt be well patronized by the residents of the neighborhood. According to the plans the roof of the Seventh avenue portion will be utilized as a roof garden during the summer months. Throughout this structure the decorations and furnishings will be of the best obtainable and the mechanical equipment will be of the most approved modern pattern. Unless the present plans miscarry active construction will be started just as soon as the weather permits and the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by April 1, 1919.

Sanitarium at Gabriels, N. Y.

John Russell Pope, architect, 527 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, is preparing the preliminary plans for a million dollar sanitarium to be erected at Gabriels, N. Y. This project will consist of a group of fifteen brick and reinforced concrete buildings of various dimensions. The name of the owner and the details of this operation will be available for a later issue of the Record and Guide.

This structure will be located on Hunters Point avenue and will have over all dimensions of 208x264 feet. The two-story section will measure approximately 200x200 feet. The cost of this project will be in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Plans for Long Island City Plant.

Louis Allen Abramson, architect, 220 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, has prepared plans and specifications for a one and one-half story plant, 180x75 feet to be erected in Long Island City for the Central Smelting & Refining Company. This operation will be located at Borden avenue, Hayward and 3rd streets. Further details will be announced later.

Operation Begun.

In accordance with instructions by the Public Service Commission, the Interborough Rapid Transit Company has begun the operation of a joint elevated railroad and subway service over the Astoria and Corona branches of the Queensboro Subway in connection with the Queensboro Bridge line and the Second avenue elevated railroad in Manhattan. This service will be run during the daytime and evening hours, but in the late night hours no elevated service will be operated. The need for the joint service was pointed out recently, following investigation by the Commission, at which time directions were issued for the beginning of this service. It was, however, necessary that certain structural changes should first be made, including installation of cables, etc., so that it was impossible to put the new service into effect until a few days ago.

Warehouse for Plate Glass Co.

Clinton & Russell, architects, 32 Liberty street, Manhattan, have been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the one and two-story warehouse to be erected in Long Island City for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., 322 Hudson street, Manhattan, lessee.

Workmen's Hotel on Meadows.

It has been rumored that a large hotel for the accommodation of the workers in the Federal shipbuilding plants and employees of other industrial concerns in the neighborhood, will be erected on the Kearny Meadows. Eating Houses, Inc., bought a large plot, 680x300 feet on the north side of the Lincoln Highway as a site for this project. The property adjoins that plot recently purchased by the Niles, Bement, Pond Co., upon which this concern will erect a modern industrial plant employing thousands of workers. Details of the new project are not yet available and will be announced in a later issue.

A 1917 Record

Sixty-three private plants were closed down in favor of Edison Service in 1917. This means that private installations totalling 18,500 horse-power were abandoned because better and cheaper service could be had from the Central Station

In every one of these cases, wasteful operating conditions demanded a change. These plants, however well equipped, could not provide service that compared in any way with the Central Station's

These properties of all descriptions stand as sixty-three proofs of Central Station claims. Their owners are satisfied. Are you?

CLASSIFIED BUYERS' GUIDE

This department is consulted by buyers anxious to secure information, etc., concerning products they wish to purchase. These buyers represent the Owners, Managers of Estates, Building Managers, Architects, Contractors, Sub-contractors, etc., who own, manage or erect New York City Buildings.

New York City is the market place of the world. If you want to reach the buyers in this market you can do so by being listed in this department. We will print your name, address and telephone number in space of two lines under proper classification for $25.00 per year, each additional line $10.00, 10% reduction on second heading, 15% reduction on all headings amounting to three or more lines. Probably an investment of $25.00 will prove very profitable.

RENTING CONDITIONS ON WASHINGTON HEIGHTS

Brokers Report Practically No Vacancies—Coal Shortage Is Not Relieved—Building at Standstill

DURING the past eighteen months an unprecedented wave of prosperity has swept over Washington Heights. The demand for three, four and five room apartments far exceeds the supply, and as the outlook for improvement in the way of new buildings is dubious, realty men are maintaining their offices and help on the commissions received from collections of rent and management of properties. There has been no new building during the year, due in a large measure to the condition of the material market; the inability to obtain skilled mechanics or even labor, and also because financial institutions will not lend money for building while conditions remain as they are at present.

For the purpose of getting a line on realty conditions in this section of the city, a Record and Guide representative interviewed a number of the real estate brokers handling property on Washington Heights, and in every instance the reply was the same, "Everything rented. No vacancies. Demand far exceeds the supply."

J. S. Maxwell said: "Out of 2,000 apartments managed by me there is only one to rent and that has only been vacant one day. I have several hundred applicants for it. The demand is exceptionally good in spite of the fact that rentals are high. Of vacant parcels there is a scarcity. I can think of at this moment but a few. One in 136th street, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, another in 140th and 141st streets, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, a fifty-foot plot on Hamilton Place and the Hamilton plot, now owned by the Board of Education and not in the market.

"There is no building going on because of the present conditions of the material market and the scarcity of labor. The coal situation has been our principal worry this winter, but our houses have all been heated and we have had no complaints from our tenants. On Saturday last we carted seventy-eight tons of coal and distributed it among our properties. We can get the coal if we haul it ourselves and this we have had to do.

"The present is the only time I can remember in my experience that we could be so independent. We hold out no inducements to prospective tenants to rent, or to present tenants to remain. Collections are good so that we are more or less contented."

Eugene S. Van Riper, of the firm of F. R. Wood, W. H. Dolson Co., said: "The properties we manage, which include some of the largest on the heights, are one hundred per cent. rented. We have not a single vacancy in apartments, stores, basements or sub-basements. The demand for apartments is heavier than the supply, greater than in ten years for this season. We have nothing to offer, although daily we receive many applications.

"We have had so many applications that we have deviated from our custom of years' standing and offered to take over properties of other brokers and rent them for them, but they are in the same position as we are, nothing to offer.

"Our tenants have built up our business and we naturally stand by them in every way. We have been endeavoring to raise rentals to what we deem the proper figures, and to this end have partially readjusted rentals and in every instance to the entire satisfaction of the tenants. We haven't had a fire go out in one of our houses this winter and have purchased car loads of coal and delivered it, frequently taking our office forces to do the work.

Attractive Bargains Possible.

"The sales market is picking up, but as there is little vacant land we do not expect much from this source. Now is an excellent time for people with ready cash to acquire some attractive bargains. Money is hard to obtain for building, but this condition prevails everywhere. So great is the demand for apartments here that we were able in several instances to rent apartments on Convent avenue without making any repairs. This is an unusual condition. Convent avenue is the best section of Washington Heights, and some locations on this avenue are superior to some on Riverside Drive. Prices on Convent avenue and the Drive are about the same."

Martin H. Cohen, of S. Werdenschlag and Martin Cohen Co., said: "Renting is good, but sales are few. We haven't anything to rent and little to sell. The demand for small apartments, three, four and five rooms, is unusually heavy and we could rent 200 apartments today if we had them. We make no concessions like we used to.

"There is no building going on because of the market conditions of material and the scarcity of labor, and we do not expect anything doing in the building line for some time to come. Rentals have been increased since last year, but increased rentals do not mean larger incomes. People expect more nowadays for their money and we must spend more on taxes, upkeep and other expenses, hence my statement that increased rentals does not mean larger incomes."

Worry of Fuel Situation.

James E. Taylor, of DuBois & Taylor, said: "The demand for property on Washington Heights is greater than at any time during my experience here. Our properties are one hundred per cent. rented and the number of applications for three, four and five room apartments is good, especially for this time of year. Our tenements are all rented, and the few stores and offices we have vacant remain so because of the high prices asked.

"The coal situation has been our principal worry this winter, and it is worse today than it has ever been. It is getting worse daily, and there seems to be no relief in sight.

"We get little coal and what we do get we have to haul ourselves. We have managed to keep our buildings heated, however, and have not lost a tenant.

"Plumbers, steam fitters, even common labor, is hard to get, and we have been put to severe strains in fixing frozen water pipes and other damages in our buildings because of this scarcity.

"If the material market was more settled and the labor question less severe there would be some building going on around 157th street, but this is impossible at present and so we must worry along without new buildings to take care of the many applicants for apartments we daily receive and turn down.

"I don't look for any building boom in the near future. There is a healthy market for rentals and were it not for the heavy operating costs and coal shortage owners would be on easy street."

At the office of Freidus & Co., a representative said: "We have no apartments to rent at all. Everything is rented up and daily we turn away people by the dozens. Coal is our principal care just at present and will continue to be we expect for some time. There are no sales being made and building loan money is hard to obtain. The few stores we have vacant remain so because of the prices asked."

George F. Mahnken, of George F. Mahnken & Co., said: "All our apartments are rented. Once in a while we get an apartment to sub-let and are perplexed as to which one of our waiting list is to be favored. Coal is our sole worry just now. We are trucking and delivering it ourselves. Labor is hard to get, plumbers and other mechanics cannot be hired at any price, and in several instances we have had to do repair work ourselves when the urgency of the case demanded."

L. J. Phillips, of L. J. Phillips & Co., said: "We have a few eight-room apartments to rent and a few even larger, but the demand is for three, four and five-room apartments and we haven't got them. Although we have been put to great expense, worry and inconvenience getting coal, none of our houses have been cold. We are curtailing as far as possible the consumption of coal in compliance with the request of the fuel administrators and have had few complaints from tenants in consequence.

"There is no local inquiry for sales or exchanges and while the market is quiet. I have noticed a little more activity of late. Another building boom will use up all the vacant land here just as it did in 1906 and 1907. We have demolished a few old buildings on the heights and as soon as conditions are anyway near right we will replace them with modern houses and can fill them as quickly as they are finished.

"I know of several builders who are ready to start operations as soon as conditions are right, but who cannot be expected to do anything under existing conditions. If I could arrange loans I have builders who would buy. We find it hard to get help, such as elevator boys, laborers, plumbers, steam fitters and even janitors, and often have to do work ourselves. We have had no vacancies because of the lack of coal and heat in our buildings. Some tenants, of course, are unreasonable in their demands, but in a majority of cases they understand conditions, appreciate the fact that we are doing our best and don't complain unnecessarily. Our tenements are all one hundred per cent. rented and the few stores we have vacant remain so because the time is not right for opening new stores.

"If the proposed scheme to open up Riverside Drive, from 165th to 177th street, goes through great relief will be afforded. The Seventh avenue line should help materially and the Fifth avenue bus line has been responsible for a great deal of the prosperity that has come to Washington Heights more than anything else I can think of. I hope the Fifth avenue line receives a permanent franchise, although I understand Mayor Hylan is opposed to it. Two new elevators, at 181st street, would help considerably if we have to do without the bus line, but if we get neither I don't know what we will do."

W. Willard Babcox, of Duff & Brown Co., said: "Everything we have is one hundred per cent. rented. We handle about one hundred pieces of property. The demand is constantly increasing and we have stopped asking names and addresses of applicants to put on a waiting list, because it entails too much work and the outlook is too uncertain. We receive about twenty-five applications a day for apartments of three, four and five rooms, but have nothing to offer. What sales have been made lately have been for cash and the few exchanges made have been by professionals.

"There is no building going on and I do not look for any while material remains at the present level and labor so hard to get. Coal is our sole worry, and while we have managed to get some we never could get enough to fill our bins and provide a reserve supply. Only two of our houses were without heat this winter and those only for one day."

August Schramm, of Moore, Schutte & Co., said: "Although the renting season is over, we are daily turning away applicants because we have nothing to rent. We have made a few sales recently of private houses, but consider those sales more luck than anything else. Rentals are good and the demand far exceeds the supply. Building loan money is hard to get, so I don't look for any building activity for a long time to come. People are holding on to their money these days, not knowing what will happen next and they won't invest.

"The coal situation is our principal worry and while we can get coal, some coal, we must haul it ourselves. Last Saturday I shoveled ten tons from trucks to cellars. The coal we do get is of an inferior quality, and in one case where I was able to purchase six tons, saw it weighed before my own eyes, we were able to use only two tons of it, the rest was dirt, slate and slag.

"Rentals are better than they have been since 1910, when I first started in business, but we have exhausted the supply and until new buildings are erected, there is no relief in sight, so that brokers will have to content themselves with the commissions they receive on collections and any stray sales or exchanges they are able to consummate."

Staten Island Transit.

Emphatic directions have been given by the Public Service Commission to the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad Company and the Richmond Light and Railroad Company to provide such additional facilities as may be necessary to care properly for the large number of men employed at shipbuilding plants on the north shore of Staten Island, some of whom are engaged in Government ship construction work of the highest importance. Complaints have been heard by the Commission for some time that the service provided on both the Rapid Transit and the trolley lines was insufficient to handle the traffic presented and that with the coming of spring several thousand additional workmen would be employed at the shipbuilding plants, requiring still better transportation facilities. In order to insure the provision of proper facilities, the Commission may ask Director General McAdoo to take possession of and operate the two lines in question. That the Commission stands ready to do this if the companies do not forthwith increase their service and facilities to meet the Government needs was the definite intimation given to the companies.

BRIDGE BUILDERS AND STRUCTURAL SOCIETY MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

RECORDS of the Bridge Builders & Structural Society, as collected by George E. Gifford, its secretary, show that during the month of December 114% of the entire capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country was contracted for. The accompanying chart shows a graphical representation of business of the Society for the six years 1912-1917. The chart includes only the business of the members of this society and not the country as a whole. Following are excerpts from the annual report of the secretary, presented at the annual meeting on January 18:

"We little thought twelve months ago sents almost the entire independent capacity of the country, not only of structural shops, but also of plate and tank shops. Headquarters have been established in Washington and a secretary installed therein, giving constant attention to the requirements of the Government and the interests of the fabricators.

"The period of depression which has followed the entrance of the United States into the war, causing the practical suspension of all the commercial business in fabricated steel, has resulted in the sales for the year 1917 falling considerably below those for the years 1915 and 1916. Our figures for the year, compiled from reliable sources, show that a large proportion of our capacity would today be devoted to the building of ships, but the fact that such is the case shows the versatility of the men controlling our industry and their devotion to the needs of our country. We have seen the normal business of the fabricated steel industry practically laid aside and new fields entered, not only that our best endeavors may be given to our country, but because the ordinary lines of business have been, to a great extent, shut off and it has been necessary to seek new lines in order to provide work for our shops.

"Added to the great requirements of the Government and the maximum of speed which it requires in the output of its material, unusual labor, transportation, fuel and weather conditions have been faced, so that the successful management of a fabricated steel plant has been anything but a sinecure.

"Due to the influence of this Society, practically the whole fabricating industry has united in proffering aid to the Government. As long ago as last May our men saw that our assistance would be needed and formed a 'War Aid Committee' which, in spite of discouragements, was continued, with some changes of plan, until it was seen that it had outgrown this Society and should be representative of the entire independent industry. It then called a convention of fabricators, which met in Pittsburgh on November 27, and the aid of the industry was enthusiastically pledged. The organization called the 'Steel Fabricators of the United States,' which was then formed, now repre-that the total sales of fabricated steel for the year 1917 amounted to 1,285,000 tons as against about 1,500,000 tons for both 1915 and 1916. This amount is probably less than it should be because the collecting with accuracy of statistics on fabricated ships seems to be well nigh impossible.

"The work of the Society during 1917 went on with little or no change so far as the operation of the 'open price plan' with its attendant reporting features is concerned. The present rules seem to be well established and satisfactory to all our members. Attempted extensions do not meet with much favor.

"A year ago the ruling prices for plain material were 3.10c. for shapes and 3.60c. for plates Pittsburgh base. From that time they advanced through various steps to an asking mill price of 4.00c. for shapes and 4.50c. for plates, but with actual quotations for plates anywhere up to 10.00c. and 12.00c. per pound with most quotations based on an average of about 6.00c. In the autumn the Government stepped in and fixed the prices for plain material at 3.00c. and 3.25c.—base Pittsburgh and Chicago. These prices have been accepted without demur by the mills and are the ruling base prices today. The effect of fixing of prices has not stimulated materially general buying, but this is due to Government priority requirements which make it almost impossible for the general purchaser to secure deliveries, as well as the financial situation which makes it difficult or impossible to secure capital for commercial or speculative building."

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

A NUMBER of important bills were acted on at the meeting of the Real Estate Board's Legislation, Taxation and Real Estate Laws, held last Wednesday, January 30.

Both of Assemblyman Amos' bills for a moratorium—one general and one applying to persons in the Army and Navy, are opposed on principle and as to the details. The constitutionality of state legislation of this kind is seriously questioned, and it is urged that if such legislation is in any case to be enacted it should be in the form of a Federal enactment.

Senator Gilchrist's bill relating to the investment of trust funds in parts of mortgages, is a bill similar to the one which the Real Estate Board opposed last year, but finally approved when the objectionable feature relating to guaranties were eliminated, and is opposed.

An amendment to the Mercantile and Manufacturing Corporations Law of 1917 is opposed because it would permit certain claims in variation of the returns made to the Treasury Department.

The Real Estate Board disapproves Senator Wagner's bill for the control, purchase and price fixing of ice by the city through agents of the State Food Commission. Detailed action taken by the Legislation Committee of the Real Estate Board on bills considered at its meeting of January 30 is as follows:

Senate Int. 71, Gilchrist. This amends Section 111, Decedent Estates Law, and Section 21, Personal Property Law, by providing that trust funds may be invested in parts of mortgages under certain conditions.

Last year Senator Gilchrist introduced a bill similar to this and after very careful consideration it was amended by the Real Estate Board (Senate Int. 1463), and passed, but was vetoed by the Governor. The features to which the Real Estate Board objected last year reappear in Senate Bill Int. 71. Under its provisions only a trust or title corporation can hold the muniments of title, guarantees and payment and insurance policies, etc., for the benefit of the trustees and other persons concerned, and for that reason it is again disapproved by the Real Estate Board. Senator Gilchrist has introduced another bill, Int. 72, which closely resembles the bill which the Board approved last year, and this second bill is being given further consideration by the Board.

Senate Int. 117, Emerson. (Same as Assembly Int. 142, Judson). This is an amendment to the law taxing manufacturing and mercantile corporations passed last year. The law of 1917 provides that the net income upon which a tax must be paid should be that shown in the last return made to the United States Treasury Department, with provisions for correction and change if the return to the United States Treasury is corrected or changed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The proposed amendment adds that if the corporation shall claim that such return is inaccurate, it shall pay a tax only on the basis of the amount claimed by such corporation to be the net income for such period, with provisions for audit by the Tax Commission.

The bill should be opposed as vicious legislation. Obviously, if the return were inaccurate because the corporation had understated its actual income, that fact would never be called to the attention of the State Tax Department. The presumption is that the statement made to the United States Treasury is correct and no variance from such statement of income should be allowed to the corporation unless it has, through the proper Federal authorities, corrected or changed its Federal return.

Senate Int. 122, Stater. (Same as Assembly Int. 173, Fitzgerald.) This is a concurrent resolution adding new Section 4 to Article 14 of the Constitution, providing that no convention or Legislature of the State shall act upon an amendment to the United States Constitution proposed by Congress unless such convention or Legislature has been elected after such amendment is submitted.

This bill is approved by the Board. The objects sought by the bill are now secured by like procedure in several States of the Union. It is a proper safeguard to have such proposed constitutional amendments submitted to the Legislature composed of men elected before the proposed amendment was submitted to Congress so that when these men are running for office it would be incumbent upon them to explain to the voters their stand as to the proposed amendment.

Assembly Int. 71, Amos. Providing a moratorium during the war. It empowers the court to suspend or stay executions, orders, decrees, levies, right of entry, foreclosure, lien, power of sale, forfeiture or default where the party against whom the same is executed or enforced is unable to make satisfaction because of circumstances caused by the war. The moratorium does not extend to the recovery of taxes, assessments or public dues, wages or salary, or moneys due in any trust or fiduciary capacity. And ALSO Assembly Int. 139, Amos. Providing for a moratorium on certain classes of property in favor of soldiers, sailors and marines in active service of the State or United States and their dependents, and in favor of other persons under certain circumstances during the war.

Both these bills are disapproved. They would provide a moratorium on certain classes of obligations in favor of certain classes of people. Bill No 139 includes persons in the military or naval service of the United States and their dependents, and any other person who may be able to demonstrate to the court in which an action may be pending on account of such obligation that he is unable to satisfy the same by reason of circumstances directly attributable to the existing war. There is a constitutional prohibition against the passage of laws that impair the obligation of contracts. A law which would suspend indefinitely the collection of a debt on a contract apparently impairs the obligation of such a contract. No doubt the proponents of the pending measure appreciate this, but hope that the war will be over before the courts of last resort can finally pass upon the legality of the propositions, and that, meanwhile, the litigation aimed at will be automatically held up. This phase of the matter makes it important that the expediency of enacting one or the other of the proposed bills be carefully considered. Comparatively few of the men now in the military or naval service have financial obligations outstanding. Those of them who have should, of course, be fully protected against rapacious creditors. Were the operation of such a measure confined to those for whom we all feel a patriotic interest, there would be no serious objection to its enactment, even if it should develop later on, that the law is technically invalid. But the pending propositions go further than the protection of the rights of soldiers and sailors and their dependents, it applies to all persons who, "by reason of circumstances directly attributable to such war," are unable to meet their obligations. The majority of people are affected more or less by conditions incident to war times, and it hardly seems reasonable to extend the proposed moratorium so generally since its effects will be to promote financial irresponsibility, swamp the courts with applications for moratorium stays and, by unsettling business conditions, create a general lack of confidence that might eventually cause a wide-spread panic. Consideration of such hazardous legislative propositions as these bills present demonstrates that the country is in quite as much danger from a breakdown of its economic machinery as it is from its enemies in arms. If moratorium legislation of any description be necessary, let us have it from Congress, upon the recommendation of the President. No state legislation should take upon itself the responsibility of enacting a statute that might readily produce a national disaster by unsettling business conditions within the immediate field of its application and this is particularly true of the legislature of the State of New York.

Assembly Int. 141, Karlin. Amending Subdivision 1, Section 2231, and Section 2236, Civil Code, relative to summary proceedings to evict employees by providing that the janitor or superintendent of an apartment or boarding house shall not be removed from the premises by the employer until notice has been served on him at least ten days.

This bill is disapproved. This is a wholly unnecessary and unreasonable bill, and would be a source of serious embarrassment and inconvenience to the tenants of tenement houses and apartment houses in that, for the period that would be involved in evicting a dishonest or insubordinate janitor and making room for one to move in in his place, the service which the superintendent or janitor ordinarily gives to the tenant would be absolutely and wholly neglected. It is the established and universal custom for a superintendent or janitor to move in upon the beginning of his employment, and if the outgoing superintendent could not be evicted except upon a ten days' notice, and after that, the time taken for the service of a summons and the further time given by the court, the tenants would receive no service in the way of heating, hot water, removal of garbage and rubbish, and the doing of the ordinary cleaning of those parts of the premises, interior and exterior, which falls upon the superintendent or janitor. After a superintendent or janitor got notice that he would have to go he might be insubordinate and negligent and might commit very malicious depredations upon the property and vindictively annoy the tenants. This is not a conjectural theory but is based upon the experience of real estate managers, agents, owners and tenants. This bill should be opposed and defeated. It might be serviceable to some janitors, but would also result in gross inconvenience to thousands of tenants.

Assembly Int. 153, Goldberg. Amending Section 23, Transportation Corporations Law, by authorizing the Public Service Commission to fix a maximum fare for passenger for a continuous ride over the whole or any part of the routes owned or operated by bus companies in cities of the first class; but such fare shall not exceed ten cents.

This bill is disapproved. It takes away the ten-cent fare in such bus conveyances now established by law, and leaves it to the Public Service Commission to fix a maximum fare. The present arrangement seems to have operated very satisfactorily to the public and the bus companies. As these companies get their franchises from the city and pay the city authorities for their use of the streets, the Public Service Commission should not have the right to fix the fare. It is contrary to the principle of Home Rule.

Assembly Int. 240, L. W. Johnson. Amending Section 62, General Business Law, by providing that persons selling bronze or brass castings to junk dealers, shall give a statement as to whom, where and from whom the property was obtained and other information.

This bill is approved as a measure intended to assist in remedying an annoying feature in the care of real estate. The present law requires junk dealers to obtain a signed statement from the seller of certain metals, giving the seller's name, address and certain information concerning the article sold; and to forthwith file such statement with the proper police authority. To the list already covered, namely, metal in pigs, copper wire and brass car journals, the amendment adds bronze or brass castings or parts thereof. This amendment, if enforced, should make it less easy for the thief to dispose of brass, fire nozzle connections, faucets, valves, etc., so commonly stolen from buildings in course of construction and from finished structures to which access may be easily had.

BUILDING REVIEW FOR JANUARY

Bad Weather Conditions, Monday Shutdowns
And Other Factors Have Retarded Operations

THE building situation in Greater New York and adjacent territory has been circumscribed by unusually trying conditions during the past month. Admittedly, this season of the year is not normally an especially active one in the building line, and much of the dullness prevailing in private construction operations must be discounted for this factor of season. However, January this year has been an exceptionally bad one as to weather conditions. When transportation was already strained to the point of crisis, came heavy snows and sharp cold waves, which have prevailed throughout the month. Naturally with fuel shortage and inability to secure an adequate supply of truck labor, these exceptional conditions have not been conducive to starting building operations that could possibly be postponed.

As will be observed in the record of permits issued week by week in the five Boroughs of the city the value of the same was consistently below last year. The figures given include alterations as well as new buildings.

	1917.	1916.	Per Cent. Class.
1st week.....	2,529,915	2,866,125	-12%
2d week.....	671,400	2,579,957	-74%
3d week.....	1,320,015	2,618,541	-49%
4th week.....	1,512,620	2,694,413	-40%

In spite of the rather disappointing conditions that have maintained, there is a marked feeling of improvement in the situation. There have been developments during the past month, and especially in the last week or so, which lend a decidedly more optimistic hue to the outlook for building in and about Greater New York. In the first place it is generally conceded that the efforts of the Government to clear up the unprecedented railway congestion, if successful, as it now looks, will prove a boon to all industry, and surely not the least to profit will be the building and allied trades. Transportation is mainly responsible for the jumpy market conditions, which have caused so much trouble and upset so many calculations among builders. Any relief in this direction therefore will be doubly welcome.

Another reason for a more optimistic sentiment is the rapid development of the movement which is now under way to supply adequate housing facilities for laborers and mechanics in the crowded manufacturing sections, both in and around New York City and throughout other busy centers of the nation. Especial interest attaches to the plans of the Emergency Housing Committee for establishing the movement on a comprehensive scale. Millions of dollars are to be spent in providing such houses during the coming months. The building industry sees in this a welcome outlet for much of the pent-up energy of the past few months of slack building.

Still another optimistic feature of the outlook for construction not only in Greater New York and surrounding territory, but also for the nation at large, is the announcement of plans for Government building, which completely outstrip anything hitherto attempted. Tentative estimates of the amount to be expended in various types of Federal constructive directly and indirectly furthering the military establishment, show that this work alone is going to amount up to a total value nearly equal to all domestic building started during the past year. Plans are already under way for a number of Government structures in this vicinity which promise to keep supplies of materials moving and labor active for a considerable period.

One noticeable tendency in the realm of private building has developed of late, and this promises to continue to grow. It is the increasing volume of alterations being made on existing structures. The demands which are constantly arising out of war conditions have brought about many additions to old buildings and the provision of greater capacity or changed construction for many commercial and industrial establishments in and about the city. In fact, this type of work has formed a large part of private building operations during the past few weeks. As time goes on it bids fair to increase rather than subside.

Opinion is that the low ebb of building has been passed and that from now on improvement should mark the path of the industry. There is little disposition to expect really noticeable prosperity until spring comes and the snow-bound country is shaken free of its icy fetters. Then there is every reason for confidence in the situation. The forces are gathering now. They will break down the barriers with a rush at the first favorable opportunity.

As regards the market for materials and supplies, January has been a month of quiet demand and firm prices. In spite of the slowness of new building, Hudson River common brick made two advances. During the first week of the month, prices ranged from $7.75 to $8.25 a thousand, and these prices were merely nominal, no sales being made. While conditions did not improve very much from the standpoint of inquiries, nevertheless, by the end of the second week of January, brick was quoted at $9.00. During the third week only two barge loads were sold, showing that the demand had not picked up to any noticeable extent. Nevertheless, during this period brick prices jumped up to $10.00 and have since maintained this figure. Inability to get the brick down the river because of its frozen condition, and a reduced reserve at the wholesale docks has much to do with this firming up tendency. From all present indications very little improvement in the situation is in sight, for some weeks to come. Should the building demand pick up suddenly, it is possible that the strain upon the market would cause even further advances. However, there is little danger that supplies would not be sufficient to care for any sudden increase in building demand.

Portland Cement.—Demand for cement has been quiet during the past few weeks, owing to the paralyzed condition of construction operations. Intense cold and ice has hindered business of the cement interests rather markedly. Prices for Portland domestic cement have advanced 3c. per bbl. The current quotation is $2.15 per bbl., wholesale lots, alongside dock.

Lumber.—The general chaos in transportation has been the governing influence in the lumber market during the past few months. This condition has been particularly felt during the late weeks of heavy snows, cold, and other factors making for railway congestion. Demand has been quiet as far as ordinary building requirements are concerned. Federal construction has been a very important source of demand for lumber, particularly the larger sizes, and prospects are for continued activity in this end of the trade. Manufacturing consumption is larger by far than in normal times, although of late the enforced holidays have, of course, reduced this business to some extent. Prices have remained firm with some tendency to advance. Some difficulty has been experienced in filling orders because of the extremely unsatisfactory freight situation, and no doubt a considerable part of the present firmness is due to transportation conditions. However, with the coming of spring there are evidences of big demand for lumber from many sources. Certainly nothing is now in sight to indicate recessions from current price levels.

Sand and Gravel.—Supplies of sand and gravel in the city are low. During the recent weeks it has been impossible to get the scows through to the docks because of frozen waterways. Although demand has been uniformly light, prices underwent radical changes upward, and this material is now quoted at a minimum price of $1.25 per cubic yard. This is an increase of over 100% above the former price.

MARBLE CONVENTION.

Association Holds Annual Meeting and Elects New Officers.

THE sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Marble Dealers was held at the Murray Hill Hotel on January 15 and 16. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. J. McClymont, Grant Marble Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; vice-president, I. P. Morton, Bradbury Marble Co., St. Louis, Mo., and treasurer, James M. Taylor, Taylor Marble Co., Chicago, Ill.

Charles L. Hilgartner, the retiring president, reviewed the activities of the association for the past year and said, in part:

"Our association has made progress during the past year. We have had peace with our employees, with the exception of occasional demands in the shops for increase in pay, which occurrence could not be well avoided during these troublesome times. I presume that most of those approached saw the necessity of granting a reasonable advance. The steady increase of supplies of all kinds has affected to a great extent our employees, as well as ourselves, and we consequently must expect to advance wages, in order to overcome the advanced cost of living.

"Where we have to deal with the setters, I am glad to say that we have had no trouble whatever; in fact, since our arrangement with the B. M. & P. I. U., we have had no trouble on the buildings, as they have generally lived up to the smallest detail of their agreement. It was probably a surprise to some of our members when they were notified in August of the advance which was granted to the setters of 25 cents a day.

"The Code of Practice continues to work out satisfactorily. While we have had a number of cases to contend with, the outcome proved the full efficiency and practicability of our Code. It has been favorably commented upon in many quarters. The National Builders' Exchange has indicated its intention of recommending and adopting a Code of Practice containing many of the features found in ours. The contractors and architects are becoming more accustomed to our rules of bidding and conditions noted on proposal, which are required to become part of contract, and, in my opinion, it is a matter which depends only upon the backbone of each member, which will result in the universal adoption of our Code of Practice and bidding conditions.

"I would like to call attention principally to the importance of having an opening date fixed in all cases. It is not enough to take for granted that the dates noted on the postal cards which are usually received from general contractors are correct, and it is my idea that the secretary should make it a point to have the absolute date fixed by the architect, that every member should insist upon the architect or contractor himself as to an opening date, after which he will consider no other bids.

"We have taken up the question whether some of our members, who are disposed to do so, could utilize their plants, or a part of the same, in the manufacture of some article which is required by the Government, for the reason that owing to the lack of orders some of the plants will have to close down for want of work. The Government has a commission appointed to handle this question, and I feel that we should take immediate steps to organize a committee from our members whose task it will be to tabulate all of the plants of our members, giving capacity, description of buildings, available power, etc., which list could be shown to the respective Government officials should any use be found for our idle plants."

RESULT OF TESTS TO CONSERVE COAL, CONDUCTED BY BUREAU OF MINES, WASHINGTON

In order that there shall be the greatest economy in the burning of bituminous coals for heating the different Federal buildings throughout the country, The Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, has conducted a series of tests with some of the widely used bituminous coals and has printed recommendations based on these tests. Fortunately, the recommendations will also apply to those having charge of private buildings and apartment houses. The recommendations on how to burn bituminous coals economically in these large house-heating boilers are as follows:

1. In burning bituminous coals in large house-heating boilers the fuel bed should not be seriously disturbed until the coal has become well coked, that is, until the gassy part of the coal has been largely driven off.
2. Both caking and non-caking types of coal may be used satisfactorily in boilers of this type if properly handled.
3. The presence of a moderate proportion of screenings mixed with the lump coal causes the fresh charge of coal to heat more gradually and the emission of smoke is kept down more easily. Therefore such a proportion of screenings is an advantage.
4. Increasing the proportion of screenings in the coal necessitates the use of a stronger draft in order to carry the same load. Smaller firing charges must also be used and more frequent attention given. The tendency of caking coals to cake is increased, and this also means that the fire must have more frequent attention.
5. One large charge of coal fired by the spreading method will result in a longer emission of dense smoke than the total emission of such smoke from two charges of half of the size fired some time apart by the alternate method.

6. With some coals, moderate charges fired by the alternate method necessitates less frequent attention to the heater than larger charges fired by the spreading method. Caking coals having a considerable proportion of fine coal or screenings are usually among these. Conversely, a fire will usually require more frequent attention when a lumpy caking coal free from screenings or a non-caking coal is fired in moderate charges by the alternate method.

7. The number of tests made was not large enough to justify conclusions regarding the relative efficiency with which a coal may be burned by the two methods of firing, but the author believes that in actual service over considerable periods better results will be obtained by the alternate method.

8. Frequency of cleaning the fires will be determined by the character of the coal and the rate at which it is burned, but with most coals the fires should be cleaned only once or twice in 24 hours in ordinary weather.

9. If the alternate method of firing is employed, the cleaning should be done just before firing the fresh charge, and only one-half of the grate cleaned at a time. Then little or no smoke will result from the cleaning, because the side of the fire on which there is uncoked coal is not disturbed.

10. All three of the coals fired by the alternate method in the tests described were burned at rates corresponding to the heating conditions during the most of the winter, with scarcely any manipulation of the fuel bed except the cleaning of the fires and an occasional leveling just before firing.

11. The average fireman is apt to poke and slice the fire much more than is actually necessary. If a caking coal is used and the cake fuel must be broken up before it is well coked, slice the fire by running a straight bar under the fuel bed and raising it slightly so as to crack the caked mass. Do not stir the bed upside down by raising the bar through the fuel bed, nor break the bed with a bar from the top.

12. If the fuel bed is covered with a charge of fresh fuel in a layer more than five inches thick, the new charge, unless it is very free from slack, is apt to have a smothering effect. Then the output of the boiler will be correspondingly decreased and, especially if the spreading method of firing is employed, the mass of fresh coal will usually have to be broken once or twice before the fire will pick up. Consequently, the maximum firing charge should be not much thicker than five inches and for caking coals containing considerable slack it should not be more than four inches thick. Of course, when a fire is to be kept banked heavier charges may be used.

13. Do not fire large lumps of coal. Break all lumps into pieces no larger than fist size.

14. Large house-heating boilers do not require an intense draft to meet any reasonable demands for heat if the fuel bed is kept in proper condition, but the draft must be properly controlled.

15. The damper regulator should work freely with changes in steam pressure and should close the swinging draft opening in the ash-pit door before it starts to open the check draft in the smoke pipe.

16. The doors on the front of the boiler should fit snugly in their seats; special care should be taken to prevent any material wedging between the doors and the front and thus admitting air when or where it ought to be prevented from entering.

17. Do not allow clinkers to accumulate in the fire or too great a quantity of ashes on the grates. Be careful, however, in shaking the grates not to shake through unburned fuel.

18. In ordinary or severe weather keep an active fuel bed averaging ten to twelve inches deep. In milder weather the depth of active fuel may be decreased by keeping a layer of ashes on the grate under the live coals.

19. Keep ashes removed from the ash-pit.

20. Keep flue surfaces clean by brushing at least once a week.

VALIDITY AND EFFECT OF AWARDS OF ARBITRATION COMMITTEE

Interesting Controversy Over Commissions

A CONTROVERSY having arisen among a number of brokers over commissions upon the exchange and sale of real estate, the matter was submitted to the reference and arbitration committee of the Chicago Real Estate Board, of which Board two of the brokers, B. and C., were members. One who was not a member, D., after refusing to submit the controversy to the committee, was finally induced by the chairman of the committee to join in a written agreement agreeing to abide by the committee's decision in the controversy. The Board's by-laws provide that whenever members are unable to agree concerning the division of commissions resulting from any sale which they may have jointly negotiated, either member interested in the transaction may submit the matter in writing to the reference and arbitration committee of the Board, which committee shall determine the rights of the parties to the controversy, and that any decision rendered by a majority of the committee shall be final and binding on the parties. The committee investigated the claims of the various parties and made two awards in writing, joined in by all the members of the committee. Another broker, A., not a party to the arbitration proceedings, instituted an attachment suit against one of the parties, B., and another against the other two, C. and D., claiming a share of the commissions. C. and D. filed a bill against A. and B., praying that the latter be required to adjust and settle their differences, arising out of contract, between themselves, and offering to pay the sums due the defendants to whom the same should appear to the court to belong. The cause was referred to the master to take evidence and report, he being directed first to determine whether or not the awards by the reference and arbitration committee were valid before taking testimony upon the merits of the controversy between B., C. and D.

The master found that the awards were valid and binding upon the parties thereto, and should be enforced by the court in the present proceeding, and made further findings as to the division of the commissions after considering the evidence. A decree was entered, from which A., B. and C. appealed, C. and D. attacking the validity of the committee's awards.

The Illinois Supreme Court, Clark v. Courter, 117 N. E. 720, has made the following rulings relative to the validity of the committee's awards:

As it is the agreement between the parties submitting to arbitration that fixes the conditions, limitations and restrictions to be observed by the arbitrators, error cannot be predicated on the failure of the arbitrators to furnish a transcript of the shorthand notes to each party, where the agreement merely required the notes to be taken and transcribed. A party to an award who attacks it on the ground that the arbitrators did not furnish a transcript of evidence, and that each member of the Board did not read the testimony before making the award, as required by the agreement, must show that such condition was not complied with, since every presumption is in favor of the validity of an award.

It was contended that the awards were void because A. was not a party to the arbitration proceedings. The court said that inasmuch as A.'s only claim to the fund in controversy arose out of a contract with B., to which C. and D. were not parties, their interests in the subject matter of the arbitration proceedings could not have been affected by either the presence or absence of A. as a party thereto. Had A. been a party it could neither have increased nor diminished the amount awarded to C. and D., hence they were not prejudiced and could not attack the awards on the ground that A. was not a party to the arbitration proceedings.

It was also contended that the awards were void because it appeared on its face that the arbitrators retained jurisdiction of the parties and subject matter for future action. It appeared from the by-laws of the Chicago Real Estate Board that the penalty for refusal to abide by an award made by the reference and arbitration committee of the board is suspension or expulsion from the board, and the court held that the provision retaining jurisdiction over the controversy until the decision should be arrived at was inserted in the awards for the sole purpose of enforcing the contract. The awards themselves were final and determined the controversy between the parties upon the merits.

Transfer Cases.

The Public Service Commission has been definitely informed that the Third Avenue Railroad Company and other street surface railroad companies will be ready to go ahead with their cases when the hearings into the companies' applications for permission to charge two cents for transfers are resumed on February 6. These hearings have been adjourned from time to time at the request of the companies, but the most recent adjournment was made at the request of the city through the Corporation Counsel.

"Financing an Enterprise."

An interesting work, entitled "Financing an Enterprise," which is in reality a manual of information and suggestion for promoters, investors, and business men generally, has been published by the Ronald Press. This is the fourth edition of the book, which is by Francis Cooper. The work is divided into six parts and an appendix; the first dealing with the enterprise, the second investigation of an enterprise; third, protection of an enterprise; fourth, capitalization of an enterprise; fifth, presentation of an enterprise, and the sixth, special features of promotion.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule
LXXXVI of the Supreme Court
General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

Fire losses and the cost of fire prevention in the United States amount annually to $450,000,000, or more than the total American production of gold, silver, copper and petroleum in a year.

Several Administration officials, including Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of Labor Wilson and Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board endorsed the Fletcher Bill, which provides for an appropriation of $50,000,000 for housing of workmen at the various shipbuilding plants. It is to be hoped that buildings of a permanent character are erected, so that labor will be obtainable and the industry prosper.

A Committee has been appointed by Mayor Hylan to investigate possible sources of taxation so as to relieve real estate. The Mayor made the following statement: "I have asked this Committee to take up the subject of taxation in conjunction with the Tax Commission, so as to relieve the burden on real estate; also to investigate institutions and individual money lenders who, during these trying war times, are unduly oppressing the small owner of real estate by calling mortgages, charging excessive rates in case of renewal and in general using their power to reduce in value the most valuable asset that the City of New York has." There are all of 100,- 000 property owners who wish the Mayor success in his undertaking.

New York State Barge Canal.

Within a relatively short period of time the New York State Barge Canal will be opened for traffic. This new medium of transportation will provide nearly eight hundred miles of inland waterway for the movement of freight and will render an excellent service to the shippers of commodities that are now included in the embargoes on rail freight.
The Barge Canal will be an economical means of moving foodstuffs and manufactured articles direct to the Atlantic seaboard, from that large Middle Western territory, tributary to the Great Lakes, that is devoted to farming and manufacturing. The opening of this waterway will come at a time when overland freight transportation is taxed to the utmost. Now the traffic is irregular and wholly inadequate to the requirements of the shippers. Railroad lines generally are congested with freight; sidings are choked with cars en route to the East; yards at the local terminals are filled to capacity with loaded cars waiting the removal and distribution of their contents. In partially relieving this situation the Barge Canal will undoubtedly be a boon to both farmers and manufacturers and the facilities that it will offer will be doubly appreciated at this critical period in the history of railroad management and operation. It is sincerely to be hoped that the Government will not commandeer for Federal use this important waterway and its equipment of barges, but will recognize its value and possibilities as a means of assisting in relieving the strain on the overland freight facilities of the East.

State Military Census Vindicated.

Prior to the taking of the New York State census and inventory of military resources last June, considerable adverse comment was heard in regard to this undertaking. Among the criticisms of the projected census was the claim that it caused an extravagant expenditure of State funds for a purpose that was doubtful; that it simply provided extra work for officials of the administration and increased the already high tax rate.

By the use that has already been made of the lists tabulated by the State, the military census stands vindicated in the eyes of every fair-minded citizen of the Commonwealth. The statistics recently announced by the Census Board indicate the far-reaching value of such a census, and the military authorities of the United States can attest to the great value that it has been to them in their endeavor to obtain skilled men for many necessary branches of work connected with the prosecution of the war.

In no uncertain and indefinite manner has the recent New York State Military Census been of aid to the Government in procuring literally thousands of men and women for Federal work. The United States Shipping Board has made good use of the lists in getting in touch with thousands of skilled mechanics required in the shipyards to speed up the construction of additional tonnage for Federal shipments to the war zones. The names of nearly fifty thousand men employed as structural iron-workers, riveters, blacksmiths, automobile engine repair men and other mechanics have been obtained from the census lists, and workers induced to enter the Government employ. The United States Department of Labor assumed the work of reaching these men through correspondence and the result so far has been most gratifying.

These same census lists has furnished to the United States Navy the names of hundreds of cooks, firemen, oilers, machinists and other skilled workers that have been enlisted in the regular establishment, but who might never have thought of entering the Government service had not their names been on record at Albany. Letters in the files of the State Census Bureau from prominent army and navy officials show that these lists have been of inestimable value to the Government, and as a matter of fact furnished the only real aid that the authorities have had in obtaining the men immediately required for Federal service, both at home and abroad.

Under the circumstances the money expended in the effort of taking this census was well expended and it is doubtful if any but a pro-German citizen would feel that the expense was likely to be a burden. The only regret is that every other State in the Union has not taken a similar census of its facilities for assisting the Government in its effort to win the war.

The Liberty Bond.

The greatest good for the greatest number has long been held to be the highest aim of government and government action. There has never been a more perfect instrument of government for achieving this ideal than United States Liberty Bonds. By their very nature they give to every citizen of the United States a chance to serve his country by serving himself; and if one serves himself and by the same act promotes the welfare of all his fellow citizens, he certainly is serving the greatest good for the greatest number.

In buying a Liberty Bond one serves oneself first by discharging to that extent his paramount duty of patriotism in these days of his country's greatest war.
He serves himself also in a direct, material sense by investing his money in an absolutely safe manner and at lucrative interest. Further, he serves himself by helping to win a war whose sole purpose is to make not only his own country, but his whole world, a safer, happier and saner place to live in, both for himself and for his posterity. Directly and indirectly that means, also, that he is conserving the value of his own property, for personal ownership of property would mean little in a world or a nation ridden either by domineering autocracy or destructive anarchy. Both of those conditions are inherent possibilities in German success. The imposition of German rule on free-spirited nations would both destroy individual freedom on the one hand and promote the anarchy of discontent and seditious revolt against oppression on the other.
In a world in a state of unrest and uncertainty, property values would always be at low ebb. Even though the United States should retain its national entity and its sovereignty within its own borders, autocratic supremacy of Germany in Europe would inevitably impose on this country the necessity of becoming perpetually a militaristic nation in self defense, maintaining burdensome army and navy establishments that would have to be paid for out of the pockets of the people. In other words, the citizen is confronted with this alternative: Lend your money to your government now to win the war, or else give it to your country later in the form of taxation to defend itself. In the first case your money will come back to you after having earned you more money; in the second case it never would earn you a cent and never would come back, for it would be dead loss, consumed by necessary militarism. This is the hour for the citizen to choose between these two alternatives, and Liberty Bonds are the instrument through which he can make his choice effective.

Having thus served himself by buying Liberty Bonds, the citizen by the same deed serves all his fellow citizens. He does so without additional cost or effort to himself, for in making the world safer, saner and happier to live in for himself and his sons, he also makes it a better place for everyone else. Each of the broader aspects of the great good of Liberty Bond investment that benefits the purchaser himself means an equal largeness of welfare for his fellow citizens. Therefore the purchase of a Liberty Bond is an act of altruism that is perfect in its efficiency, for it requires no undue sacrifice on the part of the individual for the public good, but results in the maximum of public welfare.

Finally, in serving himself by buying a Liberty Bond the citizen serves his country, giving it the use of his money to fight the war, giving it his personal support and participation in its national solidarity of action and placing him unflinchingly in the ranks of patriotism, to stand four-square in the fight to uphold his country's glorious traditions of the past, to maintain its honor in the present and to make secure its safety in the future.

Coal on Premium Basis.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have read your editorial on Battle-of-the-Hudson with interest. I feel it is a much better solution of the problem than the one offered by the authorities at Washington.

I do not think these Monday closings are working out the way they anticipated. The fact that the day has been declared such a general holiday is more or less contagious. The people that it was hoped would put forth an extra endeavor on that day evidently do not wish to work and therefore take the day off.

If coal could be put on some premium basis for all that was mined and delivered to the consumer during, say, the month of February, I believe it would go much further toward helping the situation. Allow so much more per ton for handling it where the congestion was greatest, and allow the dealer here in New York so much more per ton for delivering it for all he delivers within a certain time. Let the consumer pay the additional price except where he buys by the pail.

In that case alone I would limit the price. I think you can trust the municipality to see that that class of people get coal, provided it is reasonably abundant, even if the price is low, and let the others pay the additional expense of getting it out in such times as we are having at present.

WILLIAM H. BROWNING.

To Relieve Realty.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

High rentals, complete stoppage of building operations, and few vacancies should logically result in enhancing real estate values. This condition, however, is not reflected either in public or private sales, and real estate prosperity is still a thing of the past and not especially attractive to the ordinary investor.

Brick and mortar are stable and permanent, and real estate with its rent-producing income has an intrinsic value that cannot be affected by the many extraneous occurrences that shake the investments of "Wall Street" like the delicate reed in a gale of wind. The cause is to be found in a lack of faith in governmental regulation and over-taxation. It is the bulwark of our Government, and largely supports both State and municipality, providing almost 90 per cent. of the taxes.

A number of attempts have heretofore been made, from time to time, to alleviate this abnormal condition, yet all plans and suggestions proved abortive, and of no practical value. Legislators seem imbued with the belief that the solidarity of real estate is such that it can endure an excessive burden of taxation without a strain, and as a result each year adds an increased imposition. We have a personal tax law on our books which is honored more in the breach than in the observance. Its enforcement has been farcical in the extreme, and by clever misstatements the good intent of the law has been frustrated so that the results are inconsequential. The returns have been out of all proportion to the possibilities, so that its repeal has been repeatedly advocated. Unless some provision is made in law, providing adequate punishment for an evasion of personal taxes, there can be no relief in this direction. A law should be passed providing penalties similar to that in the case of smugglers.

In Europe the decedent's estate is examined with great care, and if any false returns were made prior to his death the proper taxes are re-imposed with an added penalty. The State appraisers could certify any additional facts which might be of service in securing for the State or municipality its just rights. The exemption from taxation of Manhattan real estate is excessive, and should be reduced to proper proportions, or entirely abolished. In 1917 real estate exemptions totaled $1,796,620,000 out of a total of $8,000,000,000. A commission of expert business men should be appointed to properly classify exemptions so that injustice may be avoided.

A bill has recently been introduced in the State Legislature known as the Boylan bill, which limits the rate of taxation to be imposed on city real estate at $1.75. The passage of this bill would prove acceptable to real estate interests as fixing the ultimate liability of real estate at that figure. Property owners would not be menaced by constant increases of taxation, and real estate would be freed from alone meeting the enlarged needs of a growing municipality. Should this bill be enacted, it would be imperative for the Government to raise additional revenue by opening other sources for taxations. It is idle to speculate what commodities should be taxed to meet this deficiency, but the ingenuity of the United States Government in raising war taxes can well be patterned.

The Mayor has appointed a commission to devise ways and means to seek additional revenue, so that real estate may be relieved from an intolerable condition. This committee, composed of such well known citizens as Nathan Hirsch, Bryan L. Kennelly, William Randolph Hearst, and others, will act in conjunction with the Tax Commissioners, and will be prepared to receive suggestions from any and all sources, with a view of increasing the revenues of the municipality without adding to the burdens of real estate.

The President of the Tax Board, Jacob A. Cantor, expresses himself in favor of ameliorating the condition of real estate by any and all constitutional and just means. He favors a stricter enforcement of the Personal Tax Law, and is considering the advisability of taxpayers filling out blanks similar to the routine provided for in income tax proceedings so that an examination can be had, if desired, and the proper penalty inflicted in case of falsity of return.

The amount of personal property, subject to taxation for our local needs, can be vaguely estimated, when we consider that our local residents subscribed nearly two and one-half billion dollars in two Liberty loans without creating a ripple of excitement in banking circles.

It is incumbent at this time for real estate interests to be on the alert, and offer such suggestions to the new Tax Commission as they may think serviceable so that a decisive result may be reached without the interminable delays that characterized prior commissions.

Fire Menace in New York.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The fire menace in New York, increased as it is to an alarming degree by the considerable impairment of automatic sprinkler protection by the recent unusually cold weather, is a grave problem, as the Record and Guide says—grave beyond the conception of the average person. Some conception of the gravity of the problem may be gained from what prominent underwriters said at the New York Fire Insurance Exchange meeting several weeks ago. This meeting was held to consider measures of relief from the perilous condition and was the beginning of public interest in the question.

In remarking the possibilities of "a conflagration of the first magnitude in the city of the world which has the greatest concentration of values," a prominent underwriter said that this could mean "a conflagration loss amounting to $500,000,000," and that

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 301.—The stock of a vegetable and fruit store is sold by the Sheriff or Marshal, who, in view of the perishable nature of the goods, permits the purchaser to sell goods at retail in the store that day instead of removing them. When night comes the landlord desires to lock up the place but the purchaser of the stock refuses to allow it or to surrender the key, declaring he would leave the remainder of the goods overnight and sell or remove it next day. How can the landlord secure possession of the premises that evening? S. F.

Answer No. 301.—It is impossible to answer this question without additional facts. We know of no law which gives the Sheriff or a marshal the right to allow the purchaser to retail the goods which he has bought in the place in which he purchased them. The general rule is that purchasers at these sales must remove the goods from the premises immediately. The question does not state whether the lease of the store was sold or not. It also does not state as to how the purchaser secured possession of the key. Surely the Sheriff or marshal would have no right to give it to him. If the landlord is entitled to possession of the property he could remove any goods he found therein.

amount of loss would have to be provided promptly "and not in promises but in actual cold cash," which would "exhaust our treasuries so far as capital and surplus are concerned. And if we have that conflagration and we should be called upon for a sum of three or four or five hundred millions of dollars, where are we to get the replacement of that fund? Can we go into the open market today and borrow the money from our banks upon depreciating securities? The very occurrence of such a conflagration would increase depreciation of our securities, and we have nothing in our hands which could appeal to the investing public at the present time to come back and fill our depleted treasuries in the event of our meeting with such a catastrophe. It is not money we after a time, it is security. The whole basis of credit would be shattered should the companies be brought to the point where they are not prepared to give the blanket of indemnity to the rest of the country if their resources should be sucked dry right here."

As is well known, the reason for the underwriters' apprehension of a conflagration is the considerable impairment of automatic sprinkler protection. In remarking the importance of this protection, it was said:

"Modern conditions have brought about buildings of immense areas, crowded with a value which in the time of our grandfathers would have been value enough almost for a whole city. These conditions are largely made possible by the automatic sprinkler. With all due deference to the powers of the Fire Department—and the power and efficiency of that department are magnificent—we still have to come back to it that modern conditions in a city like New York would hardly be possible apart from the sprinkler equipment."

And because of this condition, Chief Kenlon himself, and for the first time, frankly admitted at this meeting a fear of a conflagration.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Market Holds Firm Under Trying Conditions— Leasing of Business Properties More Active

AS the result of the decline in building operations real estate is on a firmer footing than for several years past. Buildings are practically one hundred per cent. rented, and there is no likelihood that these conditions will change during the coming year. The growth of the suburban sections has been material, for a large amount of overflow has been taken care of in the nearby residential communities.

Building contracts awarded for residences in Greater New York, during the month of January, totaled $2,865,000, and for manufactories, $1,049,000, and for miscellaneous structures, $3,011,000, making a total of $6,925,000 for all operations in the City of New York. The figures for the corresponding period last year aggregated $13,713,000.

The total for contracts awarded for the territory including New York City, Northern New Jersey, Long Island, New York State and mobilization work, during January, 1918, aggregated $13,797,000, as against $21,058,000 for the corresponding period last year. The figure for the city work last year is almost the same as that of the entire territory this past month.

Communications have been sent to every member of the Committees on Post Roads and Post Offices of the United States Senate and House of Representatives by the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, urging their approval of the amendment introduced by Senator William M. Calder to provide for a postage rate of two cents an ounce on all first-class mail mailed in the city for delivery within all of the five boroughs of the city.

The Board of Directors of the Queens

Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution protesting against the discrimination which the postal regulations under the War Revenue Act created by compelling a three-cent rate of postage on letters mailed to adjoining postal districts of New York City. There are today fourteen different postal zones in New York City—Manhattan and Bronx comprise one, Brooklyn another, and there are six separate post offices in both the Boroughs of Queens and Richmond.

Although a letter can be mailed from lower Manhattan to the upper part of the Bronx, a distance of about sixteen miles, for two cents, yet a letter mailed from Long Island City to Manhattan, or to Brooklyn, or to adjoining postal districts in Queens, such as Flushing or Jamaica, requires three cents.

It is estimated that 50 per cent. of letters mailed by business concerns in Queens go to zones within New York City. It is interesting to note in connection with this matter that the Boston post office serves not only the city of Boston, but eleven cities and thirteen towns, so that a letter mailed in any of these cities or towns for delivery in any other one of them needs only two-cent postage.

The sales market during the week was more or less listless. This was due to the same factors which were present for the past two weeks, namely, poor weather, the Monday closing and the shortage of coal, etc. The leasing of business properties was a little more brisk, specially as to renewals.

There was considerable interest displayed in the auction market. Several properties were purchased by outside interests, and in some instances the bidding was quite spirited.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Blanket Mortgage of Lots.

UNDER a blanket mortgage on a number of lots giving the mortgagor and his assigns the right to have them released from the lien on payment of certain sums per front foot, the owner of lots which had not been released on foreclosure was not to be subjected to a higher charge than the amount due computed on the front foot price; and if an adjustment on that basis would result in payment of more than was due to the assignee of the mortgage the burden was on the purchaser to show such fact. His contention that, as the conveyance to him was made without express reference to the mortgage be taken free from the mortgage lien except as to the amount actually due on the mortgage, not taking into consideration the payments which the assignee of the mortgage had made to the mortgagee for the former's protection was held without merit, where the purchaser had actual notice of the mortgage.—Union Trust Co. v. Hagus, Pennsylvania Supreme Court, 102 Atl. 170.

Conveyances to Dummies.

Under New York Real Property Law, Section 94, relating to grants where the consideration is paid by another, when flat houses were purchased by one who paid the consideration, but took title in the name of his cousin, the New York Appellate Division holds, Hegstad v. Wysiecki, 165 N. Y. Supp. 898, that the cousin became the owner, and no interest, cognizable either in law or equity, though the cousin was to hold in trust for the purchaser, vested in the latter; and, under Sections 91, 92, 93 and 242, abolishing certain trusts and providing when written conveyance is necessary, when other houses were conveyed by him to his cousin, she became the absolute owner, and as to them also no interest remained in him, cognizable either in law or equity, though the cousin was to hold in trust for him. The cousin became what the real estate interests have denominated a dummy, which term has become well recognized to mean a person who holds the legal title to real property under a moral obligation to recognize another as its owner. Originally the moral obligation to hold title in realty for another as owner was a trust, which would be executed by decree in chancery; but this is now provided for by the above mentioned sections of the Real Property Law.

If the apparent ownership of such a dummy gave her credit, inducing a creditor to trust her, her reconveyance to the person for whose benefit she held title would be fraudulent as to the creditor, despite her moral obligation to recovery. If the dummy's failure to perform her duty as landlord injured a tenant, the obligation to recovery was held limited by her duty to make good the loss suffered by the tenant, and, as to the injured tenant, her moral obligation to recovery did not exist, and her reconveyance without actual consideration was voluntary and fraudulent as to the tenant.

Void Sale on Foreclosure.

The New York Appellate Division holds, Wehrum v. Wehrum, 167 N. Y. Supp. 295, that a transfer of real estate in consideration of and as collateral security to a loan, and giving power of sale without notice, is a mortgage, which must be foreclosed and sold according to the procedure in Code Civ. Proc. § 2387, 2388, or the sale is void, and a purchaser under a mortgage foreclosure, void from want of proper notice, is not a mortgagee in possession.

To Auction Seats for Benefit.

The auction sale of boxes and the choice of orchestra seats for the Real Estate Board of New York's benefit performance at the Hippodrome on Sunday evening, March 3, will be held in the Board Room, at 217 Broadway, on Thursday morning, February 14, at 11 o'clock. Joseph P. Day will be the auctioneer. The members of the Board decided to give up their annual banquet, which was to have been held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel next Saturday night, and use the money which they would have spent for the dinner to swell the Fund for the Benefit of American Soldiers and Sailors. The amount raised at the Hippodrome entertainment will be contributed to war relief associations.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 25 as against 15 last week and 28 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 12, as compared with 7 last week and 14 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 13, as compared with 8 last week and 14 a year ago.

From the Bronx 5 sales at private contract were reported, as against 5 last week and 4 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 147 of this issue.

Hospital on Staten Island.

An event of far-reaching importance to Staten Island is the selection by the United States Government of the Fox Hills, near Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, for a large military base hospital. The property embraces approximately 160 acres of high lying land, commanding a fine view of New York Bay, the ocean and hills of Staten Island, and is admirably adapted for hospital purposes. It is within 3,000 feet of the Quarantine on the Narrows, and it is easily reached from Belair station or Fort Wadsworth station of the Staten Island Rapid Transit. A spur will be constructed into the property from a point near Grasmere by the railroad company. It is the intention of the Government to receive the freight coming by rail in that way and to ship convalescent soldiers directly by rail via the Staten Island Railroad and trunk lines connecting with it in New Jersey. The patients leaving for their homes or for other hospitals can thus be sent by rail to all parts of the country. There will be accommodations for about 3,000 beds, and the large number of attendants and their families, as well as those visiting the wounded soldiers, will probably tax the residential facilities of all of Staten Island. The United States Government placed the securing of the leases, with the option of purchase, in the hands of Cornelius G. Kolff, who has recently completed his task. The contract for the erection of the hospital and administration buildings has been given to Thompson-Starrett Company, Cornelius G. Kolff also leased to the latter company, for the occupancy of Major G. K. Meyers and the Thompson-Starrett Company, as an office building, the large Belair Manor, on Belair road and Hope avenue, Rosebank. These headquarters for the administration and the contractor can best be reached from New York by the Staten Island ferry to St. George and thence by the Staten Island Rapid Transit to Belair station. Embraced in the property selected for the hospital site are the holdings of Charles D. Durkee, Estate of Charles Rosenberg, the Italian National Rifle Shooting Association, Frederick A. Johnston, Estate of George W. Vanderbilt, Estate of Sir Roderick Cameron, Estate of William Cuthbertson, Estate of Mary A. Buskirk, E. I. Jenkins, Bethlehem Orphan Asylum, Mount Mansera, Samuel E. Field, Thomas Willshaw, St. Johns Heights Realty Company, Rev. Father A. Cattagio, and others.

Riverside Drive House Sold.

Charles Hensle bought from the Harlem Savings Bank the six-story apartment house at the south corner of Riverside Drive and 135th street, known as the West Point. The property has a frontage of 132.3 feet on the drive, 24.5 feet in the street, and irregular east and south lines. The bank took the property over at foreclosure on January 8, on a bid of $185,000 or about $15,000 less than the judgment obtained against the Hensle Construction Company and others. Lewis S. Marx, as attorney, represented the buyer, and Edward S. Clinch acted for the seller.

Storage Men Buy Realty.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society sold to Henry I. Stetler, Inc., warehousemen, the Wilson Building, three five-story structures occupying the entire frontage in Bleeker street, from Bank to Hudson streets. The frontage in Bank street is 87.8 feet; in Bleeker street, 192.6 feet, and in Hudson street, 73.3 feet. The property also extends to West 11th street, where it fronts 52.9 feet. The selling society acquired the property last August at foreclosure. The purchasers intend to improve the property in order to handle merchandise from the freight-receiving stations on the river front. The concern already has three large warehouses in Washington street, near Charlton and King streets.

Realty Company Sells to Woman.

Benenson Realty Company, Benjamin Benenson, president, sold the new six-story apartment house on the west side of Southern Boulevard, 77.9 feet south of Claremont place, on a plot 75 x 131 feet. The building accommodates twenty-seven families and contains four stores. It is fully tenanted. The new owner is Mrs. Anna H. Ahrens, who gave in part payment the five-story apartment house at 710 West 179th street, on plot 50 x 92.6, located midway between Broadway and Fort Washing-

United Service Was Selected

For This Splendid Group Of Modern Apartments

This $500,000 group of 12-story apartments at the corners of West End Avenue, at 103d and 104th Streets, is typical of the vast housing edifices of today that depend upon United Service.

The installation for this group of apartments totaled 6,500 lamps, with a total of 200 horsepower for motors, etc. The selection of United Service speaks volumes for its reputation amongst owners, architects and builders.

Publicity— The Life Belt of Business

Mr. Business Man, how much money are you figuring on spending to advertise your business in 1918?

Doubtless you are giving considerable thought to this subject. Perhaps you have decided to reduce your advertising; and again, guided by natural enterprise, you may have decided to increase your appropriation.

During the World's War this great country of ours is facing new conditions daily. Things are becoming horribly jumbled. Out of the confusion, however, comes one thing that is perfectly clear and understandable—the American business man cannot stand still.

These are the days for action and plenty of it. When you advertise your business you push the motor into high speed. You let the world at large know that you are prepared to do some definite thing, and the world will be glad to give you a chance to do it.

Working under the present-day system of things, a man advertises himself as a FAILURE WHEN HE QUILTS ADVERTISING HIS BUSINESS.

You would be doing the same thing were you to remove your name and the nature of your business from your stationery, using plain paper for your correspondence.

Nineteen Eighteen is going to be just what the business man of America makes it. Brains, good, clear, thinking brains are being called into action. The eyes of the business man are directed to the future.

To the RECORD AND GUIDE it seems that the sane thing for the business man to do so far as his advertising is concerned, is to increase his appropriation from 25% to 50% during 1918. It is an investment that will pay big dividends ere the year is dead. It will keep the advertiser among the doers; it will balance the scales now weighed down on one side by the jumble and roar of a mighty conflict.

THE ADVERTISER IS SAFE; HIS BUSINESS LIFE BELT IS STRAPPED.

ton avenue. Mrs. Ahrens acquired the property in August, 1915. The Southern Boulevard house and a similar one adjoining, at the southwest corner of Claremont place, were completed by the selling company about six months ago. H. Schaefer, Jr., was the architect. A building loan aggregating $130,000 was obtained from the Rockland Realty Company. The Benenson Realty Co. resold the 179th street property to Frederick Brown. The resale was negotiated by James Boyd.

Amusement Company Buys.

Blinderman & Cohen Amusement Company, lessees of the premises, bought 80 to 82 Clinton street, extending through to 97 and 103 Attorney street, from the heirs of the Martin Grossman Estate. This property, together with five others, were offered early in January at auction, and at that time were disposed of to parties in interest. They include Everett Hall at 31-35 East 4th street, near the Bowery, a four-story building; 2157 Crotona avenue, a four-story flat, and the two three-story dwellings at 8762 and 3764 Park avenue, near 171st street.

Resale on Washington Heights.

Frederick Brown resold to Ida E. Kreuscher the five-story apartment house at 714 West 179th street, which he bought from Mrs. Sarah Hafner on December 31 last. The house is arranged for twenty families and occupies a plot 50 x 92.6 adjoining the corner of Fort Washington avenue. It was held at $75,000. In part payment the buyer gave two properties at Far Rockaway, L. I., consisting of a three-story residence at the southwest corner of Dodge avenue and the Boulevard, 42 x 125 feet, and the hotel, on a plot 96 x 82.7 x 104 x 81 feet, at the corner of Park avenue and the Boulevard. J. A. Wood negotiated the transaction.

Woman Investor Buys.

Mathilda Van Praag, president of the 210 West 56th Street Company, bought the five-story loft and store building at 5 and 7 Front street, southeast corner of Moore street, on plot 30.5 x 80 x irregular, from Julia P. Gardner, of Port Washington, L. I., and Emily P. Cape, of Stamford, Conn., who acquired title to the property in 1912. The sellers allowed a mortgage for five years of $24,000 at 5 per cent. to remain. The Knickerbocker Bag Company is the tenant, but at the expiration of the lease the building will be altered by the new owner. The deed was recorded last Wednesday.

Columbia Leasehold Sold.

The estate of Sarah A. Knight sold to Solomon Kalvin the four-story residence, on a lot 16.4 x 100, at 46 West 49th street, Columbia College leasehold. The property will be altered into studio apartments. Adolph E. Nast is preparing designs for the alteration, which, it is estimated, will cost about $8,000. Last October Mr. Kalvin obtained two large Columbia leasehold properties at 3 and 5 West 50th street. It is understood that business alterations are contemplated for the site.

Sale on Lower Broadway.

Crouch & Fitzgerald bought the five-story building 25.4 x 61.6 x irregular, part of which they occupy, at 179 Broadway, between Cortlandt and Dev streets, from Winfield S. Gilmore, subject to a mortgage of $323,000. The buyers gave in part payment their five-story factory building at 352 and 354 West 41st street to 357 West 40th street, about 100 feet east of Ninth avenue, subject to a mortgage of $58,000. The deeds were recorded during the week.

Operator Buys at Mt. Morris Park.

Frederick Brown bought from Elisha L. Laird 14 Mt. Morris Park West, adjoining the Harlem Presbyterian Church, at the southwest corner of 122d street. The house is a four-story and basement dwelling with a two-story extension, on a lot 25 x 100 feet. The seller has owned and occupied it since 1907. Mr. Brown gave in exchange 1699 Third avenue, a five-story tenement, with stores, on a plot 25 x 100, between 95th and 96th streets.

Upper Broadway Apartment Sold.

Max N. Natanson, president of the Nason Realty Company, bought, from the Collar City Land Company, representing capital from Troy, N. Y., the six-story elevator apartment house at 3291 to 9295 Broadway, at the southwest corner of 133d street, measuring 75 x 125 x irregular. The property was acquired by the selling company in March, 1916, and is assessed at $150,000. Frederick Zittel & Sons and W. J. Hamilton were the brokers in the transaction.

Manhattan.

61ST ST.—Mrs. Jerusha A. Wright sold 50 East 61st st, a dwelling, 19x100.5, held at $40,000.

79TH ST.—Henry Street Settlement, which operates a number of neighborhood houses in various parts of Manhattan and the Bronx, purchased the property at 234 East 79th st, between 2d and 3d avs, for the enlargement of its branch at 232, adjoining. The new acquisition is a 3-sty dwelling, 110x102.2, and was secured from Max Backhaus, subject to a mortgage of $8,000.

85TH ST.—Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Co. sold to Nelson Zaboriskie 121 West 85th st, a 3½-sty brick dwelling, on lot 18.6x97.6. The purchaser will occupy. Mrs. Landon was the broker.

101ST ST.—James H. Cruikhand resold the flat at 7 West 101st st to William A. Sinclair, taking in part payment the dwelling at 25 East 94th st.

114TH ST.—Elemco Realty Co., affiliated with Lawyers' Mortgage Co., acquired from Jacob S. Ottman 224 East 114th st, a 3-sty house, 17.10x102.2.

119TH ST.—Ennis & Sinnott resold 132 East 119th st, flats and stores, 20x100, to Herman Wald and Max Goldwasser through Bernard Smyth & Sons.

129TH ST.—Harry Sugarman, in conjunction with Earle & Calhoun, sold for Susan E. Blodgett 62 East 129th st, a 5-sty triple flat, on a lot 24.4x99.11, 117.6 ft. west of Park av. The property was taken over by the seller on December 27 in foreclosure proceedings.

166TH ST.—Alexander E. Marks purchased from David Pasinsky, operator, the 5-sty new-law apartment house at 457 and 459 West 166th st, on a plot 50x76.6, between Amsterdam and Edgecombe av. The seller acquired the property last month from Zachary Heller. Butler & Baldwin negotiated the present deal.

2D AV.—Joseph Aschbach resold, through Fred Oppenheimer, the 4-sty flat, with store, at 1634 2d av, on lot 25x88, near 86th st, to Henry Nembach. The seller acquired the property several days ago through the same broker.

Bronx.

DAVIDSON AV.—As a site for the erection of a large house James H. Robinson purchased from Frederick Brown, operator, a plot 80x103x irreg., on the east side of Davidson av, 115 ft. north of North st. The seller acquired the property in a recent trade. C. & G. E. Bucklee were the brokers in the transaction.

HONE AV.—Alexander Selkin and David Mintz sold to Henry Morgenthau Co. the plot 111x140xirreg, northeast corner of the esplanade and Hone av, held at $17,000.

caused by a rat. A hungry little rat—desperately in need of food—destroyed a beautiful oil painting in a beautiful apartment house on Riverside Drive. By investigation, the owner proved that the house was infested with rats, and held that since the landlord had been previously warned to eradicate this pest, he was responsible for the loss of his expensive painting.

RECENT LEASES.

Delmonico's Back in Original Home.

The John G. McCullough Estate leased to Delmonico's 23 William street, a five-story building, on a lot 23.4 x 140.11, together with the rear portion of 53 Beaver street, making a depth of 172 feet. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $20,000, or an aggregate rental amounting to $420,000. The property is located about 200 feet to the north of the old Delmonico Building, at the junction of Beaver and South William streets, and by securing the rear portion of the Beaver street building the restaurateurs will have access to an interior alley, and will obtain space for a kitchen at grade. A wing of Lord's Court Building, at Exchange place, has also been secured. It is a noteworthy coincidence that in the lease of the property at 23 William street this restaurant is returning to the very location that formed the site of the coffee house that was opened in May, 1827, by Peter Delmonico, a brother of the original proprietor of the Delmonico Restaurant. The present management plans to occupy the building on May 1 next, which will be just ninety-one years since Delmonico's was founded in this city. The new restaurant will occupy only the ground floor, the upper floors having already been sub-leased to various tenants. Accommodations for five hundred persons have been provided for. The building is to be altered from plans by Henry Ives Cobb, architect, who estimates the cost at $50,000.

Walter C. Teagle Leases.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company, rented the large suite of John Hays Hammond, in the seventeen-story building at the northeast corner of Park avenue and 79th street, through Pease & Elliman. The brokerage firm also obtained for Mr. Teagle an extension of the Hammond lease from Vincent Astor, who bought the property last year from the estate of Mrs. Morris K. Jesup. Mrs. Jesup acquired the property from Bing & Bing just prior to her death. The apartment just leased comprises eighteen rooms and five baths.

Large Lease in Harlem.

Ames & Company leased for the Stalwart Realty Company, which is the holding company for the properties of Lucy Work Hewitt, the plot at the northwest corner of Cathedral Parkway and Lenox avenue through to St. Nicholas avenue and 111th street, containing 25,000 square feet. The owners will erect upon the property a two-story and basement garage. The tenant is the New West Side Garage Corporation, which has acquired the property for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $300,000.

Chemical Company Leases.

The National Aniline & Chemical Company, Inc., leased the ten-story structure at the northwest corner of Burling Slip and Front street. The property has been rented for a long term, with the privilege of purchase within a specified time from William J. Matheson. The leasing company, with which have been merged since the beginning of the war many diversified units, is one of the largest dyestuff concerns outside of Germany. The company is now located at 244 Madison avenue, owned by August Heckscher.

Lease Brings $75,000.

Through Carstein & Linnekin William Davies & Company, Inc., purchased from Parson & Wallander the long-term lease of the second floor of Billings Court, 349 to 353 Fifth avenue, southeast corner of 34th street, for a consideration said to approximate $75,000. Davies & Company will occupy the premises for their wholesale and retail business.

RECORD AND GUIDE IS IN ITS FIFTIET H YEAR OF CONTINUOUS PUBLICATION.

A Human

*full of the "blood and sweat"
the fair weather and the foam
into the history of the m*

On the morning of March 21, 1868, in a small office on Park Row, there was THE REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS' GUIDE.

On Saturday morning, March 23, 1918, commemorating the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY, the paper played in its chosen field will be portrayed by pen and picture in the form of a picture.

The history of a paper that for half a century has represented the closely knit community, its publication date, and numbering among its present subscribers and advertisers many of the names of the past.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be issued one year after the last issue. As we hear the grumble of the pessimist. It is said that trade is slackening, that the business is slow.

In the face of the grumble of the pessimist the RECORD AND GUIDE will go on. It will go on together as one man with their representative paper.

Business WILL go on. There are enough strong, optimistic men in the business fabric of the city. For years men fought side by side to save a situation in business and in war because they believed in it.

A glance at the brief resume of the prospectus will outline the vast scope of the RECORD AND GUIDE for half a century—a record which has made a name for itself.

(1) THE RECORD AND GUIDE—Its inception in 1868—its growth in fifty years—illustrated.

(2) OLD NEW YORK—How it looked and lived and did business a half century ago.

(a) Brief historical sketch outlining conditions as to boundaries, population, residential and business centers, transportation facilities, shipping, public buildings, amusements and amusement places, hotels—brief reference to conditions twenty-five years ago that led up to consolidation into Greater New York in 1898. (b) Brief historical reference to methods of doing real estate business, facilities for doing it, values in "gilt edge" sections of Manhattan.

(3) A MESSAGE from Mayor Hylan to the Tax Payers of New York City.

(4) NEW YORK OF TODAY.

(a) This great City of New York—area, population, greatness of its governmental problem and municipal machinery for doing its work, annual cost of running it, value of its real estate, what real estate contributes in taxes, its great manufactures and industries, its waterfront and port and shipping, its transportation facilities—surface, elevated and subway—its street traffic, the railroads entering it bringing passengers and freight, the center of a great suburban population, its buildings and its building industry, its financial importance, bank clearings, contribution to Federal tax, to first and second Liberty Loans. (b) A message from Borough President Dowling to the taxpayers of Manhattan. (c) Manhattan—growth and present conditions in real estate of the following: West Side—financial districts, insurance district, business area east of William Street and South of Broadway—about the City Hall—Middle Broadway—West Side—Union Square—Madison Square—Park Square—Fifth Avenue—Madison Avenue—Park Avenue—Middle West Side—Columbus Circle—the Upper East Side—East Side—Lexington Avenue—Harlem—Kings Heights, and the Dyckman section.

(5) THE WATERFRONT OF NEW YORK CITY.

Its extent; various shipping, manufacturing and industrial uses; relation to the Port of New York, Brooklyn and Queens, the summer resort and Bay features; in Staten Island, its relation to New Jersey.

(6) THE SUBWAYS.

(a) Effect of first lines. (b) Lines recently opened and territory served. (c) Lines nearing completion and territory they will serve.

(7) IMPORTANT MUNICIPAL AGENCIES.

Subjects will be treated separately as they arise in municipal activities with which real estate brokers and owners come frequently into contact.

(8) ORGANIZED FOR PROTECTION.

Functions and work of the Real Estate Board.

Confidence in ourselves, plus "American ingenuity" have given this nation an ability to overcome all difficulties. The FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will radiate this confidence to all manufacturers and others interested in real estate and building conditions in Greater New York.

Advertisers will be given an opportunity of having their announcements read by the RECORD AND GUIDE in New York.

This edition will comprise 10,000 copies with a probable reading circulation of 50,000.

Those desiring to secure additional copies should order at once. Address: Business

BLISS TALKS

"Exterminator service is considered essential to the high-class apartment."

TO make a building clean, healthful, desirable and such that it will both ATTRACT and KEEP the class of tenant you wish for, an absolute clearance must be made of vermin of every kind. That "Bliss Service Satisfies" is attested by a representative showing of leading New York Real Estate Agents who have contracted with us for it. Remember, we give a FREE demonstration to owners and agents, and we guarantee satisfaction.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

THERE is a firmer tone to the building situation today than has been noticeable for many weeks past. During the past few days a number of building projects of importance have been announced to the industry and these have been strong factors in brightening the outlook for the structural interests of the Metropolitan district. Two large hotel projects occupy a prominent position in the group of new buildings for which plans and specifications have recently been prepared and a number of structures designed for industrial and commercial occupancy bring the total value of contemplated construction up to a substantial figure. From various parts of the United States reports are coming in to the effect that building prospects are steadily improving and that just as soon as the weather conditions are more favorable renewed activity in building construction will occur.

Locally it is conceded by a number of individuals in close touch with the situation that the mental attitude of the building fraternity is more optimistic owing to the new work that has recently been brought out for estimates and the projects that have been placed under contract within the last two or three weeks. Throughout New York State there is quite a large volume of public work, including the construction of roads, sewers, bridges, culverts and operation of a similar character now being planned and bids for construction and materials will soon be called for. The material dealers and the manufacturers of contractors' equipment are looking forward to a considerable increase in their business from this source.

Considerable activity is noticed among concerns having important Federal contracts for munitions and supplies. Quite a number of these concerns are making preparations for substantial improvements to their factories and plants. In some instances entirely new structures will be erected and in others the old buildings will be remodeled and enlarged to meet the present requirements. This work alone will call for the purchase of immense quantities of materials and require the labor of thousands of mechanics and laborers.

Although the material markets are generally quiet the tone is good and prices firm. The present dullness is attributed more to the inclement weather that has maintained more than to any other one factor and just as soon as this settles it is predicted that the situation among the dealers in materials and supplies will be greatly improved. At this writing there is every indication that commodity prices will hold to their present high levels. No recession will come while the difficulty in obtaining adequate fuel supplies continues or while the transportation situation is in its existing chaotic state. Both of these factors are acting to prevent flooding the market even with the extremely slight demand. Dealers in some material lines are carrying short or broken stocks—this particularly to lumber and glass dealers. While the demand remains at the present low ebb there will be no material change in the price situation, but should it suddenly increase it would be difficult to predict how high prices might soar.

Common Brick.—The wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has been abnormally quiet during the past week and will continue in this condition while the inclement weather lasts. Although there have been a few inquiries no sales have been registered, as it would be impossible to deliver barges on account of the ice-congested condition of the local waters. Prices have not changed since last week and $10 a thousand in cargo lots is the figure being quoted upon all inquiries. The dealers are looking forward to greatly improved business during the next few months. Prediction is freely made that there will be an early spring and with it will come a substantial revival of building operations. There are quite a number of important operations that are only being held in abeyance on account of the bad weather, and as soon as this is more settled a marked improvement should be noticed. From all accounts it will be at least four weeks or more before new supplies can come through from the up-river points. The Raritan situation is practically the same as it has been for the last three or four weeks. No quotations upon brick from this section are being made for immediate delivery, as the ice effectually prevents navigation of barges and the manufacturers are unwilling to quote on futures owing to the uncertainty of the conditions two or three months hence.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, February 1, 1918: Condition of market: Demand very light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none. Sales, none.

Face Brick.—Manufacturers of face brick are still hampered by the difficulty of obtaining coal to operate their plants and in obtaining transportation for their finished product. The demand at present is light owing to the lack of active construction, but the prospects for spring and summer business are steadily improving. During the last two weeks a number of important building projects have been brought out and these will involve quite a large quantity of face brick in their construction. Face brick prices are stiffening somewhat owing to the increased production costs.

Structural Steel.—The Federal Government remains the predominating factor in the market for fabricated material. The extent of the Federal commitments for fabricated materials is best indicated in the report of the Bridge Builders and Structural Society for the month of December, which shows that during that month one hundred and fourteen per cent. of the total capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country was contracted for. The December bookings were for a total of 205,000 tons as against 138,500 tons for November. There is quite a large volume of new Government business in immediate prospect. Bids are being received for some of this work and other operations are being announced from time to time. Requirements for private construction are practically negligible, and when inquiries are made they are mostly for industrial or commercial structures that are incidental to the military program. There are numerous signs of improvement in the general building situation and new projects are maturing. Whether these will proceed or not is largely dependent upon the ability to obtain reasonably prompt deliveries of the required steel. Prices are unchanged, and those now in force will maintain until March 31.

Lumber.—The lumber market in the Metropolitan district is quiet and is being affected by the same conditions that have hindered all lines of activity. The demand is only moderate with few orders emanating from the building interests, but the manufacturing consumers taking an average amount. Stocks in the hands of the dealers are badly broken and difficulty is experienced in filling in on account of the transportation situation. Prices are firm. The Government is making a strong demand upon the lumber producers for its military requirements. For the building of airplanes alone the total amount of lumber required reaches an immense figure. About two hundred feet of wood is used in the construction of the average plane. In order to obtain this material it is ordinarily necessary to work over about one thousand five hundred feet of select lumber. This often represents all that can be used for airplanes, of fifteen thousand board feet of standing timber.

Portland Cement.—The cement situation is exceptionally quiet at the present time, but the prospect for a satisfactory spring business is steadily improving. The cement interests are looking forward to a largely increased use of their commodity in the construction of roads, bridges and culverts, the development of hydro-electric plants and in general construction of manufacturing and commercial structures. Reports of contemplated work in these lines lead to the anticipation of a good volume of business during the coming months. Prices are firm at the $2.15 level for lots of one thousand barrels or more, f. o. b. New York. There is a rumor current that this price is likely to be advanced, but at this writing nothing definite has been announced.

White and Red Lead.—The demand for these commodities is moderate and there is no evidence that consumers are buying beyond their immediate requirements. Shipping difficulties continue to hamper the manufacturers and until this situation is adjusted no great improvement in the market is anticipated. White lead in oil is being quoted at 10¾ to 11c. a pound in large-sized containers and in quantities of five hundred pounds or more. Slight advances are obtained for smaller lots. Red lead in oil is selling at 10 to 11¼c. a pound for large orders.

Wire Nails.—The demand for wire nails is in excess of the supply and dealers are experiencing difficulty in obtaining stocks from the manufacturers, who are booked ahead for some months. Manufacturing has been hindered through the shortage of fuel and lack of transportation. The Government continues as the most important factor in the market for this commodity and its requirements take precedence over private orders. Prices are unchanged from the Federal control figure that has now maintained for some time.

Cast Iron Pipe.—The business in this line is picking up considerably and there is a satisfactory volume of new business in sight. Counties and municipalities are undertaking numerous improvements that will require a large tonnage of cast iron pipe and the private interests are also awakening. The outlook for the coming months is excellent. There have been no changes from the official prices established by the Government and all quotations are at the nominal price of $55.35 a ton for 6-in., 8-in. and heavier, and $58.35 for 4-in.

Window Glass.—The plate and window glass industry is exceedingly quiet with factories producing only a small percentage of their capacity. Manufacturers are making a determined endeavor to have the Government allow them to operate at least on half time. At the present time there are only about three months left before the usual time for shutting down for the summer season, so the total output for the current year will be greatly curtailed. At the present writing discounts are unchanged, but likely to be revised at almost any time.

ARCHITECTURAL LEAGUE OPENS THIRTY-THIRD EXHIBITION

Of Interest to All Identified With Arts and Crafts

WITH the usual reception to members and their friends, the Architectural League of New York will formally open its thirty-third annual exhibition this afternoon in the galleries of the American Fine Arts Society, 215 West 57th street. This exhibit will be open to the public Sunday, February 3, and will continue to February 23. Unlike the exhibitions of previous years, a marked departure has been made in the presentation of this show, and as a consequence the interest in the exhibition should be greatly increased, as there is

pect is a curious and somewhat unusual admixture of art and commerce, but its inner meaning is an exhibition of the best that is being made or executed in this country, with the effect, by the deadly parallel of comparison with genuine antiques of the best period, to determine how good or how bad are the commodities we are turning out in these times.

There is still a bigger idea behind the venture. In addition to architects, the Architectural League has for many years included in its membership painters and sculptors. Today, it includes landscape something for every lover of art, in all its forms, and for every one who owns or thinks of owning their home.

The Medals of Honor for this year were presented at a smoker held in the League Rooms last evening. The medal for architecture was awarded to Benjamin Wistar Morris and the medal for sculpture to Paul Wayland Bartlett. No award for painting was made. The Henry O. Avery prize for sculpture was awarded to Raphael Menconi. The annual prize for collaboration in architecture, sculpture and painting was awarded to George Licht, architect, Raphael Menconi, sculptor, and F. E. Gates, painter. The Jury of Award consisted of H. VanBuren Magonigle, ex officio, chairman; Herbert Adams, Theodore E. Blake, Elmer E. Garnsey, Bertram G. Goodhue, H. A. MacNeil, Violet Oakley, Attilio Piccirilli, Herman T. Schladermundt and Egerton Swartwout.

The visitor to the Architectural League's exhibition of 1918 will be greatly uplifted by the beauty of the general effect and the great variety of the exhibits, and yet may possibly miss the real significance of this project. It was not conceived as a scheme to allure the public through beautiful fabrics, gorgeous wall paintings, rare furniture, or fascinating designs for homes. Its purpose is a far more worthy one than mere advertising. True, its outer aspect is a curious and somewhat unusual admixture of art and commerce, but its inner meaning is an exhibition of the best that is being made or executed in this country, with the effect, by the deadly parallel of comparison with genuine antiques of the best period, to determine how good or how bad are the commodities we are turning out in these times.

The exhibition of 1918 is a collaborative one, and the idea of an architectural exhibition in collaboration with the building crafts is distinctly new. It may offend the stiff-necked, old-fashioned architect, who would have the atmosphere of the exhibition charged with Greek simplicity. It may seem to some as though the scenic effect had been deliberately made to dominate over the more serious and "architectural" quality of the exhibition. However, by looking beneath the surface, it will be noted that the exhibition represents the spirit of the times. We do not live with Greek simplicity. We are avid in our eagerness for progress. We long to strike the modern note without dragging the anchor which holds us strongly in the harbor of ancient treasures. To strike the modern note is to be generous to all comers, omitting only the shoddy, bizarre or unrefined.

Thus, in the Thirty-third Annual Exhibition of the Architectural League will be found frescos by Gardner Hale, and mural paintings by Edith Emerson. Both are modern, and both are based upon ancient treasures. They are distinctly creative, though the one recalls medieval France, and the other, the Orient. The Batiks of Bertram Hartmand and of Arthur Crisp, the wrought metal work of Samuel Yellin, all are shown in the same rooms with sedate sculptor and monumental architecture. The catholicity which permitted such a mixture is the true note of this exhibition.

The entrance hall has been devoted to the display of stained glass by American designers. Furniture pieces and faience ornaments are shown to the right and left of the passageway leading to the first gallery. A skeleton background has been erected in a style that harmonizes beautifully with the various special features. In the first gallery the dominant color is turquoise blue, and the prevailing architectural style suggests an antique Italian palace. Many articles of decorative character are shown here, a number of which are of surpassing beauty and interest. The middle gallery has been hung with a golden canopy, supported by tall columns and pilasters. The coloring of the third gallery is in deep reds and orange, contrasted with a shadowy blue. In the second gallery is located the major portion of the plastic exhibits; and in the third, the architectural designs.

Plans for Hotel Addition.

Albert Morton Gray, architect, 116 West 39th street, has completed the plans for a sixteen-story addition to the Hotel Imperial, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 31st street. The owner of this structure is Robert W. Goelet, 9 West 17th street, and the lessee is J. Otto Stack. H. G. Balcom, 10 East 47th street, is the engineer for structural steel work. The addition will have a brick and stone facade to harmonize with the original building. The ground dimensions of the new part will be 121 x 115 feet, with extension 22 x 44 feet. The cost of construction is estimated to be approximately $750,000. Marc Eidlitz & Son, 30 East 42d street, have charge of the erection of this building under a general contract. The old structures on the site are now being demolished.

New Hotel Near Battery.

Preliminary sketches have been prepared in the offices of Bruno W. Berger & Son, architects, 121 Bible House, for a modern hotel to be erected on the site of the Eastern Hotel, at the northeast corner of South and Whitehall streets. John Bittner is the owner of this project. The old hotel, that will be demolished to make way for the new structure, was completed and opened to the public in 1822. The projected building will be modern in every respect. The preliminary plans call for a ten-story structure, 48 x 108 feet, with facades of face brick, limestone and terra cotta. Further details of this improvement will be available later.

Large Plant for Yonkers, N. Y.

George Starin Cowles, architect, 4 Main street, Yonkers, N. Y., has the plans nearly completed for a two-story, reinforced concrete plant to be erected on Warburton avenue for the Associated Pharmacists, W. B. Cheatham, president, 93 Nassau street, Manhattan, owner. This structure will have ground dimensions of 200 x 375 feet. The cost is in the neighborhood of $400,000. Estimates for construction under a general contract will shortly be called for.

Contract for Parkway Baths.

The Turner Construction Company, 244 Madison avenue, Manhattan, has obtained the general contract for the construction of the bathing pavilion at Brighton Beach. The new structure will replace the Parkway Baths that were destroyed by fire last November. The owners of this operation are the Realty Associates, S. Gompertz, manager, 152

Remsen street, Brooklyn, and the plans were prepared by Benjamin Dreisler, architect, 153 Remsen street. Charles S. Voorhees, 188 Montague street, is the engineer in charge for the owners. The new structure will be built of reinforced concrete, three stories in height, with ground dimensions of 196 x 180 feet. The cost is estimated to be approximately $275,000. Complete details of this project were published in a recent issue of the Record and Guide.

Do It Right

While making over that property, don't forget the big feature. A new street frontage or new inside planning calls for a like improvement in light and power service

Old time lighting and old time pumps and elevators discount the best structural efficiency

It's not a question of looks. The tenants you're after want light and power devices that deliver the goods

Think this over, whether you're remodeling lofts, offices, stores, or apartments. And remember, our experts are always "At Your Service"

Do You
"Break Even"
On Your Electric Current?

IF you re-sell electric current to your tenants you are continually up against the problem of making the income from these tenants for current equal the total you pay the Power Company. Of course, you either own or rent sub-meters.

It is our specialty to inspect and regulate such meters, so that the possibility of loss is entirely done away with, and we also rent or sell outright sub-meters in addition to our special money-saving service. Phone Cortlandt 6434.

This Book of Interiors Offered Free to Your Prospects

Let Us Help You Land More Contracts

WHEN you hear of a man who thinks of building, send us his name and address. We will immediately mail to him—free—one or two very handsome books in which he is sure to be interested. We will also write him, stating that his name has been furnished by you. This, you see, will have a tendency to bring the two of you together, and probably give rise to a friendly feeling on his part.

Our Home-Builder's Book is crammed with practical ideas, pictures and floor plans—information the home-builder is sure to appreciate. Our book of interiors shows, in full color, the beautiful effect which may be secured by using North Carolina Pine, variously stained and enameled. Our Farm Building Book is a regular $1 volume, containing 160 pages of plans for farm buildings. All Books FREE.

By the way, you ought to have these books yourself. If you have not already received them, write us today.

REVISES PUBLIC LIABILITY RATES FOR OWNERS', LANDLORDS' AND TENANTS' RISKS

New System Divides City Into Four Territories

ON January 26, a new schedule of rating Owners', Landlords' and Tenants' Public Liability went into force. Apartment and tenement houses in Manhattan have been divided into four classes, designated as follows: Class A, houses with elevator, but without stores; Class B, houses with elevator, with store; Class C, non-elevator houses, without stores, and Class D, elevator houses, with store. Manhattan Island has been subdivided into four territories, as follows:

Territory No. 1: Bowery from East 4th street to Third avenue, to East 96th street, to Fifth avenue, to 110th street, to Manhattan avenue, to Columbus avenue, to West 127th street, to St. Nicholas Place, to West 155th street, to the Harlem River, to the line of the Spuyten Duyvil Creek and Harlem Ship Canal, to the Hudson River to West 70th street, to Broadway, to Seventh avenue, to Greenwich avenue, to Sixth avenue, to West 4th street, to Bowery. The territory excludes both sides of all avenues and streets mentioned, except Broadway, where both sides are included. The following are the rates for this territory.

Frontage...	.05	.075	.10	.10

Territory No. 2: West Houston street, from Hudson River to Broadway, to 4th street, to Sixth avenue, to Greenwich avenue, to Seventh avenue, to Broadway, to West 48th street, to Hudson River, to West Houston street, including both sides of Broadway, between West Houston street and West 4th street, both sides of 4th street, Sixth avenue, Greenwich avenue, Seventh avenue and West 48th street.

Third avenue, from East 23rd street to East 96th street to East River to East 23rd street to 3rd avenue. Includes both sides of Third avenue, and excludes both sides of 23rd street and 96th street.

West 110th street, from Seventh avenue to Manhattan avenue, to Columbus avenue to West 127th street to St. Nicholas avenue to St. Nicholas Place to West 155th street to Harlem River to 120th street to Seventh avenue to West 110th street. Includes both sides of 110th street, Manhattan avenue, Columbus avenue, West 127th street, St. Nicholas avenue, St. Nicholas Place and West 155th street. Excludes both sides Territory No. 3: Hudson River from Battery to West Houston street, West Houston street from Hudson River to Broadway, Broadway to East 4th street to Bowery to Chatham Square to Oliver street to East River to Battery. Includes both sides of West Houston street, East 4th street and Oliver street. Excludes both sides of Bowery and Broadway.

Third avenue from East 14th street to East 23rd street to East River to East and frontage .08, with minimum annual premium per building of $10.

The rates and minimum premiums provided in the foregoing are in addition to the elevator premium, if any.

Under the old system, Manhattan Island was divided into three sections, one being that district lying to the East of Broadway, as far north as 42nd street, the second being the entire West Side and the third, on the East Side north from 42nd street to the Harlem River. Under the old system the first district had a minimum charge of $50, the second $20 and the third $40, while under the ruling just put in force the minimum of $15 will maintain throughout the entire Borough. This minimum is so small, however, that it will apply

NEW SYSTEM ADOPTED DIVIDING CITY INTO FOUR TERRITORIES, WITH FOUR RATES FOR EACH TERRITORY.

14th street to Third avenue. Includes both sides of Third avenue and East 23rd street. Excludes both sides of 14th street.

West 48th street, from Hudson River to Bowery to West 70th street to Hudson River to West 48th street. Includes both sides of 70th street. Excludes both sides of 48th street and Broadway.

East 96th street, from East River to Fifth street, to 110th street to Seventh avenue to 120th street to East River to 96th street. Includes both sides of all avenues and streets mentioned.

In all the foregoing territories the minimum annual premium per building is $15.

Territory No. 5 includes the entire Borough of the Bronx. The area is .11 and the frontage .11. The minimum annual premium, per building is $15.

Territory No. 6 constitutes the Borough of Brooklyn, area .11 and the frontage .11, with minimum annual premium per building of $15.

Territory No. 7 is Queens, area .11 and frontage .11. Minimum annual premium is $15 per building.

Territory No. 8 is Richmond, area .08 only to a few special instances, where small lots are covered with buildings having few occupants and the least hazardous class of risk.

Samuel Deutschberger, Superintendent of the State Insurance Department said yesterday: "In making the new rates for Owners', Landlords' and Tenants' Public Liability, we have tried to overcome some of the hardships which existed under the old system. For example, the Lower East Side of Manhattan is the worst section to handle, and companies were unwilling to handle any large volume of business in this section. Rates had to be justified, the result being that other sections of the city had to contribute their share toward the losses in the Lower East Side.

"The new rates fix it so that each class of property in their respective zones is self-supporting. By that I mean property in the Lower East side pays its own losses, and does not have to depend upon the better sections for support. Through this means it is possible to make a lower rate for the better sections, though the more hazardous districts will have to pay their own way.

"The rates are based upon actual experience of all companies for the year 1913, and have been arrived at as the result of the frankest cooperation between the companies and this Department. We feel that the rates are as fair to the public as the conditions warrant. The Department is quite hopeful that the rates will solve, for the general insuring public and the insurance companies, the problem created by the difficult conditions existing in comparatively restricted sections of Manhattan.

The question of rating risks was the result of many complaints against the zoning system then in force. A committee of nine was appointed, as the result of a meeting at which representatives of all the companies and the State Insurance Department were present. This Committee in turn appointed a Committee of three, composed of Mr. Sturgis, of the Fidelity & Casualty Company, Chairman; Mr. Wilkins, of the Commercial Casualty Company, and Mr. Fayne, of the Travelers Insurance Company. Mr. Ryan, of the Insurance Department cooperated with the Committee.

So far as renewals are concerned the new rates become effective on March 1. It is stipulated that no risk shall be cancelled for the purpose of rewriting at an effective date prior to March 1. Any change in, addition to or extension of the risk or policy, made subsequently to March 1, shall be calculated at the new Mutual rates.

So that a thorough understanding may be had the following definitions are given:

Private Residences: (a) A single building designed for and occupied exclusively by one family for residence purposes, including not more than five acres of land; also including barns, private stables, private garages and customary outbuildings; (b) a tenement, flat or apartment definitely described as a part of any building if occupied as a residence by not more than one family for residence purposes exclusively.

Two-Family Dwellings: A single or double building designed for or occupied exclusively by two families for residence purposes, including not more than five acres of land, also including private stables, private garages and customary outbuildings.

A private residence or a two-family dwelling occupied partly for residence purposes and partly by physicians, dentists or for other professional or business purposes shall be rated in the following manner:

Manual rates shall apply to the portion occupied for residence purposes, and the minimum premium for a mercantile risk shall apply to the portion of the premises occupied for other than residence purposes. The policy shall exclude injuries to patients due to the rendering of any professional service, or the omission thereof by any physician, surgeon, dentist, nurse or other attendant.

Policies issued to cover private residences and two-family dwellings shall definitely describe such premises as being occupied by one or two families as the case may be.

Apartments and tenements are designated as a building with or without stores designed for or occupied by three or more families. A building within the meaning of these rules is each area contained within independent or party walls.

On buildings occupied in part as stores, with not exceeding two living apartments, the rates, subject to the minimum premium for stores, must apply to the store portion and the premium for a private residence to each living apartment.

A risk which involves a frontage upon which more than one territory shall be referred to the Casualty Insurance Exchange of New York, for assignment to proper territory. On all risks involving apartments and tenements the Casualty Insurance Exchange of New York shall establish the area, frontage, class and territory to which such risk shall be assigned prior to the issuance of any policy or renewal.

The rates on private residences, Public Liability only, $3.30 a year, or $8.25 for three years. Employers' and Public Liability $4.40 per annum, and $11 for three years.

In two-family dwellings, Public Liability only $6 a year, or $16.20 for three years; one dwelling being occupied by the assured, including Employers' Liability for assured's servants, excluding assured's liability to employees engaged in the care and maintenance of the premises not occupied by the assured, $7 a year, or $18.90 for three years.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY IN REAL ESTATE

Savings Bank President Calls Attention to the Great Bargains Obtainable To-day

By A. P. W. KINNAN, Pres. Union Dime Savings Bank

IN view of the abnormal state of the real estate market at the present time the Real Estate Record and Guide has asked A. P. W. Kinnan, president of the Union Dime Savings Bank, to define the conditions which are most powerful in affecting values and what may be expected of the future. Mr. Kinnan was for a long time an active partner in the firm of the J. Romaine Brown Company. As president of the savings bank he is one of the most prominent lenders of money on bond and mortgage. His thirty years of practical experience in handling and loaning on real estate give to his opinions great weight.

I AM asked what is the matter with New York City real estate and what is my opinion as to its future. There are more real bargains in real estate today than I have known at any time in an experience of thirty years. Naturally, the question is asked, "why?" When viewed from a certain standpoint, with apartments, offices and lofts so fully rented, it seems illogical, but the ruling factor today is the condition of the mortgage market. I have never known a time when so many good mortgages were offered and the inability of the savings banks to take advantage of the offerings, and of borrowers to obtain loans, is the entire trouble with real estate at the present time.

Speculation in real estate is exactly like speculation in Wall Street, and if done on too small a margin, is dangerous. Amortization of mortgages is the one safe proposition for both borrower and lender. If a borrower annually reduces his mortgages there is no safer investment than New York real estate. But if an owner who in times of activity and prosperity carries mortgages on his property of 75 or 80 per cent., continues to hold them until dullness and shrinking values set in, foreclosures take place and owners are compelled to lose their equities.

In these war days, savings banks, as banks, and their thousands of depositors, are buying "Liberty Bonds" to furnish the Government with the absolutely necessary money to win the war. Such action is right, proper and patriotic, and for that purpose and until the war is over the banks must conserve their available cash. Upon the declaration of peace the banks will immediately have large amounts of cash available for mortgages which will start an activity in real estate that will put it back at once into normal conditions.

We must not forget the importance of New York. There are just so many square feet of land on this island, and with the natural increase of population every foot will have an increased value. People must have a place to sleep and a place to do business, and old Manhattan is the place. There is nothing ultimately the matter with New York realty.

The Committee in its report said in part: "The experience data reported covers the entire city and relates to the policy year 1913. While the report deals primarily with Manhattan, the following brief table indicates the extent of the data reported for the whole city. The exposure figures are stated in round numbers:

Borough.	No. risks.	Area exposed, sq. feet.	Frontage exposed, lin. feet.
Manhattan...	26,754	325,000,000	1,200,000
Brooklyn...	15,017	100,000,000	700,000
Bronx.....	4,710	60,000,000	270,000
Queens.....	626	4,000,000	38,000
Richmond....	36	250,000	2,250
Totals.....	47,143	489,250,000	2,310,250

The following interesting facts were included in the Committee's report:

Total area exposed, square feet.....	324,766,942
Average rate per 100.....	$0.317
Average pure premium per 100.....	$0.153
Total premiums at projected rates...	$1,029,511
Total losses.....	$497,451
Projected loss ratio, per cent.....	48.3
Total frontage exposed, feet.....	1,206,045
Average rate per linear foot.....	$0.265
Average pure premiums per lin. foot.	$0.0939
Total premiums at projected rates...	247,239
Total losses.....	$113,296
Projected loss ratio, per cent.....	45.8
Actual losses compared with actual and projected premiums:

	Actual losses.	Actual premiums.	Projected premiums.
Area.....	$497,451	*	$1,029,511
Frontage....	113,296	247,239
Totals.....	$610,747	$384,304	$1,276,750

*Not separately reported.

Actual.....	Loss ratios.
Projected.....	159 per cent.
	47.8 per cent.

A general summary of the projected premiums indicate that the new rates are 332 per cent. of the former rates, or an increase of 232 per cent.

New Rates.

On the recommendation of Commissioner Charles S. Hervey, the Public Service Commission has ordered the Flatbush Gas Company to reduce its maximum rates for electricity in the 29th Ward in Brooklyn from twelve cents per kw. hour to ten cents for the six months beginning March 1, 1918, nine cents for the succeeding six months, and eight cents thereafter; that is, beginning March 1, 1919. The order is to take effect on March 1, 1918. The Flatbush Gas Company serves the Flatbush area of Brooklyn with both gas and electricity, but the order affects only the rate for electricity. The present maximum rate of the Flatbush Gas Company is twelve cents per kw. hour, while the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn, which serves the rest of the Borough of Brooklyn, now charges, under an order of the Commission, a maximum of eight cents per kilowatt hour.

The number of consumers served by the Flatbush Gas Company is reported to exceed 12,000, and it is anticipated that under the proposed rate ordered by the Commission there will be a saving to the consumers of the Flatbush Gas Company as compared with their present rates of nearly $90,000 annually. The order directs the Flatbush Gas Company to establish the following maximum rates: From March 1, 1918, to August 31, 1918, ten cents per kilowatt hour; from September 1, 1918, to February 28, 1919, nine cents per kilowatt hour; from March 1, 1919, eight cents per kilowatt hour; from and after March 1, 1918, not more than six cents per kilowatt hour for current consumed in excess of two hours' average daily use of maximum demand.

Real Estate Classes.

Announcement by the Murray Hill Evening Trade School of a series of talks on real estate subjects will be of particular interest to employees of realty houses. They will be collateral with the building management course recently established in the school, and as far as possible by recognized authorities on leasing, advertising, selling, conveying, mortgages, insurance, taxes, assessments, etc. The course is free, and it is conducted by the Board of Education. It is limited to persons employed in some capacity in the real estate business or connected with the operation of the buildings. Classes are held Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7.15 until 9.15 o'clock. Persons desiring further information may call at 237 East 37th street on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights.

F. W. DODGE CO. WINS SUIT FOR UNFAIR COMPETITION

Allen E. Beals and Anthony
J. Bressan the Defendants

JUDGE HOUGH has just handed down a decision in an action for unfair competition brought by the F. W. Dodge Company against Allen E. Beals and Anthony J. Bressan in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The decision, in full, is as follows:

"This is called an action for unfair competition, and in a very broad and general sense it is such an action. The sense in which the phrase may be used is set forth in the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals, in the litigation of the Associated Press against the United Press.

"But in a far more exact sense the suit is to prevent the continuing tort of appropriating the plaintiff's intangible property by means of (inter alia) the inducing of one of plaintiff's customers to break his contract. Both of these facts furnish ground for the exercise of equitable jurisdiction so plainly as to require no comment.

"This being the scope of the action, the question of fact to be decided is very simple. It is not denied, and is fully proved, that certain employees of the plaintiff, while still in the plaintiff's employ, conceived the idea that they could set up a rival business of the same nature, and left said employ for the purpose of so doing. They formed the Beals Corporation for the purpose of carrying on this rival business. All the foregoing was entirely legitimate, and (according to the hitherto received school of competitive political economy) rather praiseworthy.

"But it is presumed that the intent of the seceding employees was to conduct an honest business, by honest and lawful methods. Nevertheless I consider it proven beyond all question that the defendant Bressan, if he did not make a contract with plaintiff for the convenience of defendant Beals, or at Beals' request, was shortly thereafter induced, by mixed motives of friendship and money, to hand over to Beals everything that he (Bressan) got from the plaintiff, leaving Beals to do what he liked with it. The oral evidence is that Bressan expected Beals to do nothing with it except to compare the result of plaintiff's activity with the result of the work of Beals' new employees in the same field. But it makes no difference what Bressan thought Beals would do. He confessedly broke his contract at the instance of Beals, and he knowingly gave Beals an opportunity of doing as he pleased.

"What he did please was forthwith to deposit what was received from Bressan with Dow, who was charged with the duty of making up the publication of the Beals Corporation. Here evidence ceased; Dow is not produced; therefore it must be presumed that his testimony would not benefit the defendants. I therefore find that what was done by Dow or under his direction was to consistently and persistently appropriate from the Dodge publications, furnished under contract to Bressan, whatever Dow or his assistants thought would advance the repute and value of the Beals publication. This is absolutely within the decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, in a litigation brought years ago over the same matter by the present plaintiff.

"From the foregoing it appears that plaintiff has made out a complete case against the Beals Corporation for injunctive relief and an accounting.

"But the suit is not against the Beals Corporation, and I fully recognize the professional motive which probably prompted the bringing of this action in a court which has so recently and forcibly spoken on this and cognate subjects. It is therefore peculiarly necessary that the plaintiff, in order to obtain relief, make out a case not against the corporation, but against Beals and Bressan.

"So far as Bressan is concerned, the only case made out is of a contract breaker, whose breach was productive of consequences not measureable by damages, because the act of breach put a weapon of offense into the hands of Beals and his corporation. Nor is it true that a cancellation of Bressan's contract at or shortly before the beginning of this action, in May, 1917, would have been a complete remedy for the plaintiff. Plaintiff had no right of cancellation except for a breach by Bressan, but if Bressan had brought an action, alleging a breach by plaintiff, Bressan's breach, now proven, would only have been conjectured, and would probably have been difficult of proof.

"After this action was begun Bressan voluntarily terminated his contract on October 1, 1917, but the plaintiff is still entitled, on familiar grounds, to an injunction against the acts which were going on substantially at the time subpoena issued.

"So far as Beals is concerned, the question is whether he is responsible, absente his corporation. The recent case of the Rogers Company, cited from the First Circuit, seems to me (after an examination of the pleadings therein) to have been correctly decided, because the acts charged as wrongful in suit against certain corporate officers were all acts of the corporation. But I do not regard that decision as applicable to the facts developed here, whether the pleading or the evidence be looked at.

"Whatever natural suspicions may be indulged in there is no proof that what Beals did was by the direction or in accordance with the desire of the corporation or of a majority of the directors thereof acting officially. The testimony is that the corporation desired all things to be done lawfully and rightly; and that Beals did nothing except as a corporate officer; yet unless his acts in inducing Bressan to break a contract and in giving Dow the means of appropriating the efforts of others can be regarded as acts done in the course of his corporate employment they are not acts of the corporation, or for which the corporation is responsible, except as the corporation, wittingly or unwittingly, enjoyed the fruits of the wrongful acts proven.

"It is concluded as matter of fact, on defendant's own testimony, that Beals' acts were not authorized or directed by his corporation; they were not within the scope of his authority. Therefore he is, on the principles of agency, personally responsible for them.

"Although disavowing all intent to do wrong, the Beals Corporation might have been enjoined in a proper action from enjoying the fruits of that which its employees did without authority, yet I cannot find on this record that there is any affirmative proof of a conspiracy or agreement of minds to which the Beals Corporation was a party, or in which all of its directors were concerned. But I do find, as matter of fact, that when this suit was begun the Beals Corporation, through its attorneys, took charge of the defense of this action and has directed the defense and controlled the management of the same.

"It follows that the plaintiff is entitled to relief substantially as allowed in and by the preliminary injunction granted herein and filed June 30, 1917; i. e., to the relief particularly described in sub-sections a and b thereof.

"There will be no security, of course, upon a final decree, and neither will there be a cross-injunction against the F. W. Dodge Company.

"I do not think it good practice to insert findings of fact in a final decree, and I shall not therefore insert any findings of fact in respect of the management or control of the defense of this litigation by the Beals Corporation; but it will be set forth in the final decree that either party may, at the foot of the decree, at any time move for further relief, and that jurisdiction of the cause is retained for the purpose of granting the same.

"The object of this underwriting of the decree will be to allow (for instance) the plaintiff to move for any supplementary injunctive relief that may be necessary, and to enable the defendants to apply for any relief that may be required against an inequitable or unjust use of this decree; as, for instance, any pretense through advertising, circulars or the like, that this action was a suit against the Beals Corporation, or that any decree had been obtained against that corporation, or in any way interfering or seeking to disturb the legitimate and lawful exercise of its corporate powers and the pursuit of its lawful business by lawful methods.

"Let the decree be settled on notice. Counsel are advised that no substantial departure from the language of subsections a and b of the preliminary injunction will be regarded as a compliance with the true intent and purpose of this decision.

"The decree will carry costs. If an accounting is asked for, together with the appointment of a master, the portion directing an accounting will specifically provide that plaintiff must pay the cost of the proceedings before the master in the first instance, and that unless substantial damages are proved and ultimately allowed by the District Court the costs of the reference will fall upon the plaintiff; and for the purpose of guiding the proceedings of the master (in the event of there being a reference) opinion is now expressed that no damages are recoverable except such as are shown to be proximately caused by the personal unlawful acts of the defendants Bressan and Beals. To instance further, loss of customers caused to plaintiff by the boastful or even false statements of salesmen or agents of the Beals Corporation, other than Beals himself, will not be allowed as items of recoverable damages in this suit."

Tax Liens on Soldiers' Homes.

Dr. L. A. Dreyfus, president of the Staten Island Civic League, has written to Controller Craig, suggesting that the sale of tax liens on realty be suspended for the period of the war, having in mind the protection of delinquents who are serving their country. In making request for consideration of this suggestion, Dr. Dreyfus says: "Many of our men (2,800 from Staten Island) now in the national service have bought homes or have aided their parents to buy homes. As some are delinquent in the payment of the taxes on such homes by reason of their service to their country the Staten Island Civic League has requested that you suspend the sale of tax liens during the period of the war and for a reasonable time thereafter. This, we feel, would prevent hardship in a number of cases, and would work no real injury to the city. Moreover, during such intermission in the sale of tax liens you might work out a more sane method of dealing with delinquent taxpayers, for it is a public scandal that the present method of selling tax liens enables a lot of despicable sharks to collect usury from negligent or unfortunate property owners."

Station Contracts.

The Public Service Commission has awarded to Walter Farrington, of 261 West 126th street, New York, the lowest bidder, at $217,655.15, the contract for the construction of station finish for four stations on the new rapid transit lines. These stations are at Whitehall street, Manhattan, and at Clark street, Court street and Borough hall, Brooklyn. The station at the latter point adjoins the present Borough Hall station and like the Clark street station is on a line for operation by the Interborough Company.

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

IMPORTANT measures in relation to taxation and the relief of real estate were discussed at the weekly meeting of the Real Estate Board's Joint Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws, held on Wednesday, February 6.

The committee was encouraged by the discussion which its proposal for a fixed tax rate of 17½ mills on real estate has brought out. (Senate Int. 89, Boylan.) The committee will make every effort to bring this bill to the attention of taxpayers, real estate and other organizations so that it may have general support.

Two of the measures considered by the committee embody recommendations which it has been making for several years. One of these is the abolition of the Board of Water Supply and merging its functions with the local Water Department, and the other the abolition of the Bronx Parkway Commission and placing its functions in the Board of Estimate in New York City, and in Westchester in the supervisors of that county.

In this connection the Real Estate Board calls attention to recent action by the Board of Estimate in adopting the suggestions, which have been a part of the Real Estate Board's program for the past three or four years, by deciding to abolish certain committees and bureaus as follows: The Bureau of Contract Supervision, the Franchise Bureau, the City Plan Committee, the Committee on Personal Service, the Committee on Education.

These functions are to be taken care of by the Board of Estimate, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Board of Estimate, at a saving of several hundred thousands of dollars a year.

It is more than probable that another suggestion which the Real Estate Board has been making for several years will be adopted; namely, a large reduction in the annual expenditure of the Board of Estimate itself, which in recent years has been an increasingly large item in the annual budget.

Detailed action taken by the Board's Committee on Legislation and Taxation is as follows:

Senate Int. 71, Gilchrist, and Senate Int. 72, Gilchrist. Both of these bills amend Section 111 of the Decedent Estates Law and Section 21 of the Personal Property Law by providing that Trust Funds may be invested in parts of mortgages under certain conditions.

At a previous meeting the committee decided to disapprove Bill No. 71, and to approve Bill No. 72, which more nearly resembled Senator Gilchrist's Bill, Int. 1463, of 1917. These bills were again thoroughly discussed by the committee, and it was decided that inasmuch as the governor last year vetoed the bill, which now corresponds to No. 72, and it being improbable that No. 72 would meet his approval this year, that while No. 72 was preferred by the Board's committee, No. 71 would not be opposed. In reaching this conclusion the committee agreed that legislation making it possible for trustees to invest in parts of mortgages, with proper safeguards, would undoubtedly have a beneficial effect on the real estate market.

Senate Int. 120, Murphy. To provide for the expense of widening Flatbush avenue in Brooklyn.

Senator Murphy introduced a similar bill last year (Int. 108). The bill was opposed by the Real Estate Board. It was tabled in the Senate, and the companion bill in the Assembly died in committee. The bill applies to the question of cost of the enlarging of the Manhattan Bridge Plaza, at Concord and Nassau streets, in the Borough of Brooklyn. The placing of the assessment for this public improvement has been a matter of much controversy. A final hearing was held before the Board of Estimate July 7, 1916, and was very largely attended. The Board of Estimate finally agreed to a reapportionment of the cost of the proceeding, which would place 50 per cent. on the City of New York, 35 per cent. on the Borough of Brooklyn and the remainder on the local area within the bounds as laid out in a resolution dated March 7, 1915. This apportionment of the cost was seemingly satisfactory to all concerned. The apportionment of the cost has been levied and the assessment bills issued by the Tax Department. There is no adequate reason for the reopening of this proceeding and for placing, as will be done by this bill, all of the cost on the Borough of Brooklyn and the refunding of assessment heretofore laid against the property benefited.

Senate Int. 228, Cotillor (same as Assembly Int. 181, Twomey). This bill amends the General Municipal Law by permitting an allowance to a dependent resident widow whose child was born in the State when the deceased husband was not a citizen of the United States and had not declared his intention of becoming such a citizen but was a resident of the State at the time of his death.

This is the same as a bill by Assemblyman Whitehorn, Int. 47, 1917. It was opposed last year by the Real Estate Board on the ground that it makes mandatory what are now permissive provisions of the law, and died in the committee. The bill also extends very widely the functions of the Child Welfare Board, and places upon the counties of the State the support of newly arrived alien dependents.

Senate Int. 231, Farrenkopf (same as Assembly Int. 186, Decker). This bill is similar to one by Senator Daly, Int. 508, 1917, Assembly Int. 672, O'Hara, 1917.

These bills were opposed last year by the Real Estate Board. The Assembly bill was passed, but died in the Senate. Senator Farrenkopf's bill would amend section 1035 of the Greater New York Charter by providing that action to foreclose a tax lien may be maintained in the County Court of the county where the property is situated, as well as in the Supreme Court. The bill is unsatisfactory and undesirable because the Supreme Court, after considerable experience, has established a satisfactory practice in these actions, which would not be binding upon the County Court. The fact that the Supreme Court has general jurisdiction of the widest scope will enable it, in many cases, to give more complete relief than the County Courts could afford. The Supreme Court, after many attempts to extort costs have been made by tax sharks, has at length succeeded in handling such practitioners successfully. The County Courts would probably be less careful of the rights of defendants. On these grounds the bill is disapproved.

Senate Int. 251, Boylan. This is a bill to abolish the Board of Water Supply of New York and transferring its powers and duties to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

The bill embodies action that has for several years been recommended by the Real Estate Board. There is no adequate reason why the Board of Water Supply should be continued and why its functions cannot be performed by the local Water Department. This board has an existence outside the Board of Estimate, which body has virtually no control over its expenditures.

Senate Int. 257, Dunnigan. This bill is the same as Senator Dunnigan's bill, Senate Int. 365 of 1917. It would abolish the Bronx Parkway Commission and Commissioners and transfer the duties to the Board of Estimates where they affect New York City and to the Supervisors of Westchester County where they affect that county.

It has been on the Real Estate Board's legislative program for several years, and Senator Dunnigan's bill was approved last year and is now approved.

The present arrangements is very plainly an injustice. Although only three miles of the parkway out of the total of fifteen miles are within the boundaries of the city of New York, and the remainder in Westchester County, New York City pays three-fourths of the cost. The proposed measure would result in a very large saving to the taxpayers of New York City.

Assembly Int. 233, Weigenbaum. This would add two new sections, 1279 and 1280, to the Penal Law and prohibit the employment of armed men to act as militia men or policemen for protecting persons or property or the suppression of strikes, whether such armed men be employed by detective agencies or otherwise, or prohibit the arming of forces by any firm, association or corporation. Section 1279 would apparently prevent the employment of watchmen or guards for the protection of property unless such employees were first legally authorized for this purpose by the existing laws of the State. It would apparently prevent the employment of more than one watchman unless the additional guards were first authorized for this work by the police department, sheriff, or similar authority. This would prevent the owners of large country estates, large docks and manufacturing concerns, and buildings, both finished and under construction, where more than one watchman is required. In these times of stress and unrest, especially it would seem unwise to enact a measure which would add to the existing difficulties in protecting property. Section 1280. This section contains first a provision making it illegal to employ any private officer whose work shall be either the hiring or letting of armed guards; it is apparently aimed at the strike-breaking agencies. It further provides certain unessential qualification for persons to be appointed as detectives.

The whole bill is poorly worded, and its purpose one to relax existing safe guards, with no benefit to any one except possibly to police organizations.

Assembly Int. 325, Rosenberg. To amend the Penal Law, in relation to advertisements and solicitations for employees during strikes, lockouts and industrial disputes.

This bill is similar to one introduced by Assemblyman Whitehorn, Int. 110, 1917. There is no requirement in justice or logic for an employer whose employees are on strike to be compelled when advertising for help, to make a plain statement in such advertisement that he is the victim of a strike. Assemblyman Whitehorn's bill died in committee last year, and the Board recommends to the Legislature a similar fate for Mr. Rosenberg's measure.

Assembly Int. 294, Larney. To amend the Workmen's Compensation Law. It requires that compensation, including both money allowance and benefits, provided for in Section 13, shall be allowed from the date of injury.

This bill is similar to Assemblyman Larney's bill, Int. 563 of 1917. It was disapproved by the Real Estate Board and died in committee, and the Board again disapproves of the bill. To allow benefits from the date of injury would greatly encourage workmen to lay off while a two weeks' waiting period, as now provided in law, serves an incentive to workmen to guard against injury. Two weeks is universally regarded as a fair period. The abolition of the waiting period would, of course, mean a large increase in the cost of compensation insurance.

Senate Int. 182, Wagner. (Same as Assembly Int. 203, Donohue.) This bill amends Section 8, Chapter 813, Laws of 1917, by requiring the State Food Commission to investigate the storage and manufacture of ice, to determine the adequacy of the probable supply to meet the public needs during 1918, and in its judgment to acquire storehouses and for that purpose to purchase, or lease equipment, ice houses, etc. and to fix the price of ice.

The general policy of the Committee and of the Real Estate Board is one of disapproval of municipal activities of this kind. It does not believe that the city should enter into this form of competitive business.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

NEW YORK ASSOCIATION TO DINE NEXT WEDNESDAY— COAL SITUATION IMPROVING THOUGH STILL SERIOUS

THE New York Building Managers' Association has a membership of seventy-five members, but efforts are being made to increase this roll. There are many functions that the association can perform which will be of advantage and benefit not only to members themselves, but also to the property owners.

On next Wednesday evening, the informal monthly dinner of the association will be held at the Park Avenue Hotel. A. M. Byers Company, manufacturers of wrought iron pipe, will, through a representative, show a moving picture demonstrating the use of iron pipe. At the March meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, March 12, a moving picture will be shown by the National Steel Company on steel pipe.

Some of the members of the association are suggesting that a general increase in rentals be considered, in view of the increased cost of living. One of the members stated that he thought an advance of twenty per cent. would about offset the conditions. The owner would receive no increase in revenue. In order to obtain these results, this member has made the suggestion that the Real Estate Board of New York, owners, agents and members of the association should cooperate to prepare the tenants for the advance, so that when it comes they will feel that only a justifiable adjustment has been made. If the advance is not universal and on a fairly definite fixed basis, one owner may seem harsh, because another is foolish, or one agent may seem exacting because another is unwise. United action will alone accomplish the desired results.

The Coal Committee of the Association reports that the coal situation has improved, though it is still serious. Difficulty is being experienced in obtaining a sufficient quantity. The Fuel Order as applied to buildings where there were accepted occupancy did not on the whole result in the saving of any great amount of fuel.

Sound value, a common insurance term, means net value and is interpreted as the cost of reproduction at a given time, less depreciation however caused. "However caused" is the wording of the standard form of insurance policy prescribed by law for use in New York State. It includes depreciation from economic as well as physical causes.

Physical depreciation is fairly easy to determine in most cases, and is based on knowledge and experience which have demonstrated how long certain materials and parts will, under ordinary circumstances, be able to perform their functions. As applied to buildings physical depreciation is what is usually meant when people speak of depreciation.

The other kind of depreciation, known as economic depreciation, is just as real and exacting in its effect, as physical depreciation. Economic depreciation, however, is extremely difficult of application, and being elusive and complex, both in theory and application, is customarily omitted, except in cases where its effects are more conspicuous in determining sound value.

The principles involved are easily seen by considering a second hand suit of clothes. Physical depreciation would consist of the effect of wear and tear the suit had received. Economic depreciation would consist of the effect on value of the fact, that both utility and marketability would be bound to substantially depreciate therefrom. The cost of replacing the suit new, less both physical and economic depreciation, would be its sound value.

The validity of Rule 50 of the Plumbing Rule of the several Bureaus of Buildings, was established in a decision by the Appellate Division, First Department, just handed down in the case of the City of New York v. Conrad Alheidt. It is summarized as follows:

Section 50 of the Plumbing Rules, which provides that all pipes issuing from extension or elsewhere which would otherwise open within twenty feet of the window of any building must be extended above the top of any window located within such distance, is a valid provision, and should be liberally construed in the interest of the public health in order that noxious gases should not be drawn into nearby windows.

The use of the word "adjoining" in another and distinct part of the ordinance, providing, where buildings are of different height, for the extension of vent lines above the roofs of higher buildings, does not restrict the application of such provision to building actually contiguous to buildings containing vent lines.

The decision would seem to carry with it also a recognition of the plumbing rules in general, so that they have, in effect, the same force as any city ordinance.

Because of amendments to Sections 4 and 6 of the Building Zone Resolution, adopted by the Board of Estimate on December 21 last, which amendments change the provision with respect to prohibited uses in restricted districts, the Board of Appeals adopted a resolution on January 15, rescinding part of a resolution adopted October 26, in reference to the conversion of a public stable into a garage, and vice versa.

The Employees Committee reports that there have been of late attempts made by concerted action on the part of employees to obtain increases in pay. This was true in at least two downtown office buildings, where threats to strike were made. These, however, did not materialize.

PRODUCTION OF LIME DURING 1917

Decrease of Ten Per Cent. Reported, as Compared with 1916—Forty-Two States Show Increases

THE estimated production of lime made and sold in 1917 in the United States, including Porto Rico and Hawaii, was 3,663,818 short tons, a decrease of ten per cent. compared with the revised total for the record year, 1916, which was 4,073,433 short tons. It surpassed, however, all records, previous to 1916. This estimate is based on returns made by the principal producers to G. F. Loughlin, of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. Of the forty-two producing States only eleven reported increased sales. Virginia and Indiana were the only States in the group having sales of more than 100,000 tons to show increase, which amounted to one per cent. and three per cent., respectively. Other States of this group showed decreases ranging from five per cent. (Pennsylvania) to thirty-six per cent. (Wisconsin). Vermont, with an output of 53,143 tons, showed an increase of twenty-three per cent.

The following table shows the estimated output of all States that marketed more than 50,000 short tons:

a Included in "Other States."

The estimated sales of hydrated lime in 1917 amounted to 719,757 short tons, a slight gain (2,375 tons, or 0.3 per cent.) over the sales shown by the revised figures for 1916. This difference is so small that the final figures may not show a gain. This is the first year since statistics of hydrated lime have been collected by the Survey in which there has been no substantial gain in its production. The fact that hydrated lime held its own, however, during a year in which the decrease in the production of lime was so general indicates a relative increase in its use. No companies reporting sales of hydrated lime in 1916 failed to report sales in 1917, and two new hydrating plants reported production, one in Arkansas and one in Idaho. The largest percentages of decrease in the production of hydrated lime shown in the foregoing table were made in States whose product is used largely for building.

The prices of lime, which generally increased in 1916, continued to rise throughout the country in 1917, though not in proportion to the continued increase in cost of production. A few companies in widely separated parts of the country were obliged to close their plants, partly on account of excessive costs but particularly because of shortage in fuel and labor. These conditions and a shortage of railway cars caused decreased production even where the demand for lime was reported good.

The building-lime trade declined in all parts of the country. The unprecedented demand for building lime in 1916 continued until February, 1917, when the effects of the war, augmented in some northern districts by severe weather, brought it to a close. A fair to good demand continued in many districts, however, through the spring, and then a general decline in building set in. This decline was due to the uncertainties of war, to increased shortage of labor, fuel, and cars, and to the fact that lime being perishable, the trade would not order large car lots as demanded by the railroads.

In the Middle Atlantic States (New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Maryland) the estimated total production of lime in 1917 was fourteen per cent. less than in 1916, but that of hydrated lime increased nearly eight per cent. Prices were almost uniformly reported higher, a few producers reporting increases of twenty-five to thirty-four per cent. Costs showed greater increases, however, one producer reporting an increase of thirty per cent. in selling price but an increase of 150 per cent. in costs. Shortage of labor, fuel, and cars also curtailed output, and, together with high cost of operating, forced some plants to remain idle during the greater part of the year.

In these States the building-lime trade was prevailingly dull. Although a few producers reported that the demand was the same or slightly improved in 1917 compared with 1916, most of them reported marked decline, ranging from ten to fifty per cent. in Pennsylvania, and even to seventy-five per cent. in New York and New Jersey.

In the New England States the estimated total production of lime in 1917 showed a decrease of seventeen per cent.

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

Saving Bank Loans.

Among the many intricate financial problems which the Government is called upon to solve in its program for providing for war purposes, one of the most delicate is that of the possible effect of future bond offers upon savings banks, trust companies and other fiduciary institutions which have a large amount of their funds invested in real estate, bonds and mortgages. Real estate men are watching with great interest to see what measures are to be taken to protect the existing relations between the loaning companies and the borrowers.

Some idea of the vastness of the problem may be had from the figures of the State Banking Department, which show that at the close of the year the various banks and trust companies in the City of New York had outstanding about $750,000,000, secured by bonds and mortgages, while their loans on active securities aggregated about $1,500,000,000. The figures, which do not include loans on real estate made by insurance companies, indicate that the security for practically one-third of the money invested by banks for depositors is real estate.

A potential element in the situation is that a large proportion of mortgages, estimated at about one-third, are overdue. This practice of allowing mortgages to run along without renewal, provided the security is ample, is of long standing and is in nowise inimical to sound finance because it converts long time securities into more fluid call loans. If the estimated percentage of overdue mortgages carried by banks is correct, then these amount to something like $250,000,000 in New York City alone. Loans of this character could not be readjusted speedily without creating a distinctly unfavorable condition in the money market.

Then, mortgages are the invested funds of the depositors and must be turned back to them on demand. This makes it incumbent upon the Government, in making a new draft upon the financial resources of the country, to make the conditions of its next bond offer such as not to force an upset of the balance between loans and borrowings, or else to provide measures of assistance to the banks, provided the depositors decide upon a widespread transfer of their deposits, on which they are getting from 3% to 4% to the Government securities at a higher rate of interest.

It has been suggested that a solution of the problem is to be found in granting to the Federal Reserve Bank the right to discount real estate bonds at 60 or even 50 per cent. of their face value. The objection to this procedure is that the Federal Reserve Bank demands 60 to 90 days' paper, while the bonds ordinarily run for longer periods. There is no doubt of the security offered by these bonds. There has been at least no such shrinkage in New York realty values as has occurred in Wall street stocks and bonds in the last six months, and it is possible that some way may be found for getting around this difficulty.

What is necessary is that Government officials shall approach the subject with full realization of its serious aspect to real estate interests in this city, which are back of 90 per cent. of the activities of the foremost commonwealth of the country, because they pay that proportion of the taxes which enable the city to function properly. If the smooth running of the nation's biggest civic engine, upon which the American Army and Navy are so largely dependent, is rudely upset by ill considered measures, the war cannot be carried on to a successful conclusion.

It is not likely that the Government would propose that the loaning companies dispose of their Wall street holdings in order that they would invest the funds so obtained in Liberty Bonds. It should be equally conservative in its treatment of the other securities held by the banks.

The Third Liberty Loan.

Active campaigning for the Third Liberty Loan will begin before many weeks have passed. The expectation is that the Government will call for more funds than it did in either of the first two campaigns. In fact, the total for the next loan is likely to be larger than the other two Liberty Loans put together.

If the population of the United States had increased in any appreciable degree since last October the problem of raising the Third Liberty Loan would be simpler. More people would come forward to invest funds in the Government war loan. Since the population remains below 110,000,000 in this country it follows that the money is to be raised among the same number of people and that the share which each is to contribute in the form of an investment in the Third Liberty Loan is to be larger. Some who did their utmost in the second campaign will not be able to increase their holdings as much as others will. Even allowing for individuals in that class the fact remains that the per capita investment is to be larger if the loan is to be a success.

Now the question comes up: How can a man or woman handle the personal budget in such a way as to invest a larger sum in the Third Liberty Loan than in the other two?

Great Britain and Canada were in this war long before we were, and by bitter experience their people learned how to keep up the supply of men, of food, of guns and of gold. The banks of Great Britain and the Dominion over the border, far removed as they may be from the battle zone, nevertheless stand in the path of the invader just as much as the battleships or the entrenched infantry and constitute a part of the reserve forces mobilized against Germany. These banks have adopted the plan of putting some of their surplus cash into a war fund, to be used in time of emergency.

A New York bank has just followed the example of these institutions, and has announced that it has started its war reserve at $200,000. Is there not a principle involved here which can be made use of not only by the bankers, but by every one before the Third Liberty Loan is started? It requires some little planning to have cash on hand in time to buy a Liberty Bond in the next campaign. Your war reserve, your share in the financial defense of the country, can be started right now, and by the time the campaign is in full swing you can take your bond.

In the October drive the people were made acquainted with a new idea in Government finance. They were shown how they could "borrow and buy." The American who takes hold of this problem now and decides to put money aside for the next Liberty Loan is months ahead of the man who borrows and buys. A man might well take pride in the thought that he is getting his war reserve ready and doing his bit for the Third Liberty Loan.

The Architectural League Exhibition.

Despite the extremely bad building year, that has brought with it many discouragements and moments of doubt to the architectural profession, as well as to the builders and their allied interests, the Architectural League of New York has successfully staged its annual exhibition. Always considered one of the leading features of the Metropolitan art year, the exhibition of 1918 has been presented on a broader and more artistic scale than heretofore, and has brought to all lovers of art something to occupy their thoughts for some time to come.

The current exhibition should prove to be an inspiration to both architects and builders, as it demonstrates conclusively what can be accomplished with the minimum of materials as long as the spirit is fully alive. While the show is staged on a more pretentious scale than the exhibitions of past years it is also a radical departure from them in scope. This was necessary by reason of the comparatively small volume of representative architectural work that has been accomplished during the year and the dearth of monumental structures planned and erected. In previous years there was a large volume and infinite variety of excellent work to choose from, but this season the committee was severely handicapped for material. In order to offset the latter condition it was found desirable and expedient to enlarge the scope of the exhibition and include exhibits by prominent interior decorators and craftsmen in the decorating and allied arts. The permission to participate in this exhibition was greatly appreciated by these interests, and this is best attested by the efforts made to make the individual exhibits, all of which were of great beauty, harmonize completely with the intent of the committee in charge. That the admission of these interests, so closely allied to the profession of architecture, was a step in the right direction was demonstrated by the favorable comments frequently heard at the opening reception last Saturday.

The officers of the Architectural League, the committee in charge of the exhibition and that committee of the building crafts that made this collaborative show possible are to be heartily congratulated upon the success they have attained. The current exhibition will undoubtedly pass into the history of the Architectural League as marking an epoch in the progress of that organization. The mark of approval that has been placed upon the affair by the patrons indicates that the League has struck the right note in broadening its own horizon, and is a prediction that the interest in future exhibitions will be greater than ever before.

May the excellent work that certainly has been started by the 1918 exhibition of the Architectural League proceed with all success, broadening in its concept and scope until it develops into a permanent exhibition that will be at all times available to the public, who will undoubtedly derive from it much pleasure and inspiration.

Each Industry a War Unit.

In the February issue of the Nation's Business the Secretary of War is quoted as follows: "We have one army in the field, but we have another army of industry, whose effective organization is essential to our success in the prosecution of the war. It is important that this organization shall be worked out by the industry itself in a truly democratic and representative manner. The problems presented are so difficult that unquestionably the knowledge and experience of business men should be made available to the Government, and this can be done by organization such as you propose. The degree to which any such organization can be helpful will depend, of course, upon the organization itself, and the way in which it responds to the emergency."

The Nation's Business continues, saying in part:

"Realizing this, each particular industry must, in its own interest and in the interest of the nation, gather its members together in such manner as will permit the Government to understand and analyze its interests that it may know what steps are necessary to prevent its extinction and to permit it to operate in the fullest degree that the requirements of war will allow.

"Committees of the Council of National Defense, having done their work, are to go out of existence. They were formed to deal only with war industries and were not, except in isolated instances, committees of the industries themselves.

"To take their place War Service Committees, brought into existence at the instigation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, are being organized as the only means by which industries and Government can find prompt, simple and effective point of contact. Through them an industry can get the ear of Government within a few hours. Through them Government can call out 100 per cent. of a given industry within a few hours.

"Industrial mobilization, a part of the plan for national defense, was endorsed by the National Chamber April, 1916, by referendum. The action of the Council of National Defense in establishing certain industrial committees at the beginning of the war stood in the way of any other form of complete organization until now. At the War Convention of American Business Director Gifford called attention to the probable demise of existing committees of the industries themselves to take their place. Resolutions were adopted, calling upon every industry to organize war service committees, which were followed up immediately, through letters and bulletins, to existing commercial organizations representing special lines of industry and trade. On December 12 the chairmen of all committees then organized were called into conference at Washington and voted unanimously that an existing committee of the National Chamber, known as the War Service Committee, should become the centralizing agency for the organization of all industries throughout the country.

"The war service committees of American industry must be broader than existing organizations. The existing organization is merely the most proper and immediate agency for bringing about the co-operation of the entire industry, and thus permitting the entire industry to be represented in Washington by a small committee with full power to act.

"We have not yet gone far enough in the war to feel severely the pinch of war necessities upon industry and trade. Adjustment is taking place slowly; it will have to be seen with far greater rapidity. New adjustments must be made. They will mean a critical situation for many. Organization is the only remedy. No fuel administrator or no priority boards, no adjuster of industries will wittingly take action to wipe an industry out of existence; as, for instance, florists might be wiped out of existence in twenty-four hours through a denial of coal.

"In great need or stress of war action may be taken unwittingly which will destroy or seriously impair the only means of forestalling such catastrophes is through such complete organization that, at a moment's notice, the facts and figures, the needs and the resources of the individual industry affected by a certain proposed order may be presented to the proper officials and such arrangement for expansion, adjustment, transfer or curtailment entered into as will avert the blow.

"The firm or corporation must subordinate its interests to the interest of the industry and accept such share of the business as the committee properly chosen by the entire industry shall allot to it.

"Each industry must subordinate its interests to the good of the country. Organizing for self-defense, as well as for the public interest, it must be ready at a moment's notice to enter into negotiation with the Government to determine such status of operation as will permit the industry not only to exist, but to continue on the broadest basis compatible to the needs of the nation at war."

The Nation's Business published a partial list of the industries responding to this call. Those among the building industries include the American Face Brick Association, National Brick Manufacturers' Association, Bridge Builders' and Structural Society, Electrical Manufacturing Industry, National Paint, Oil & Varnish Association, National Varnish Manufacturers' Association and Wall Paper Manufacturers' Association.

Other associations mentioned were: Barbers' Supply Association of America, Biscuit & Cracker Manufacturers' Association of United States, U. S. Brewers' Association, National Canned Foods & Dried Fruit Brokers' Association, Carriage Builders' National Association, National Confectioners' Association, American Manufacturers' Association of Products from Corn, Dental Manufacturers' War Emergency Association, War Board of the American Electric Railway Association, Foundrymen's War Service Committee, National Gas Engine Association, American Iron, Steel & Heavy Hardware Association, American Paper & Pulp Association, United States Potters' Association, Pressed Metal Association, Printing Press Manufacturers' Association, American Specialty Manufacturers' Association, Tile Manufacturers' Credit Association and Toy Manufacturers of U. S. A.

In order to give the building interests a united front the Record and Guide has been urging the consolidation of the various building and building material organizations into a federated association, which would be a clearing house for the whole. With these might well be incorporated the voluntary committees which have been making surveys in the various industrial centers.

Priority Order No. 3.

Priority circular No. 3, just made public by the War Industries Board is much broader in scope than the circular issued several months ago, for the regulations apply to all individuals, firms, associations and corporations engaged in the production of iron, steel or copper; also in the manufacture of their products. Included in the order are also those identified with the manufacture of chemicals, cotton duck, and woolen cloth; also all other raw materials and manufactured products as the Committee may deem necessary from time to

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Rainey, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 302.—A and B buy adjoining plots of ground. Later B buys a plot on the other side of A's plot and proposes an exchange of the original plots so that B's lands may adjoin each other. A agrees and delivers a deed for his plot to B, who is ill and who dies without having signed a deed for the first plot purchased by him. His heir, a son, a minor, knows of the transaction and declares he would give a deed to A were he legally able to do so. Is there any way by which A can obtain the plot promised him, or his original plot without waiting for the minor son to attain his majority, or without an action in court? Can an executor or administrator or guardian give a deed to A?
H. J. D.

Answer No. 302.—Section 2697 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides for a proceeding in the Surrogate's Court to authorize a conveyance of real property by an executor or administrator to the holder of a contract of sale made by a decedent.

Section 2345 of the Code of Civil Procedure authorizes an action against an infant to procure a judgment, directing a conveyance of real property where a valid contract for the sale of conveyance thereof has been made but cannot be consummated by reason of the infancy of the person in whom the title is vested.

Section 2348 of the Code of Civil Procedure authorizes a proceeding to procure a conveyance of an infant's interest in real property under similar circumstances as set out in Section 2345 of the Code above referred to.

A proceeding in Court under one of the above mentioned sections will be necessary in order to obtain a deed conveying infant's interest in the real property.

All orders and work are divided into four classes, instead of three, as heretofore. Class AA comprises emergency war work, of urgent nature. Class A, all other war work, such as arms, locomotives, airplanes, submarines, etc., and the materials required for their manufacture. Class B, orders and work designed primarily for the prosecution of the war, yet essential to the national welfare, or otherwise of special importance. Class C includes work not included in the other three classifications, and no certificate will be issued therefor. In other words, all orders or work, not included in Classes AA, A and B, will come under Class C.

The intention is that those goods classified under AA will have the first preference, then comes Class A, then Class B, and finally Class C. The preference will be given to the various classes irrespective of the date the orders were filed.

This Committee does not have jurisdiction over foods, feed, coal or coke, because these are administered by the Food and Fuel Administrations. Tools and supplies for the production of these commodities will, however, be considered by the Committee. The transportation problem is also out of the hands of this Committee, and it will not have anything to do with their speedy delivery.

The object underlying the order is to speed up production. The Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, Chairman of the Shipping Board, the President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Chairman of the Counsel of National Defense have subscribed to the new regulation.

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Sale of Waldorf-Astoria Hotel—Equitable Society Mutualized—Staten Island Housing Project

THE outstanding sale of the week is that of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, which was sold by the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Company to General T. Coleman du Pont. Details of the sale will be found in another column. Another interesting deal was the crystallization of a plan for the mutualization of the Equitable Life Assurance Society through the action of General du Pont in offering to sell his holding of the majority of the stock. The plan was duly adopted by the directors and approved by the stockholders representing a majority of the capital stock. The total number of votes cast was 87,523, of which 84,364 votes were in favor of and 3,162 votes against the plan.

The plan in substance provides for the purchase from General du Pont of 564 shares of capital stock of the society at $5,400 a share for 501 shares and $1,500 a share for 63 shares, amounting in the aggregate to $2,799,900. The purchase price is to be paid in semi-annual instalments between November 1, 1917, and May 1, 1937, from interest to be received by the society on its mortgage of $20,500,000, now held against the Equitable Office Building Corporation upon the Equitable Building, 120 Broadway.

Many projects which have been presented to the authorities at Washington for the housing of workmen employed in shipbuilding plants have included the building of model villages, taking virgin territory as a basis for the work. Last week there was forwarded to Washington a plan for the improvement of a tract on Staten Island, which is adjacent to the shipbuilding yards, but has the advantage of not being in an undeveloped section, but is improved with streets, sidewalks, water, etc. The section, which includes Mariners' Harbor, Elm Park, Port Richmond, Graniteville and West New Brighton has the additional advantage of being supplied with schools, stores and places of amusement.

There are upwards of 5,000 workmen now employed in the shipbuilding plants, and the great majority of these people have to go considerable distance to their homes. As a result of this condition it is reported that about 30,000 workmen were employed last year.

Cornelius Kolff, who is actively engaged on the project, said yesterday: "The plan involves the construction of a large number of houses for workmen at points convenient to the shipbuilding plants. The Government would have to supply the money for the erection of the houses, which in turn would be sold to the occupants on a partial payment plan. The cost of the houses should be limited to about $3,000, and when taken together with the land the entire investment would be about $3,600 a house."

"There is a company of men who are willing to provide the land and do the work of construction, providing that the Government is willing to make the building loan. The houses would be laid out with living room, dining room and kitchen on the ground floor and four rooms and bath on the second floor."

The Public Service Commission, on the application of Captain C. S. Bookwalter, District Officer of the United States Shipping Board, has issued permission to the Richmond Light and Railroad Company to operate open cars for the transportation of shipbuilding workers from St. George, S. I., to the shipbuilding plants on the north shore of Richmond. The company has all of its other equipment in use and in view of the present emergency the Commission agreed to permit the operation of the open cars for the transportation of the thousands of ship workers. The full regular equipment of the company will be left in service for the conveyance of the regular passenger traffic of the line and efforts will be made to restrict the use of the open cars solely to the ship builders. The Commission gave its approval on motion of Commissioner Charles Bulkley Hubbell after ex-Judge William L. Ransom, Counsel to the Commission, had stated that the company did not have sufficient closed cars to meet the abnormal demand.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Right of Auctioneer to Sell Property.

IN an action by an auctioneer against the owner of lots for breach of contract to permit their sale at auction, the South Carolina Supreme Court holds, Andrews v. Hampton, 94 S. E. 112, that the auctioneer had the right to advertise and sell the lots at any time between the dates set by the contract between him and the owner, and the owner would have been bound to make deeds to the purchases. If the owner put the auctioneer off as to the whole sale by pleading illness until the time limit for sales had expired, doing so with intent to break up the sale, it was held that the owner breached the contract as effectually as if he had done so summarily and unequivocally. The question whether the owner had so breached the contract was held to be for the jury, which found for the plaintiff.

Breach of Lease.

No branch of the law is involved in more obscurity by contradictory decisions than whether a sum specified in an agreement to secure performance will be treated as liquidated damages or as a penalty, and each case must depend upon its own peculiar and attendant circumstances. While the intention of the parties must be taken into consideration, the language of the contract is not conclusive. The courts lean toward a construction which excludes the idea of liquidated damages and permits the parties to recover only the damages actually sustained. Ordinarily the intention of the parties, while not conclusive, is a cardinal factor in determining whether the sum stipulated is to be considered as a penalty or liquidated damages where the intention can be clearly made out from the contract itself in the light of the facts and circumstances surrounding its execution. A bond is prima facie a penal obligation, but the sum stated where a penalty is usually inserted has sometimes been held liquidated damages. This has seldom been done, however, unless words were employed in connection with that sum to countervail the implication of penalty. And the general rule is that where the contract is in the form of a bond the amount named will be deemed a penalty and not liquidated damages. It has been said that the clause fixing the amount of the damages will be treated as a penalty where it appears to have been inserted to secure prompt performance of the agreement. In an action on a bond in the penal sum of $5,000, given to secure performance of a lease, the Illinois Supreme Court holds, Giesecke v. Cullerton, 177 N. E. 777, that to determine whether the amount in the bond was a penalty or liquidated damages the lease and the bond must be construed together. The lessee agreed in the lease, which was for ninety-nine years, to pay a rental of $900 for the first year and $1,200 a year for the remainder of the lease, and further covenanted to remodel and improve the building within six months, expending not less than $5,000. It was held that the sum in the bond was not liquidated damages, and the lessor on breach could recover only the actual damages.

Landlord's Title.

Whenever the relation of landlord and tenant has once been established the tenant, with few exceptions, is thereafter estopped from denying the landlord's title in any action brought against him by the landlord to vindicate his right under the tenancy, and the title to the land cannot be brought in question therein. This rule applies whether the tenant was let into possession by the landlord, or was in possession of the land at the time he accepted the lease. In either case the tenant will not be permitted, by oral testimony, in the absence of fraud or mistake, to engraft on the original lease any condition subsequent going to defeat the lease and contrary to its terms. And to avoid such estoppel for alleged fraud or mistake the fraud must have been that of the lessor inducing the tenant to enter into the contract, or the mistake, one of fact, which was also induced by him.—Rosin Coal Land Co. v. Martin, West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, 94 S. E. 358.

Employees in Apartments.

Application was made under the New York Workmen's Compensation Act for compensation from the owner and operator of an apartment house. There was some plastering to be done in one of the bathrooms, and the owner sent for the applicant to come to do the plastering at seventy-five cents per hour, and directed him to purchase whatever material was needed and to pay for it, and agreed to reimburse him for the outlay. The total payment made by the owner to the applicant in respect to the work was $3. It was customary for the owner to send for the applicant whenever he had any plastering work to be done, and to pay him on the above mentioned basis. The Appellate Division holds, by a divided court, Solomon v. Bonds, 167 N. Y. Supp. 676, that the applicant was not in the employ of the owner in a business declared hazardous by the act. The court followed Schmidt v. Berger, 221 N. Y. 26, 116 N. E. 382, which holds that the superintendent of an apartment house, who made ordinary repairs upon it, while mounted on a step-ladder engaged in cutting away a part of a door to prevent "binding," was not in a hazardous employment.

Broker's Commission.

An owner authorized a broker to procure a purchaser without specifying any particular price or terms. The broker procured one, to whom the owner eventually sold, though chiefly by his own efforts. It is held, Kousrean-Althen Realty Co. v. Irish (Mo.), 198 S. W. 430, that the broker was entitled to his commissions in the absence of good faith revocation.

Condemnation of Land.

The New York Appellate Division holds that where in eminent domain no answer has been interposed, Code Civ. Proc., §3380, does not authorize the court to award temporary possession to the plaintiff, the statute authorizing an order permitting the plaintiff to take possession of the premises only where an answer to a petition has been interposed.—Canton v. Allen, 167 N. Y. Supp. 665.

Ground for Rescission.

The fact that one party gets the advantage of the other in a deed by the wording of the contract is not sufficient ground, of itself, for setting aside the contract, and particularly where the other party is apprised fully of the provisions of the contract and what they mean. The Illinois Supreme Court holds, Hansen v. Gavin, 117 N. E. 513, that where a vendor was apprised of the provisions of the original contract, and advised that it was unfair before he signed the second contract which incorporated the provisions complained of, the execution without fraud of the second contract was a ratification of the first.

Queens Industries.

The Chamber of Commerce of Queens recently started a new activity, through its Manufacturing and Industrial Committee, which should prove of benefit to the Government in the prosecution of the war. The Chamber will endeavor to serve as a medium through which manufacturers in Queens can bring about the conversion of their plants from private to Government contracts. This will not only save time in production, but also help to solve the question of so-called essential and non-essential industries without any economic disturbance.

A meeting will be held on January 31, at four o'clock, at the offices of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, to which representatives of all manufacturing concerns interested in the conversion of their plants for the production of war materials are invited.

The industrial establishments in Queens Borough, as well as in other manufacturing communities, may be classified under three heads: First, those now manufacturing war supplies either under direct contract or indirectly for those who have such contracts. There are today more than sixty-five manufacturing plants in Queens supplying the Government with war materials.

The second classification includes those plants that are producing non-essentials, but which are not believed to be readily convertible.

The third classification includes those plants which are today producing non-essentials, but could be readily converted so as to turn out necessities required by the Government. It is estimated that there are at least 300 establishments in Queens that come under this latter classification.

The object of the Manufacturing Committee of the Queens Chamber of Commerce is to obtain complete information about each of the plants under the third classification regarding floor space, available manufacturing facilities, equipment, labor, and what they are capable of producing. This information will then be turned over to the Committee on Conversion of Industrial Plants to War Production of the Council of National Defense, of which George N. Peek is chairman.

All manufacturers who are not producing war materials who would like to co-operate with the Chamber in this work are requested to send in this information at once. There are a number of plants in Queens which have to curtail their production on account of loss of orders, due to the depression in certain lines of work. For instance, the decreased number of new buildings constructed during the past year has resulted in a serious setback to factories producing interior trim, doors, sash, electric fixtures and furniture. These plants can all be turned over to war work.

Ray Palmer, Chairman of the Manufacturing and Industrial Committee of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, pointed out today the value of this work for the Government, stating:

"The Government had in many instances awarded contracts for war materials to individuals or concerns, who have to hastily erect new factories in order to furnish the materials. This has required the use of lumber and steel for construction, which were in other directions; the use of labor to erect the buildings, which could have been better utilized for the construction of homes, which are most urgently needed. It has also required the development of entirely new organizations in many cases to solve the problems of purchasing, production and distribution. In several instances it has resulted in a larger consumption of coal for heating where buildings have been poorly constructed through haste.

"The use of the factory buildings now available in Queens would do away entirely with such emergency construction. It would be a saving to the Government in labor, materials and time. It would permit industries, now partially idle, with large capital invested in buildings and equipment, to continue at full efficiency."

Application Denied.

The Public Service Commission, on motion of Commissioner Charles S. Hervey, has denied the application of the New York and Queens Gas Company for a rehearing as to the Commission's order directing the company to make certain needed extensions, which order was recently affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States. This is the second application for a rehearing made by the company, the previous one having been made soon after the original order was rendered. Commissioner Hervey in his opinion recommended that steps should be taken by the Commission to bring about an early compliance with the order or to punish the company for non-compliance. The opinion points out that the Supreme Court of the United States unanimously upholds the New York State Court of Appeals in affirming the Commission's order, that the extension of gas mains and service is greatly needed by the residents of the Douglaston district.

Cutting Out Waste Circulation

A PUBLICATION with a circulation of 300,000 charges you $300 per page insertion. That rate is based upon the accepted rate of a dollar per page per thousand circulation.

Bringing it down to units, it costs you one-tenth of a cent to deliver your message to everyone of the 300,000—provided every one of them reads it.

From the price standpoint that is undoubtedly the cheapest form of advertising in existence. From the price standpoint.

But—if out of that 300,000 circulation, only 50,000 readers are possible customers of yours, then no matter how much or how little those 50,000 may be worth to you, you are paying $250 to talk to 250,000 persons who are not possible customers.

A waste of 250,000 in circulation—$250 expressed to Jericho!

Furthermore, the interest of 300,000 persons who make up the circulation of a publication are bound to be widely scattered and it is most unlikely that anywhere near 50,000 of them will constitute a possible buying contingent for any but a very, very few advertisers.

The RECORD AND GUIDE has an advantage over many publications in this respect: Advertisers desirous of reaching the buying power represented by the closely affiliated building and real estate interests are assured of 100% fertile circulation. They have the advantage of a direct appeal for the attention of those who specify or buy materials that go into the buildings erected in New York.

For 50 years the RECORD AND GUIDE has been the recognized great weekly newspaper and authority of the building and real estate fields of New York City and vicinity.

Its readers represent the owners who build in this field—leading financial institutions who supply the capital necessary to build—architects who design the buildings and specify the materials used—contractors who erect them and buy materials—brokers, agents and managers who put through the deal, rent the properties or manage them after erection.

Unlike any other publications whose average life is but a day or thirty days at best, the RECORD AND GUIDE lives week after week for 52 weeks out of the year. The official records and information of vital interest contained in its columns are constantly referred to. As a reference medium, it is unsurpassed in the United States.

In the RECORD AND GUIDE you send your story direct. Put your problem of getting your share of the $200,000,000 a year which is spent upon new construction, equipment and maintenance in New York directly up to us. We can solve it.

An efficient copy department is at your service without charge.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 21 as against 25 last week and 28 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7 as compared with 12 last week and 14 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 14 as compared with 13 last week and 14 a year ago.

From the Bronx 10 sales at private contract were reported as against 5 last week and 8 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 178 of this issue.

Waldorf-Astoria Lease Sold.

The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel lease has been sold by the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Company, George C. Boldt, Jr., president, to a new company backed by General T. Coleman du Pont. General du Pont already controls the McAlpin and Claridge Hotels. He owns the Equitable Building, and has large financial interests in New York City. L. M. Boomer, manager of the Hotel McAlpin, will be president of the new operating company, and Walter H. Marshall, now the manager of the Hotel Vanderbilt, will become manager of the Waldorf. The estate of the late George C. Boldt will have an interest in the controlling company. The Waldorf-Astoria Company, a year before Mr. Boldt's death, took a long-term lease on the property at a rental said to have been $1,000,000 a year. The Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, which is owned by the Boldt Estate, was not affected by the transaction. There will be no consolidation of the Waldorf-Astoria and the McAlpin Hotels. The Waldorf Hotel, at the corner of Fifth avenue and 34th street, was finished in 1893, and four years later the Astoria was completed, and then the two became known as the Waldorf-Astoria. The hotel has 1,385 bedrooms and 500 baths. Its value has been placed at $20,000,000, including the site. The Waldorf stands on the site of the one-time home of William Waldorf Astor, while the Astoria was erected on the site occupied for many years as a residence of William B. Astor. The ground was broken on November 1, 1890, and the hotel was opened for business on March 14, 1893. General du Pont was formerly the head of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, and still retains an interest in that business. When he retired from active management of the powder company a few years ago he is said to have received cash and securities estimated to be worth more than $20,000,000.

August Heckscher Adds to Holdings.

August Heckscher added to his holdings by acquiring from Michael Dreicer the two buildings at 7 and 9 West 56th street. The properties formerly belonged to Mr. Heckscher, who sold them in January, 1916, to Mr. Dreicer. He also owns the sites of the former homes of the late William C. Whitney and Charles W. Morse, now covered with a taxpayer building, having a frontage of 100.5 feet on Fifth avenue, and 152.6 feet in 57th street, extending through to 56th street, where the frontage has just been increased to 100 feet. Mr. Heckscher now controls a plot containing about 26,500 square feet.

Sale on Lenox Hill.

Edward W. Humphreys sold through Pease & Elliman, the vacant lot, 21 x 100, at 21 East 70th street, formerly a part of the site of Lenox Library, which was subdivided about seven years ago, and since improved with residences. Among those who have erected homes in the block are Henry C. Frick, Dr. Walter James, Mrs. Henry D. Brookman and Alvin W. Krech. The new owner contemplates the improvement of the site with a dwelling for his own occupancy. The seller is reported to have paid $82,500 for the lot and he acquired it about six years ago.

Silk Merchant Buys.

William J. Spain, silk merchant, bought from the company representing John J. Hearn, Harold C. Mathews, and G. J. Gillespie, the apartment house erected by them last year at 105 to 113 West 55th street, from plans by Denby & Nute. The house, which is nine stories in height, covers a plot 83 x 100.5 feet adjoining the northeast corner of Sixth avenue, and opposite the one-time home of the New York Athletic Club. The site was acquired in May, 1916, from the Barney Estate, when a row of old dwellings were demolished to make way for the present improvement. The building is completely tenanted, having an annual rent roll of about $75,000. Goodwin & Goodwin were the brokers.

Operator Trades Properties.

Butler & Baldwin, in conjunction with Sharp & Company, sold for The Sexton Realty Company, Inc., J. Cotter Connell, President, The Westdale, a six-story elevator apartment at 602 and 604 West 139th street, on a plot 75 x 100 to Frederick Brown. The purchaser gave in part payment the four-story tenement, 1999 Third avenue, on a plot 20 x 85; a five-story tenement at 166 West 83rd street, on a plot 25 x 109; and 32 Irving Place, Yonkers, N. Y., on a plot 55 x 100. The Sexton Realty Company, Inc., acquired The Westdale last September from The Kick Estate, the same brokers negotiating that sale. Garretson & Maurice represented The Sexton Realty Company, Inc., as attorneys. Julius H. Zieser represented the purchaser as attorney.

Negroes Buy in Harlem.

The Shiloh Baptist Church, a negro congregation, purchased from the New York Title & Mortgage Company, the three-story building at 2226 Seventh avenue, on lot 25 x 75 feet, near 131st street. The property was formerly used as a moving picture theatre. Plans are being prepared for alterations, upon the completion of which, the premises will be used as a church by members of the purchasing congregation. The property is assessed at $24,000. J. B. Wood negotiated the transaction.

Sale on Washington Heights.

Mose Goodman Corporation has sold to Emilie Bierman the new six-story apartment house at 1630 and 1632 St. Nicholas avenue, having a frontage of 67.6 feet and a depth of 100 feet, located 75 feet north of 91st street. The property was sold subject to a mortgage of $62,000. The seller takes back a second mortgage of $13,000.

Harlem Apartment Sold.

Sharp & Company sold for the Simm Holding Company, Isaac Simmons, president, 232 and 234 West 149th street, the six-story apartment house, on a plot 40 x 100 feet, between Seventh and Eighth avenues. The house is arranged for twenty-four families. The new owner is the 145 East 49th Street Company, Goldberg & Kramer. Weschler & Kohn as attorneys, represented the sellers, who acquired title to the property in June, 1916.

Bronx Apartments Purchased.

The Freehold Construction Company, David W. Nevins and Philip Wattenberg, sold the two modern five-story apartment houses at 1071 and 1075 Home street, to Stark, Spitzer & Company, owners of a number of leasehold properties in the Bronx. The buildings are arranged to accommodate fifty families and occupy a plot 100x100 feet, located 190 feet west of Westchester avenue. A. Goodman was the broker. Abraham Leichter, as attorney, represented the buyers and Philip D. Shapiro the sellers. The holding price was $115,000. The Freehold Company acquired the houses last October from the Durbar Realty Company.

Large Westchester Sale.

Edwin J. and Arthur V. Lucas and Robert A. Anderson, of Anderson Realty Company, of Mount Vernon, sold the "Hunt" tract of about thirty-three acres of upland at Bronxville, having a combined frontage of more than 3,100 feet on the White Plains, Pondfield and New Rochelle roads, opposite the entrance to the Siwanoy Country Club. The property was held at $150,000, and commands extensive views of Long Island Sound. The purchasers are a number of New York business and professional men, the majority of whom have purchased to build homes on large plots for their own occupancy when conditions warrant. There will be comparatively few plots offered for sale by Messrs. Lucas and Anderson, who will have charge of the development of the property. It is to be known as Pondfield Crossways, and will have winding macadam roadways, and sewers, water and gas. The land had been owned by the Hunt family since 1798.

RECENT LEASES.

Government Leases.

United States Government procured through M. & L. Hess, Inc., agents, from the 14th Street Realty Company (Jesse I. Strauss, president,) the nine-story and basement building at 56 West 14th street, running through to 55 to 65 West 13th street, with a frontage of 25 feet in 14th street and 100 feet in 13th street, and a depth of 206 feet, having a total floor area of 117,000 square feet. The building will be occupied by the United States Government Quartermaster's Department, for distribution purposes. Extensive alterations are being made. This building was formerly a part of the Macy Store. This lease completes the rental of all of the space formerly occupied by the R. H. Macy establishment. Considerable space in the old retail shopping district has been taken over for the use of the Government or by firms with large Government clothing contracts. The same brokers recently leased 170,000 square feet in the former O'Neill-Adams Building, on the west side of Sixth avenue, from 20th to 21st streets, to Henry Sonneborn & Company, and large space in the building at the northwest corner of Sixth avenue and 19th street to the Lazarus Raincoat Company. Space has also been taken in the old Simpson-Crawford Building at the southwest corner of Sixth avenue and 20th street by Siegel Brothers & Goodman. The store at this location has been leased by the United States Government for the Quartermaster's Department, which has also acquired additional space in the former Macy store properties at Sixth avenue and 13th street and at Sixth avenue and 14th street.

Government Leases Warehouse.

William Vincent Astor has leased for the Government, for military purposes, the large storage warehouse at 410 and 412 West 14th street, extending through to 411 to 417 West 13th street, now occupied by the California Wine Growers, Association, whose lease expires May 1.

$500,000 Lease in Beaver Street.

Richard A. Carroon and George Evalenko leased from the Estate of Andrew C. Zabriskie, the four-story building at 48 to 54 Beaver street, for twenty-one years. The properties have a combined frontage of 80 feet. The lease is on a net rental basis, and with the improvements to be made by the lessees, will involve about $500,000. Charles F. Noyes & Company were the brokers.

Store Lease on Broadway.

The St. Regis Eating Place, leased from the Regal Shoe Company, a store in the building at the southwest corner of Broadway and 50th street, comprising a portion of the Broadway front, and including the entire store and basement in the adjoining building in 50th street. About 6,000 square feet of space is involved. The premises are now being extensively altered, and upon their completion the corner store will be occupied by the Regal Shoe Company as a branch. The lease to the restaurant is for a term of twenty-one years, and involves about $350,000. The property is located in the center of activity on this portion of Broadway, the recently completed Rivoli Theater being diagonally opposite, and the new Capital Theatre is to be constructed on the block further to the north. Herbert Hecht & Company and Harris & Vaughan negotiated the lease. The same brokers also closed the original lease to the Regal Shoe Store Company, which runs for sixty-three years.

Lexington Opera House Lease.

George P. Grundy, who conducts the Grand Central Palace Dancing Carnival, leased the Lexington Opera House, at Lexington avenue and 51st street. Mr. Grundy, who will get possession as soon as the tenantry of the Chicago Opera Company expires, will run a popular-priced theatre. The building was erected by Oscar Hammerstein, and the Manhattan Life Insurance Company acquired it as a result of a foreclosure proceeding. It is now owned by the Frank Gersten Realty Company.

Lunch Company Leases.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased for William P. Douglas to the Belmore Lunch Company the building 26 East 23d street for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $75,000. CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

ONE of the principal features of the seventh annual convention of the National Association of Building Exchanges, that has been in session in Pittsburgh, Pa., during the past week, was the presentation and recommendation of resolutions declaring that the wish of the builders of the United States was to get into close touch with the Government and render it the most efficient aid in return for protection to the building industry. All the facilities of the national body were pledged to President Wilson, to be at his disposal while the war shall last. At the opening session of this convention it was recommended that an advisory construction board be established at Washington, D. C., for the purpose of acting in harmony with the Governmental activities and to keep the war boards informed accurately as to the supply of building materials, labor and capital and to obtain in return such consideration from the Government as will sustain the industry on a basis of organized efficiency.

It has been generally recognized that the war has, to all intents and purposes, demoralized the building industry. Not only in particular localities, but broadcast over the entire nation the effects have been felt. Practically the only line of building activity that has proceeded to any important extent during the past year has been that type of operation made necessary by the greatly enlarged program of military and naval warfare. Private construction has been confined to comparatively few dwellings and buildings for housing or community purposes, and at the present time there is a decided lack of facilities for housing and for the transaction of local business.

Common Brick.—The market for Hudson River common brick is exceedingly dull, and no increase in activity is anticipated until there is a general improvement in the building situation in the Metropolitan district and the adjacent territory. Only one barge load of brick was taken out of the market this week, but there have been a few new inquiries that indicate an undercurrent of life that will undoubtedly result in substantial orders as soon as the weather permits a general resumption of construction work. The ruling price in this market is unchanged from the $10 level that has now maintained for nearly a month, and no movement from this figure is anticipated at this time. The Raritan situation is unchanged. No business is possible in this market as long as the river and harbor is ice-bound, and it will require two or three weeks of favorable weather before the conditions will be such that shipments can be made.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, February 8, 1918: Condition of market: Demand very light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none. Sales, 1. Distribution: New Jersey, 1.

Structural Steel.—Although the demand for fabricated material for building construction in the local territory is light, there are long delays and numerous difficulties entailed in obtaining the delivery of those orders that are placed, and no additional life is anticipated until there are signs of improvement in the mill and railroad situations. On account of the Federal orders, fuel shortage, transportation congestion and other factors, fabricating mills are not actively soliciting new business, and in some instances have been known to return current orders, with the request that customers withhold them for a time or at least until the congestion is

During the past week the cold and stormy weather has held up what little work was in prospect, and while the condition lasts no improvement is possible. The thaw of the latter part of the week was most welcome, and the builders and material dealers join in the hope that it will prove to be the end of the extreme cold for this year. There are a number of new building projects about ready to be started, but that have been held in abeyance on account of the weather. With favorable conditions it will be possible to commence these operations in a week or two at the latest, and this would materially increase the interest in the building situation in this city.

The markets for building materials and supplies have been uniformly quiet during the past week. There has been a lack of orders and inquiries, but prices have remained practically stationary at the high levels that have now maintained for some time. Had there been a large volume of orders current the situation in the wholesale markets would have been aggravated because of the fact that the railroad congestion is still acute and deliveries only possible when materials are consigned for actual Government work. The ice-congested condition of the rivers and harbor have also complicated the delivery of materials, as it has been impossible for lighters and barges to make any degree of progress. Favorable weather conditions for a week or so would have a most beneficial effect upon the building interests and would hearten them to a great extent. There is a large volume of important work in prospect, and good weather will assist materially in improving the general conditions so that many of these operations can be started.

relieved. Practically the only commitment of local interest was the order to the Passaic Rolling Mill Co. for 700 tons of steel for the National Lead Company plant, to be erected in Brooklyn. Other orders were for structures at a considerable distance from the Metropolitan zone. Although there have been quite a number of important structures recently planned, there is no likelihood that they will be started while the present critical situation maintains. Steel prices are unchanged from the federal control figure. This will remain in effect until March 31.

Lumber.—Delivery of new supplies from producing points is still at a low ebb, and as a consequence the stocks in the hands of the dealers in the local territory are badly depleted and broken. While there is a fair demand it is emanating principally from manufacturing consumers. At the present writing the building situation is halted owing to the weather and other deterrents, and only a minimum volume of business is coming from this source. There are a few inquiries, however, that indicate a better outlook for the spring months. The freight situation is the most potent factor at the present time in the lumber market and until the congestion is relieved to a point where deliveries are possible within a reasonable length of time the local dealers are bound to suffer from short stocks and a consequent inability to fill orders. The Government is taking an immense volume of lumber out of the market for its programs of shipbuilding and airplane construction, and it will be some time before the demands from this source are satisfied. Lumber prices are firm and with a decided tendency toward further advances for certain lines.

Portland Cement.—The principal difficulty in the market for this commodity is the railroad situation. Freight congestion and embargoes has prevented the cement interests from doing the volume of business that might have been put through. There is a very satisfactory demand, and the outlook for the future is bright. To be sure, the bulk of the current business is emanating from the requirements of the Government, but there is a large volume of work of this character that will require immense quantities of materials. A representative of one of the leading cement manufacturers stated that his concern was doing a business that averaged up to about 75 per cent. of last year's bookings, which was considered excellent in the face of the conditions of the current year. It is thought that about three to six weeks will be required to untangle the freight situation, and by that time the business of the cement interests should be materially improved. There is no change in the wholesale price of Portland cement.

Window Glass.—There is hardly any activity in the market for either plate or window glass, and, according to the current outlook, there is every prospect that the production of this year is to be cut to the basis of 50 per cent. of the output of last year. This will be by order of the Federal Fuel Administration. There has recently been announced an increase of 25 per cent. granted to skilled workers, and this advance will undoubtedly mean an early increase in the price of window glass of approximately $1 a box. Although there will be but half the usual output during the remaining weeks of the producing season, manufacturers are of the opinion that there will be sufficient for the small demand caused by the lack of building operations throughout the country. At the present writing there has been no change in the schedule of discounts, but revisions are likely at almost any time.

Wire Products.—Producers of both wire and wire nails report that the new demand for their output is only fairly active. The recent shut-down for a period of five days considerably decreased the output and upset their operating schedules. Wholesalers in the Metropolitan district state that they have but small supplies on hand, and that the congested freight situation is delaying what deliveries from the mills are possible. Stocks are badly needed, as the demand from consumers is firm and likely to increase. The prices that will maintain until April 1 are as follows: Wire nails, $3.50, base per keg, and bright basic wire, $3.35 per hundred pounds.

Cast Iron Pipe.—There is considerable of a demand for cast iron pipe for export, and a large volume of business could be undertaken in this line if it were possible to obtain ships for the transportation of this material. One local commission house stated that it is in the market for approximately 1,300 tons of cast iron pipe for export. Municipal orders are vastly more frequent than they have been for some months, and the outlook from these quarters is good. There is also an increased demand from private interests. Federal control prices for cast iron pipe continue as follows: 6-in., 8-in. and heavier, $55.35, New York, and 4-in., $58.35.

Hydrated Lime.—There is practically no market for this material, owing to the general recession of building operations in this vicinity. The manufacturers are greatly hampered by the railroad situation, and are only able to arrange for the shipment of that material that is destined for use in some project that is required to prosecute the war. There have been no changes in quotations since the last report.

MULTI-FAMILY HOUSE DEVELOPMENT

Project at Astoria, L. I. Designed to Provide Accommodations for Workmen

SUITABLE housing for the accommodation of workmen is a problem that has lately absorbed considerable attention, so much so that President Wilson has been appealed to, in order to ascertain whether assistance can be expected from the Government. A unique layout has been designed by Andrew J. Thomas, architect, 137 East 45th street, Manhattan, that is adaptable to the outlying sections of this city, or other communities where land values have not reached a prohibitive figure. It has been proposed to develop this scheme at Astoria, L. I., on the block and ventilation, and when landscaped and planted in an artistic manner, is destined to become an exceedingly attractive feature of the scheme. As the illustration shows there is no instance where the individual houses are no more than two rooms in depth. The corner buildings are 39 feet deep and the inside houses are planned with a mean depth of 35 feet.

Units in these buildings are arranged in suites of three and four rooms, with baths, but as the plan is flexible it becomes an easy matter to plan for the accommodations of families requiring two or five-room suites. A change of bounded by McClellan place, Howland street, Ditmars avenue and Hallett street.

The development of this plan is based upon the principles of small blocks, allowing sufficient intersecting streets and avenues, and eliminating the back alleys and service entrance. This scheme also does away with the usual cut-up arrangement of courts for light and ventilation, these facilities being provided by the streets or the large open court.

In discussing this plan Mr. Thomas stated that apartments designed in this general style are suited to the housing requirements of workmen of all classes and furthermore the scheme is far removed from the usual mechanically arranged flats that have heretofore been provided for mechanics and workmen. The initial cost of construction of units of this type can be kept at a remarkably low figure as the individual buildings are small, considering the accommodations that each will provide. Further, the general cost of maintenance and upkeep of a small structure of this character is low in comparison to the income returned. The rents that must be obtained in order to provide this income are considerably lower than those at present in force for accommodations of a similar character, but in structures that are less attractive and located in a neighborhood not nearly so desirable.

The accompanying illustration shows the development of this housing scheme in a most graphic manner. The large interior court provides permanent light this character would in no wise alter the conveniently small dimensions of the structure. According to this scheme the various buildings comprising the development would be four stories in height, with a basement. All houses would have a uniform frontage of 50 feet.

New Lighting Treatment.

A well-established lighting principle treated in a new and pleasing manner, is embodied in the new Jefferson two-piece unit which recently made its premiere before architects. In this unit, the popular and effective transmission, reflection system is seen at its best as it is reproduced in the well-known Moonstone Glass. The high light transmission and diffusion qualities of the glass, and a practically perfect scientific design permit increased lighting efficiency and at the same time eliminate the presence of shadows or dark spots on the ceiling, walls or floor, which hitherto has been practically the only disadvantage of the transmission-reflection system. Another feature which will make a particular appeal to the architect is the wide variety of treatment. The unit can be secured in adaptations from all the period styles as well as other popular motif designs. An interesting booklet describing the unit and listing the styles in which it is furnished is now being prepared by the Jefferson Glass Company at Follansbee, West Virginia.

Plans Shipyard at Arverne, L. I.
Walter Trempe, architect and engineer, 147 Remsen street, Brooklyn, is preparing the plans for a large ship building plant to be located at Arverne, L. I., for Walter H. Gahagen, 147 Remsen street, owner. The project will involve the erection of a one-story machine shop, 200x600 feet; saw mill building, 200x300 feet; boiler house, dimensions undecided; office and administration building, and ways and sidings. The cost of this plant will be approximately $100,000. Further details will be available later.

Contract for Brooklyn Factory.
The Turner Construction Company, 242 Madison avenue, Manhattan, has obtained a general contract for the construction of the two-story brick and reinforced concrete factory building for the Kenyon Company, clothing manufacturers, 754 Pacific street, owner. The new structure will be located on First avenue between 57th and 58th streets. William Higginson, 21 Park Row, Manhattan, is the architect.

Dreadnaught "New York."
THE accompanying illustration is a view of the model of the super-dreadnaught "New York" that was entirely made of products of the Crane Co., by an employee of the Bridgeport Division. This model is now on view at the Crane Exhibit rooms, 23 West 44th street. The over-all dimensions of the model are: Length, 186 inches; breadth, 34 inches; molded depth, 42 inches; total height from keel to top-mast, 102 inches. Its net weight is 3,308 pounds. There are 6,669 separate pieces entered into the construction of this model. A small electric motor gives action to the propeller. The ship is electrically wired throughout, the wires running in conduit, and by pressing a button action may be seen everywhere—the propeller turns, the commander salutes, lights flash, guns roar, the wireless crackles, the search light throws a searching beam. The entire action is automatic the may be repeated indefinitely or until the pressing of another button stops it. A row of colored electric lights run from bow to stern over the mast tops, and when in action the model makes an interesting exhibition.

New Architect for Heckscher Apartment.
It has been announced that Russel B. Smith, architect and engineer, 50 East 42d street, has been retained to prepare the plans and specifications for the sixteen-story apartment house that August Heckscher will erect on the site of the Old South Church, southeast corner of Madison avenue and 38th street. This operation will involve the expenditure of about $650,000. Details of this project were announced in a recent issue of the Record and Guide.

Contractor for Magistrates' Courthouse.
The general contract for the construction of the new Magistrates' Courthouse to be erected at the southeast corner of Second avenue and East 2d street has been awarded to the Burke Brothers Construction Company, 30 West 42d street. The structure will be built according to plans and specifications prepared by Alfred Hopkins, architect, 101 Park avenue, and will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. Complete details of this project were published in a recent issue of the Record and Guide.

Plans for Offices and Show Rooms.
Henry J. Nurick, architect and engineer, 957 Broadway, Brooklyn, is revising the plans and specifications for the five-story automobile show rooms and offices to be erected on the plot bounded by Bedford, Rogers and St. Marks avenues, Brooklyn. The name of the owner of this operation is withheld for the present, but the lessee of the entire building will be Bishop, McCormick & Bishop, dealers in motor cars, now at 20 Halsey street. This building will be constructed of brick, stone and reinforced concrete and will have dimensions of 75x85 feet. The cost is placed at $150,000. The architect will probably be ready for estimates March 1.

New Hebrew School in Brooklyn.
Cohn Brothers, 361 Stone avenue, Brooklyn, are preparing the plans and specifications for a three-story brick and limestone school to be erected at the southwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and New Lots Road, Brooklyn. This structure is to be owned and occupied by the New Lots Talmud Torah Society, George Garzogg, president and chairman of the building committee. The building will have ground dimensions of 60x100 feet and will provide seating accommodations for 1,050 pupils. A large auditorium will be included. The cost is estimated to be approximately $70,000.

Edison Supply

Saves Big Hotel $300 a Month

Frank C Hurley, proprietor of "The Hermitage", said, "Edison Service has saved me $1500 since I closed down my plant last September. I have no further use for a private plant. In fact, I would not advise installing one in any new property"

Here is straightaway evidence. Private supply was costing too much. Street service was tried. Five months have more than shown its superior economy

What our supply is doing at "The Hermitage" it is doing in buildings and industries of every kind. Let us prove its value for your purpose of the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will be read by interested readers on the morning of March 23rd.

10,000 Copies

The purchasing power of these readers is tremendous. They pay TWICE as much for their annual subscription to the RECORD AND GUIDE than for any other trade publication.

This purchasing power is represented by leading financial institutions, money lenders, contractors, architects, owners, estates, sub-contractors, builders, real estate firms, fire and life insurance companies, manufacturing industries, etc.

The FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY issue of this representative paper will be one of the most hopeful signs in these times of extreme trial. The sagacious and discerning optimism of our business executives will indicate a quiet and logical faith in the outcome of the war and in an ensuing period of well-being.

A large percentage of the advertising in this issue will be in the nature of BUSINESS INSURANCE—that is, its main purpose will not be to secure immediate results, but rather to build confidence and good will when competition must again be faced.

Nineteen Eighteen is going to be just what the business man of America makes it. These are days for action and plenty of it. Those represented in this ANNIVERSARY issue have pushed the motor into high speed. They will let the world at large know that they are prepared to do some definite thing.

Considering the great importance and value of trade connections, and of maintaining intact the "sales plant" during the trying days of war time, it is imperative that when affected by war conditions, you should advertise all the more.

A direct business advantage will accrue to those who contract for space. The valuable information and statistics contained in this representative issue will be carefully read and constantly referred to during the year of 1918.

If YOU have not contracted for space, we ask your co-operation to help make this issue not only a credit to the RECORD AND GUIDE, but to two of the most important business fields in the world—the closely affiliated real estate and building interests.

A request will bring, without obligation, the prospectus and three-color cover of our ANNIVERSARY NUMBER.

CLASSIFIED BUYERS' GUIDE

This department is consulted by buyers anxious to secure information, etc., concerning products they wish to purchase. These buyers represent the Owners, Managers of Estates, Building Managers, Architects, Contractors, Sub-contractors, etc., who own, manage or erect New York City Buildings.

New York City is the market place of the world. If you want to reach the buyers in this market you can do so by being listed in this department. We will print your name, address and telephone number in space of two lines under proper classification for $25.00 per year, each additional line $10.00, 10% reduction on second heading, 15% reduction on all headings amounting to three or more lines. Probably an investment of $25.00 will prove very profitable.

NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 16, 1918

WAREHOUSE CAPACITY MUST BE INCREASED

Proper Facilities for Reserves of Food, Fuel and Materials Necessary—Coal and Milk Situations Similar

By Hon. TRAVIS H. WHITNEY, Public Service Commissioner

NEW YORK CITY in many ways is the victim of its advantages. It embraces one of the most wonderful natural harbors in the world, with access through the Narrows and Long Island Sound and with the great Hudson River stretching away to the northward, with canal connections to the Great Lakes. Its early advantages, arising from such natural water facilities, likewise caused a radiation of railroads outward from it to every part of the Union. Shipping has developed here, industries have grown up, population has increased until now there are at least seven million people within the Metropolitan area. This population must have food upon which to live and material upon which to work in enormous quantities. Its residents cannot continue to work nor can they continue to live in any comfort if there is not a constant supply of necessities, such as food, coal, raw and manufactured materials. What has been done to assure a continuous supply of such?

I do not know of a more striking or exact way to describe the thoughtlessness of the city in respect to an adequate supply of food and material than to say that it is on a milk basis. That is to say, the population of seven million of people consumes an enormous quantity of milk, which, because of its highly perishable nature, must be brought in day by day from an area that extends as far west as Ohio. If a winter storm or a wreck or other untoward accident ties up an important railroad for a day the milk supply of the city is immediately interrupted. Perhaps this condition as to milk cannot be improved upon; yet because improvement is not possible as to the milk supply is no reason why the milk system should be taken as a model for all the other supplies of the city, and yet, strange as it may seem, there are no systematic methods of insuring a supply of necessities for the city over even a reasonable period of time. Certain private establishments and certain groups of dealers do place articles of food, such as eggs and chickens, in cold storage, so that, with respect to these, there are at times a considerable quantity of supplies in the storage houses in the Metropolitan area.

The situation in respect to coal is nearly that of milk. The greater percentage of the population live in flat or apartment houses, where, because of the high price of land and the cost of building, less and less space is devoted to storage purposes, either for food supplies stored by the tenants or where the landlord may store an adequate supply of fuel. Certain storage space is provided, and coal dealers are depended upon for furnishing of additional coal at intervals during the winter. The coal dealers in turn have storage space to a limited extent, and depend in their turn upon regularity of shipments by the coal mines and over the railroads.

During the past summer a great campaign was carried on to induce housewives to can or preserve vegetables and fruits for winter use. If every housekeeper in New York City janned for winter use the average amount of vegetables or fruit usually put up by the woman in a small town or country, where would such food supplies be stored in the average flat or apartment house?

Long ago the city found that private enterprise could not be relied upon to develop transportation within the city adequately and comprehensively to care for the growth of the city, either in respect to relieving actually existing congested transportation or to develop systematically the outlying portions of the city. The city therefore had to enter the transportation field, and has so far invested more than $200,000,000 in rapid transit lines. The great difficulty and the lack of progress is that, great as is the investment of the city, ten or fifteen years of valuable time was lost, so that when the lines now under construction are completed the state of congestion will be nearly as bad as it was when the dual system was begun. In other words, the dual system should have been completed ten years ago and we should now have under construction extensive additions to it. I do not mean, however, to go into a discussion of transportation other than to point out that because it was not being adequately developed by private enterprise the public had to go into the transportation business.

Warehouse and Storage Facilities.

Likewise the public must go into the business of proper warehousing and storage facilities to the end that the population of this great city shall never be short of food or fuel or material with which to carry on its great industries. When I speak of the public of New York City I mean in reality the Metropolitan area; that is to say, not only New York City proper, but that portion of New Jersey which constitutes a part of the natural city. The west side of the Hudson, Newark Bay and the Meadows must be developed as a part of the whole area, just as the east side of the Hudson, the Brooklyn waterfront and Jamaica and Flushing Bays should be developed with piers and dock facilities, industrial buildings and connecting railroad facilities.

It is fortunate that with the necessities of the present winter emphasizing the problems of the city the Legislatures of New York and New Jersey last winter provided for a Joint Port Interstate Commission, of which Hon. William R. Willcox is the chairman. That commission has the opportunity to recommend on a broad scale a comprehensive development of the great natural opportunities that exist on both sides of the Hudson River, and upon which the city and the municipalities of New Jersey, the States of New York and New Jersey and the National Government can cooperate. Moreover, their co-operation is necessary, for literally hundreds of millions of dollars should be spent in the development of proper railroads, port terminals, warehouses, storage and industrial buildings.

It may be said that an opportunity was presented in the proposed agreement between the New York Central Railroad Company and the late Board of Estimate for the creation of warehouses and industrial buildings along the west side of Manhattan, which would care more adequately for the necessities of the city. It is true that that proposed agreement gave the opportunity and the right to the New York Central Railroad Company to develop industrial buildings and warehouses from Canal street to 60th street, on both sides of the proposed right of way. My criticism, however, of that agreement on that point was that, although the company was given the right and opportunity to invest in such development, it was not put under the obligation so to do. That is to say, the company was given the right, but there was no provision in the agreement whereby the company must, within a given time, or at any time, do any of the things in respect to industrial or warehouse buildings that were urged as one of the reasons in favor of the agreement. Had that agreement been signed the perpetual rights granted to the New York Central would have stood as a Chinese wall along the west side of Manhattan against access to Manhattan by the New Jersey railroads, and at the same time the company would have chosen its own time to afford any development for the city whatever.

It was perhaps fortunate for the city that that agreement was defeated, even from the point of view of delay, for there is now the opportunity of a comprehensive plan whereby there shall be, from at least 60th street southward, a method of transportation accessible to all railroads and connecting with piers and docks and with sites for warehouses and industrial buildings.

In respect to the coal situation, the city, as I have stated, has already entered the transportation field, and is in partnership with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New York Municipal Railway Corporation in the dual contracts. It is essential to the life of the city that these two rapid transit systems shall be in continuous operation, yet the Interborough Company, which consumes more than 2,500 tons of coal a day, has storage capacity in its power houses of only 11,000 tons, which is less than a week's supply. The Brooklyn company, which consumes about 1,500 tons a day, has a storage capacity for a somewhat longer period. Neither of them has a storage capacity adequate for an unusual period. It seems, therefore, only a proper precaution with the dual system, upon which the city and the companies have and are spending more than $350,000,000, to have included as a part of that system an adequate coal reserve. An additional million dollars would afford storage capacity within the city to the extent perhaps of 500,000 tons. Such a reserve would be adequate in and by itself for nearly four months. Such a situation would free the railroads in an emergency like the present of the necessity of bringing in daily some 4,000 tons for the rapid transit systems of the city.

The city now has an adequate water supply. In passenger transportation it is nearing the completion of the dual system, although that system must undergo constant expansion. It has hardly made a start on the third and fourth great problems which confront it; namely, proper harbor development and proper facilities for reserves of food, fuel and materials.

BUILDING INDUSTRIES OF NEW YORK ELECTS OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

Associations Already Identified With Movement

LAST Wednesday there was held a first election of officers of Building Industries of New York at the rooms of the Building Trades Employers' Association, 30 West 33d street. Hugh Getty, president of the Building Trades Employers' Association, was elected president. Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the Lawrence Cement Company; Laurence McGuire, president of the United States Realty & Improvement Company, and president of the Real Estate Board of New York, and Franklin T. Miller, president of the F. W. Dodge Company, publisher of the Record and Guide, were elected vice-presidents; G. Osgood Andrews, representative of the Plate Glass Manufacturers of America, treasurer, and Allen E. Beals, of the Allen E. Beals Corporation, secretary.

The following directors were also elected: H. H. Murdock, of Jardine, Hill & Murdock, architects, chairman of the Board of Directors; Charles J. Kelly, Ronald Taylor and Max Baumann, all members of the Building Trades Employers' Association; Elliott Smith, president of the Building Material Exchange; C. J. Curtin, National Lime Manufacturers' Association; Frank H. Quinby, of the Brooklyn Chapter, American Institute of Architects; C. A. Jackson, New York Chapter, American Institute of Architects; Frederick C. Zobel, New York Society of Architects, and Edward A. MacDougall, president of the Queensboro Corporation.

The following associations are members of Building Industries of New York: Building Trades Employers' Association, composed of the following thirty-three associations: Employers' Association of Architectural Iron Workers, Master Carpenters' Association, Master Carpenters' Association, Local No. 1; Master League of Cement Workers, Composition Roofers and Waterproofers Employers' Association, Greater New York Cut Stone Contractors' Association, Electrical Contractors' Association, Elevator Manufacturers' Association, New York League of Heat and Cold Insulation, the Hoisting Association, House Movers' and Shorers' Association, Association of Investing Builders in the City of New York, the Iron League Erectors' Association, the Lighting Fixture Association, Marble Industry Employers' Association, Mason Builders' Association, Mason Contractors' Association, Metal Ceiling Association of New York, Association of Manufacturers of Metal Covered Doors and Windows, Employing Metallic Furring and Lathing Association of New York, Mosaic Employers' Association, Ornamental Bronze and Iron Masters' Association, Association of Master Painters and Decorators of the City of New York, the Parquet Flooring Association, Employing Plasterers' Association, Associated Plumbers' Association of the City of New York, Refrigerator Manufacturers' Association, Employers' Association of Roofers and Sheet Metal Workers of Greater New York and Adjacent Cities, Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association of New York, Employing Stone Setters' Association, Tile, Grate and Mantel Association, Association of Wire Work Manufacturers of the City of New York, and the Manufacturing Wood Workers' Association.

Also included in the membership are the following organizations: Building Material Exchange, Brooklyn Chapter American Institute of Architects, New York Chapter American Institute of Architects, New York Society of Architects, Real Estate Board of New York, Credit Association of Building Trades, Chamber of Commerce of Queens, National Plate Glass Association and the National Lime Manufacturers' Association.

Following the movement started several months ago in New York City to coordinate the building industry, the Middle West has become active, and in many districts several similar campaigns along constructive lines have been inaugurated and progress made.

The Chamber of Commerce of Chicago has undertaken a detailed survey, with a view to cooperating in a national movement. Several years ago this city had a building boom, and an overbuilt condition resulted. The city has not yet entirely recovered from this condition.

St. Louis has been active. Some time ago the Chamber of Commerce started an industrial survey, which included, in a general way, a building survey. At the present time the city needs warehouses and workmen's homes, and to less extent houses of other description. The Association of Commerce of Milwaukee is going to undertake a general survey of conditions in that city. From surface indications there is no startling need for new construction, and there seems to be plenty of housing for the workingman.

Kansas City is oppressed with labor troubles, and is suffering from the same conditions which have restricted building in other municipalities. There is a negro problem to face. The city is in urgent need of labor of this class, but difficulty is being found in obtaining it on account of the cost of living accommodations. There is in progress of completion a survey of housing conditions.

So far as Omaha is concerned there is a normal demand for buildings of practically every class. The Commercial Club is making a survey of the city. In Akron and Youngstown, Ohio, there has been a shortage of housing for several years, and from present indications it seems that a considerable period will elapse before conditions again reach normal.

The Builders' and Traders' Exchange of Cincinnati has become interested in the movement, and has taken steps to have a survey made. There is a comparatively small building force in this city, and if a fair amount of work was awarded there would be no idle labor in the building field. Cleveland has need for buildings of practically every kind. The Builders' Exchange has the matter in charge, and steps are being taken to relieve the situation.

Buffalo is another city suffering from the lack of workmen's houses, chiefly in the Elmwood industrial section. A committee has been appointed to look into the question and see what remedy can be found. Another city interested in the movement is Pittsburgh, though at the present time practically every line of endeavor is actively engaged in supplying the Government with its requirements. There is a need for housing of the cheaper grade, and the Chamber of Commerce has this matter in charge. It is anxious to do whatever lies in its power to federalize the building industry.

As in New York City, the principal drawback throughout the country is the difficulty of obtaining money. Banking interests are taking the stand that material prices will recede, though there is every indication that they will go considerably higher before any recession occurs, and even then it is most doubtful whether the prices will be at a lower level than at present.

The principal cities throughout the Middle West and East are ripe for, and willing to join, a movement which will federalize the building industry so that it will be a power which can be wielded for the benefit of the Government when occasion arises. There are many problems now facing the Government which would find easy solution were the building industry coordinated. It is only a logical step, and once it is thoroughly appreciated the Government will be the first to insist upon the industry being unified.

BOARD HOLDS ELECTION.

Directorate of the Bronx Board of Trade Elected for Ensuing Year.

AT a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bronx Board of Trade, held at the board rooms, 137th street and Third avenue, on February 7, the 1918 organization was effected, and vice-presidents were elected as follows:

Second vice-president, Edward R. Koch; third vice-president, Albert Goldman; fourth vice-president, Charles F. Minor; fifth vice-president, Olin J. Stephens, and sixth vice-president, James Brackenridge.

Charles W. Bogart was chosen as treasurer, being for his twenty-fifth term in this office, for he has been treasurer of the organization since its inception on March 6, 1894; and Charles E. Reid was again elected as secretary.

The following vice-presidents will be the Bureau Chairmen for the ensuing year: Edward R. Koch, Civic; Albert Goldman, Industrial; Charles F. Minor, Publicity; Olin J. Stephens, Traffic and Waterways, and James Brackenridge, Trade and Commerce. A dinner was tendered to the directors on the occasion of this special meeting by President Eugene H. Rosenquest, and was attended by the entire Board of Directors and the other officers of the board.

The complete roster of officers and directors of the Bronx Board of Trade for the year 1918 follows: President, Eugene H. Rosenquest; first vice-president, Richard W. Lawrence; second vice-president, Edward R. Koch; third vice-president, Albert Goldman, fourth vice-president, Charles F. Minor; fifth vice-president, Olin J. Stephens, and sixth vice-president, James Brackenridge; treasurer, Charles W. Bogart, and secretary, Charles E. Reid.

Board of Directors—Charles W. Bogart, Charles F. Minor, Albert Goldman, Max J. de Rochemont, James L. Wells, Charles A. Berrian, Thomas W. Whittle, Edward R. Koch, George N. Reinhardt, J. Harris Jones, Olin J. Stephens, Richard W. Lawrence, William S. Germain, Herbert A. Knox, Robert J. Moorehead, Edward B. Boynton, Alexander Haring, Rev. William H. Kephart, Cyrus C. Miller, George S. Ward, Eugene H. Rosenquest, Louis H. Werner, Theodore S. Trimmer, James Brackenridge, George M. S. Schulz, Elmer D. Coulter, Richard B. Aldcroft, F. A. Wurzbach, Henry Brackner and William W. Niles.

Viaduct Across Bronx Valley.

An order has been adopted by the Public Service Commission and an opinion by Commissioner Charles Bulkley Hubbell approved to the effect that when 238th street, Bronx, is constructed across the tracks of the New York Central Railroad Company and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company it shall be by a viaduct or bridge about 35 feet above the tracks. Such bridge will cross the Bronx River Valley from Wakefield to Woodlawn Heights and will be about 2,000 feet in length. The order was adopted following hearings recently held by the Commission. At these hearings counsel for the New York Central Railroad advanced a theory that the Public Service Commission had no jurisdiction on the ground that the continuation of 238th street westward across the Bronx River Valley would require a bridge in any event, irrespective of whether or not the railroad tracks were present. Commissioner Hubbell, however, found that the Commission had jurisdiction and that it was impossible to construe the law otherwise. The case was instituted upon application of the city, and has a hearing upon a controversy in the northern end of the Bronx during the past two years over the question of whether a viaduct should be built across the railroad companies' tracks at 238th street or at 241st street. The Commission about three years ago decided that the viaduct should be located at 241st street, and the courts have since upheld this decision.

EFFECT OF WAR ON CAPITAL AND LABOR

Past Ten Months Have Accomplished
More Than Generation of Agitation

By DEAN CLIFFORD B. CONNELLEY, Carnegie Inst. of Applied Technology

TEN months of war have done more towards restoring the balance between capital and labor than a generation of agitation and actual operation of industrial reforms. It must be said to the credit of the organized labor movement in this country that no such representative body in any of the warring nations of the world was so prompt to throw its influence to the aid of the government upon the declaration of war as was the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor. The importance of this action, coming as it did from a body of men, many of whom had been outspoken against war, even going so far as to threaten a general strike in case hostilities were opened, can hardly be estimated for the confidence it restored and the relief it gave to a situation that was already grave enough. Labor's pledge of loyalty was the simple recommendation that "a statement be issued to employers and employees in our industrial plants and transportation system, advising that neither employers or employees shall take advantage of the country's existing standards." This action won the endorsement of the United States Chamber of Commerce and employers generally.

Patriotic Pledge of Labor.

The apparent good faith of labor in adhering to its patriotic pledge was evident at the Buffalo convention of last November. A capable and unbiased writer characterizes the convention in the following statement:

"The dominant note of last year's convention (at Baltimore) was militant opposition to non-union employers. The dominant note this year was loyalty to the Government. There could be no doubt about that from the unprecedented opening of the convention, with an address by the President of the United States, who had taken an all-night railroad journey for that purpose alone, to the very end, thirteen days later, when the executive council's report on terms of peace was discussed. There was no time when the thought of the Government and war was not either in the background of discussion or prominently and specifically the subject for consideration, and so old issues were forgotten; old difficulties were wiped out. It could no longer be predicted with safety how a delegate, with a known record in a dozen or more conventions, would cast his vote in this convention, except on the one subject of loyalty to the Government."

The consequent official recognition given labor by the Government appears in such appointments as that of Mr. Gompers as chairman of the Committee on Labor of the Advisory Commission of the Council of National Defense, and James Duncan as the labor member of the Commission sent to Russia.

Weakness of Labor Revealed.

The war, in bringing out this highly commendable side of organized labor, revealed at the same time certain weaknesses which perhaps its bitterest opponents never even suspected. We have been accustomed to think of the great all-dominating power in American industry of the American Federation of Labor, called by some not quite so favorably "the great engine of destruction," with its some 30,000 local unions and membership of over 2,000,000. (The membership reported at the Buffalo convention was 2,371,434, an increase of nearly 300,000 in one year.) The facts make plain that notwithstanding the efforts of organized labor to establish an industrial truce and the strong personal influence of Mr. Gompers to enlist the wage-earners under it that there have been a number of strikes and considerable industrial unrest. In Government work alone we have witnessed the crippling of shipbuilding yards; the lumber industry and the copper fields have suffered much from industrial war, and considerable dissatisfaction has arisen because the Quartermaster's Department has let contracts for uniforms to sweatshops.

Another weakness that has been brought to light is that the Federation is practically without representation or influence in the great basic industries, such as steel making, meat packing, oil refining, textile manufacturing, which have come to the fore as war necessities. It seems as though the Federation has clung to the edge of American industry and controls the labor supply of the more specialized industries employing relatively small numbers of men. In other words, the American Federation of Labor does not speak with sole authority in the field which it is supposed to represent.

The war has met with a ready response on the part of employers as goes without saying. Some of the ablest business men of the country are giving their entire service to the Government without recompense. Business that has been considered non-essential to the propagation of the war has been practically sacrificed or eliminated entirely. There has been no hesitation to submit to income taxation or to make any financial sacrifice. In fact, never has the Government had such an array of business intelligence and executive power at its command as at the present time. The patriotism of capital goes far toward spelling the success of the United States in the war.

Lack of Cooperative Organization.

And yet, it is not an organized capital in the sense that labor is, that pledges its fealty to the flag. One can see from this standpoint alone what a power could be created by a Federation of Employers' Associations. There would have been no necessity of the Government having to step in and take over the railroads had there been a Federation of Railroad Magnates. This lack of organization and cooperation is the weakness of the management side of industry. Outside of consideration of national service in the matter of dealing with the labor question one can readily see the advantage of the National Builders' Exchange, for example, cooperating with the National Association of Manufacturers, etc. As has been said by a prominent manufacturer: "If the business men of this country expect to cope with the American Federation of Labor they must have at least as well a coordinated body, as well organized in detail and as well federated among the States."

The war is a challenge to industrial unity. This is not a time to stir up old antagonisms, or to fan smoldering industrial hostilities. The economic balance of the nation has been threatened seriously by the withdrawing of the fighting men from the industries. Moreover, neither capital nor labor in themselves, however well they may be federated as separate bodies, can offer satisfactory solutions of such problems, which are just beginning to rise, as (1) the shortage of labor, (2) the employment of women labor, and (3) re-employment of disabled soldiers. The question involved in each case is that of labor distribution, or the time-honored point of divergence—work and pay. It is not so much consolation to employers or employees of the building trades to be assured that their losses as a result of the war have been largely offset by the great volume of other business. As a matter of fact there is probably enough building going on in connection with the war to keep the workers and employers engaged if the work were distributed equitably. It is in matters like these that labor and capital must join hands. One can see immediately from this the need for some sort of national standards in work and pay and the necessity of an agency of unquestioned authority to define just standards.

It is well to note what Europe is doing. It may be startling in this connection to know that "the nations of Europe today are concentrating almost as much energy and brains upon the problem of permanent industrial reconstruction as they are upon the prosecution of war itself." In England, for example, a proposal was made during the last few months "to establish in each organized industry a national council representative of employers and employed for the regular consideration of matters affecting the progress and the well-being of the trade." Accompanying this is the following interesting statement: "Though the settlement of differences between capital and labor and the avoidance of industrial war are of primary importance the representative bodies would concern themselves with such issues as technical training, industrial research and invention, the adoption of improved machinery and processes, and all those matters which are included under scientific management."

The United Labor Bureau.

It may be necessary at this time that we remind ourselves that our own Government has an agency which is ready to serve as a clearing house to both capital and labor, and which, if properly backed and utilized by both, will lay the foundation for permanent industrial peace. This is the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Labor. For the past thirty years this bureau has been gathering industrial facts. It has kept in touch with the centers of industrial information in every state in this country, as well as every nation of the globe. It follows experiments in management and labor in public and private plants.

Here is a single statement bearing its record in dealing with industrial disputes: "In 1915 the mediators of the department settled 41 labor disputes, 227 in 1916, and in one month alone they were called in to mediate 66 controversies, mostly on war work." It has been said: "There is probably in all the world no better source of information on the evolution of industrial standards than the Monthly Review of the department and the published reports of its special investigators." In the excitement of war this bureau has been ignored, even to the extent of cutting down the needed appropriations. It is evident that here is the place where business and labor may direct their influence by turning the attention of Congress to this department as the key to a better understanding of the relationship between employer and employee.

Industrial Education.

There is another avenue to permanent industrial peace which has been emphasized strongly by the war. It is the matter of our industrial unpreparedness as far as industrially trained young men are concerned. The responsibility of industry to actual fighting is twelve to one. In other words, it takes a dozen persons to load every weapon a single soldier fires.

May we not learn from the awful spectacle of a war which has mobilized two-thirds of the world, representing twenty nations, that has already placed 5,000,000 of the finest youth of Europe in untimely graves and wounded 20,000,000 more, that now holds nearly 40,000,000 men under arms and has organized entire nations for fighting and the manufacture of munitions, the lessons that make for permanent peace in every line of human endeavor? Applied to industry there is need for more effective organization, closer cooperation, and a readier willingness to sacrifice anything for the common good of employer and employee. If by vesting more authority in the United States Bureau of Labor, and if by aiding nation-wide industrial education such ends be served, it is our duty at this time to give them utmost consideration.

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

AT the weekly meeting of the Joint Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws of the Real Estate Board of New York, held on Wednesday, February 13, one of the bills taken up was Senator Ottinger's bill, Int. 268. (Same as Assembly, Int. 335, Adler.) This bill in effect includes recommendations of the Commission appointed to investigate the surface railroad situation on the west side in the city of New York, and to put into effect a comprehensive scheme for the development of adequate freight terminal facilities for Greater New York. The committee was inclined to give approval to the general scheme, but was not prepared to approve the details of the bill and some phases of the machinery for putting the scheme into effect. It was recommended, therefore, that the Board of Governors appoint a special committee to go further into this matter and to report at the earliest possible moment. The committee took action on other bills as follows:

Senate Int. 309, Dowling (same as Assembly Int. 395, E. A. Smith). Adding new Section 227-a to Real Property Law, providing that when the lease of a building calls for heating by the landlord, the tenants may withhold part of the agreed rent in case of failure to provide such heat. In an action for rent, the court may determine the amount proper to be withheld by such tenant.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes that where a landlord has formally agreed to furnish heat and failed to do so the tenant may withhold "a part of the rent as agreed upon," and that when an action or proceeding is brought to recover rent or possession of the rented premises and the defense of the tenant is a breach of such agreement the court, in case it decides that the landlord failed to keep his agreement, may order that the tenant may withhold such part of the agreed rent as the court shall determine will compensate for the failure of the landlord to comply with his agreement to furnish heat. This bill is unnecessary, for the relief it provides is obtainable under existing law. Even in the case of a proceeding to dispossess the tenant, by a verified answer, may set up a counter claim for damages arising from any breach of the landlord's agreement. This is specifically provided by section 2244 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Apparently the only possible effect of the proposed measure would be to break down the requirement of the Code that new matter constituting a defense or a counter claim for breach of a covenant to supply heat must be made in a written answer, duly verified. This change of judicial procedure is undesirable and should be prevented if possible.

Assembly Int. 349, Orr. Adding new Section 2040 to Penal Law, requiring owners, lessees or agents of property equipped with heating apparatus to keep the same heated at an even temperature of at least 68 degrees Fahrenheit from 6 A. M. to midnight, from October 1 to May 1, when rented to a tenant. Violation is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $200 or imprisonment for ten days.

This bill is disapproved. It seeks to add a new section to the Penal Code, providing that it shall be a misdemeanor for a landlord or for an owner of property to fail to use coal in his possession to furnish heat and hot water to his tenants during the months from October to April inclusive, "or who shall fail to purchase coal when the same is obtainable." It is perhaps enough to say of this measure that it is proposed by a socialistic Assemblyman. As a legislative proposition it is pure "bunk," and so wretchedly drawn that it would be unenforceable if enacted. Under it the owner of "cold water" flats would be required to furnish heat and hot water to his tenants.

Assembly Int. 350, Orr. To amend the Code of Civil Procedure, in relation to furnishing heat and hot water and removal of tenants during certain months.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes to amend the Code of Civil Procedure by requiring that leased property equipped with heating apparatus shall be heated at an even temperature of at least 68 degrees F. between the hours of 6 a. m. and 12 midnight during the months of October to April inclusive. Failing in this the landlord is to be deprived of the right to dispossess and the tenant shall be entitled to deduct from the rent "the sum actually spent for gas, electricity or other fuel used to heat the apartment, together with the cost of any heating apparatus purchased by him for heating purposes." The proponent of this clumsily drawn proposition is a socialistic Assemblyman. As to the legal phases of his bill he would encumber the Code of Civil Procedure with substantive provisions that should be, if anywhere, in the Real Property Law. It has probably never occurred to him that there are thousands of buildings in this city the lessees or tenants of which have specifically covenanted to supply their own heat. Later on he may learn that the courts have repeatedly held that a landlord is not bound to supply heat to a tenant unless he has specifically agreed to do so. The measure should be opposed not only because of its defects of draftmanship, but because it is wrong in principle.

Assembly Int. 357, Karlin (same as Assembly Int. 438, Rosenberg). To amend the Labor Law in relation to requirements for existing buildings.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes that the Labor Law be amended as follows:

1. To require in existing factory buildings over one story in height the same exit facilities now required for such buildings over two stories in height.
2. To require that stairway enclosures in existing factory buildings over one story in height shall be safeguarded in the same manner as now required for such enclosures in buildings more than five stories in height. The changes proposed are unnecessary, and would impose serious burdens upon a very large number of property owners. The bill should be vigorously opposed.

Assembly Int. 358, Karlin. To amend the Labor Law in relation to the construction of factory buildings hereafter erected.

This bill is disapproved. It proposes that sub-division 2, section 79-a, of the Labor Law amended so as to require the installation of at least one fire wall dividing the lofts in every factory building more than six stories in height and more than 5,000 feet in area. The proposition is uncalled for, and would impose serious burdens upon a large number of property owners. It should be vigorously opposed.

Assembly Int. 402, Garfinkel. To amend the Labor Law in relation to manufacturing in tenement houses.

This bill is disapproved. It is identical with Assembly, Int. 1608 of 1917, introduced by Assemblyman Shiplacoff, and somewhat resembles two other bills—Senate, Int. 959, and Assembly, Int. 1293—of the same year. The two latter bills would have shut out certain articles now manufactured in tenements. Assemblyman Garfinkel's bill, like Assemblyman Shiplacoff's of last year, would prohibit all manufacturing in tenement houses. It is to be assumed that the only excuse for offering this measure is that it will serve either the moral or economic welfare of the workers to be affected by it. It requires little consideration, however, to prove that this is wholly at variance with the facts. The present labor law recognizes the necessity for permitting the work sought to be prohibited, and it permits it for a definite reason. It is permitted because it enables thousands of workers to earn their livelihood; as, for instance, married women, or to supplement the weekly income in the only way in which this can be done under the circumstances. It has been stated as a fact that large numbers of those who work at light manufacturing in tenements are skilled workers, who not only must earn money in this way, but who are necessary to the trades in which they are engaged. It is believed that many of the women so engaged would hesitate to assume the responsibilities of the married state unless they were assured of being able to contribute in this way to the family income. Manufacturing of this kind is therefore a necessary phase of our modern urban life. The bill is therefore disapproved on the ground that it is economically unsound, and it might also be very well disapproved upon moral grounds.

Queens a War Industry Center.

The Manufacturing and Industrial Committee of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, Ray Palmer Chairman, recently sent out a call to all the manufacturers in the Borough who wished to convert their plants, entirely or in part, for the manufacture of Government work. The result of the call was a large attendance at the meeting held January 31, in the Club Rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

A committee of seven was appointed to work out a plan whereby the Chamber could cooperate with the Government and the local manufacturers so that war goods could be speedily produced. The meeting brought out the fact that there are many plants now ready to work for the Government, using their present equipment and organization, without any severe dislocation of production facilities. In speaking of the Borough as a war industry center, Queensborough, published by the Chamber of Commerce, said:

"Queens section has today at least seventy manufacturing plants supplying materials for the use of the United States Government in prosecuting the war. It is an industrial center of more than 1,100 manufacturers with all the advantages that accrue to a community that is a part of the Port of New York, with unequalled transportation facilities by land and for oversea shipment. The economic factors that have made it possible for these plants to handle Government work, apply as effectively to many other plants in Queens, whose equipment and organization are still intact, but whose normal output is falling off by reason of a lessened demand for their product, or because of freight embargoes on either raw materials or finished products.

"It is unquestionably more economical for the Government to utilize existing plants in an industrial center like Queens than to construct new factories. It obviates the loss of time and expense in the erection of new buildings, the building of new machinery, the assembling of an organization to handle all the intricacies of production and distribution, in obtaining capital, labor and material and the additional problems of transportation incidental to the creation of new plants."

Tracks on Central Park West.

Chairman Oscar S. Straus of the Public Service Commission has written to Mayor John F. Hylan, urging the Mayor to initiate new proceedings under Chapter No. 692 of the Laws of 1917 to cause a relocation of the street surface railroad tracks on Central Park West. These tracks are located to the east of the center of that thoroughfare, and the northbound track lies within a foot or two of the easterly curb. Many accidents have occurred to persons and vehicles, it has been testified, because the tracks are located as at present. For years residents of the upper West Side have been seeking to obtain a change in the location of these tracks.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

THE EVOLUTION OF THE OFFICE BUILDING

By DAVID E. DALLAM*

THE modern skyscraper and the fire-proof commercial building have come to stay. The future skyscrapers may not be as high as those that have recently been erected, and the commercial buildings may probably be broadened, because the greater number of square feet on a single floor and under one management, the less the overhead charges in proportion to space and the greater the net return to the owner of the building, but this style of building has come to stay. The tenants of commercial buildings require as large an amount of space on a floor as the lot will allow, because with it the bosses have more of their employes under their direct eye, and require fewer superintendents.

Regarding office buildings, in which we are more particularly interested, under the present condition of affairs they do not pay the owner a fair return. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being the amount of service rendered in addition to space, the charge for which is included in the rent. The old-fashioned lease was for space only, and the tenant obtained his service outside of the landlord, and when the landlord commenced to furnish and include the charge for same in the rent, he really did not know what the service was to cost.

I remember when one of the first office buildings was erected the representative of the owner asked me:

"What charge in addition to rent shall I have to make for service, or what proportion of the rent do you think would cover service?"

I answered him:

"Cost cannot be calculated on a basis of percentage of the rent; the allowance should be made exactly for the cost of service to be rendered, because rooms of equal size would cost the same to maintain and clean, whether the rent was $25 a month or $50 a month, and no estimates of percentage could be calculated until the building was practically filled."

At present, competition with the old buildings keeps down the rate of rent, but as the old buildings disappear and competition lessens, rents of modern office buildings may be increased, but business prudence requires us to keep down the cost of administration.

A tenant with one clerk, who may want a small office, will put up with the inconveniences of old buildings for the sake of reduced rent, but the man who wants commercial space and employs a number of people for some light manufacturing business finds he cannot use an old building, because the help will not walk upstairs; they demand elevators; so the old stores on the main streets are becoming tenantless, because most of them have narrow fronts, that even if they are double buildings, they frequently have not room for a passenger elevator.

New buildings with greater space on each floor are in demand, and it is a poor economy now to build a first class building unless we have at least sixty feet front to give us sufficient room for elevators and stairways.

When I review my personal experience of more than fifty years in connection with real estate you would think I might be justified in prophesying something for the future, but I will not be so foolish, because I have noticed greater changes in the last ten years in the administration of business, than in the preceding forty, and we cannot tell what the next ten years will bring forth.

In my first connection with real estate in 1865, I found the majority of wholesale stores were a four or five-story building on a lot 20x150, with a small portion cut off for a back yard, in which there was a hydrant. A portion of the first floor was cut off by glass partitions, forming an office in which there was an egg stove to heat the office, and the balance of the building without any heat whatever.

A few of these old stores remain in Philadelphia. What chance would I have of renting such a store at the present time? Today everybody demands steam heat, modern plumbing and freight elevators to take the place of the old block and fall, and if they use the upstairs for anything but storage, they want a passenger elevator.

Era of Luxury Reached.

In those days only professional men had offices downtown, many of them in their residences, and where they were not in their residences, they were in old buildings around the courts, heated by a stove, with a charwoman to do what cleaning she felt disposed to do, which with the lawyers meant that they remained in dirt and dust.

The prosperous man, however, when he wanted a home, built a brownstone front, and installed what were called modern conveniences, and feeling how comfortable he was at home began to demand similar comforts in his office. And so the old stores and offices began to be abandoned, and the new methods of doing business were evolved from the old, until we have reached a style of luxury which is expensive to maintain and not very profitable to the owners of the property.

Though several office buildings were erected prior to the "Drexel Building," the latter was the best of its kind at the date it was built in Philadelphia. Its care and maintenance has been such, that with due respect to Mr. Johnstone of my own buildings, the Drexel Building has remained a standard, and though our buildings may be equally as well kept, I have yet to find one that has been better kept or maintained.

Following the Drexel Building, we found that as the appetite grew by what it was fed upon, the demand became greater than the supply, and the question now is only one of competition, because the demand still exists, and the best service for the lowest rents obtains the best tenants.

Change of Business Methods.

A greater demand now is being caused by manufacturers and manufacturers' agents, who want an office downtown apart from their factory, and the commercial man dealing in unopened packages finds it cheaper to maintain an office in a building, which is both cleanly and healthy, and keep his stock in a public warehouse, rather than have his office and warehouse together.

This change of business methods has been gradual but continuous, and the question for us to consider now is to accept the situation, and not only to ascertain how to make our building more attractive, but more especially to keep down the overhead charges so as to allow an adequate return on the capital invested, which up to the present time is far from satisfactory.

This brings me to the real question. All success comes from specialization, so we must specialize in our business, and by experiment, inquiry and consultation find how we can render good service, and reduce our cost without lessening the character of that service.

Our greatest expense is necessarily in labor and fuel. On the question of fuel, its character depends upon the draft we have to our furnaces, and whether we are compelled to use Lykens Valley coal, or allowed to use a low grade of buckwheat, or coal dust under blast, as one of my friends is now doing.

And again, what is the best and cheapest way of cleaning, whether we use hot or cold water for flushing toilets; or the character of our supplies, or whether vacuum cleaners are better than mechanical sweepers, or whether hand scrubbing is cheaper than mechanical scrubbing?

All these may be minor items, but they go to make up the cost, which today is absorbing more than one-third of the rents we receive.

As to labor, we have not yet been troubled much with labor unions. The employment we give our people is steady, and the majority of Americans are contented with a steady job for fair wages.

It is very easy to organize engineers' service, as machinery is maintained for twenty-four hours a day, and an eight-hour shift, I think, is most satisfactory, and with that class of labor I have not had much trouble.

With porters and women cleaners, under the direction of a good janitor, they can be so organized, that by giving each woman a certain amount of space, relatively the same class of cleaning and encouraging competition between women, so as to show the cleanest office, or even offer prizes for the best work, would be found most satisfactory.

But the element with which I have had more trouble, or from which I anticipate greater trouble, is with the elevator boys. The first organized labor affecting an office has been with the elevator boys in a middle west city.

Now elevator service is the very life of a building, and to control it is the most difficult problem. With a manager like myself, we can classify our buildings. We can have first class buildings of the office type with boys or men in uniform, and we can have second-class buildings with men in shirt sleeves, and acting both as freight and passenger elevator men and porters, and we pay them a higher price on account of the variety of their service. Should we have a shortage in one building, we can transfer men to other buildings, as I have frequently done, but we ought to maintain a uniform rate of wage for service rendered.

In the first office building I opened I paid seven dollars a week for elevator boys, and gave full satisfaction. Now we are paying as high as twelve dollars a week, and if that rate continues I will only employ men, as I think they are more steady and reliable than boys.

This increase in wages and increase in the cost of fuel has brought up the cost of administration of the buildings. You would not be surprised when I tell that eighteen years ago, the first year I managed the Witherspoon Building, the cost of service and maintenance was 29 cents per square foot of rentable space. This included the changes and alterations in the offices necessary in installing our first tenants, but the cost for the same work in the building for the year of 1915 was 53½ cents per square foot of rentable space.

Our rents have not increased in that proportion, and one of the chief subjects for discussion will be organization, and how to keep down expenses and devise means of rendering sufficient service at a still lower cost.

I do not think the limit of luxury demanded by tenants in office buildings has been reached. Some of the new buildings are providing a separate toilet apartment for every suite of rooms, giving extra space to clean without an extra commensurate return of rent, and in Philadelphia especially, where there are still so many old dwelling houses con-

NOTICE.

IN accordance with rule LXXXVI of the Supreme Court General Rules of Practice, the Record and Guide has been designated by the Appellate Division of the First Department, for the publication of all legal notices, and such insertion in the Record and Guide will be accepted as fulfilling all requirements of the law.

Which do you prefer—to buy Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps or to have the Government obtain the necessary funds to carry on this war by direct taxation? The people of this country must decide either to make gilt-edged investments in Federal paper or later to pay an equal, if not greater, amount in taxes, with no promise of a tangible return. Choose!

Recent requirements for properly housing the vast army of workers in war activities has focused the attention of some of the best professional talent in this country. Nationally prominent architects, builders, landscape engineers and housing experts have interested themselves in this problem. Their co-operation is not wholly a selfish desire to enlarge personal prestige and obtain substantial profits and commissions, but is the result of a willingness to render a patriotic service to the Government at a time when their abilities are urgently required. By a thorough co-ordination of the excellent ideas that are being presented through the efforts of these master minds, the labor forces of the United States are destined to be brought up to a higher plane of living than ever before. This result would surely justify the time and money that is being expended upon this problem.

The Coal Situation.

Revolutionary reforms in the handling of the coal supply of the city are not likely to result from the conclusions reached by the Fuel Administration or the Tenement House Department as the result of the experiences during the recent cold weather. Reeve Schley, Fuel Administrator, finds that the method of transportation from the New Jersey terminals to Manhattan by barges is probably more satisfactory than any of the suggestions so far offered for improving the service.

There is a constant shrinkage in the number of barges of about seven per cent. annually, which has not been made good owing to the difficulties of getting new boats built. There has been a dearth of powerful tugs owing to their conscription by the Government. New Jersey terminals are not all adequately fitted out with steam thawing plants and other contrivances for handling coal expeditiously in severe weather.

But if these ordinary facilities were in proper condition Mr. Schley believes the daily supply of coal for Manhattan would be assured, except for mine or railroad troubles back of the terminals; also ice jams in the river, for which there should be provided a powerful ice-breaker.

Even the distribution of coal to the poor through the coal cellars does not meet with condemnation, and no proposal of a reform in this direction is suggested. These small dealers, of which there are several thousand in the city, were found to be making only from one to two dollars a ton. During the extreme weather they handled only a ton or two a day. Naturally there were exceptional cases of extortion. But charity organization people and philanthropists in former years, who have studied the problem of eliminating the cellar dealers, and who had ample funds to finance any equitable plan, have been obliged to drop the matter, owing to the impossibility of finding any adequate method of distribution that did not involve expense that was prohibitive, unless put upon a distinctly charitable basis, which would have been resented by the consumers and unwise for many economical reasons.

The only suggestion for improvement in the service of coal, outside of building a bridge or tunnel, which meets with any favor, is the one of authorizing large private coal dealers to rent vacant land on which to store coal and allowing them to charge consumers a sum additional to the price fixed by the Fuel Administration, estimated at one dollar a ton, with which to cover the carrying cost. As a corollary of this plan, which has been put up to Mr. Garfield for decision, the local administrator favors the accumulation of a reserve supply by the city for its own use, following the suggestion recently made in the Record and Guide.

Nearly 6,000 complaints, due to the severity of the weather, were received by the Tenement Department during January, and Tenement House Commissioner Mann expects that the February record will be as great. He estimates that the damage to buildings for the two months will run into millions of dollars. As one result of the extraordinary number of complaints, there has been a thorough overhauling and cleaning up of the tenements.

From the experiences of this winter the Tenement House Department will push the matter of bringing water, gas, sewer and other service pipes up through the house in all new construction, instead of on the outside walls, as is the general practice at the present time. This projected improvement the master plumbers and architects are interested in forwarding.

One of the interesting developments of the season has been that the complaints about lack of heat came almost wholly from the tenants of the better class of steam-heated buildings. There were only three or four demands for assistance made upon the department by tenants of the "walk-ups." They carried their troubles to the Fuel Administrator or tucked them away in their own kit bags.

Owners and agents report that they had comparatively little trouble with tenants over the heat question. The law makes it incumbent on the tenant to pay his rent. If he refuses to pay, because he feels that the contract amount of heat has not been furnished, then the landlord can dispossess or sue. If he takes the first course the tenant has no recourse; he must get out. But the landlord is out of pocket while his house stands vacant. If the landlord sues for the rent and the tenant can prove damage occasioned by low temperature, then he can, and usually does, recover a part of the rent.

Both of these methods have been adopted during the trying cold days, with varying degrees of unpleasantness. Many landlords adjudicated the matter themselves by making voluntary reductions in rent.

It is interesting and gratifying to have the Fuel Administrator, the Tenement Department and landlords and agents generally testify to the almost universal acceptance on the part of the tenants of the fact that the circumstances were extraordinary, to acknowledge the willingness of everybody concerned to do everything possible to alleviate the distress and to make the best of a very bad business in the stoical and good-natured American way.

Recruits for Shipbuilding.

During the past week the Federal Shipping Board has conducted a nationwide campaign for the enrollment of an immense force of workmen in order that the shipbuilding program may be promptly and effectually carried out. An estimate of the requirements for this purpose calls for a minimum of 250,000 workmen, both skilled and unskilled, and undoubtedly a large number in addition will be needed as the construction of ships proceeds.

The major portion of these workmen will of necessity have to be recruited from the ranks of those at present in the employ of private interests. The building trades of the country are being called upon to furnish a large quota of the total. This is altogether natural, as the construction of vessels is in many points closely allied to the construction of buildings and for many phases of shipbuilding practically the same class of labor can be utilized to advantage.

The present recruiting drive calls for workmen from a large number of skilled trades. Those lines allied to the construction of buildings are especially prominent. The list includes asbestos workers, carpenters, boiler makers, plumbers and steam fitters, painters, structural iron workers, riveters, sheet metal workers, coppersmiths and other trades that are essentially a part of the structural life of the nation.

In addition to the skilled trades a large force of unskilled laborers will be required for the handling of materials and supplies. Thus, it is readily seen that a large percentage of both the skilled and unskilled labor required by the Shipping Board will have to come to the shipyards direct from the building field. Fortunately at the present time there is but a slight amount of activity in building construction work, otherwise considerable hardship to the structural interests might have resulted from taking thousands of trained men out of this field of endeavor. However, as the building trades have not been especially busy for some months, and the immediate future is in many respects clouded with doubt and uncertainty, the shipbuilding requirements will provide lucrative employment for a large number of men that might have remained in idleness for a long time or have been forced to take work outside of their regular trades.

Every possible facility should be placed at the disposal of the Shipping Board for assistance in its effort to man the shipyards with workmen of high calibre. The assembly of this large body of workmen will entail distinct hardships in certain instances; some industrial staffs will be depleted, if not altogether disrupted. However, the times are critical and the necessity urgent, so sacrifices on the part of present employers of the type of men required for the building of ships must be made cheerfully and without hesitancy. The manner in which the men are released for this important work will be the measure of individual or corporate patriotism.

The Federal Shipping Board is accomplishing a work of vast importance to the defense of the United States, and the men who have or will enroll for labor in the shipyards are undertaking a patriotic service that will be the equal of that performed in the trenches in France. The number of men that we, as a nation, will be in a position to send and maintain in Europe will depend almost wholly upon the volume of tonnage that we are able to produce within the next few months. This is required for the transportation of men and supplies.

Sprinklered Buildings.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The coal shortage has revealed the reliance on automatic water sprinkler systems for fire control. The effective maintenance of these systems has been impaired by freezing in hundreds of buildings in New York lacking fuel. Because of the temporary loss of this protection a conflagration becomes an imminent possibility; the peril appalls the fire underwriters, and because of the fuel administrator allows use of coal to prevent freezing of sprinkler systems. All of these facts have been reported by the news press.

And from these reports the idea has gained currency that the impairment of sprinkler protection by freezing has been due to inherent defects in sprinkler systems. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The impairment has been because the water in the "wet pipe" sprinkler systems, required by the fire underwriters in heated buildings, has been allowed to freeze and more or less cripple the systems, or else the water has been shut off and the pipes drained to prevent freezing where heat could not be maintained because of lack of coal.

In unheated buildings where water is liable to freeze sprinkler systems are installed "dry pipe," i. e., instead of water the piping contains air under pressure, which holds shut an automatic water control valve. This valve opens and admits water into the pipes when the pressure is weakened by the escape of air through sprinklers opened by fire.

Scores of sprinkler systems are being restored in New York by making them over temporarily into "dry pipe" systems. And an interesting fact to contemplate is that in Canada sprinkler systems have been much better maintained than down here. Up there they are much better acquainted with Jack Frost, and the sprinkler system farthest north has been on the job, while the one farthest south has been allowed to get cold feet.

Coal Situation.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The coal situation could, in my opinion, be summed up as follows: (1) that not enough is being done to make good the loss of labor at the mines, drafted for war or won away by higher wages offered for other work, (2) that coal movement is still being interfered with by the irresponsible use of priority orders by Government employees who too often mistake the petty part they were meant to perform for the main machine, and (3) that there is a lame lack of co-ordination between the gentlemen in charge of the several steps which must be taken to get coal from the mines into our coal bins.

Much could be accomplished by the appointment of coordinators who should be men mustered from and accustomed to getting teamwork in large organizations, to get the men charged with the various parts of the work, to bend their excellent efforts together, instead of each for himself, as at present.

Dr. Garfield's order of January 16 is not surefooted as a mounting corrective measure. It leans towards letting nonessential industries eliminate themselves by the painful process of lowering the effort and product of every plant and person engaged in industry, and then proceeds to make priorities, exceptions or exemptions for a selected few, leaving the others, essential and non-essential alike, to fight for the coal that is left. If the supply of fuel and labor cannot be increased, the way to get them for essential industries is to shut down the clearly nonessential industries and go as much further as is necessary to release the labor, fuel and other materials needed to build efficient armies and to push the essential industries and farming full tilt, plus, until the war is won.

A. W. WARNER.

Hell Gate Development.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

It seems too bad that there should be any difference of opinion relative to the necessity of deepening Hell Gate and the East River to forty feet. Congress passed a law last year which permitted the deepening of this waterway to forty feet so that warships might pass from the navy yard to the ocean without having to go through New York Harbor.

This is the time to do things thoroughly and completely. The difference between forty and thirty-five feet is material. In one case the large naval vessels can use the East River, while, were the latter pursued, only one means of egress and ingress would be afforded the vessels.

The Record and Guide took the stand when the matter first came up that no half-way measures should be adopted. The Merchants' Association has been active in the movement; so have the Bronx Board of Trade and other organizations. Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert was instrumental in having the forty-foot law passed, and he made a strong protest against the thirty-five foot amendment.

It is to be hoped that common sense will prevail and that the extra five feet will be excavated so that the navy may have the full benefit of an improvement which has been many years coming, but, when completed, should add millions of dollars to the commerce of the Port of New York.

Hearing on Torrens Bill.

The registers of New York, Kings and Bronx Counties, and the county clerks of Queens and Richmond Counties acting as registers, have completed the bill amending the Torrens Land Title Registration Law, and will introduce it in the Legislature this week. They will ask for a joint hearing of the Committee on General Laws in the Assembly and the Judiciary Committee in the Senate, and will invite the bar association, taxpayers' associations and the real estate organizations of the Greater City of New York to participate in the hearing. In speaking of the bill Register Edward Polak of Bronx County said:

"The amendments have been carefully considered, especially as regards their constitutionality, and if they are passed it will simplify the court procedure, lower the initial cost of an examination, expedite the time to examine a title, establish a permanent assurance fund, and make real estate a liquid asset so that owners of real estate can borrow or sell, and upon short notice have the title examined through the register's office; all titles to be examined by an official examiner of the register's office, and the fees therefor to be deposited to the credit of the county so as to reduce taxation.

"The registers will take the matter up with the city administration, and will ask that the Board of Estimate, representing the city of New York, approve of this measure, as it will mean the lowering of the tax rate."

QUERY DEPARTMENT

This department is intended to be of service to all interested in the real estate market, whether as broker, agent or property owner. The readers of the Record and Guide are invited to send in questions on matters pertaining to real estate, building and building management, though legal questions will not be answered in this column. Questions should be stated as fully but as briefly as possible so as to allow intelligent answers. Arrangements have been made through which the questions will be answered by a Committee of the Real Estate Board, including the following:

E. A. Tredwell, real estate broker.
Frederick D. Kalley, real estate broker.
Robert R. Ratney, real estate broker.
B. E. Martin.
William Douglas Kilpatrick, builder.
H. H. Murdock, architect.

Question No. 303.—Can you possibly enlighten me what was the eventual outcome of the bill introduced by Senator Gilchrist and signed some time ago by Governor Charles S. Whitman, authorizing the Sinking Fund Commissioners of New York City to adjust and settle all disputes between the City and individuals or corporations as to questions of Title, Taxes and Assessments affecting the land at Coney Island, between West Twenty-third and West Twenty-seventh streets, north of Mcrmaid avenue? I am a subscriber to your valuable paper and realize the value of the answers given through the medium of your Query Department.

Answer No. 303.—Senator Gilchrist's Bill, Int. 1352, became chapter 500 of the laws of 1916. A number of settlements have been made under the act; for example, the minutes of the meeting of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, held November 8, 1917, showed authorization for settlement with the Lafayette Trust Company.

1918 Tax Rate to Be Higher.

A statement of the financial condition of the city was sent to the Board of Aldermen this week by Mayor Hylan. The statement was made in conformity with the Charter. The city's gross funded debt as of December 31, 1917, was $1,469,448,477.26, exclusive of liabilities for land acquired and contracts entered into, amounting to $61,514,872.06. The net funded debt is $1,020,671,102.25. There are self-extinguishing bonds which, when deducted from the city debt, bring the indebtedness of the city "within the debt limit" to $775,184,744.04. The city can incur indebtedness to ten per cent. of the city's assessed valuation, or $825,454,900. The debt-incurring power on January 1 was $50,270,155.96.

"The Mitchel administration," said Mayor Hylan, "made many commitments and obligations, and during 1918 there will be an estimated remainder of $10,861,338.59. It is certain that the 1918 tax rate will be much higher, because of the gross extravagances of the past."

Income Tax.

Daniel C. Roper has published the following statement, extending the time for filing income tax returns to April 1. Secretary McAdoo has approved the ruling. The statement follows:

"Because of unavoidable delay in the preparation of forms and regulations for the war excess-profits tax, and hence in the preparation of the related forms and regulations for returns for the income and war-income taxes, and in order to afford taxpayers a necessary period for the preparation of returns after receiving the forms and regulations, the time for filing returns due after October 16, 1917, and on or before March 1, 1918, pursuant to the act of September 8, 1916, and the act of October 3, 1917, for income, war-income and war excess-profits taxes, whether they are to be made on the basis of the calendar year or of a fiscal year ended during the year 1917, is hereby extended to April 1, 1918. So far as this extension applies to the returns of corporations to be made on the basis of a fiscal year other than the calendar year it amends the provisions of T. D. 2561, as amended by T. D. 2615 and 2633."

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Many Important Developments Despite the Fact That Week Had Two Holidays

DESPITE the fact that the present week contained two holidays a number of interesting things transpired which are of the utmost importance to real estate.

Last Wednesday Mayor Hylan requested and received resignations of the members of the Board of Appeals, which has final decision upon questions of building construction under the Zone Law. Mayor Hylan, before he left for Washington, stated that the board would be continued, though with a different personnel. The Mayor is on his way to Florida, where he will spend a two weeks' vacation, but will stop off at Washington to urge President Wilson to approve of a forty-foot channel through Hell Gate instead of the thirty-five-foot channel planned by the army engineer. In addition to the Mayor, representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Maritime Exchange, Produce Exchange, Harlem Board of Commerce, Bronx Board of Trade and the Queens Chamber of Commerce constituted the delegation.

The Real Estate Board of New York is in favor of the Boylan Bill, which proposes to limit the tax rate to 17.5 mills on real estate. Laurence McGuire stated that the taxes for the present year will amount to at least one-third of the average gross income, which would impose an unbearable burden on the owner. The city tax roll aggregates about $8,250,000,000, about three-fourths of which represents assessment against the land and one-quarter against the improvement.

There is still a considerable amount of controversy on the question of tenants paying rent in apartments where heat has not been furnished. In Brooklyn a real estate firm has begun an action to evict seventy-nine tenants. The suit came to file last Monday, and the court decided that the owner was to pay for the oil, gas, fuel and laundry bills as the result of the failure to heat the apartment. The question is an old one, and has been decided many times by the court, but up to the present time the new coal clause in leases has not been tested, and owners of apartment houses are interested in the coming decision.

The proposed interchange of transfers between the Lexington avenue surface cars and the Staten Island Municipal ferry-boats has been favorably reported to Murray Hulbert, Dock Commissioner, by Percival G. Ullman, Jr. In his report Mr. Ullman said in part:

"I have made an investigation of the conditions governing the present system of transfers now in operation between the municipal ferry and the Manhattan surface lines in order to assure myself that the present transfer system was a success. In connection therewith I have been assured by competent authority that the present transfer system is a success for the public, the surface lines and the city. In passing let me call your attention to the fact that when this particular question is finally disposed of the people of Staten Island will naturally desire additional transfer extensions to other surface lines and the elevated and subway systems, therefore I suggest that you anticipate their future requests and at this time develop the whole proposition of transfers in order to include the lines mentioned."

The sale of boxes for the benefit to be extended to the Naval Relief Society and the War Camp Community by the Real Estate Board, at the Hippodrome on March 3, was held in the Board rooms last Thursday afternoon. Joseph P. Day was the auctioneer, and Laurence McGuire, president of the Board, read the terms of sale. The auction netted $3,500. The choice of boxes was taken by Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company, who paid $100 for the privilege. Mr. Day bought the second box, and the third went to Mr. McGuire. Other boxes, which brought from $25 to $100, were bought by George R. Read & Company, Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, Charles Griffith Moses, Stephen T. Tyng, Jr., Franklin Pettit, Alwyn Ball, Walter Stabler, Cross & Brown, Charles F. Noyes, Mark Rafalsky, Clark T. Chambers, Albert B. Ashforth, Douglas L. Elliman and Francis S. Bangs. Next week another auction sale of tickets will be held.

Interesting among the happenings of the week were offers received for two of the realty holdings of Clarence Payne. One of the properties, the Sonoma, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 55th street, was to have been sold in foreclosure proceedings by Joseph P. Day, but the receivers, Henry Brady and Robert C. Knapp, received an offer from a private source, and at their request Judge Mayer granted the stay for two weeks so that time might be given to pass upon the merits of the bid, which was for the capital stock of the Derwent Realty Company, which was Mr. Payne's company, holding title to the property. This stock, together with notes issued by Mr. Payne, are held by the Central Trust Company as collateral for a loan of $40,000.

The other property is the Brixford apartment house, at 138 to 144 West 79th street. An offer of $385,000 was made for the property by I. Randolph Jacobs, president of the Directors' Realty Company. One of the stipulations of the deal was the release by Mrs. Payne of her dower right to the property, but this has been straightened out by the payment to her of $6,500.

There has been a decided uplift in the inquiry for private dwellings of the better class, especially east of Central Park. Several sales have actually been closed during the past week, and a number of interesting deals are pending. Considering the upset condition of the country at large and the uncertainty as to how the new administration will adjust itself, real estate is doing as well as could be expected.

West End Association.

The activities of the West End Association for the best interests of the West Side and the city at large have attracted attention, and have made it more than a purely neighborhood organization. As a consequence its membership is steadily increasing, and the roll of more than 600 includes many men who are prominent in various walks of life in the city. No public hearing on any matter of special importance to residents of the West Side finds this organization unrepresented. It meets in the Hotel Ansonia.

Some idea of its work may be gained from the appointment of general committees, the chairmen including: Advisory Council, Walter Stabler; Acid Fumes, Franklin P. Duryea; City Executive and Finance Departments, William Willis Merrill; Board of Estimate and Public Service Commission, William H. Douglas; Board of Aldermen, Borough President and Sinking Fund Commission, William A. Moore; City Departments, Otto Von Schrenk; Budget and Taxation, I. Barton Case; Law and Legislation, James R. Deering.

Shuttle Service.

At the suggestion of the Public Service Commission the Interborough Rapid Transit Company will operate shuttle trains south to Freeman street and pick up passengers for the White Plains road line at 174th street instead of the 177th street station as heretofore. This suggestion was made by the Commission because the 177th street station is an exposed station, with a waiting room under the tracks; whereas at 174th street there is opportunity for shelter for waiting passengers at the train level.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

THE Second Department of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court has just decided, in the case of People ex rel. Kings County Bar Association v. Title Guaranty & Trust Company, that the drawing of bills of sale of personal property and chattel mortgages, with the advice necessarily attending the preparation of such instruments, constitutes legal services, and is included in the term "practicing law." It holds that a corporation rendering such services violates section 280 of the Penal Law, and it is not excluded from the operation of that statute because it has chartered power to examine and insure titles to real property. The court quoted from Matter of Co-operative Law Co., 198 N. Y. 481, as follows: "The relation of attorney and client is that of master and servant in a limited and dignified sense, and it involves the highest trust and confidence. It cannot be delegated without consent, and it cannot exist between an attorney employed by a corporation to practice law for it and a client of the corporation, for he would be subject to the direction of the corporation and not to the direction of the client." The Appellate Division opinion continues: "The vice is that the employee of the corporation, serving it for pay, owes his duty to the corporation. As he cannot serve two masters, so he cannot serve both the client and his corporation employer. This reason applies not only to services of attorney and counsel in the matter of litigation, but to those other services which are usually performed by lawyers which involve professional trust and confidence, knowledge of the law and skill, born of experience, in its application. The practice of the law, as the term is now commonly used, embraces much more than the conduct of litigation. The greater, more responsible and delicate part of a lawyer's work is in other directions. Drawing instruments creating trusts, formulating contracts, drawing wills and negotiations all require legal knowledge and power of adaptation of the highest order."

United States Justice Putnam, in a dissenting opinion, said in part: "I cannot find in the provision of the Penal Law under which this prosecution is taken the intention to forbid the drawing up of the evidence of every-day transactions, such as the buying and pledging of chattels, or even of sales of land (which should be equally simple and easy), or the ordinary papers which, especially in the country, are well prepared by justices of the peace, local conveyancers, or men of good business experience, whom no one has regarded as assuming to practice law. Banks, insurance companies, and other business corporations habitually prepare notes, bills of exchange, pledges of stock and like instruments. Their notaries extend marine protests, on which follow instruments like bottomry bonds and agreements to contribute in general average. In like manner the acts of making out deeds, mortgages and conveyances of land with searches are done by, and have long been done by, men not admitted to the bar. . . . I agree that the Legislature may curb corporate powers, but until it says so plainly we should not find the drawing of these papers by appellants' clerks as prohibited. Writing out forms for the sale or mortgage of chattels has never been held practicing law, nor is it one of the exclusive functions of members of the bar."

Street Extensions.

The New York Appellate Division holds, in re Blondell Ave., 167 N. Y. Supp. 89, that the owner of two adjoining parcels of land, one of which was assessed, while award was made for damages to the other, in proceedings to acquire lands for opening and extending street, cannot, on appeal from confirmation of report of commissioner of assessments, have review of the award for damages, not having appealed from the order confirming the award by the commissioners of estimate, and it gives no power to review it that appellant has agreed that the award may be reduced.

Renewal with Condition.

Plaintiff rented his property for one year by lease, under which defendant was to be allowed the rental of the months of February, March and April for making certain repairs at her own expense. Before the expiration of the lease plaintiff wrote defendant that he would extend the lease, defendant to "make all necessary repairs during the term at your own expense." He later wrote, not having heard from her, he assumed she was going to remain under the new lease with the understanding that all repairs, etc., were to be made at her expense. The New York Appellate Division holds, in a suit to recover rent for the months mentioned in the original lease, defendant having held over, there was an acceptance of plaintiff's proposition and a renewal of the lease on the terms that the repairs were to be made at defendant's expense.—Farrell v. Woodward, 167 N. Y. Supp. 605.

Foreclosure of Mortgage.

Where a mortgage provided that the mortgagee could elect to declare the whole amount due on default in payment of interest the mortgagor will be relieved of such a default in an action to foreclose where the mortgage was assigned without notice, and the mortgagor was able and willing to pay, and attempted to pay.—Strange v. Rosenberg, 167 N. Y. Supp. 838.

Our Fiftieth Anniversary

On March 23rd we celebrate the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY of the RECORD AND GUIDE by a special FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER, with cover in three colors from a sketch drawn in our own Art Department.

Our ANNIVERSARY NUMBER will be a history of a paper that has occupied its chosen field as an acknowledged leader for fifty years. It will also be a history of real estate and building conditions in New York City from 1868 to 1918, illustrated by comparative photographs.

This ANNIVERSARY NUMBER can pull a strong oar for you if you will utilize its power and influence. The class of readers reached are those who pay more than TWICE as much for subscription to this paper as they do for any other trade paper published in this section. It will be read not for RELAXATION, but for BUSINESS INFORMATION and BUSINESS BETTERMENT.

"A HUMAN DOCUMENT" is the term applied to the prospectus of this issue, which will be sent upon request. It will tell the story of this vast undertaking at a glance.

Consider it not only a privilege but a direct business advantage to be represented in this issue.

Board of Appeals Resigns.

The action of Mayor Hylan in asking for the resignations of all the members of the Board of Standards and Appeals caused a flood of rumors to sweep over the real estate field. At once many people jumped to conclusions, which were at variance with the facts. The truth of the matter is that the Board is to be continued only with a different personnel.

Mayor Hylan said last Thursday, before he went to Washington, that the retiring members of the Board were hold-overs from the Mitchel administration, and he proposed to appoint others in their places. Rudolph P. Miller, the chairman of the Board, when sending in his resignation, stated that he would be glad to be of such assistance to his successor as laid in his power.

The Board of Standards and Appeals is an important body, for it passes upon thousands of individual cases each year and requires men of skill, experience and honesty. There are plenty of opportunities for graft, but since its formation there has never been a word spoken that could reflect upon the honesty and integrity of those connected with that body.

There will be considerable difficulty experienced in finding another set of men who are as familiar with the building situation as those who are now leaving office. It must be taken into consideration that Mr. Miller's position was the only one which really was remunerative, his salary being $7,500 a year. The other members of the Board received $10 for every meeting which they attended. In many cases it was a matter of a labor of love, for the recompense was not sufficient to interest them. It was more civic pride than anything else.

The members of the retiring Board, in addition to Mr. Miller, included: Howard C. Baird, 80 Washington Square East, Manhattan; Alfred J. Boulton, 58 Quincy street, Brooklyn; William Crawford, 205 West 89th street, Manhattan; Lansing C. Holden, 888 West End avenue, Manhattan; Alfred R. Kirkus, 1410 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, and John Kenlon, Fire Chief, ex-officio.

Laurence McGuire said yesterday, "The Board of Standards and Appeals is an important branch of the Mayor's Department. He asked for resignations from those appointed during the present administration. He was well within his rights and it would be natural for him to desire his own appointees to officiate during his regime. Whether it was compulsory for all of the members to resign is another matter. The main point now is, who will be appointed to fill the vacancies?"

Mark Rafalsky said: "The Board of Standards and Appeals should be continued because it performs functions which are necessary at the present time. I only hope that the new board to be appointed by Mayor Hylan will be active and continue the good work already started."

E. A. Treadwell: "The appointing of a new board is merely in line with some of the other activities of the Mayor; undoubtedly other changes will be made upon his return from the South, and we are hoping for the best."

R. D. Kohn: "I was surprised. The architects and builders should insist that no changes be made unless they mean an improvement. The board is accomplishing a highly technical work and the best men obtainable should be selected and retained. No modification of the Zoning Resolution must be permitted."

Emer Roth: "Just what was expected as a matter of politics."

L. A. Goldstone: "The Mayor acted within his power and it is only to be hoped that the new appointees will be of as high caliber as the Board that has just resigned. The function of the Board is an important part of the city administration. If there is any attempt to change or modify the Zoning Resolution, it will be a matter that should greatly concern the real estate interests of the city."

Building Zone Consents.

As a general guide to appellants who seek permission under the provisions of Paragraph 6, as added to Section 7 of the Building Zone Resolution, September 21, 1917, by the Board of Estimate, to erect garages in residence or business districts, the Board of Appeals, in a resolution adopted January 29, 1918, has indicated what frontage would ordinarily be deemed to be affected, subject to such modification in individual cases as may appear to be fair and proper. Where the practice with respect to consents established by the resolution does not seem to apply an application may be made to the Board of Appeals for a ruling in that particular case. Such application must be made sufficiently in advance to allow securing and submitting the consent at least a week before the public hearing. The resolution of the Board also prescribes the substance of the consents that must be obtained, the time of filing and the diagrams to be submitted in connection with such consents. The Building Zone Resolution itself requires such consents to be duly acknowledged.

Auction Sale Postponed.

There was scheduled for sale last Wednesday at the stand of Joseph P. Day the Sonoma apartment house, an eleven-story structure, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 55th street, owned by Clarence Payne, but a stay was obtained from Judge Mayer, to permit the receivers, Henry Brady and Robert C. Knapp, to pass on a bid received from a private capitalist. The foreclosure was instituted as the result of a suit brought by Max Lowenthal, who is understood to be representing Jacob Axelrod, who sold the house to Mr. Payne last May. It was to secure a third mortgage, amounting to $37,000 and interest.

Downtown Being Cleaned Up.

The Downtown League, formed for the purpose of "cleaning up" the lower part of the city, has enlisted the services of property owners, mercantile, financial and shipping firms south of Duane street, from Hudson river to East river, in its campaign for better street conditions, traffic regulations and general improvement.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 22 as against 21 last week and 34 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7 as compared with 7 last week and 15 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 15 as compared with 14 last week and 19 a year ago.

From the Bronx 5 sales at private contract were reported as against 10 last week and 13 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 210 of this issue.

Deal Pending for the Brixford.

Negotiations are pending for the sale by Robert C. Knapp and Henry Brady receivers of the holdings of Clarence Payne, of the twelve-story apartment house, known as the Brixford, at 138 and 144 West 79th street, located between Columbus and Amsterdam avenue measuring 78x100. Mrs. Payne has agreed to accept $6,500 for her interest in the property. I. Randolph Jacobs, the prospective buyer who has made a offer of $385,000. The building was erected in 1915 by Edwin S. Brickner.

Demand for Dwellings.

Pease & Elliman sold for Mrs. J. V. Alexander the five-story American basement, 116 East 65th street, on 120x100.5, to a client for occupancy. It is interesting to note that the adjoining house, at 114, was sold some years ago by these same brokers at $82,500. The present sale is at a considerable concession from this figure, although the house is a similar one, showing the present advantages of buying private houses. This house is one of a row of houses erected about fifteen years ago on property formerly belonging to the Beekman Estate, and is carefully restricted so as to prevent any extension of the objectionable improvements in the neighborhood. The house is at present occupied by Emil Pfizer, under a lease which expires this spring. Since December 15, Pease & Elliman have reported sales of dwellings in the section east and south of Central Park aggregating about $1,200,000.

West End Avenue Sale.

Samuel Borchardt, one of the largest investors in west side apartment properties and a builder of houses of this character, has added to his large holdings the thirteen-story apartment house on a plot 102x150, at 525 West End avenue, northwest corner of 85th street, valued at $1,250,000. F. A. Wyckoff of the F. R. Wood-W. H. Dolson Company negotiated the sale for the West End-85th Street Company, Harry S. Alexander, vice-president. Henry S. Mansfield represented the purchaser. The building was erected about four years ago and yields a yearly rental of $140,000. The apartments are in suites of from six to ten rooms, and some tenants occupy entire floors on which there are fourteen rooms. The building has a modulated control vacuum heating system, refrigerating plant and many features that make it one of the best buildings of its type in the city. Mr. Borchardt paid cash over the mortgage. His realty holdings include many fine apartment buildings, among them the northeast corners of West End avenue and 97th and 98th streets, the northeast corner of West End avenue and 101st street, 78th street and Park avenue, and the twelve-story building which he started within the past year at the northeast corner of Park avenue and 75th street.

Park Avenue Sale.

Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., sold for Sarah Steward Collier, wife of Robert J. Collier, 752 Park avenue, 74 feet north of 71st street. It is a five-story American basement limestone front private residence, 28.2x86 feet. The property was built from plans by Trowbridge & Livingston for the occupancy of Douglas Robinson and sold to Mrs. Collier about ten years ago. On the same block are the residences of George S. Brewster, Theodore Douglas Robinson, Henry de Coppet and Gordon Knox Bell. The property has been held at $300,000.

Pending Sale Reported.

Through the incorporation of a new company at Albany last Monday, known as the 119-125 West Twelfth Street Company, capitalized at $30,000, there was a report current in the real estate field that the property at 119 to 125 West 12th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, was to be transferred. The title to the property stands in the name of Lustgarten Company, of which William Lustgarten is the head. It occupied the site of the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, which was purchased by Mr. Lustgarten in August, 1917. The plot measures 74.5x103.3 feet. The building was erected from plans by J. C. Schaeffler at a cost of about $75,000. The directors of the new company are M. Marcho, William M. Hyman and O. G. Bertelmen.

Apartments in Harlem Sold.

Jules Realty Company, Fisher and Irving Lewine, resold the two six-story apartment houses at 572 and 574 Lenox avenue, southeast corner of 139th street, and the adjoining similar house at 66 West 139th street to S. Schenitzer, the present lessee. The properties were held at $125,000. The corner property measures 50 x 85 feet, and the inside parcel 40 x 100 feet. William S. Baker was the broker. The sellers acquired the property last January from the Depositors' Assets Corporation, which was liquidating the affairs of the A. L. Kass bank.

Garage in Gramercy Park Section.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, sold to Joseph L. Buttenweiser, 223 to 227 East 20th street, old stables, from Eugene Ashley. The property was valued at $38,000. Mr. Buttenweiser recently bought at the auction sale of the Hamilton Fish Estate the adjoining stables, 90 x 92 feet. Manhattan.South-of-59th Street.

THOMPSON ST.—The Estate of Charles Broadway Roush sold the 7-sty building at 52 to 56 Thompson st, on plot 50.3x94, located just north of Broome st. The buyer will remodel the structure for his business. The property was acquired by the late Mr. Roush in 1893, and used by his firm as a warehouse up to a few years ago, when it built a 12-sty addition at 104 to 110 Greene st, which is at the rear of the firm's Broadway headquarters.

12TH ST.—Thomas Snell bought from Mary Bussing the 4-sty residence at 4 East 12th st, on a lot 25x100.3, 150 ft. east of 5th av. The house will be reconstructed and arranged for studio apartments. It adjoins the old Suffern residence at 2 East 12th st, acquired recently by John L. Fogliasso, builder, who plans a similar alteration. Several blocks to the south Manley E. Sturges plans to convert the former dwelling at 16 East 8th st, extending through to Washington Mews, into a studio and apartment building from plans by George Provot. The property is a Sailors' Snug Harbor leasehold, and is in the same block where the trustees of that institution made their interesting studio building alterations some time ago.

RECENT LEASES.

Lease in Financial District.

G. Amsinck & Co., Inc., established in 1854, leased for a long term, at an aggregate rental of more than $2,000,000, from Louis Ettlinger, for its permanent home, the nine-story office building at 90 to 96 Wall street, corner of Water street. The building has a frontage of 85 feet on Wall street and 106 feet in Water street, and contains nearly 100,000 square feet of space. Extensive alterations to the building will be made from plans of Frederick Putnam Platt. In the autumn of 1917 the control of G. Amsinck & Co. was acquired by the American International Corporation, which corporation has assumed the active management and direction of its affairs, retaining Justus Ruperti as president, and Dr. Charles A. Holder as vice-president. The business conducted by the company is international, with agencies completely covering South and Central America, Mexico, Cuba and the West Indies. Plans are being developed for the extension of the Mexican business, and representatives of G. Amsinck & Co. recently left for the east coast of South America to further extend the company's business, and expeditions to Venezuela, Columbia and the west coast of South America. It was definitely announced that the American International Corporation, in acquiring control of the Amsinck business, is working closely in connection with the officials of the United States Government in an endeavor to meet in every possible way the restrictions of the Enemy Trading Act and has placed at the Government's disposal its facilities in expediting the importation of raw materials especially needed by the Government at the present time. There have been many important real estate transactions in his immediate neighborhood during the past few months, but this lease is the most important of all. Quite recently the sale was announced involving eleven buildings, occupying the block front in Wall street, from South to Pine streets, and covering 22,000 square feet of ground. The parcels were acquired from separate owners. The American Molasses Co. also erected a new building at 109 and 111 Wall street, and close by are the offices of all the prominent sugar refining companies, many large and important export and import firms, shipping offices and banking interests. The G. Amsinck & Co. lease was negotiated by Charles F. Noyes Company and Horace S. Ely & Company. Adwalader, Wickersham & Taft were the attorneys for Mr. Ettlinger in the transaction, and White & Case represented G. Amsinck & Co.

Large Apartment Leased.

Pease & Elliman have completed the renting of the typical apartments in the new building at 927 Fifth avenue, southeast corner of 74th street, having rented the eleven floor apartment to a prominent New Yorker. The building, which is thirteen-stories high, was erected from plans by Warren & Wetmore, on the site of the one-time residence of the Rev. Alfred Duane Pell, which was purchased through Pease & Elliman by the Fifth Avenue and 74th Street Corporation, Harry Fischel, president. The building now brings in a gross rental of about $50,000. Each apartment occupies an entire floor, and consists of fourteen rooms and five baths. Among the tenants in the building include: E. V. R. Hayer, president of the Chase National Bank; Harry T. Dunne; J. Leonard Leoplogle, president of the Vanadium Steel Company, and at present U. S. Government Steel Comptroller; Mrs. S. Eustadt, Alexander Alexander, Mrs.

Hamilton Carhart, Mrs. B. K. Stevens, Mrs. Frank Pelton and Mrs. C. J. Cornell.

Government Leases Warehouses.

As a site for warehouses the United States Government has leased three blocks of the Bush Terminal Company property and an equal area of land owned by the city in South Brooklyn. The Bush Company property, taken under a lease for the period of the war and one year after, comprises the three blocks bounded by Second and Third avenues and 29th and 32d streets, and the city land comprises the area in front of these blocks, extending from Second avenue to the water front. The rate of compensation under the lease closed with the city is ten cents a square foot, and the same rental is to be paid to the Bush Company.

Fifth Avenue Apartment Leased.

Robert J. Collier, publisher, leased a floor at 1067 Fifth avenue, overlooking the garden of the Henry C. Phipps' mansion, in which Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt is also housed. Mr. Collier has just sold his residence at 752 Park avenue to William H. Woodin, together with some of the furnishings.

COLLECTING, RENTING
AND MANAGEMENT OF ESTATES14th Street Lease Renewal.

Herbert Hecht & Co. renewed the lease for Samuel W. Steel on the store and basement at 62 and 64 West 14th street, which was at one time occupied by the Fourteenth Street Store. The owners of the building, the Chisholm Estate, were represented by Brett & Goode. Mr. Steel has occupied these premises on a short-term lease, and the renewal thereof at higher rental than the present one is evidence that 14th street is still a good shopping district. The store was held at $25,000 per annum.

Dyckman Estate Leases.

Ames & Company leased for the Dyckman estate, represented by Edward Corning, the building at 218 and 220 West 84th street, for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of about $350,000, to Lee & Lichtenstein, who own and conduct two garages in this city. The building will be improved at an approximate cost of $50,000 and will contain in addition to other modern features, a well equipped gymnasium, with shower baths, for the use of chauffeurs.

Manhattan.

AMES & CO. leased for Josephine E. Daly the store and basement at 156 East 34th st to Koh Ono Company of Japan. The company is introducing a novel line of Japanese toys to the American market and will use the 34th st property as an assembling and distributing station.

HARLEM PROPERTY OWNERS' ASSOCIATION held its regular meeting last Thursday at 141 East 125th st.

E. D. GRENNELLS is the buyer of the private dwelling 25 East 94th st, 21x100.8, recently sold by James H. Cruikshank.

L. J. PHILLIPS & CO. have been appointed managing agents for 94 Crosby st, a 7-story and loft building, between Spring and Prince sts.

J. MANHEIMER is the buyer of the 5-story apartment at 204 West 50th st recently sold by J. Arthur Fischer for the estate of Sarah Schmittorger.

SPEAR & CO. announces that Murray Brenner is now connected with them after having been in the service of Daniel Birdsall & Co. for the past eight years.

L. J. PHILLIPS & CO. have been appointed managing agents of 63 West 10th st. This building has been completely modernized and renovated into suites of two rooms and bath each.

GUSTAV PAGENSTECHE, paper manufacturer, is the buyer of Edward Humphreys vacant lot 21 East 10th st, adjoining the northwest corner of Madison av, sold by Pease & Elliman.

BURLINGAME-YOUKER TORRENS BILL will have a public hearing at Albany on Wednesday, February 20, at 2 o'clock before the Committee on General Laws of the Assembly, at the Capital Building.

CHARLES G. KELLER was the broker in the lease of the old Cammeyer shoe store at the southeast corner of 20th st and 6th av, containing 40,000 sq. ft., for Rhinelander Real Estate Co., to Columbia Corrugated Co., at an aggregate rental of $100,000.

ROBERT E. FARLEY ORGANIZATION sold to Miss Gertrude Homan, the bungalow that has been a feature of the Country Life Exposition at the Grand Central Terminal for some years. The house has been taken apart and will be reconstructed by Miss Homan on her property at Sea Gate, Long Island.

EUGENE GERBEREUX, who for the past decade has been closely identified with the up-building of South Yonkers, died at his home, 92 Hamilton av, Yonkers, last Saturday, in his 70th year. Mr. Gerbereux was born in New York City, and about ten years ago moved to Yonkers and organized the Gerbereux Realty Co., of which he was president. He built several apartment houses in the section, as well as many two and three-family dwellings. He leaves a son.

FRANK H. TYLER has been appointed managing agent for the following properties: the Alhambra Apartment House, 36 Decatur st, 39 Decatur st, 20 McDonough st, 26 St. Andrews pl, 132 Jefferson av, 431 16th st, 340 15th av, 3716 15th av and 13 Spencer pl, the latter being a 4-story private dwelling house which is now being altered into suites of two rooms and bath each; also 7 Spencer pl, a similar building, which is also being remodeled into suites of two rooms and bath each, with a doctor's apartment.

AT THE NEXT MEETING of the Bronx Board of Trade, which will be held on the evening of Wednesday, the 27th inst., there will be two big features which should attract a large attendance. Through the kindness of the New York Telephone Co. there will be presented stereopticon views, with J. Wynne Jones as lecturer, on the subject of "The Telephone in the World War." Major Sylvanus G. Teets, commanding the Eighth Regiment, New York State Guard, will also address the Board on the subject of "Cooperation in Rehabilitating New York Guard."

WITH THE PASSING OF TITLE of 107 West 21st st to the South Sixth Avenue Company closes an interesting deal. One of the features of the situation was that it was owned by ten estates, with heirs throughout the United States and Europe. Negotiations covered a period of more than a year. Some of the sellers were Americans in the Italian army and one was an aviator in the French army. The array of counsel was notable and included Albert Stickney, of Joline, Larkin & Rathbone; William H. Davis, of Beekman, Griscom & Menken; R. V.

White and Robert H. Nelson, of Cravath & Henderson; Albert J. Appell; Geller, Holston & Horan; Todd & St. John; Levi S. Hulse; Arthur Knox; Leo Oppenheimer; Kenneth C. Newman; and Ferdinand Minrath, of Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson.

TODD & ROBERTSON, the builders of the new 20-story Equitable Trust Building, at 45th street and Madison av, announce, through their agents, Frank D. Veiller & James L. Robertson, additional recent leases, aggregating over $100,000. It is interesting to note that nearly all of these are to firms who are moving from the downtown section. The following is the list of recent leases: Stamford Rolling Mill, Long-Bell Lumber Co., M. R. McAdoe, Capt W. M. Talbot, E. H. Clark Realty Co. and Madison Letter Shop; also, in conjunction with Cushman & Wakefield, to the Marlin Rockwell Corporation, the Phoenix Horse Shoe Co. and the International Portland Cement Corporation. The building is keeping up its construction record, and the builders expect to have the Arcade from Madison av to Vanderbilt av with the Grand Central Terminal connection open to the public within the next two weeks.

J. ROMAINE BROWN COMPANY has been appointed managing agent of all the properties owned by Samuel Borchardt, who, last week, purchased the northwest corner of West End av and 85th st. The aggregate rental of the buildings in Mr. Borchardt's ownership is more than $650,000, and the properties are as follows: The recently completed building at 815 Park av, 14 stories, 75x100; the Wilmington, southwest corner of Broadway and 97th st, a 7-story building, on lot 100x100; 226 West 97th st, an 8-story building adjoining; West End Hall, 101st st and West End av, 6-story apartment house, 100x100; the Borchardt, 98th st and Broadway, 12-story apartment house, 100x180; Evelyn Arms, 203 West 98th st, a 6-story building, 54x105; the Ramona and Charlemagne, 524 to 532 West 11th st, two 8-story buildings, on 166x100, and the Winthrop and Melville, at the south and north corners of Amsterdam av and 118th st, each 100x100, 7-story apartments. In addition to the above, J. Romaine Brown Co. will assume the management of 525 West End av, which is a 13-story apartment house, 102x150, so soon as Mr. Borchardt takes title.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS, MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

GENERALLY moderated weather conditions over a wide territory have exerted a marked influence for good upon the building situation. Along with the sunshine and the higher temperature there came tangible evidence that if the weather conditions are more than temporary, a considerable volume of new construction work will be undertaken in the near future. There has been a noticeable improvement throughout the Metropolitan district and reports from distant localities indicate a similar situation.

That there is actually greater activity in the building trades is best indicated by the growing number of contracts being awarded and the volume and character of the operations that are being presented to the builders and material dealers for estimates. Prospective builders are today more generally inclined to award contracts for their contemplated work than they have been for many months. The offices of the architects in this city are busier than they recently have been. These signs all point to renewed life in building and construction circles and unless these signs fail absolutely the spring and summer months should be active times for the structural interests.

There is a decided improvement in the speculative building field and a number of important operations are now being planned for both city and suburban locations. The speculative revival was no doubt brought about by the acknowledged scarcity of rentable space, both residential and commercial. The recent activity of the housing boards and committees has been another influencing factor that partially accounts for the awakened interest of the speculative builders. A heavy demand continues to exist for living accommodations in the city and suburbs, and although there is quite a large number of buildings of an investment or speculative nature now under construction or contemplated for an early start, the total will be insufficient to fully take care of the demand, and additional structures will have to be erected during the spring and summer or there will be a repetition of the scarcity that existed last autumn.

Another notable feature of the present building situation is the large number of garages that are being planned and constructed. These projects are for both public and private occupancy and range from the small private structure for one or two cars to immense structures capable of housing a hundred or more automobiles, equipped with machine shop and chauffeurs' quarters. This class of building represents a large percentage of the total of new buildings that have recently been brought out and there is every prospect that construction work of this character will continue for some time.

The markets for building materials have also felt the force of the improved general conditions. There is a better atmosphere, and orders and inquiries have been somewhat more frequent, but as yet it is too early for the material dealers to experience the full measure of the improvement and it will require some time for the markets to respond. Owing to the more moderate weather materials have moved with somewhat greater facility both by rail and water and as the crisis in the fuel situation is passed the manufacturers are relieved of considerable anxiety on this score. Commodity prices are holding firmly and there is no prediction of a recession in any line. The renewal of building activity will have a marked tendency to stiffen commodity prices all along the line and these will hold until the freight transportation facilities are bettered, embargoes lifted, and local waterways again open to navigation.

Common Brick.—Although the week in the market for Hudson River common brick has been an exceptionally dull period, there is considerably more hope for the coming months than was apparent recently. The two holidays in the early part of the week is partly responsible for the fact that no sales were registered, but the more frequent inquiries denote a renewal of buying interest that will undoubtedly result in a number of early sales. The river is still frozen solid northward from Yonkers and it will require two or three weeks of a thaw before the river is navigable to tugboats and their tows. Dealers are of the opinion that even with most favorable conditions it will be a month or more before brick barges will be able to come through from up-river points. The new inquiries that are now current lead to the impression that during the next few months there will be a marked renewal of activity in the construction of buildings throughout this city and adjacent localities. There has been no change in the quotations for Hudson River common brick. The $10 figure still rules, and this price is likely to hold for some time. There is no activity in the market for Raritan brick and none is anticipated until the harbor is free of ice.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, February 15, 1918: Condition of market: Demand very light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $10 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, none; sales, none.

Structural Steel.—Outside of the requirements for the Government both at home and abroad the steel industry is exceptionally quiet. The Federal orders are heavy and the rolling mills and fabricated shops will be busily engaged for some time. There is practically no demand from private sources although the outlook for activity in general building construction is brighter today than it has been for months. There has been no change in the prices of fabricated material.

Portland Cement.—The cement market is quite at the present time, but there is a fair prospect for a satisfactory spring business. The cement interests are looking forward to an increased use of their material in the construction of roads, bridges, culverts and the general construction of manufacturing and industrial plants. Cement prices are firm at the $2.15 level for orders of one thousand barrels, or more, f. o. b. New York. There has been some discussion in reference to increasing the price of this commodity, but as yet nothing definite has been announced. If any change in price is effected it will not include the net figure at mill base, but will increase the local wholesale price. The increase will be necessary to cover the greatly increased cost of bags.

Window Glass.—To all intents and purposes the glass situation is unchanged. Manufacturers are hindered by a number of factors over which they have no control. The railroad congestion and embargoes prevent receiving of raw materials and the shipment of finished product. According to estimates recently announced the total production for the current blast will be approximately 4,000,000 boxes as compared with 11,000,000 boxes last year. The total consumption of last year was more than 7,000,000 boxes, but as building has materially slowed down there is no danger of a shortage even at the greatly lowered scale of production for this year. There has been no change in the schedule of discounts.

Sand and Gravel.—Business in this market is very dull and no increased activity is anticipated until a general resumption of construction occurs. The improved weather conditions will undoubtedly improve conditions, but supplies on hand are extremely low and even at best no new material can come into the local waters for two or three weeks. Prices are holding firm at $1.25 a yard for sand and $2.00 a yard for gravel. From this level there is practically no prospect of a recession as the wages of laborers and the towing rates have materially advanced production costs.

Lumber.—The lumber market is dull in all branches and no great amount of life is expected while the railroad freight situation remains in its present congested condition and until shipments by water are materially facilitated. The demand is light and what there is mostly emanates from the manufacturing consumers. There is only a very slight volume of business coming from building sources, although the industry has high hopes of a considerable amount of activity as soon as the construction of housing facilities at the shipyards and munition plants is actively under way. Lumber prices are firm and exhibiting a stiffening tendency in certain lines.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Although there is quite a large volume of business in this line in prospect for both municipal and private consumption, the orders are coming in slowly and it is expected that some time will elapse before the market fully responds to the improved conditions that are generally noticeable. There have been numerous inquiries, but up to the present time tangible orders have failed to develop. The Government price maintains as the basis of all quotations: 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, $55.35, and 4 in., $58.35 per net ton.

Wire Nails.—Activity in this line is light chiefly for the reason that dealers have but a low stock on hand and are unable to fill orders for any great quantity. There are excellent prospects for the future, but the market absolutely depends upon obtaining adequate stocks from the manufacturers, who are booked for weeks in advance, and hindered by the railroad congestion, fuel shortage and other deterrents. Wire nail prices are unchanged.

Linseed Oil.—There is but little activity in the market for this commodity, but the price is holding firmly at the level established some weeks ago. At this writing the weather is one of the prime factors responsible for the present situation, as it is impossible to do outside painting at the temperature that has maintained for some weeks, and the general building activity is at a low ebb for the same reason.

Mixed Paints and Enamels.—Prominent manufacturers of these materials have recently advanced their prices for their products owing to the increased cost of production and the difficulties encountered in obtaining raw materials. Although there is but a small demand from the contracting interests, the business coming from the manufacturing consumers is quite satisfactory.

Rosendale Cement.—The market for this material is almost inactive and the volume of business being registered is very light. Inquiries are scarce and there is no evidence of improvement until the building situation as a whole demonstrates considerably more life than it has for some time past. Natural cement prices are unchanged.

GENERAL HOSPITAL FOR ELIZABETH

Structure Will Cost About $500,000 and Will Contain Up-to-Date Appliances

CONSIDERABLE interest is attached to the projected new plant for the Elizabeth General Hospital, soon to be started at Elizabeth, N. J., not only on account of the size and scope of the contemplated improvement, but also by virtue of the fact that the funds required were collected in times when there were so many other demands upon the charitably inclined. This operation will be built according to plans and specifications prepared by Crow, Lewis & Wickenhoefer, architects, 200 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, and will cost approximately $500,000. As can be made and a maximum number of patients receive attention during the dispensary hours.

Each floor of this structure has isolation and quiet rooms, diet kitchens and nurses' duty rooms. There is also a room in which ambulatory patients may spend their time while out of bed and in which they may be served with their meals. This provision makes the convalescent period of a ward patient more pleasant than it would be if he were restricted to a particular ward. The dispensary will have separate clinics for medical, surgical, nose and throat, eye, ear and orthopaedic cases and will also, will be noticed in the accompanying illustration, the new structure for the Elizabeth General Hospital will be a well balanced, entirely modern plant. It will have a capacity of two hundred and sixty-five in-patients, and in addition will have an out-patient dispensary, with facilities capable for caring for several hundred cases every day. The arrangement of the hospital provides one entire floor for men, with a capacity of eighty beds, in which separate provision will be made for medical, surgical, nose and throat, and fracture cases.

Crow, Lewis & Wickenhoefer, Architects.

PROJECTED PLANT FOR THE ELIZABETH GENERAL HOSPITAL.

One floor will be entirely devoted to women and children, the separation of cases being about the same as in the floor set apart for male patients, except that one ward will be provided for septic cases so that such may be kept out of the general wards. Maternity cases will be cared for independently of the general accommodations for women, a separate department, with a capacity of twenty-eight beds, being provided for maternity patients. This department of the institution will be complete in itself, having a separate and distinct duty room, diet kitchen, delivery room and nurseries.

One floor will be devoted to private rooms and semi-private wards. The operating department will contain two operating rooms, both equipped with every modern surgical and scientific adjunct. The operating department will include a complete X-ray room, with dressing room, plate file, viewing and dark room.

The dispensary will be entered from the Reid street side of the hospital and has been arranged so that a rapid and convenient classification of the patients in connection with the orthopaedic clinic, have a gymnasium for correctional gymnastics, which form an important part of the treatment of cases of this character. The structure will be strictly fireproof throughout and as the furnishings and equipment where possible will be non-inflammable, the patients of the building are protected from the hazard of fire. Each floor is cut off into three separate units by fire walls, with horizontal exits, and each unit includes a separate line of stairs. A service building contains the kitchen, bakery and special diet kitchens and the dining rooms for officers, nurses and servants. The upper story of this building will house the women servants of the institution. In addition to the solarium that are provided for each floor, the entire roof of the main building will be made available for the use of the patients. The elevators will run to the roof, and shelters, serving kitchens and toilet rooms will be provided so that the patients may spend their time in the open air during convalescence.

Department Store in Plainfield, N. J.

Wilder & White, architects, 50 Church street, Manhattan, are at work on the preliminary plans for a large department store to be erected at Plainfield, N. J., for Tapper Brothers, 11 West Front street, Plainfield. The proposed structure will be constructed of brick and concrete and will be fireproof throughout. The sketch plans call for a three-story structure, equipped with the most modern store conveniences. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $100,000. Further details of this project will be available later.

Building for January.

The returns of ordinary house, office and store building for January made by "Bradstreet's Journal" last week proved a close approximation to the final results available this week from 157 cities. The total expenditures in January this year were only $26,545,538, a decrease of 53.7 per cent. from January a year ago (last week's return from 121 cities showed a decrease of 51.7 per cent.), while the decrease in permits granted, 42.1 per cent. is among the heaviest recorded. Just how poor a showing was made in January this year is proved by the following summary of cities and values in January for eleven years past:

	Cities	Value
1918.....	157	$26,545,538
1917.....	157	57,344,418
1916.....	160	55,773,061
1915.....	156	46,040,876
1914.....	146	45,999,862
1913.....	146	55,514,979
1912.....	145	48,692,024
1911.....	132	48,555,636
1910.....	113	45,856,241
1909.....	113	50,011,100
1908.....	97	25,218,805

The above table shows that January building values this year were smaller than in any preceding January back to 1908, in which latter year only ninety-seven cities were reporting. The record of building expenditures at leading American cities reporting monthly and quarterly for the past twenty-five months is as follows:

Month	Cities	1917	1916	Change
				per cent.
Jan.	160	$57,709,936	$55,773,061	d 3.4

The January summary of building permits and values by groups of cities compare with the like month a year ago as follows:

	No. of cities	No. of permits	Values 1918	Values 1917	Compared with last year
					Permits Values
New Eng.	25	448	$2,612,257	d 61.0	d 67.7
Middle ..	29	1,470	8,277,328	d 54.4	d 47.8
Western ..	22	1,080	3,693,742	d 61.4	d 55.9
Northwest	19	610	5,150,035	d 39.0	d 22.7
Southwest	15	856	2,006,868	d 34.2	d 57.2
Southern	25	991	1,210,270	d 52.1	d 73.5
Far West.	22	3,218	3,595,038	d 6.8	d 60.1
Total U.S.	157	8,673	26,545,538	d 42.1	d 53.7
Canada	11	336	865,917	d 8.0	d 2.7

Except in the far western group of cities, where a comparatively moderate decrease, 6.6 per cent., in number of permits is shown, the decreases in the above table are heavy, ranging from 34 per cent. in the Southwest to 61 per cent. in New England and the Western group. In the matter of value it will be seen the decreases range from 22.7 per cent. in the Northwest to as high as 73.5 per cent. in the South. Canada's decreases in permits and values are comparatively moderate, 8 and 2.7 per cent. respectively. The larger cities of the country show a marked unanimity in the matter of decreases. New York City, four boroughs reporting, shows a decrease of 47.6 per cent. from January a year ago; Chicago a decrease of 29.5 per cent.; Philadelphia, 21.4 per cent.; Detroit, 50 per cent.; Boston, 86.5 per cent.; St. Louis, 96 per cent.; Atlanta, 74 per cent.; San Francisco, 64 per cent.; Baltimore, 82.7 per cent.; Washington, 84 per cent.; Kansas City, 71 per cent., and Toledo, 94 per cent. New Haven, one of the few cities reporting a gain, however, increased its expenditures by over six dollars to one a year ago. Cincinnati gained 68 per cent., and Seattle 39 per cent. In all only thirty-three out of 157, or a little over one-fifth, showed gains over January a year ago.

The Hotel Astor was the mecca of the hardware interests of the Atlantic Seaboard States this week, the occasion being the annual joint convention of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association and the New York State Retail Hardware Association, which opened Thursday and continued for the balance of the week. In connection with this convention an elaborate exhibition, open to the public, was held in Madison Square Garden. This exhibition was an interesting feature, as it included almost every branch of the hardware industry in the United States. The prime idea of the exhibit was to show the American public exactly what the hardware industry has done to help win the war. Of particular interest was the exhibit of military lights of various kinds, designed for the use of the army and navy.

The convention was formally opened by John J. Snyder, president of the Metropolitan Hardware Association, and a most solemn feature of the first session was the presentation of the service flags of the two associations by the Rev. M. Joseph Twomey. The flag of the New York State association bears sixty-seven stars. The regular sessions of the convention included a number of addresses by men prominently identified with the hardware industry in this country, among which was included the paper by Roy F. Soule, editor of the Hardware Age, on "The Man of the Hour." Mr. Soule paid high tribute to the American workman and his loyalty to the nation.

Edison Service "Suits"

The De Vinne Press was one of the sixty-three big properties to adopt street service in 1917

When asked recently what he thought of it, the manager, Mr A W Bothwell, replied

"Your supply suits our purpose in every way. You can quote me as saying just that, for it's the unvarnished fact"

What Edison Service is doing here it will do for you. It has met the severe requirements of this famous house. It will meet the needs of your business whatever it is. Ask us today for estimates and details tigious to business centres, which can be used as offices, we are to have difficulty in raising our rents to justify all these expenses put upon us.

OFFICE BUILDINGS.

Higher rents evidently must come, but it will only be after these old dwellings are abandoned, and the tenants seek office buildings.

But there is one subject which should really be one of the primal objects of your organization, and that is the social element. The more you associate with one another, the easier you will find it to talk over matters in which you are all interested, and as, "In the multitude of Counsellors there is wisdom," you will find, as I have found, that an organization such as we have before us will be of the greatest benefit to you all.

There are possibly over twelve hundred real estate men in Philadelphia, and since the organization of the Real Estate Board, and I have become prominent in real estate circles, nearly all of these men know me, and when I go into a strange office in some distant part of the city I meet with such a pleasant reception, and my inquiries are met with such prompt answers, that I feel it a pleasure to be there. So you will find that after you have become more acquainted with each other, and exchange views on your various duties, that your organization will be a success, because you will all feel glad to be in it.

This reminds me of one of Hoyt's farces, which I saw many years ago. The scene represented a corridor of a hotel in a western city. There were a number of men sitting around, some reading, but most of them doing nothing but looking at each other, and feeling altogether bored. In rushed a breezy young fellow, who went up to an older man, and grasped him by the hand and said, "How do you do, Mr. Jones, I want you to meet Mr. Brown," and turning to the man sitting alongside of the party, "Mr. Brown, this is Mr. Jones, of Chicago, glad to see you here, goodbye, I have to go." And the two men looked at each other, and Mr. Jones said, "Did you know that fellow?" Mr. Brown said, "No, I never saw him in my life." Mr. Jones said, "My name is not Jones, I am Mr. McDougal, of New York," and the other man said, "My name is not Mr. Brown, I am Mr. Simpson, of St. Louis. Now we know each other. Come, let's take a drink." And so the two men became acquainted, and spent the day together, and enjoyed themselves all because some man took the initiative and commenced the acquaintance.

If the members of this organization meet here, say once a month, exchange views, and hear something better than I have given you, I know it will be a gratification all around, not only for the new business ideas which you obtain from one another, but for the social elements. As you become acquainted, you will find there is always something good in every man, and that little good may not only do you good, but gratify him when he knows that you have profited by it.

Plans Filed for Large Hotel.

During the week the plans were filed with the Bureau of Buildings for a twenty-one story hotel to be erected at the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and 56th street, on the site now occupied by the Hotel Grenoble. The plot to be improved measures 100x200 feet. The plans for this structure have been prepared by Lawrence L. Barnard, 46 Lawton street, New Rochelle, N. Y., for Joseph J. Lannin, owner and proprietor. This hotel will cost approximately $4,000,000 to build and equip. It will contain about one thousand rooms and will be designed and erected according to the latest ideas of hotel planning and construction. The project will be named the Hotel Marne, in commemoration of the great battle of that name in the present World War. Although the plans for this operation have been worked out, it is not expected that active construction will be started for quite some time.

Contract for City Residence.

The Hegeman Company, Inc., 33 West 42d street, has obtained a general contract for the construction of a handsome private residence at 10 East 75th street, for Carl Schoen, 54 East 83d street, owner. The plans and specifications for this project have been prepared by Henry C. Pelton, architect, 35 West 39th street, and call for a five-story structure, with facade of face brick and limestone trimmings, with dimensions of 25x65 feet.

Plans for Apartment Hotel.

De Rosa & Pereira, architects, 150 Nassau street, are preparing the preliminary plans and specifications for a thirteen-story apartment hotel to be erected at 32 West 37th street. This structure is for the 32 West 37th Street Corporation, Julian Benedict, president, 47 West 34th street, owner. The proposed building will occupy a plot 25 x 98 feet, will have a facade of brick, limestone and terra cotta, and will cost approximately $175,000.

Residence for William A. Prime.

Preliminary sketches have been prepared by Frederick J. Sterner, architect, 150 East 52d street, for a handsome city residence for William A. Prime, president of the Metals Disintegrating Co., Inc. The proposed building will be located at 16 East 78th street, on a plot 17 x 98 feet. Full details of this operation are not available at this time, and it will be some weeks before the working plans are completed and the architect is ready for estimates on construction.

10,000 Copies of the FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY NUMBER of the RECORD AND GUIDE will be read by interested readers on the morning of March 23rd.

The purchasing power of these readers is tremendous. They pay TWICE as much for their annual subscription to the RECORD AND GUIDE than for any other trade publication.

This purchasing power is represented by leading financial institutions, money lenders, contractors, architects, owners, estates, sub-contractors, builders, real estate firms, fire and life insurance companies, manufacturing industries, etc.

The FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY issue of this representative paper will be one of the most hopeful signs in these times of extreme trial. The sagacious and discerning optimism of our business executives will indicate a quiet and logical faith in the outcome of the war and in an ensuing period of well-being.

A large percentage of the advertising in this issue will be in the nature of BUSINESS INSURANCE—that is, its main purpose will not be to secure immediate results, but rather to build confidence and good will when competition must again be faced.

Nineteen Eighteen is going to be just what the business man of America makes it. These are days for action and plenty of it. Those represented in this ANNIVERSARY issue have pushed the motor into high speed. They will let the world at large know that they are prepared to do some definite thing.

Considering the great importance and value of trade connections, and of maintaining intact the "sales plant" during the trying days of war time, it is imperative that when affected by war conditions, you should advertise all the more.

A direct business advantage will accrue to those who contract for space. The valuable information and statistics contained in this representative issue will be carefully read and constantly referred to during the year of 1918.

If YOU have not contracted for space, we ask your co-operation to help make this issue not only a credit to the RECORD AND GUIDE, but to two of the most important business fields in the world—the closely affiliated real estate and building interests.

A request will bring, without obligation, the prospectus and three-color cover of our ANNIVERSARY NUMBER.

STATE MORATORIUM WOULD WORK HARDSHIP

Dangerous Precedent Established Should Measure Become Law—Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill Sufficient

By CYRIL H. BURDETT, Vice-Pres. New York Title & Mortgage Co.

THE United States Senate has passed the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill, which had been previously passed by the House of Representatives, and the bill is now in conference, having been amended in some unimportant particulars by the Senate. It is probable that the amendments will be agreed to and the bill be enacted into law within a few days, if this has not already been done. There is only a vague idea on the part of the general public as to what will result from the passage of this legislation. The subject-matter of the bill in question concerns only the soldier and sailor in the military service of the United States.

There has, however, been introduced into the Legislature of the State of New York a bill of more comprehensive character than the bill pending in Congress, which not only imposes a moratorium on the collection of debts of all kinds in favor of all persons who would be unable by reason of circumstances directly attributable to the war to make payment or satisfaction of such debts, but contains a specific provision, extending the moratorium to the collection of the principal of mortgages on real estate.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill provides that, "for the purpose of enabling the United States the more successfully to prosecute and carry on the war in which it is at present engaged, protection is hereby extended to persons in the military service of the United States in order to prevent prejudice or injury to their civil rights during their term of service and to enable them to devote their entire energy to the military needs of the nation, and to this end the following provisions are made for the temporary suspension of legal proceedings and transactions which may prejudice the civil rights of persons in such service during the continuance of the present war."

The report of the Committee on the Judiciary, in submitting the bill, contains these words:

"We cannot point out too soon, or too emphatically, that the bill is not an inflexible stay of all claims against persons in military service. On the contrary, the bill nowhere prevents a creditor from enforcing the normal collection of any claim which should be paid by a soldier. Not the slightest hindrance is placed upon the service of summonses or other process."

And again,

"As has already been stated, the scope of the act is to protect the members of the military forces of the United States during the period of the war by providing a general system not of exemption from suit or judgment, but of conferring discretion upon the courts to grant stays of actions or of execution in just cases, and generally by providing that the rights of the soldier absent in the service of his country shall be represented and protected in the courts."

In other words, the legislation is designed not to relieve the soldier or sailor from the obligation of paying his debts, but to provide a method by which the court may more carefully scrutinize the merits of the suit or proceeding brought against him, and, where justice and equity warrant it, to make possible such an adjustment as will work the least hardship against the absentee engaged in his country's service. It keeps in mind, not only the rights of the soldier and sailor, but the rights of the creditor, and, so far as is possible, the maintenance of normal conditions among those who stay at home during the continuance of the war.

The bill provides that in all actions or proceedings commenced in any court, if there is no appearance on the part of the defendant, an affidavit must be filed, showing that the defendant is, or is not, in military service; and, if the defendant is in military service, the court shall appoint an attorney to represent him and protect his interests. The court may require a bond from the plaintiff, conditioned to indemnify such defendant against any loss or damage that he may suffer by reason of any judgment, should the judgment be thereafter set aside in whole or in part.

Court May Appoint.

In such action or proceedings, if the defendant, who is in military service, does not appear by an authorized attorney, the court may appoint an attorney to represent him, and in such case a like bond may be required and an order be made to protect the rights of such person. No attorney so appointed shall have power to waive any right of the person for whom he is acting.

If any judgment is rendered in any action or proceeding during the period of such military service, or within thirty days thereafter, and it appears that such person is prejudiced by reason of the fact that he was in military service, the judgment may, upon application made by such person or his legal representative not later than ninety days after the termination of such service, be opened by the court rendering the same, and such defendant be let in to defend, provided that it appear that the defendant has a meritorious, legal defense; the vacating and setting aside of the judgment, however, shall not impair any right or title acquired by any bona fide purchaser for value under the judgment.

Stay of Execution.

At any stage in any action or proceeding commenced against a person in military service, during the period of such service, or within sixty days thereafter, the court may, in its discretion, on its own motion, and shall on application to it by such person or some person in his behalf, stay all proceedings, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the defendant to comply with the judgment or order sought is not materially affected by reason of his military service. In all such actions the court may in its discretion, unless in the opinion of the court the ability of the defendant to comply with the judgment or order sought is not materially affected by reason of his military service,

First—Stay the execution of any judgment or order entered against such person;

Second—Vacate or set aside any attachment or garnishment of property, money or debts in the hands of another, whether before or after judgment as provided in this Act.

Such stay may be for such period as the court may determine and subject to such terms as may be just, whether as to payments in installments of such amounts and at such times as the court may fix or otherwise.

No eviction or distress shall be made during the period of military service, in respect of any premises for which the agreed rent does not exceed $50 per month, occupied solely for dwelling purposes by the wife, children or other dependents of a person in military service, except upon leave of court.

Such proceeding to be stayed for a period not longer than three months. The Secretary of War is empowered to allot the pay of such person in military service in reasonable proportion to discharge the rent of such premises.

No person holding a contract with a person in military service, for real or personal property, payable in installments, shall exercise any right or option under such contract to rescind or terminate the same except by action in court, and the court may make such provisions as to terminating the contract, resuming possession of the property and returning installments previously paid, as it may deem equitable to conserve the interests of all parties.

Provision is also made covering failure on the part of persons in military service to pay premiums accruing on policies of life insurance, up to $5,000, by which such policies are prevented from lapsing. The Government guarantees the payment of such premiums. If the soldier dies, the insurance company gets its premium out of the policy. If he comes back, he will repay the premium, if he continues the policy. If he lets the policy lapse, the Government becomes subrogated to his rights.

The provisions of the Act also apply to taxes or assessments falling due in respect to real property owned and occupied by dwelling or business purposes by a person in military service, or his dependents, and makes provision for the assertion by such persons of the privileges given under the Act, providing for a stay of all proceedings for the sale of said premiums for the non-payment of such charges for a period until six months after termination of the war.

The question of the constitutionality of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill was carefully considered by the Committee on the Judiciary, in its report, and the conclusion was reached that nothing contained in it would in any way do violence to some express constitutional prohibition.

Such limitations, considered in connection with the moratorium, are as follows:

1. Article 1, Section 10. "No State shall . . . pass any . . . law impairing the obligation of contracts;"
2. (Amendments, Article V.) "Nor shall any person . . . be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law;"
3. (Amendments, Article V.) "Nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

The Committee concluded that the first limitation above referred to is expressly limited to the States, and therefore has no effect whatever upon the powers of the Federal Government, which the framers of the Constitution saw fit to hold free from any such limitations. They further concluded that the power to pass such a bill should be considered as included in the war powers of the National Government, and that it therefore would not come under either of the remaining two prohibitions.

It was deemed proper, therefore, that the National Government, for whom the soldier and sailor is fighting, should take jurisdiction over the question of legal process in all cases, protecting him, as its ward, in the collection of pre-existing debts, in order to leave him free from annoyance or harassment occasioned thereby. This is as far as the National Legislature has seen fit to go. Congress recognizes no conditions as existing which would warrant relieving debtors generally from obligations which they have assumed.

At the outbreak of the war, moratorium laws were immediately enacted, both in England and Canada. In England, the most drastic action was required, by reason of the proximity of the country to the seat of war and the general disorder arising through the mobilization of a large army of drafting men from all industries and thus disturbing the very foundations of established order.

No general moratorium law has been passed by the Parliament in Canada, but in the Western Provinces, particularly in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, there has been legislation with regard to a moratorium on mortgages along the lines of the Amos bill.

Attention, here, should be called to the fact that there is a much greater interference with the normal social and economic conditions in Canada, than there has been in the United States, or will be, in the United States, for some time to come. I have not the exact figures before me, but it is a well-known fact that the number of men who have volunteered, in Canada, constitutes a very large proportion of the available young men of the country. The subtraction of so large an element from the population must have affected the productive power of the country and brought about a condition where a moratorium, if ever justified, would be justified with them.

In this country there has been no serious disturbance of normal conditions of business and trade. Large amounts of money have been, to be sure, invested in government securities, but they have been immediately put back into circulation, and, today, there is no stringency in the money market; labor is being paid the highest wages ever known, and, although the cost of living is high, there is little or no hardship resulting by reason thereof.

Notwithstanding the existence of normal conditions, there is a feeling in some quarters, and especially on the part of many of the debtor class, that laws should be enacted, making possible the postponement of the payment of such debts. With this aim in view, three bills have been introduced into our State Legislature, which will be discussed.

The bills introduced by Assemblyman Amos, known as Assembly Bills Nos. 71, 139 and 390, as stated above, have extended the provisions of the Federal Bill, by providing what may be called a general moratorium.

The final draft of this measure, known as Assembly No. 390, provides:

First. For an absolute suspension of all legal process against "any soldier, sailor or marine, or other person now in or who may hereafter enter the military or naval service of the United States, or their dependents, while such persons are engaged in such service and for a period of six months after the termination of such service."

Second. For the suspension of any judgment of foreclosure and sale by reason of any default, during the continuance of the war and a period of six months thereafter, in the payment of the principal sum, or any portion thereof, of a mortgage on real estate, provided that no default be made for a period of six months or more in the payment of interest, taxes or insurance premiums required by the terms of such mortgage to be paid. In case foreclosure proceedings shall be instituted, by reason of such default, the court may appoint a receiver who shall control the property and collect the income therefrom, applying the same to the reduction of the mortgage, after payment of expenses, etc.

Third. For a stay of judgment or execution against any person against whom or against whose legal or equitable interest the same may be executed or enforced, "provided the court in which such application is made shall find that such person so liable or interested" is unable "by reason of circumstances directly attributable to such war to make such payment or satisfaction" of the same.

It will be seen that this bill is of a very sweeping character, and it would seem to assume the existence of conditions in this State requiring drastic remedies. It not only follows partly along the lines of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill, now pending in Congress, but it goes further and adopts the provisions of the English Laws, which, as shown above, were based on most chaotic conditions. The New York State measure would tend to bring on, rather than to alleviate, the conditions which by its author are assumed to exist.

Passage of Bill Justified.

The Judiciary Committee of the Senate was careful to remove all constitutional objections to the bill pending in Congress, and justified its passage by reason of the fact that whatever prohibitions existed in the constitution against setting aside of the legal processes of the country were overcome by the Supreme War Power of the National Government. The individual States, however, have no war powers, and it is a serious question as to whether any of the provisions of the bills pending in the Legislature could be defended on constitutional grounds. The postponement of the right of the creditor to recover on his debt, or to enforce his contract, may amount to an annulment of the obligation and the confiscation of his property. The postponement of the right to foreclose a mortgage, thereby reducing the value of the security, would in many cases amount to actual impairment of the contract and deprive the mortgagee of his vested property right.

Although a number of the States have already taken up the question of the relief of the soldier and sailor in military service, and enacted laws along the lines of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Rights Bill, no State, so far as I am aware, up to the present time, has deemed it necessary to enact any legislation extending such relief, and it does not appear that the conditions in New York State are in any way more serious than those in any other State of the Union. One of the reasons for the enactment of the national law has been that there may be a harmonious policy throughout the country in the treatment of this subject.

Institutions Must Pay Debts.

Savings banks, trust companies, life insurance companies, fire insurance companies, trustees and executors, as well as all holders of mortgages, will be called upon to meet their obligations by the payment of their depositors, policyholders and beneficiaries, but, by the provisions of this bill, they would be prevented from realizing upon their assets. While the mortgagee is expressly singled out, it must not be lost sight of that the bills affect all classes in the community; the butcher, the baker, the grocer and every wholesale and retail merchant is prevented from enforcing the collection of his accounts, if the defendant whom he sues can show that, for any cause directly attributable to the war, he is unable to meet his obligations. It is only necessary thus baldly to state the situation in order to disclose its injustice and the fact that such a measure is absolutely unnecessary at the present time.

It will be noted that the right to foreclose a mortgage by reason of the non-payment of principal is entirely suspended, and the right to foreclose by reason of the non-payment of taxes or interest is only given after one year's charges remain unpaid. Even then, it would seem that the only relief granted is the right to have a receiver of the rents and income appointed. The mortgagee is not given the privilege of rebutting the contention on the part of the defendant that he is unable to make payment by reason of circumstances directly attributable to the war, which right is given to all other classes of creditors—but the mortgagee's right to collect the debt is absolutely suspended, even although he, himself, may be sued for a debt which he could only pay out of the principal of said mortgage or the interest accruing thereon. Added to this, the security for his mortgage is constantly diminishing, by reason of the accumulation of unpaid charges against the property during the year's delay. Such a law in operation would result in unjust discrimination in favor of one set of debtors, as against another, if not in actual confiscation of the mortgaged property by the Government.

A dangerous precedent is established by the provisions of this bill, in giving to the courts such wide discretion in the stay of process, as well as in giving to the debtor class such a sweeping privilege of escaping from their obligations, simply by showing that they are unable to pay because of circumstances directly attributable to the war. The wide latitude here given would relieve almost every class of debtors from paying their bills; for who shall say, in a given case, that a particular cause which renders it impossible for one to pay his debt is not a direct outgrowth of war conditions? If a man is out of work, his income stopped, can he not say that it is because of the war? The retail merchant cannot collect his accounts from his customers, because of the war, and therefore he cannot pay the wholesale dealer. The wholesale dealer, on his part, cannot pay the manufacturer, because he cannot collect from his customers, and so on, ad infinitum.

This measure, and all others of a similar character, undoubtedly contravene the constitutional prohibition above referred to, contained in Article 1, section 10: "No State shall . . . pass any . . . law impairing the obligation of contracts." Inasmuch as the State has no war powers, such a law could not be defended upon this ground, nor in any other respect, in so far as it might violate the other constitutional prohibitions above referred to.

It is now reported that Senator Ottinger has prepared a bill which he has not yet introduced, providing for a moratorium in case of mortgages, along the lines of the Amos bill, referred to above.

It is very important that the business community should be aroused as to the threatening attack upon its vital interests. The moratorium bill, once passed although it affects only a portion of the community, will be gradually extended to cover every branch of activity. All should unite, therefore, in opposing this opening wedge, unless those who favor it come out openly and demonstrate its necessity.

At the present time, there seems to be a feeling that such a moratorium is called for especially in the case of mortgages. Upon what foundation this feeling rests, I do not know, because as far as the City of New York and vicinity is concerned, mortgages are not being called by either private individuals or corporations, unless, for some special reason, the mortgagee is obliged to realize upon his investment to meet his own obligations. In some cases, where the value of the security has depreciated installments of small fractions of the principal are required to be paid. There is nothing abnormal about this, and the experience of the mortgage companies shows that it is placing no hardship upon real estate owners.

I make the assertion without fear of contradiction that statistics will show that the attitude of the holders of mortgages at the present time is one of patriotic cooperation for the purpose of lessening, as far as possible, the burden borne by the real estate owner, whether engaged in the military service of his country, or pursuing his accustomed tasks at home. Any imputation to the contrary, is untrue, as well as unjust.

It is submitted that the law passed by Congress is amply sufficient to meet every emergency which may be foreseen and that any intervention by the State is entirely gratuitous interference on its part with the National prerogatives,

MEASURES AFFECTING REAL ESTATE

Bills Which Have Been Approved or Disapproved By Committee Appointed By Real Estate Board of New York

AT its regular meet on Wednesday, February 20, the Joint Committee on Legislation and Taxation and Real Estate Laws reported on a number of measures before the Legislature. Among the bills thus considered were several drafted by the Real Estate Board as part of its definite legislative program. Senator Boylan's bill, Int. 89, providing for a fixed tax rate of 17½ mills on real estate is to be amended so as to provide a 2½ mill tax on personality without exemption except as to secured debts. Other bills in which the Real Estate Board is particularly interested have been introduced by Senator Boylan. They would relieve agents from certain responsibilities in relation to factory buildings, that should rest upon owners, and owners from certain responsibilities that should rest upon lessees. One of these bills would also give to the Fire Commissioner, subject to appeal to the Board of Standards and Appeals, discretionary authority in ordering fire alarm signals in sprinkler buildings. Specific action by the committee on various bills is as follows:

Senate Int. 450, Knight. To amend the Tax Law, in relation to charitable exemptions.

This bill amends the Transfer Tax Law in relation to exemptions of charitable institutions so as to provide that gifts to such institutions shall be exempt only if the corporations are located within this State, and not irrespective of where they are incorporated. This is a reasonable amendment to the law exempting property from exemptions and is approved by the Real Estate Board.

Senate Int. 374, Dunnigan. To amend the Greater New York Charter, in relation to the disposition of the proceeds of the sale of buildings.
